7 December 2016 | US & Canada | Share

One of Donald Trump's aides has lost his job after fanning a conspiracy theory that climaxed at the weekend in gunfire at a pizzeria.

Michael Flynn, 33, left the US president-elect's transition team on Tuesday following his tweets about the so-called Pizzagate fake news story.

His father, Michael Flynn Snr, Mr Trump's pick to be US national security adviser, has also shared viral hoaxes.

PizzaGate is picking steam!! Let's keep pushing it to the public conscious that pedophilia is a tool by the "intelligence" agencies (i.e. NWO) to keep politicians, media personalities, and celebrities in check!

The Madeleine McCann Case Reaches Right To The Top!

Recall in #PizzaGate Parts 1, 4-10, and 25 in which I covered the Madeleine McCann case, and showed some bizarre pedophilic "coincidences" and blatant mainstream media cover-up:

- Three-Year Old Madeleine Beth McCann reported "disappearance" on 3 May 2007.
- Gaspar Witness Statements suspect McCann family friend David Payne, and Gerry McCann himself, might be pedophiles.
- Yvonne Martin Witness Statement suspects David Payne may be a pedophile.
- McCanns "befriended" famous BBC Broadcaster Sir Clement Freud in July 2007, whom died in 2009 and in 2016 was exposed by the MSM to be a pedophile and serial sexual predator.
- Kate McCann states in her book she had horrible thoughts that Madeleine was being sexually abused by her "abductor" including making references to Madeleine's "perfect little genitals"…

The coincidences don't stop there:

- The e-fits of the supposed "abductor" looks exactly like John and Tony Podesta, including Tony's mole on his head.
- The efits look like 2 people, and look like they were created on 2 different computer programs.

Here is a recap of how the efits were come about, from #PizzaGate Part 4:

1. McCann disappearance reported in May 3, 2007.
2. The Smith family tell police they couldn't identify the man on May 26, 2007.
3. Efits produced by McCann's private investigators in 2008.
4. Efits given to Portuguese and Leicestershire police by October 2009.
5. Efits given to Scotland Yard in August 2011.
6. Efits shown to the public (while not stating it was produced by the McCanns) on October 14, 2013.

Thus it appears that the efits most likely have been fabricated.

Thus, the production of the efits does not suggest that the Podesta brothers or any person had actually kidnapped Madeleine.

Thus, the production of the efits does not suggest that the Podesta brothers or any person had actually kidnapped Madeleine.

A more likely scenario is that Madeleine has been dead for quite some time and there is a massive cover-up going on, similar to the mainstream media coverage of #PizzaGate.

Martin Smith stated the following in his initial police witness statement:

States that it is not possible for him to recognise the individual in person or by photograph.

For a complete fine-combed forensic investigation into the facts of the Madeleine McCann case, how she almost certainly died before the reported disappearance, and how the Media and Government were complicit into the cover-up, please watch all 14+ hours of Richard Hall's amazing films!

Back to the efits:

Recall from #PizzaGate Part 7 which referenced Part 1 & 4 in showing the strange coincidences of John Podesta's leaked emails and what appears to be deleted entries before Madeleine's "disappearance" and his assistant emailing on his behalf the day after.

> • Madeleine almost certainly died before the reported disappearance.
> • There were almost certainly no abductors.
> • The efits are almost certainly fabricated.
> • The efits were almost certainly purposely suppressed by the media and police.
> • The efits almost certainly look like two separate people.
> • The efits almost certainly were made from two separate computer programs.
> • The efits look like John and Tony Podesta (including the mole on Tony's head).
> • John Podesta's emails appear to be deleted prior to May 3, 2007.
> • John Podesta's assistant Elizabeth Cooley emailed on his behalf on May 4, 2007.
> • The media has not asked the Podestas or Cooley about this coincidence.
> Thus some of the possibilities for the McCann / Podesta connection are the following:
> 1. The efits may be deliberately made to look like the Podestas as a form of blackmail for possible criminal activities engaged in Portugal and/or connected to Madeleine.
> 2. People that fabricated the efits knew of the Podestas and wanted to send them a warning message to keep to whatever agreement or agenda they have, even if the Podestas aren't directly connected to the McCanns or Portugal.
> 3. It is all just a coincidence that:
> - The efits were fabricated.
> - The efits look like the Podestas.
> - John Podesta's emails were deleted prior to Madeleine's disappearance.
> - John's assistant emailed on his behalf the day after Madeleine's disappearance.
> - The mainstream media ignores the fact that efits could not realistically have been made.
> - The mainstream media don't bother to ask the Podestas or even John's assistant about the missing emails or efits look-alike.
> If you have other possibly scenarios let me know.

My current speculation is that these efits were deliberately fabricated and deliberately made to look like the Podesta brothers.

To further illustrate this possibility, let's take a look at just "who" was behind the efits…

Madeleine McCann Suspect E-Fit 'Produced By Former Spies In 2008 And Suppressed By Parents'

27/10/2013 14:59 | Updated 28 October 2013

Huffington Post UK

SEE ALSO: BBC Uses Porn Actor Mark Sloan For Madeleine McCann Crimewatch Reconstruction

Evidence recently presented as a "breakthrough" in the hunt for Madeleine McCann was reportedly produced for her parents by a group of former spies in 2008.

Kate and Gerry McCann hand-picked a team of former MI5 agents after becoming fed up with the pace and direction of the original Portuguese investigation.

The intelligence report was kept secret for five years as it was deemed "hyper-critical" of the McCanns and their friends, reports the Sunday Times.

The contents were only made public after Scotland Yard investigators requested a copy when conducting a fresh review of the case

E-fits of a man seen at the time of Madeleine's disappearance shown on a special edition of Crimewatch last week and presented as new evidence are in fact from the 2008 report.

Henri Exton, MI5's former undercover operations chief, who led the group, confirmed they had been silenced by the McCanns.

He said: "A letter came from their lawyers binding us to the confidentiality of the report."

Wow! The highly-likely fabricated images were done by former CHIEF of MI5's undercover operations unit! #YouCantMakeThisStuffUp

Thus if the e-fits were purposely fabricated to look like the Podestas, possibly as a warning message, then having the capability and foreknowledge is only possible with some sophisticated connections; and MI5 is one of the few agencies that can pull this off.

As the saying goes for the CIA/MI5/Mossad/etc. intelligence and spy agencies: "Once a member, always a member".

Let's take a closer look at Henri Exton:

Disappearance of Madeleine McCann

Oakley International
Further information: § Smith sighting

In 2008 Madeleine's Fund hired Oakley International, a Washington, D.C.-registered detective agency, for over £500,000 for six months.[229][234][235][236] (The company owner, Kevin Halligen, was arrested in 2009 in connection with an unrelated fraud allegation.[237]) Oakley sent a five-man team to Portugal. Led by Henri Exton, a former British police officer who had worked for MI5, the team engaged in undercover operations within the Ocean Club and among paedophile rings and the Roma community.[229]

Exton questioned the significance of the Tanner sighting of a man carrying a child at 21:15 near apartment 5A, and focused instead on the Smith sighting at 22:00—the sighting by Martin and Mary Smith of a man carrying a child near the McCanns' apartment that night. The Oakley team produced e-fits based on the Smiths' description. This was a sensitive issue, because in September 2007 Martin Smith had watched footage of the McCanns arriving in the UK from Portugal, and believed he recognized Gerry McCann as the man he had seen with the child in Praia da Luz. Smith came to accept that he was mistaken: at 22:00 witnesses placed Gerry McCann in the tapas restaurant. Nevertheless, publication of the Smith e-fits, which bore some resemblance to Gerry, would have fed the conspiracy theories about the McCanns.[59]

> MES Note: From #PizzaGate Part 4, Martin Smith had already made a written witness statement that he did not know how the suspect looked like and couldn't identify him from a photograph or in person!
> Why doesn't the Perception Management Fake News Wikipedia mention this??!!
> So this sudden recognition and then self-correction seems highly improbable and almost certainly staged.

Exton submitted his report to Madeleine's Fund in November 2008, but the fund told Exton that the report and its e-fits had to remain confidential. The relationship between the company and the fund had soured, in part because of a dispute over fees, and in part because the report was critical of the McCanns and their friends; it suggested that Madeleine may have died in an accident after leaving the apartment herself through its unlocked patio doors.[59] The fund passed the e-fits to the police—the Polícia Judiciária and Leicestershire police had them by October 2009, and Scotland Yard received them when they became involved in August 2011[238]—but did not otherwise release them. Kate McCann did not include them with the other images of suspects in her book, Madeleine (2011), although she suggested that both the Tanner and Smith sightings were crucial.[59]

Scotland Yard released the e-fits in 2013 for a BBC *Crimewatch reconstruction. After it had aired, The Sunday Times published that the McCanns had had the e-fits since 2008.[59] In response the couple sued the newspaper for having implied (wrongly) that they had not only failed to publish them but had withheld them from the police. The newspaper apologized and paid £55,000 in damages.[238][239]

Wow! Oakley International, the company hired by the McCanns for £500,000, were registered in Washington DC!!!

The Podestas-Efits connection gets even more plausible!

Thus Oakley International sent former MI5 spy division chief Henri Exton and crew to Portugal and produced the efits based on Martin Smith and family testimony, DESPITE their initial police witness testimonies indicating they did not know how the suspect looked like and COULDN'T identify the man from an image or in person!

Note that the Wikipedia page never mentions the Podesta / McCann efit connections as part of their "conspiracy theories" jab.

Why did the McCanns want the efits to be confidential??

Why did English and Portuguese Police not reveal the efits??

Why did Scotland Yard wait 2 years after obtaining the efits to finally make them public in 2013, a full 5 years AFTER they were originally created, which was 1 year after Madeleine's "disappearance"??

Fraud suspect Kevin Richard Halligen allegedly posed as a spy and cheated the elite on both sides of the Atlantic

Some people knew him as Kevin. He told others he was Richard. Everyone could see he had money to burn, and most people thought he was a British spy. But nobody in Washington really knew Kevin Richard Halligen, not even the woman he pretended to marry.

Halligen now sits in a London prison, fighting extradition to the United States, where he faces felony fraud charges stemming from his days of extravagant living in Washington high society.

For about three years, until 2008, Halligen spent hundreds of thousands of dollars living large in Washington.

He stayed in a Willard Hotel suite for months at a time and drank the days away at pricey Georgetown restaurants. He traveled everywhere in a chauffeur-driven Lincoln Town Car, > set up high-tech offices in Herndon and bought a grand home in Great Falls.

> Smart, charming and favoring black turtlenecks and sunglasses, Halligen told everyone that he was a spy, or a former spy, or connected to spies. He told friends that he was under such deep cover that he took over his fiancee's place as a "safe house."
> Virtually all of it, it turns out, was fabricated or exaggerated, according to associates who have since investigated his background. But with amazing ease and a perfect British accent, the diminutive Halligen schmoozed his way into Washington's intelligence elite — Pentagon officials, influential lawyers and lobbyists, former CIA operatives.
> And he took their money.

I don't believe this LITERAL real-life James Bond parody for a second!

The intelligence agencies are not "stupid" by any stretch of the imagination, and you can just take a look at 9/11 for starters.

It's like the entire Kevin Halligen storyline is a rip-off from Mr. Bean!

making the intelligence agencies appear incompetent, which in reality they are anything but incompetent!

Evil yes, incompetent no.

On the contrast, James Bond movies highly sensationalize the "spy" industry, when in reality I am of the view that it is mainly a propaganda, blackmail, and perception management tool to keep the population and politicians in check by the real shadow government.

Back to the Article.

The U.S. government obtained an indictment against him in 2009 on criminal charges of bilking a client out of $2.1 million, and judges in the District and Virginia have ordered him to pay $6.5 million to former partners who claim he fleeced them.

When Halligen breezed into Washington about 2005, one of his first calls, according to associates, was to Patton Boggs, the heavyweight law firm. He hired the firm to help set up his new U.S. business, Oakley International, which offered risk analysis and security advice to corporate customers.

A key contact at Patton Boggs was lobbyist John C. Garrett, a retired U.S. Marine colonel who serves as the firm's senior defense policy adviser. Garrett declined to comment for this article, saying Patton Boggs does not discuss former clients.

Halligen used each new contact to methodically build up a high-level network. Garrett introduced Halligen to a number of key Washington establishment figures, including Noel Koch, who was a White House aide under President Richard M. Nixon and whom President Obama appointed deputy undersecretary of defense.

"If John Garrett was vouching for him, that was good enough for me," Koch said.

By early 2008, court records show, London lawyer Mark Aspinall — who was his connection on the Trafigura case — had invested $750,000 in Halligen's Oakley International.

Halligen also received an enormous boost from the internationally known case of Madeleine McCann, a 3-year-old British girl who "disappeared" while on vacation with her family in Portugal.

In the spring of 2008, the Find Madeleine Fund hired Oakley International on a six-month contract worth just under $1 million. Halligen was supposed to use high-tech surveillance and satellite imagery and conduct interviews to help find the girl.

His bank accounts ballooned with regular deposits of $200,000 or more over the next few months. But Halligen's carefully constructed life was starting to unravel.

> MES Note: As I will explain later in this video, the one truly accurate statement by this article is that Halligen's life was indeed "carefully constructed" and in my view was a CIA/MI5 asset years before the Madeleine case was public.

Clarence Mitchell, a spokesman for the Find Madeleine Fund, said fund officials began questioning whether Halligen's work was worth those large payments, and they terminated his contract in August 2008.

Hollis, a lawyer who once worked as legal counsel to the House of Representatives and as senior adviser to Afghanistan's Ministry of Counter Narcotics, sued Halligen in Fairfax Country Circuit Court for $2.35 million.

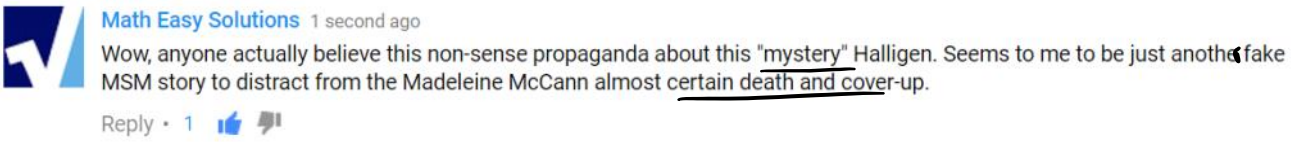
Hollis alleged that Halligen hired him as chief executive of Oakley International and that Hollis bought an ownership stake in the company. He said that the investment turned out to be worthless and that Halligen drained the company's accounts. A judge ordered Halligen to pay Hollis more than $5.7 million in damages.

As investigators pursued Halligen, they found yet another surprise. They unearthed documents suggesting that the silver-tongued Brit had actually been born in Ireland. In November 2009, after a year on the run, Halligen was jailed after being arrested at a luxury hotel in Oxford, England

While all these details about Kevin Richard Halligen are absolutely ludicrous, and just add more to the media cover-up circus that is the Madeleine McCann case, I suspect that this whole story, and Halligen himself, may just be a CIA/MI5 asset/actor that is used to just distract from the Madeleine cover-up.

https://youtu.be/-HRCWfPn_k4?t=28m2s

Retrieved: 21 August 2017
Archive: https://web.archive.org/save/https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-HRCWfPn_k4



After watching this documentary about Richard Halligan by the UK mainstream media outlet Channel 5, I am convinced that the entire Halligan story is just another CIA-Deep State propaganda story from its inception to serve as more media fodder and distraction from the actual facts of the Madeleine Case, that Madeleine almost certainly died before her reported "disappearance".

If you don't believe me, please watch all 14+ hours of Richard Hall's Madeleine Videos, and then watch this disgusting piece of public relations propaganda trash by Channel 5 trying to make it look like Halligan, portrayed as a blubbering idiot, was able to fool the

CIA, MI5, Powerful DC Lobbyists, Military Personal, and Government Politicians, and con them of their money just with his "charm". #AbsoluteGarbage #DontYouBelieveIt

The entire set of pathetic actors, in my opinion everyone including the narrator are Deep-State actors, show signs of duping delight throughout the entire "documentary"!

Watch the entire documentary (and Richard Hall's brilliant videos) in #DoubleSpeed to save time and quickly see the difference in quality and accuracy! #TopSecretLifeHack

To give you an example of the almost certain staged documentary, take a look at the "interview" he gave trying to explain how he took a loan out to pay the expenses… after the 28:00 mark of the above video.

- HAHAHAHAHAHA They seriously expect us to believe that Halligen accepted an interview, and to be followed around by cameras, to "explain" his case, and he didn't know which loan company he borrowed from, and it took him a LONG pause just to realize he didn't remember it…. Hahahahaha #DontYouBelieveIt #PsyOp

And to confirm that everyone is just an actor, they pretty much tell us that after the 36:56 mark of the video…. HAHAHAHAHA #PureComedy

They are literally laughing at us behind the scenes…

Still not convinced pathetic MSM stage interviews??

This is almost certain a staged interview by BBC and "politician" Ed Miliband.

Patton Boggs to merge with Squire Sanders

By Catherine Ho and and Holly Yeager May 23, 2014

Patton Boggs, the Washington legal powerhouse that helped pioneer modern-day lobbying, is merging with Squire Sanders, a large international law firm with roots in Cleveland, in a deal that marks the end of an era in the changing influence industry.

"Tommy Boggs was a trailblazer in the city of the law firm lobbying model," said Mike House, director of Hogen Lovell's legislative group. "He is a great strategist, and nobody in the city is cooler under fire than he is."

Tony Podesta, founder and chairman of the Podesta Group, called Boggs a giant in the field. "He's a brilliant guy who invented what a lot of us do."

Podesta Group is another lobbying firm in Washington DC, and thus Tony and John Podesta were well acquainted with fellow rival Patton Boggs and almost certainly about Halligen's Oakley International "firm".

Lobbyist Tony Podesta flies high on K Street during the Obama era

His firm, the Podesta Group, has earned more in lobbying fees in nine months than it did in all of 2008, has nearly doubled its staff and is expanding its office space by one floor.

It helps that Podesta is arguably the most recognizable Democratic name on the Washington lobbying scene.

It's a family name that carries substantial weight in the nation's capital.

"Tony and his group are the right people at the right time in the right place," said Nick Allard, co-chairman of Patton Boggs's lobbying practice. An action-oriented White House, coupled with an economic crisis, has led to a huge demand for K Street's services, with Podesta at the forefront. Allard emphasized that Podesta is no "flash in the pan" and has "staying power."

"Tom Boggs invented the lawyer-lobbyist model and Tony perfected it. They are probably the two giants of the modern practice. There is no one else in the same zip code," Allard said.

Thus it appears that not only are Boggs and Podesta rival Washington DC lobbyist groups, but they are actually the BIGGEST of rivals! #ThisIsGettingInteresting

It gets more interesting/bizarre depending on how you look at it:

After three long months without their daughter, what now for the McCanns?

By DAVID JONES
Last updated at 09:10 28 July 2007

On Wednesday evening, Gerry McCann flew back to Portugal after a hectic three day trip to Washington DC - the latest and farthest-flung staging post on his mission to champion the cause of abducted children and maximise publicity for his missing daughter, Madeleine.

Settling into his sleeper bed in Virgin Upper Class (mindful of the sniping about the £946,000 fund for Madeleine, of which £67,000 has been spent, he bought an economy ticket, but was given a complimentary upgrade), the 39-year-old heart consultant was exhausted.

But onlookers remarked that he appeared buoyant for the first time in the three months since his four-year-old daughter was taken.

This is despite the fact Mr McCann had encountered some unexpectedly hostile questions, notably from Chris Cuomo, the Good Morning America breakfast show anchor.

"Your story is pretty puzzling - it's tough to understand why you and your wife came to leave your children to go to dinner," Cuomo asserted, remarking that no American parent would "leave their kids in that way".

And yet, besides highlighting Madeleine's abduction on all four networked TV channels (ABC prefaced its coverage with clips of Britsofthe-moment J. K. Rowling and David Beckham making appeals for information, there were many other pluses.

Mr McCann visited a world-renowned centre for missing children, where he received advice and consoled himself with uplifting stories about abductions which ended fortuitously.

> MES Note: This was the International Centre for Missing & Exploited Children (ICMEC) or more specifically National CMEC (NCMEC) which as some online researchers have pointed out has its own extremely shady alleged history and malpractices…. I may cover this in detail in later videos so stay tuned!

He lobbied senior statesmen on Capitol Hill, including U.S. Attorney General Alberto Gonzalez, who pledged to do all he could. He even met close aides to First Lady Laura Bush.

"Just about to go into the White House!" he texted his older sister, Philomena, 43.

Later, he told relatives how he received a sloppy, wet "kiss" from Mrs Bush's Scottish terrier, Miss Beazley.

"She must have known I was a fellow Scot," he joked.

Madeleine's case is also said to have been given unwarranted attention because her parents are middle class and have run a slick PR campaign.

So 3 months after Madeleine's reported disappearance, Gerry McCann is laughing it up at the Whitehouse and the political Washington DC elite… #SeriouslyWTF

Even the mainstream USA media and TV networks push the Madeleine "abduction" story, and famous celebrities such as J.K. Rowling and David Beckham gave a helping hand… #wow

Kate McCann's personal account of the agonizing search for her missing daughter "The decision to publish this book has been very difficult, and taken with heavy hearts. My reason for writing it is simple: to give an account of the truth. Writing this memoir has entailed recording some very personal, intimate and emotional aspects of our lives. Sharing these with strangers does not come easily to me, but if I hadn't done so I would not have felt the book gave as full a picture as it is possible for me to give.

On Tuesday 8 May, we said an emotional goodbye to the family and friends who were leaving us, including my parents and Gerry's mum. It was so sad, but we all knew it was for the best. Later, I went down to sit on the beach for a while with Fiona. I still felt oblivious to everything around me; nothing whatsoever mattered except Madeleine. We talked and cried and held on to each other. It was like a horror movie that refused to end. But this was my life now, until Madeleine was found.

As we were walking up from the beach at about 5pm, I had a call from Cherie Blair, in her final days as wife of the prime minister (her husband Tony would announce his resignation two days later and leave office the following month). She was kind and helpful. She told me it was amazing but encouraging that Madeleine was still the first topic on the news every night. This was only five days after the abduction: as it turned out, our poor daughter would continue to headline the bulletins for some time to come. Cherie also warned me, 'Whatever happens, your life will never be the same again.' She mentioned that a friend of hers, Catherine Meyer, was the founder of PACT – Parents and Abducted Children Together – and said she would get in touch with her on my behalf. Doubtless I asked Cherie if there was anything the British government could offer the Portuguese in the way of resources to assist or expedite the search for Madeleine. It wasn't my intention to make her feel uncomfortable by asking this, and I'm sure I didn't. We were just so desperate I couldn't let the opportunity go by.

WTF?!!! The UK Prime Minister's Wife Cherie Blair called Kate McCann 5 days after the "abduction", assumed it was an "abduction", assumed the McCanns were innocent, and gave words of encouragement to Kate… If you gave this script to any movie director, they would literally laugh in your face!

Also the UK Prime Minister Tony Blair resigned 2 days after that phone call??? What is going on?!!

Another valuable source of information was Lady Catherine Meyer, the friend Cherie Blair had mentioned to me in her phone call. Catherine, the wife of the former British ambassador to the US, had set up PACT (Parents and Abducted Children Together) after her own two sons were abducted by her exhusband. She has fought tirelessly ever since for a better international response to such crimes. I so admire her commitment to and passion for protecting children. She is feisty, determined, has a good sense of humour and is not afraid to say what she thinks. Such qualities are essential in this field, where there is so much red tape to be dealt with.

At the end of June, Gerry spoke to Ernie Allen, CEO of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC) in the USA. This organization was established in 1984, thanks to the lobbying of Congress by John and Revé Walsh. When their six-year-old son Adam was abducted and found murdered in Florida in 1981, they had experienced the same kind of pain and frustration at inadequate responses that we were suffering now. Today the NCMEC offers a vast range of resources to law-enforcement agencies investigating cases of missing, abducted and exploited children, as well as training and education for people working in this field.

I came into the sitting room just as Gerry was finishing this hour-long phone call to find my husband almost radiant and brimming with optimism. He was already planning to fly out to Washington, DC at the earliest opportunity to find out more about the work of the NCMEC for himself. It wasn't just Ernie's positive attitude and encouragement that had lifted Gerry, but the numerous examples he had cited of missing children who had been found, sometimes years later. There really was hope. I hadn't seen Gerry looking so inspired in two months.

Yup, Gerry McCann did indeed fly out to Washington DC to meet with NCMEC.

Disappearance of Madeleine McCann

Media and PR

A Polícia Judiciária officer acknowledged in 2010 that the Portuguese police had been suspicious of the McCanns from the start, because of the "media circus".[82] Gerry McCann told Vanity Fair in 2008 that he had decided to "market" Madeleine to keep her in the public eye. To that end, a string of public-relations people arrived in Praia da Luz, deeply resented by the local police, who saw the media attention as counterproductive.[33] Alex Woolfall of the British PR firm Bell Pottinger, representing Mark Warner Ltd, dealt with the media for the first ten days, then the British government sent in press officers. This was apparently unprecedented.[83]

The first was Sheree Dodd, a former Daily Mirror journalist, then Clarence Mitchell, director of media monitoring for the Central Office of Information.[84]On 15 May the McCanns set up Madeleine's Fund, a limited company, to raise money; its website attracted 58 million hits in the first two days.[85] The PR team arranged regular events to give the reporters a news peg. There was a visit to Fátima, where three children had reported a Marian apparition in 1917, as well as to Holland, Germany, Morocco and Spain. On 30 May, accompanied by reporters, the couple flew to Rome—in Sir Philip Green's Learjet—to meet Pope Benedict XVI.[33] [c] The following month balloons were let off in 300 cities around the world.[88] From early June journalists began to voice concerns.[89] The "sheer professionalism of it ... troubled journalists", according to Matthew Parris.[90]

When the government withdrew Mitchell, the McCanns hired Justine McGuinness, who was reportedly headhunted for the job. When she left, Hanover Communications took over briefly, headed by Charles Lewington, formerly John Major's private secretary.[91] [84] In September 2007 Brian Kennedy of Everest Windows stepped forward as a benefactor and offered to cover Clarence Mitchell's salary so that he could return. Mitchell resigned from his government position and started working for the McCanns full-time; he was later paid by Madeleine's Fund.[3][92]

Placing Madeleine on the front page of a British newspaper would sell up to 30,000 extra copies.[33] She appeared on the cover of People magazine on 28 May 2007,[93] on the front page of several British tabloids every day for almost six months, and became one of Sky News's menu options: "UK News", "Madeleine", "World News".[33][94][95] Between May 2007 and July 2008, the Portuguese tabloid Correio da Manhã published 384 articles about her.[96] By June 2008 over seven million posts and 3,700 videos were returned in a search for her name on YouTube.[97]

Central Office of Information

The Central Office of Information (COI) was the UK government's marketing and communications agency. Its Chief Executive reported to the Minister for the Cabinet Office.

Quite literally the UK government stepped in right away to push the "abduction" scenario non-stop! Why?

My view is that they wanted a quick trial by media so that local Portuguese police would not only be hindered in their investigation but also discouraged from presenting any evidence implicating the McCanns in any wrong-doing that they do find…

Imagine knowing that the entire establishment propaganda media are pushing the "abduction" story and that any opinion to the contrary will be met with a sophisticated and coordinated media onslaught. #WeaponizedMedia

Madeleine - Why The Cover Up? - PART 6 OF 6

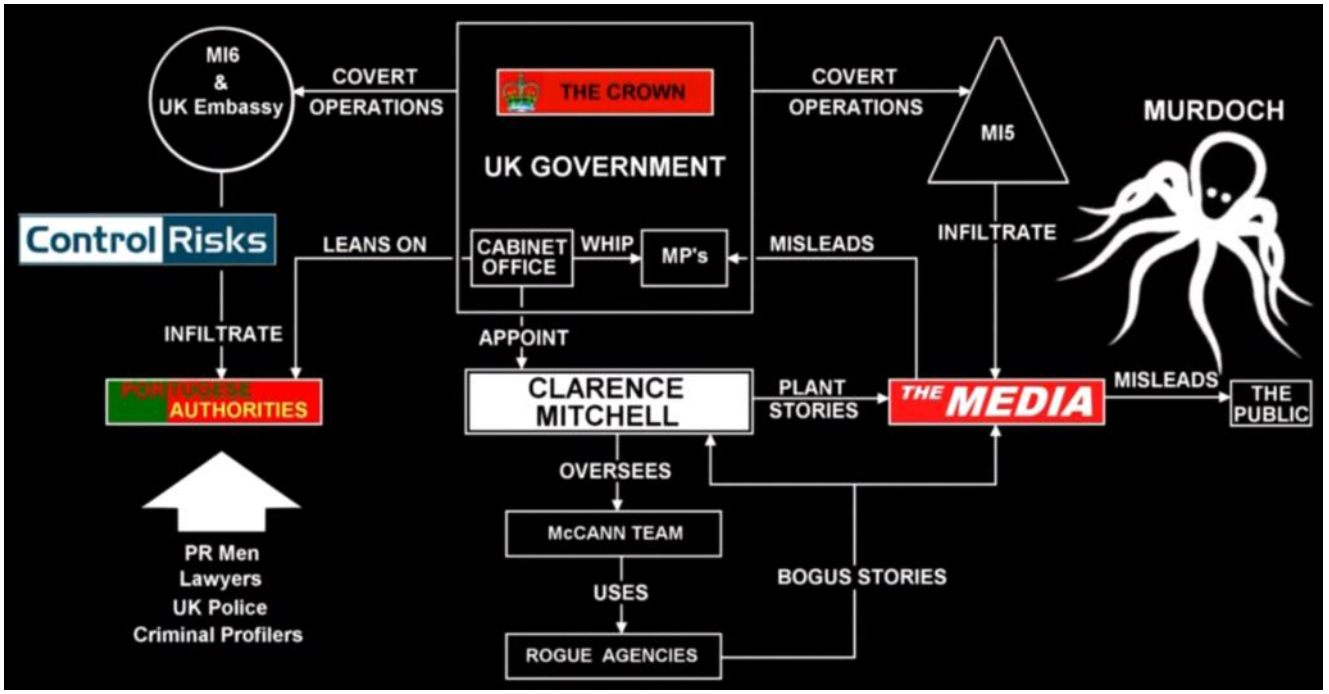
Published on Apr 18, 2017

Following on from his previous films about the Madeleine McCann mystery, Richard D. Hall attempts to tackle the most difficult questions of all. Assuming Madeleine died, which Richard firmly believes is the case, how did she die? and why was the death covered up with the help of British government agencies?

This is a great chart by Richard Hall of the extreme sophistication of the McCann's PR and Global Perception Management Team!

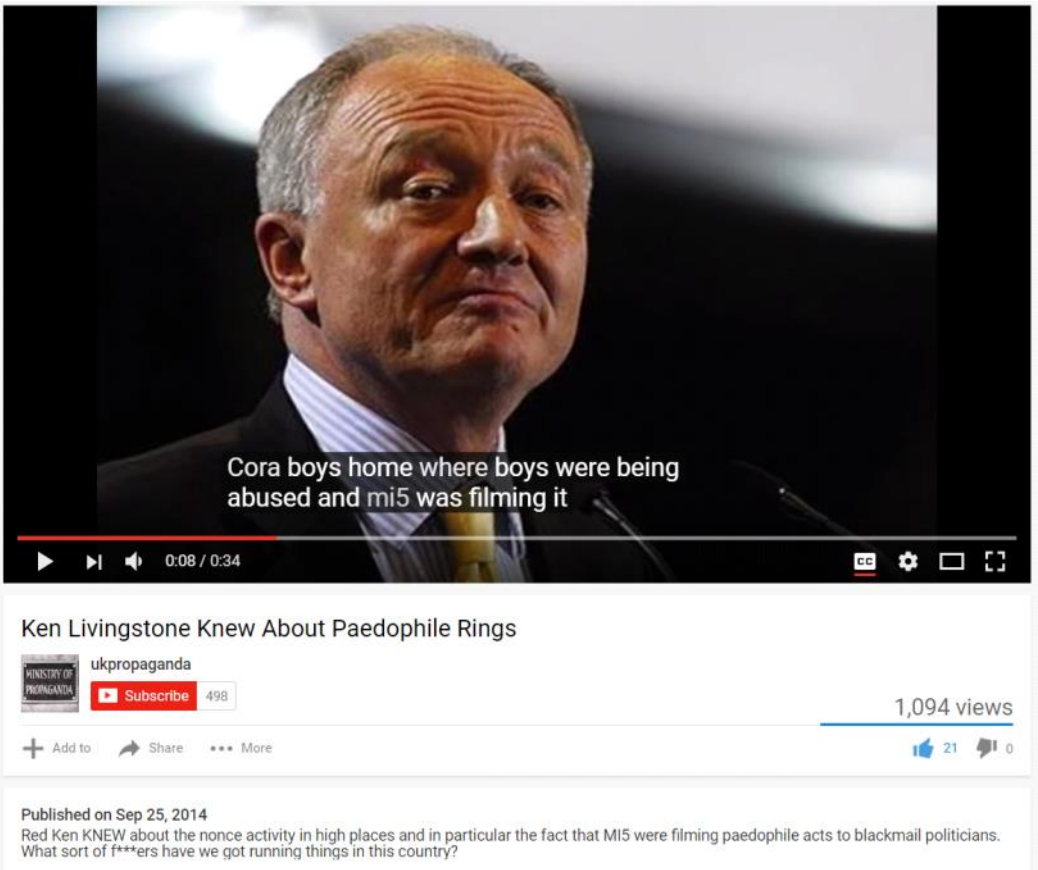


Why the Coverup??

Well this audio clip of former London Mayor Ken Livingstone during a radio interview with David Mellor may explain why…

https://youtu.be/jv9O0EZpIUs

Retrieved: 22 August 2017
Archive: https://archive.is/xtCBx



Former London Mayor Ken Livingstone said:

"I was raising in parliament against Mrs Thatcher the Kincora Boys Home where boys were being abused and MI5 was filming it because they were hoping to be able to blackmail senior politicians in Northern Ireland.

They were hoping to catch one of Ian Paisley's MP's - and they never did - and give themselves some leverage. The truth is there's been an awful lot of covering up of paedophiles and paedophile rings for decades and decades."

Why isn't Ken Livingstone being made to go to court and elaborate on this quote??

Why isn't the pathetic mainstream media blasting this on the headlines of every single newspaper, TV show, and online site until it is in the head of very citizen that their taxes go towards "intelligence" agencies that blackmail politicians??!

Summary and Conclusions

The theme of pedophilia is present in many circumstances surrounding the Madeleine McCann case:

- Madeleine McCann's reported "disappearance" was on 3 May 2007
- Gaspar and Yvonne Martin witness statements suggest McCann family friend David Payne and/or Gerry McCann might be pedophiles.
- Pedophile Sir Clement Freud "befriended" the McCanns.
- Kate McCann's book makes bizarre references to Madeleine's genitalia.

The Efits are almost certainly fabricated:

- The efits were allegedly produced 1 year after Madeleine's "disappearance".
- The efits were produced by McCann's ex-MI5 private investigators.
- The efits were produced based on an Irish Family, Martin Smith et al, all of whom made initial police witness statements that they couldn't identify the suspect in person or from a photograph.
- The efits were given to Portuguese and Leicestershire police up to 1 year after their production.
- The efits were given to UK's Scotland Yard police 3 years after their production.
- The efits were shown to public by BBC Crimewatch 2 years after Scotland Yard obtained them.
- BBC Crimewatch deceptively left out that the McCann team produced them.
- BBC Crimewatch highlighted the efits as vastly important in the Madeleine case.
- Thus the efits were kept from the public for 5 years after their alleged production, and 6 years after Madeleine's "disappearance".

- Thus the efits were kept from the public for 5 years after their alleged production, and 6 years after Madeleine's "disappearance".

There is a strong possibility the efits were made to look like John and Tony Podesta!

- The efits clearly look like two people and not one as alleged by the Smith family.
- The efits look like they were produced by two separate computer programs.
- The efits look IDENTICAL to powerful Washington DC lobbyists John and Tony Podesta!
- The "Tony" efit includes the mole on his forehead.

The company that produced the efits had strong connections to MI5, the CIA, Washington DC, and the Podesta Group:

- The efits were produced by a Washington DC based "detective agency" Oakley International.
- Oakley International sent a team of ex-MI5 agents led by ex-MI5 chief of covert opertions Henri Exton to Portugal to produce the efits.
- Oakley International was founded by Kevin Richard Halligen, a known fraudster, and in my opinion an obvious CIA/MI5 asset likely being used as a distraction from the McCann case by the pathetic mainstream media, and possibly a CIA tool to the launder money (possibly for blackmail).
- Halligen hired major Washington DC Legal and Lobbyist firm Patton Boggs in creating Oakley International.
- Patton Boggs is a major rival in the Washington DC lobbyist scene with the Podesta Group, founded by Tony Podesta.
- Patton Boggs and the Podesta Group are by far the biggest Washington DC Lobbyist firms.

Thus the possibility of the efits being purposely made to look like the Podesta brothers becomes more and more likely, but why?

- Halligen is almost certainly a CIA/MI5 asset.
- Patton Boggs almost certainly wouldn't be "fooled" by a "Mr. Bean" type character / "fraudster", such as Halligen.
- Patton Boggs and the Podesta Group are rivals, at least publicly.
- Thus a possible warning message was sent to the Podesta brothers in the creation of the efits…
- Please let me know your thoughts as to other possible reasons!

Why are the rich and powerful seemingly in the pockets of the McCanns??

- Gerry McCann visits the Whitehouse and pets First Lady Barber Bush's dog.
- USA, UK, and most of the world's TV networks all blast non-stop Madeleine "abduction" stories.

stories.

- J.K. Rowling helped write Kate McCann's book.
- David Beckham, Cristiano Ronaldo, Simon Cowell, and many others make pleas to "find" Madeleine.
- The McCanns appear on a whole show with Oprah.
- The McCanns meet with the Pope less than 30 days after Madeleine's "disappearance".
- Pedophile Sir Clement Freud befriends the McCanns.
- UK First Lady Cherie Blair called Kate McCann to encourage and give her advice, all while assuming an abduction and assuming the McCann's innocence, AND this was 5 days after the "abduction"!!!
- UK PRIME MINISTER RESIGNS LESS THAN 48 HOURS AFTER THAT PHONE CALL!!! #WTF!!
- Clarence Mitchell, former Director of Media Marketing for UK's Central Office of Information which was UK government's marketing and communications agency, RESIGNED from the government position to work FULL TIME for the McCanns!!
- I don't know anything anymore… I'm done…

Former London Mayor Ken Livingstone's comments on MI5 using pedophile blackmail, running pedo rings, and covering up pedo rings, might just be the best explanation as to why the entire establishment is covering up exactly what happened to Madeleine McCann…

TOP SECRET Technique for Searching Bulk Images on WikiLeaks

mes 55 in wikileaks 13 days ago

On WikiLeaks, there are plenty of emails and information, but the only issue I had was that the images were contained as attachments that needed to be downloaded to view them. This makes viewing a large number images very tedious.

But luckily I realized that doing a site image search on Google actually fetches images WITHIN attachments! Thus saving plenty of time and giving the ability to view many images at once!

Try it for yourself!

Here is an example:

https://www.google.ca/search?q=site:wikileaks.org+podesta&source=lnms&tbm=isch

Retrieved: 13 July 2017

Try it yourself and let me know what you find!! :)

This is a great video by Richard D. Hall and Andrew Johnson going over Julian Assange's bizarre past and putting some question marks as to what WikiLeaks really is and what their motives are. #MustWatch

My view is that WikiLeaks is likely controlled opposition (either knowingly or unknowingly) mainly because they fail my Dr. Judy Wood Litmus Test and since Julian Assange has been quoted as saying 9/11 is a "false conspiracy"… #UtterGarbage

My video was back in December 2016 where I explained the Washington Post Amazon Bezos CIA conflict of interest!

My view is that WikiLeaks publishes information that is not too damaging to the establishment, such as war crimes, corruption, and mass surveillance that many people have already known or aren't too surprised, but not daring to touch on issues such as fabricated terrors events, hidden technology, or even CIA blackmail techniques.

Basically I view WikiLeaks as the Mainstream Media of Leaks, whereas the real whistler-blowers are not given any free publicity (same for Edward Snowden being interviewed by propagandist and alleged comedian John Oliver… while Snowden was a "wanted" man by the United States… #Surrrrreee).

Morning Mix

John Oliver's hilarious interview with Edward Snowden

By Justin Wm. Moyer April 6, 2015

When Edward Snowden revealed the depth and breadth of the National Security Agency's domestic surveillance to journalists a few years ago, the public was shocked — sort of. On one hand, the idea that our government had a bottomless appetite for e-mails, phone calls and texts we once thought private was disturbing. On the other, it was really hard to understand what the NSA was doing and how it was doing it. PRISM? FISA? Somewhere in this alphabet soup was something contrary to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, it seemed, if only the common man could bother to be outraged by it.

This was a point driven home by John Oliver, host of HBO's "Last Week Tonight," in an interview with Snowden broadcast Sunday. Oliver traveled to Moscow to ask "the most famous hero and/or traitor in recent American history," as Oliver put it, why he had leaked sensitive government documents.

Oliver countered that the NSA may be too technical a subject for the public to get riled up about. He likened the debate about government surveillance to a visit from "the IT guy" at work who smells "like canned soup."

Oliver then offered a unique proposition: Handing Snowden a snapshot of what Oliver claimed to be his — Oliver's, that is — penis, he asked Snowden to explain which government programs would have access to the very private photo.

"This is the most visible line in the sand for people," Oliver said. "Can they see my d—?"

"The good news is there's no program named 'The D— Pic Program,'" Snowden said with a straight face. "The bad news is that they are still collecting everyone's information, including your d— pics."

This is one of the most pathetic and purposely dumbed down "interviews" I have ever seen!

John Oliver downplays the significance of the NSA spying on everyone by stating it's "too technical" for the public but jokes about how the NSA has access to people's personal photos…

Why doesn't John Oliver ask "if" the NSA uses the knowledge of everyone's personal lives as a blackmail technique?

For example how did former Speaker of the House Dennis Hastert make it so high in politics when he was molesting boys as a high school teacher for decades (allegedly)?? Did the NSA not know this?? … I'm pretty sure they did and they used him (among many others such as Anthony Weiner) because they have blackmail control over them!

Why doesn't John Oliver raise the issue that by giving the government all your private information they now have a database where they can detect dissident groups that question the government or seek to expose state crimes, and thus these groups can be spotted, infiltrated, or prosecuted before getting too big.

These are issues that John should be asking and informing the public not pathetic dick pic jokes…

Now regardless of what WikiLeaks is, it is important to understand that it can be used by intelligence agencies such as CIA/MI5/Mossad, etc., to carry out Psychological Operations or "selective leaking".

A large portion of the population don't believe the mainstream media, so to be able to influence these people, information or "leaks" could be deliberately passed off to WikiLeaks because of their high reputation of providing accurate documents.

Thus what could appear as WikiLeaks releasing information the government doesn't want the public to know could in fact be exactly what the government wants released… #ReversePsychology

WikiLeaks can also be used as a weapon by intelligence agencies to keep certain powerful people in line.

For example, instead of the CIA leaking John Podesta's emails, which would then incriminate the CIA for withholding it AND leaking it, WikiLeaks could do so and few would suspect the CIA was actually behind it… #Impressive

- Keep in mind that the CIA also has the power to make it appear that DNC staffer Seth Rich was behind the leaks (which he may very well have been!)
- This is all speculative but we can't take any given story for granted, and we must never underestimate the sophistication of those that orchestrated 9/11 and lied about Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMDs) leading to millions killed/displaced…

Thus with all sources of information, including here at MES in case of some Mind Control attacks at me, make sure to always keep a critical eye on the information being given and any hidden agenda there may be…

hidden agenda there may be…

This is going to be a great day all-around.

Can Anyone Be Speaker of the House?

> Bill Paxon (a former representative from New York) and Bob Dole were mentioned over the weekend as possible candidates for Speaker of the House. Neither one is currently a member of Congress. Is that allowed?
> The answer is yes, though it would be a historical first.
> Traditionally, Congress has adopted the following procedure (proposed by Thomas Jefferson). First, the party caucuses each vote to select a candidate. Second, the entire House votes on the two nominees. Since House members invariably vote along party lines in these elections, the majority candidate always wins. Thus the really important election is the nomination vote within the majority caucus. And House rules do not require that a nominee be a member of Congress.

Speaker of the United States House of Representatives

> The Constitution does not require that the Speaker be an elected House Representative, though every Speaker so far has been an elected Member of the House.[3] The Speaker is second in the United States presidential line of succession, after the Vice President and ahead of the President pro tempore of the U.S. Senate.[4]

Congress votes on the Speaker of the House and has always been a member of Congress, thus a tech lobbyist such as Drew Littman wouldn't even think of announcing his "candidacy" for Speaker of the House.

So why make a joke about running for Speaker of the House which is such a powerful position that is second in line of presidential succession?

Given that the above email exchange was in October 2015, the former Speaker of the House Dennis Hastert was in the news for all the wrong reasons…

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Dennis_Hastert

Dennis Hastert

John Dennis Hastert (/ˈhæstərt/; born January 2, 1942) is a former American congressman who served as the 51st Speaker of the United States House of Representatives from 1999 to 2007, representing Illinois's 14th congressional district from 1987 to 2007. He is the longest-serving Republican Speaker of the House in history, and one of the highest-ranking politicians in U.S. history to have gone to prison.[1]

51st Speaker of the United States House of Representatives

January 6, 1999 – January 3, 2007

Preceded by Newt Gingrich Succeeded by Nancy Pelosi

In May 2015, Hastert was indicted on federal charges of structuring bank withdrawals to evade bank reporting requirements and making false statements to federal investigators.[2][3] Federal prosecutors said that the money was to compensate for and conceal deliberately unspecified misconduct by Hastert against an unnamed individual years earlier.[4][5][6][7][8] Soon afterward, public accusations emerged that Hastert had sexually abused three male students (including the aforementioned unnamed individual) when he was a teacher more than three decades earlier.[9][10][11][12][13][14]

In October 2015, Hastert entered into a plea agreement with prosecutors. Under the agreement, Hastert pleaded guilty to the "structuring" charge (a felony), and the charge of making false statements was dropped.[15] In court submissions on sentencing considerations filed in April 2016, federal prosecutors made allegations of sexual misconduct against Hastert, saying that he had molested at least four boys as young as 14 while he worked as a high school wrestling coach decades earlier.[16] At the sentencing hearing later that month, Hastert admitted that he had sexually abused boys whom he coached.[17] The judge in the case referred to Hastert as a "serial child molester" and imposed a sentence of fifteen months in prison, two years' supervised release, and a $250,000 fine.[18][1] He entered the Federal Medical Center prison in Rochester, Minnesota in 2016 and was released the following year, after 13 months in prison.[19]

The former 2nd in line to the President Dennis Hastert used to molest boys when he was a teacher prior to being in politics…

The CIA/NSA spies on anything and everything yet didn't "know" or do anything about Hastert as he rose to power….

Or did they "choose" him and push him to power because they can blackmail him… #SoundsWayMoreLikely

And how is a "serial child molester" only serving 13 months in prison???? #LockHimUpForLife

This just adds even more nefarious overtones to the entire email exchange…

Daniel Patrick Moynihan

Daniel Patrick "Pat" Moynihan (March 16, 1927 – March 26, 2003) was an American politician and sociologist. A member of the Democratic Party, he was first elected to the United States Senate for New York in 1976, and was re-elected three times (in 1982, 1988, and 1994), serving a total of 24 years as Senator.

In 2003, Moynihan died at the age of 76 after complications (infection) suffered from an emergency appendectomy about a month earlier.

Now let's take a look at the The PEW Charitable Trusts organization that Tamera Luzzatto works at:

The Pew Charitable Trusts

The Pew Charitable Trusts is an independent non-profit, non-governmental organization (NGO), founded in 1948.

With over US $5 billion in assets, its stated mission is to serve the public interest by "improving public policy, informing the public, and stimulating civic life".[1]

Established	1948; 69 years ago
Chairman	Robert H. Campbell
President	Rebecca W. Rimel
Faculty	12 (board)
Staff	969
Budget	$250 million
Endowment	$5 billion
Location	Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, United States
Address	2005 Market Street, Suite 1700 Philadelphia, PA 19103-7077

History

The Trusts, a single entity, is the successor to, and sole beneficiary of, seven charitable funds established between 1948 and 1979 by J. Howard Pew, Mary Ethel Pew, Joseph N. Pew, Jr., and Mabel Pew Myrin — the adult sons and daughters of Sun Oil Company founder Joseph N. Pew and his wife, Mary Anderson Pew.

In 2004, the Pew Trusts applied to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to change its status from private foundation to nonprofit organization. Since the Pew's change to a charitable foundation, it can now raise funds freely and devote up to 5% of its budget to lobbying the public sector.

Current concerns

The Trusts' public policy areas include the environment, state policy, economic policy and health and human services.

Efforts are focused on reducing the scope and severity of three major global environmental problems:

1. Destruction of the world's oceans, with a particular emphasis on marine fisheries.
2. The loss of large wilderness ecosystems that contain a great part of the world's remaining biodiversity.
3. Changes to the Earth's physical and biological systems linked to the buildup of greenhouse gases that are altering the world's climate.

The Trusts also funds the Pew Research Center, the third-largest think tank in Washington, D.C., after the Brookings Institutionand the Center for American Progress.

ABOUT

Tamera Luzzatto

PROFILE

Tamera Luzzatto leads government relations at The Pew Charitable Trusts. She ensures that Pew's wide range of nonpartisan policy work at the state, federal and international levels is effectively and accurately communicated to policy makers.

Luzzatto served as then-Senator Hillary Rodham Clinton's chief of staff from 2001 to 2009. Prior to her service with Senator Clinton, Luzzatto was on the staff of West Virginia Senator John D. Rockefeller IV for nearly 15 years, serving as legislative director and chief of staff. She was Senator Rockefeller's primary liaison to two major advisory panels which he chaired, the National Commission on Children and the Pepper Commission on Health Care.

Luzzatto began her career working for ACTION, the federal umbrella agency at the time for the Peace Corps and other volunteer and national service programs. With nearly three decades of experience in politics and government, she speaks regularly about Congress and public policy to academic institutions and other organizations across the country.

She currently chairs the board of the Washington Bach Consort, a highly acclaimed baroque choral group. She also serves on the Johns Hopkins Neurosurgery Advisory Committee and the personnel committee of the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church.

She graduated from Harvard University, magna cum laude, with a degree in government.

Latin honors

Latin honors are Latin phrases used to indicate the level of distinction with which an academic degree was earned.

magna cum laude, meaning "with great honor"

- In North America, this honor is typically awarded to graduates in the top 10% (or 15%) of their class; this is the highest honor awarded at some institutions.
- In classical Latin it possibly would have been pronounced /maŋna kʊm laʊ̯dɛ/

It is clear that Tamera Luzzatto is a big player in the DC political scene.

Her pool/entertainment email exchange is absolutely bizarre, but what is even more bizarre is this blog that online researchers found…

Good Morning!

Week 2 of college football--lots of good games today. No hogs so no stress, we're off this week preparing for Georgia. So Evie will probably just crawl around. Marisa is in Chicago so likely she'll be wearing the same clothes when Marisa gets back Sunday.

Fwd: Dupuytren's Advance Info for John Podesta

Subject: Fwd: Dupuytren's Advance Info for John Podesta

Hoping this gets to you from my close friend and fellow-hand-sufferer, Patrick Schmidt.

We had a Luzzattopalooza yesterday, with Marisa-Paul-10 month Evie staying with us already while their house gets painted, and Ben-Alex sledding their 3 over to "help" us decorate the tree. When the parents got back to retrieve children, they threw in the towel (and about 19 pieces of winter clothing) to stay for tortellini and an overnight. So, 6 grownups with 2 toddlers and 2 infants spread throughout the house, and sure enough one of those toddlers was rubbing my nose at 5:45.....

David has been shoveling for 3 hours straight, first helping Ann Pincus dig out her car with Walter recovering from major back surgery, and then joining in with other neighbors to clear out our alley and now out front.

I'm doing the Santa wrapping thing.

Below, again, is from Pat to John.

Merry holidays to all. Love, us

Subj: Dupuytren's Advance Info for John Podesta

Hi Tamera, On a routine visit to our Dr. Li, he gave me an abstract for a September N.Eng. J. of Med. article touting the success of a study injecting collagenase into Dupuytren's cords. Although not yet approved by the FDA, Dr. Li thinks this is big news and recommended I check it out with my hand surgeon as an alternative to my next surgery. He also gave me info on one of the authors Dr. Hotchkiss who practices in NYC. I had tried to get into the SUNY study a couple of years ago but was too late.

I recall chatting with fellow Dupuytren's sufferer John Podesta out at your farm about alternatives to surgery, and thought perhaps you could forward the attachments to him. I have an e-mail address for him from my mailings from American Progress, but I suspect if I send to that it may get caught up in some spam filter or something.

love, Trick

Injectable Collagenase Clostridium Histolyticum for Dupuytren's Contracture

Lawrence C. Hurst, M.D., Marie A. Badalamente, Ph.D., Vincent R. Hentz, M.D., Robert N. Hotchkiss, M.D., F. Thomas D. Kaplan, M.D., Roy A. Meals, M.D., Theodore M. Smith, Ph.D., John Rodzvilla, M.D., for the CORD I Study Group

ABSTRACT

Background Dupuytren's disease limits hand function, diminishes the quality of life, and may ultimately disable the hand. Surgery followed by hand therapy is standard treatment, but it is associated with serious potential complications. Injection of collagenase clostridium histolyticum, an office-based, nonsurgical option, may reduce joint contractures caused by Dupuytren's disease.

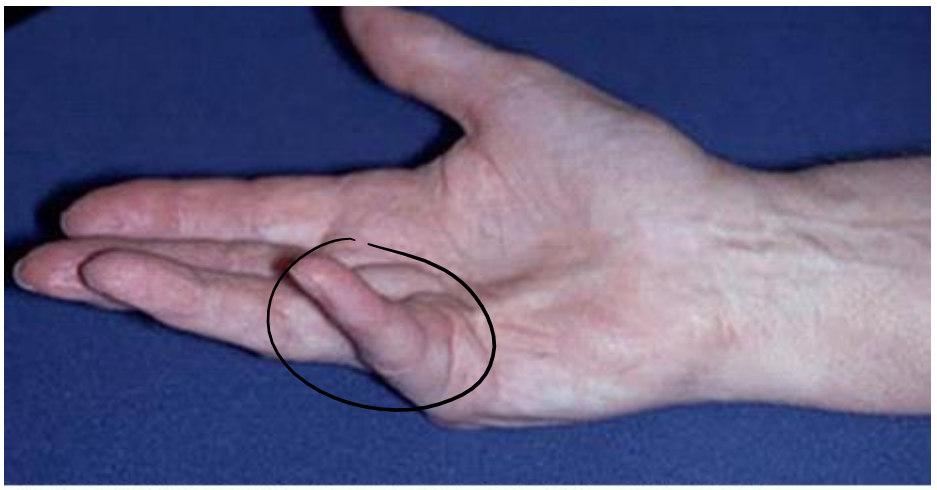
Dupuytren's contracture



© MAYO FOUNDATION FOR MEDICAL EDUCATION AND RESEARCH. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

Dupuytren's contracture is a painless deformity of the hand in which one or more fingers (in this case, the pinky) are bent toward the palm and can't be fully straightened. It results from a thickening and scarring of connective tissue under the skin in the palm of the hand and in the fingers.

Recall from #PizzaGate Part 27 that John Podesta's hands did look very disfigured…

Evie's New Friend Jack

Starting next week, Evie will be joined in childcare by her buddy Jack, I wanted you guys to get a chance to meet Jack by going to his blog here: http://jacklowell.blogspot.com

Please don't go to hard on Jack's father's technical expertise, mine is obviously far superior. Although i think he beats me in the "frequent posting" department. Jack is owned by Ken Weber and Stephanie Copeland, who live a few blocks from us. Marisa works with Ken at ONE--its all so neat and tidy!

This Monday, the Super Bowl Baby and the Easter Sunday Baby are joining forces. If that isn't a great premise for a new reality TV show, I don't know what is. These two will rule the world - or at least the Windom-Brandywine corridor - in no time!

Why is a baby being referred to as being "owned"???!!

And why are the parents (?) of one baby running a PUBLIC blog dedicated to their baby, and just so happen to live near another couple doing the exact same thing??!!

Let's take a look at "Jack's Place"…

This blog is still public, and like Evie's blog but with much more posts, is entirely dedicated to a baby!

Some of the posts are too… suggestive:

Naked Time!

It was bathtime again this weekend, which Jack celebrated in high style by slipping into the baby bath hammock (thanks Sarah C!). Before reuniting with the frog towel, Jack luxuriated (and exfoliated) in a warm soak by the kicthen window. Unrated version of this photo available only to premium subscribers. ;)

Breaking News: Video Coverage Begins*

Hi everyone. Under intensifying pressure from Jack's fanbase (not to mention his long-distance girlfriend, Emme), the dawn of video coverage is finally here. We won't promise we'll do this too often - let's be honest, he's not scoring goals here - but in this episode, Jack demonstrates he can be awake and interactive for a full minute and a half. Other recent milestones include: sleeping for five-and-half hours straight (a big hit with mom!), enjoying swingtime for 45 minutes, and shattering the previous single-day record for poopy diapers (was 11, is now 13). Warning, some content may be NSFW. ;)

Warning, some content may be NSFW. ;)

…. Why are parents posting NSFW content of their kids in a public forum in the first place???!!!

Also Tamera Luzzato's Facebook page includes this very disturbing image of Maeve Luzzatto (one of the kids in the email)…

……. WTF is this!?!!

How can people think this weird disturbing photo is acceptable for social media???!

That is actually the same Tamera Luzzatto account as above, and pretty sure that the same Maeve as in the emails.

I literally have no idea what to make of all this but it does not seem pleasant…

Summary and Conclusions

The Luzzatto Pool Entertainment email exchange is extremely bizarre and as of yet still unexplainable due to a complete media blackout on the subject.

First off, let's list Tamera Luzzatto career highlights:

- A rich powerful DC lobbyist and power broker.
- Former Chief of Staff to Virginia Senator John D. Rockefeller IV.
- Former Chief of Staff to New York Senator Hillary Clinton.

- Chairman Rockefeller's Primary Liaison at a panel on National Commission on Children.
- Distinguished Harvard University Graduate.

Now to summarize, I have listed the following disturbing instances that need to be resolved and investigated further:

- Why is a person of Luzzatto's credentials emailing a group of other highly credentialed DC power-brokers about a Ubering 3 children to a pool party at a Lovettsville farm as "entertainment" while referencing their ages?
- In that same email exchange, why is tech lobbyist Drew Littman making bizarre jokes about not having an affair and running for Speaker of the House at about the same time that former Speaker Dennis Hastert was publicly facing allegations of child molestation?
- Why is there a VERY disturbing blog titled Evie's Crib dedicated entirely to a baby named Evelyn (nickname Evie) that has the tagline with the innuendo about "spending time with her online, raw and uncut"?
- Note that Evie is claimed to be cousins with the 3 children named in the Luzzatto email: Ruby, Emma, and Maeve.
- Note that Tamera Luzzatto is said to be a Grandma to the 3 children (Step or blood-related?)
- The Evie's Crib blog was public until #PizzaGate broke loose upon which it was made invite-only.
- Evie is friends with another baby Jack, whom is said to be "owned" by a couple that lives near the "parents" of Evie, whom ALSO run a blog dedicated entirely to the baby Jack, and call it "jack's place".
- The blog is still publicly available at the time of this video and has hundreds of publicly available posts about baby Jack.
- Some of which have disturbing comments indicating premium subscribers get access to "unrated" images, and warnings of NSFW for some posts…
- Are these just horrible jokes and horrible coincidences??
- Why is the fakestream media silent on all of this??

The Luzzattos, everyone listed in the email exchange (including John Podesta), as well as those running Evie's Crib and Jack's Place blogs NEED to be investigated further!

It is clear that the media, political establishment, and law enforcement won't dare touch these surprisingly powerful lobbyists so it is up to citizen investigators to get to the bottom of this!

HILLARY CLINTON

Meet the Man Behind Hillary Clinton's Campaign

Jay Newton-Small
Apr 27, 2016

On the wall in his office at Hillary Clinton's Brooklyn headquarters, campaign chairman John Podesta has an oil painting on loan from his lobbyist brother, who is an avid art collector. The image shows two men hunched over a dining room table, bearing knives and forks. On the table lays a man in a suit, who looks vaguely like Podesta. "It's better to be the guy with the fork," Podesta quips to his colleagues, if they ask about the image, "than the guy on the table."

Hmmmm let's see what kind of art Skippy's lobbyist brother, Tony Podesta, collects…

http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/articles/A43480-2004Sep22.html

Archive: https://archive.is/d3vEh

CORRECTION TO THIS ARTICLE
A Sept. 23 Style article incorrectly said that Tony and Heather Podesta own a home in the Lake Barcroft neighborhood of Falls Church. Lake Barcroft has a Falls Church mailing address and the couple consider their home to be in Falls Church, but the neighborhood is in Fairfax County.

Married, With Art

Tony and Heather Podesta Are a Study in Power Collecting

The pictures ringing Tony's ninth-floor office at PodestaMattoon deliver an unusual welcome. A suite of arresting computer-manipulated photographs by Dutch artist Margi Geerlinks serves as a cautionary tale of genetic engineering. One shows a boy seemingly born from a sewing machine. Another finds a young girl knitting her own hair. A third has a naked woman immersed in blood-red liquid.

It's not hard to imagine the jolt that executives from biotech concerns such as Genentech or Serono get when they walk into the room -- and they're clients.

"Some people think it's a little weird," Tony says of his choices. "But that's their problem."

Steeped in liberal politics, Tony favors art with in-your-face nudity and social critique.

http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/articles/A43480-2004Sep22_3.html

Archive: https://archive.is/Q5bVV

Not always. Folks attending a house tour in the Lake Barcroft neighborhood in Falls Church earlier this year got an eyeful when they walked into a bedroom at the Podesta residence hung with multiple color pictures by Katy Grannan, a photographer known for documentary-style pictures of naked teenagers in their parents' suburban homes.

"They were horrified," Heather recalls, a grin spreading across her face.

…… I don't know anymore….

I may cover Tony's "art" collection in later videos so #StayTuned!

One of the most elite men in Washington and one of the most powerful lobbyists in the world. Podesta was in charge of Secretary Hillary Clinton's 2016 election campaign and held fundraisers for her at Comet Ping Pong. His odd correspondence with James Alefantis can be found in the leaked Podesta emails. His art collection reflects themes of dismembered people and cannibalism. He received a party invite that kids "...age 7, 9 and 11" would be "in the pool for further entertainment." Brother Tony collects creepy child-abuse art and emailed him saying, "Last night was fun. Still in torture chamber." Tony sent another email saying he was "seated with the kids" on a flight and so was "a little wired." In a leaked email was asked, "Do you think I'll do better playing dominos on cheese than on pasta?"

Business magnate, investor, philanthropist, political activist. Closely associated with the Clintons and the Clinton Foundation, and a leader of the Democratic Party. Direct superior to John Podesta, served on the North American Group of the Trilateral Commission with convicted pedophile Jeffrey Epstein. Nephew Peter Soros received erotic massages from minors as mentioned in Jeffrey Epstein's "Little Black Book." Worked with Tavistock Institute main investor Joe Lewis to crash the British pound and make millions. Paid James Achilles Alefantis of Comet Ping Pong $11,000 for "pizza."

These cannibalistic-themed parties were instrumental in raising people's awareness of Pizzagate through their mention in the Podesta leaked emails. She attended fundraisers for Hillary Clinton at the behest of Clinton herself and sometimes John Podesta. Received donations from the Annenberg Foundation which is funded in part by the Clinton Foundation. John and Tony Podesta appear to have a close relationship with Abramovic. Baphomet

Baphomet (/ˈbæfoʊmɛt/; from Medieval Latin Baphometh, Baffometi, Occitan Bafometz) is a term originally used to describe an idol or other deity that the Knights Templar were accused of worshipping and that subsequently was incorporated into disparate occult and mystical traditions. It appeared as a term for a pagan idol in trial transcripts of the Inquisition of the Knights Templar in the early 14th century.[1] The name first came into popular English usage in the 19th century, with debate and speculation on the reasons for the suppression of the Templars.[2]

Since 1856, the name Baphomet has been associated with a "Sabbatic Goat" image drawn by Eliphas Levi[3] which contains binary elements representing the "sum total of the universe" (e.g. male and female, good and evil, etc.).[4]

The 19th century image of a Sabbatic Goat, created by Eliphas Levi. The arms bear the Latin words SOLVE (separate) and COAGULA (join together)

Modern interpretations and usage

Baphomet, as Lévi's illustration suggests, has occasionally been portrayed as a synonym of Satan or a demon, a member of the hierarchy of Hell.

United States Public Health Service

The Public Health Service Act of 1944 structured the United States Public Health Service (PHS), founded in 1798, as the primary division of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW; which was established in 1953), which later became the United States Department of Health and Human Services in 1979–1980 (when the Education agencies were separated into their own U.S. Department of Education). The Office of the Surgeon General was created in 1871. The PHS comprises all Agency Divisions of Health and Human Services and the Commissioned Corps. The Assistant Secretary for Health (ASH) oversees the PHS and the United States Public Health Service Commissioned Corps.[1][2]

Logo of the United States Public Health Service

Hmmm interesting how the US PHS includes the rod + 2 snakes and wings logo which is also incorporated in Baphomet…

World Health Organization

The World Health Organization (WHO) is a specialized agency of the United Nations that is concerned with international public health. It was established on 7 April 1948, headquartered in Geneva, Switzerland. The WHO is a member of the United Nations Development Group. Its predecessor, the Health Organization, was an agency of the League of Nations.

Flag of the World Health Organization

The WHO just has a rod + one snake but the wreath resemble the wings…

While these symbols could have benign meanings such as a rod to fight against snakes/snake bites etc., I wouldn't rule out any more nefarious dual meanings, especially when the United Nations may very well have been first hatched inside the Bohemian Grove….
#YouCantMakeThisUp

Examples of possible dual meanings:

- Sustainability: Care for the environment vs. Prisons are sustainable.
- Equality: Everyone is equal vs. Make everyone equally poor.
- Rod + Snakes: Fight disease vs. We also create the diseases ;)

United Nations

The United Nations (UN) is an intergovernmental organization tasked to promote international co-operation and to create and maintain international order. A replacement for the ineffective League of Nations, the organization was established on 24 October 1945 after World War II in order to prevent another such conflict. At its founding, the UN had 51 member states; there are now 193. The headquarters of the UN is in Manhattan, New York City, and experiences extraterritoriality. Further main offices are situated in Geneva, Nairobi, and Vienna. The organization is financed by assessed and voluntary contributions from its member states. Its objectives include maintaining international peace and security, promoting human rights, fostering social and economic development, protecting the environment, and providing humanitarian aid in cases of famine, natural disaster, and armed conflict. The UN is the largest, most familiar, most internationally represented and most powerful intergovernmental organization in the world.[3]

Emblem

Of course the Orwellian Wikipedia wouldn't dare mention that the UN was likely founded at the infamous Bohemian Grove…

I first learned of this from a passage from Mark Dice, the popular Media-Analyst on YouTube, in his book The Bohemian Grove: Facts & Fiction.

The secretive and strange Bohemian Grove is an elite men's club hidden deep within a 2700-acre redwood forest in Northern California, where each July the most powerful men in the world gather for what's called their annual Summer Encampment.

The Different Subcamps

Although the club claims the mid-summer encampment is just a vacation, and "weaving spiders come not here", some major world-changing programs have admittedly been hatched in the Grove. For example, the Manhattan Project (the plan for the atomic bomb) was admittedly conceived inside the club in 1942.[33] Aside from the birth of the atomic bomb, the United Nations was hatched from inside the club as well.[34]

Peter Phillips' dissertation reveals, "One of the foremost political events in which the Bohemian political network played a significant role was the United Nations Conference of International Organization (UNCIO), April 25th to June 26, 1945 in San Francisco. This was the original formation meeting for the United Nations, with delegates from fifty nations. Receptions for UNCIO delegates and key dignitaries were held at the Bohemian Club on May 17, May 29, June 4, and June 5. Towards the end of the U.N. conference the Club invited all delegates to a program at the Grove."[35]

Mark Dice's references # 33, 34, 35 are all from the following:

Numerous Bohemian Club members generously gave of their personal time in support of my research. In particular Alfred Baxter and his campmates at Silverado Squatters deserve a thank you for hosting me at the Grove. Without their support the insights obtained in this study would not have been possible.

Lawrence's use of the Grove's river clubhouse for a Manhatten Project planning meeting in September of 1942 is well documented. Less well known is who exactly attended this meeting and the prideful publication of its history in Bohemian Club library notes.

The atom bomb made this particular meeting at the Grove world famous, but it was not an isolated case of business and government planning through Bohemian club facilities. This was but one in a long series of historical business-related activities done in the context of a Bohemian corporate family network. The Club takes pride in this event, and members often tell new guests this story while at the Grove.

Looking back historically at the Club, there is ample evidence of political inter-connections generated from Bohemian networks. One of the foremost political events in which the Bohemian political network played a significant role was the United Nations Conference of International Organization (UNCIO), April 25th to June 26, 1945 in San Francisco. This was the original formation meeting for the United Nations, with delegates from fifty nations. Receptions for UNCIO delegates and key dignitaries were held at the Bohemian Club on May 17, May 29, June 4, and June 5. Towards the end of the U.N. conference the Club invited all delegates to a program at the Grove.[31]

Footnote: [31.] The Russian delegates declined to attend.

So yes, according to a dissertation by Dr. Peter Phillips, whom was hosted by the Bohemian Club, the planning of United Nations as well as the Atomic Bomb had their roots at the bizarre Bohemian Grove…

Keep in mind that this is the same Bohemian Grove that I showed in #PizzaGate Part 19 involves the world's "elites" burning a "fake" human effigy as a sacrifice to a giant owl statue…. #ShutItDown

Note: Since June 2017 data is not available at the moment, the above graph is from #PizzaGate Part 26, as is the text below.

As explained in #PizzaGate Part 24, the Google AdWords Keyword Planner search tool provides a more accurate search trends because they show "exact" search results and advertisers spend billions based on the results of the Keyword Planner.

As can be seen, "pizzagate" is dropping off of "fake news" so we have to start picking up the slack!!

David Brock's Blackmail Lawsuit with Former Partner William Grey

Recall from #PizzaGate Part 26, that I am researching into David Brock in order to win the contest proposed by David Seaman, with the deadline of August 1, 2017.

DISCLAIMER:

Please note that in my #PizzaGate series thus far that when targeting specific people, my videos have pointed out links to pedophilia and/or corruption either directly or indirectly.

But for this particular video on David Brock, as in my earlier overview video in Part 26, I am attempting to lay the groundwork in building up possible leads of criminal activity on his part; mainly because it is clear law enforcement won't touch the political elites with a 9 foot pole!

Since David Brock has dated the now infamous James Alefantis, and David being almost certainly directly tied into the many character assassinations of people researching into #PizzaGate through his many media watchdog groups (such as Media Matters), I believe it is important to research into David Brock.

But it is also understood that attaching the #PizzaGate label is very damaging to people's character, thus for this particular video please view the connection of David Brock to any of the negative connotations of #PizzaGate as speculative.

Thus I am making this disclaimer to clearly state that thus far there is no concrete evidence or concrete circumstantial evidence, that I am aware of, that ties David Brock to pedophilia or similar corruption, but please comment below any leads that you may have!

Also recall from Part 26, I went over the Fox News article going over the alleged $850,000 blackmail Brock paid to his then long-time boyfriend William Grey:

Narrative
(Event and Action Taken.)

On September 14, 2010 C-1 reported to the Metropolitan Police Department that S-1, his former domestic partner had recently contacted him via e-mail and attempted to blackmail him if he did not give him 17 pieces of property he felt belonged to him. C-1 states that he and S-1 had been involved in a domestic partnership for over 10 years but are no longer together. According to C-1, S-1 sent him a series of e-mails stating that he would release specific derogatory information about him (C-1) and his organization to the press and donors that would be embarrassing to him and cause harm to the organization if he didnot comply. C-1 is currently a District of Columbia resident.

Definition Cite Term Add to Flashcards

Court process in which a wrongfully taken personal property is recovered for return to its lawful owner.

William Grey, plaintiff, complains and avers as follows:

1. Jurisdiction of this Court is founded on D.C. Code Ann., 2001 edition, as amended, § 11-921.

2. Plaintiff, William Grey ("Mr. Grey") is an adult resident of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

3. Defendant, David Brock ("Mr. Brock") is an adult resident of the District of Columbia who resides at Washington, D.C. 20008.

4. Defendant, James Alefantis ("Mr. Alefantis") also is an adult resident of the District of Columbia who resides at Washington, D.C. 20008.

5. Messrs. Brock and Alefantis are in possession of a number of items of personal property belonging to Mr. Grey that they refuse to return.

6. Messrs. Grey and Brock once shared two homes together, one in Rehoboth Beach, Delaware and another in Georgetown in the District of Columbia.

7. Over the years, Mr. Grey has acquired a number of items of valuable personal property including furniture, art pieces and antiques. The items at issue in this case are identified in the attached Exhibit 1, which also states each item's estimated fair market value.

8. All of the items identified in Exhibit 1 are solely Mr. Grey's property, either purchased exclusively with Mr. Grey's funds or given to him as gifts by third parties.

messrs Messrs.

Use messrs in a sentence

abbreviation

Messrs is an abbreviation for the French word messieurs which is defined as men.

An example of Messrs is the space on a formal invitation for the names of any men attending.

9. After Messrs. Grey and Brock ceased living together, Mr. Brock in 2007 sold the Georgetown residence and bought his current residence on California Street, N.W. While Mr. Brock was selling the Georgetown house and without first asking Mr. Grey's permission, he used several items of Mr. Grey's property to stage the house for prospective buyers. These items are identified as items 2, 8 and 9 on the attached Exhibit 1 and included a Louis XIVth settee with gold fabric, a Continental round side table and a 1920's striped green bench. Together, these items are presently worth $19,000. See Exhibit 1.

10. When Mr. Grey learned Mr. Brock was using Mr. Grey's property to stage the house, Mr. Brock reluctantly agreed that he could do so based on their years of friendship. However, Mr. Grey made clear to Mr. Brock that this was not a gift and that he expected the items to be returned upon request.

→ Mr. Grey?

11. When Mr. Brock moved from the Georgetown residence to the California Street home, he took the house staging items with him. Mr. Brock also took a mission desk and two lamps belonging to Mr. Grey that Messrs. Grey and Brock had agreed would remain in the Georgetown residence until Mr. Grey could retrieve them. Those items are also listed on Exhibit 1 as items 7 and 11 have a total value of $5,800.00.

12. Since 1998, Mr. Grey had operated a small non-profit corporation out of the Rehoboth Beach residence known as the Delaware Pet Adoption Center, which physically housed rescued animals at the residence.

13. In approximately 2007, Mr. Brock suggested that because certain items of Mr. Grey's property were expensive and fragile, that they should temporarily be moved to Mr. Brock's residence to prevent any animals from damaging the property.

14. During 2007 and 2008, Mr. Brock moved these items to his home, taking a few items at a time on each trip. However, this was only intended to be a temporary arrangement and both parties fully understood that all of the items remained Mr. Grey's property and would be returned to him when Mr. Grey stopped taking in rescue animals. These items are identified as items 1, 3-6, 10, and 12-22 on the attached Exhibit 1 and have a total value of $145,200.00.

15. Mr. Grey also allowed Mr. Brock to retain possession of the items Mr. Brock used for the Georgetown house staging, the mission desk and two lamps to protect those items from damage with the proviso that they likewise would be returned when Mr. Grey stopped taking in rescue animals.

16. The Rehoboth Beach house was listed for sale and Mr. Grey moved to Massachusetts. Thereafter, Mr. Grey began requesting that Mr. Brock return the items that Mr. Brock had removed from the Georgetown house, as well as those Mr. Brock had removed from the Rehoboth Beach property to Mr. Brock's own residence for safe keeping.

17. Upon information and belief, some of the items on Exhibit 1 are being stored, used or displayed at businesses in which Mr. Alefantis has an interest. These businesses include Buck's Fishing and Camping at 5031 Connecticut Avenue, N.W. and Comet Ping Pong, 5037 Connecticut Avenue, N.W. For example, when Mr. Grey requested the return of item 14 on Exhibit 1, a burled wood game table, Mr. Alefantis complained that he was using the table in his office.

18. On July 27, 2010, Mr. Grey, through counsel, sent to Messrs. Grey and Alefantis written demand that they return Mr. Grey's personal property. To date, they have refused to do so.

19. Messrs. Brock and Alefantis have unjustly detained Mr. Grey's property, to which Mr. Grey is entitled to immediate possession.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff demands the return of the items identified in the attached Exhibit 1 or, in lieu thereof, judgment in favor of William Grey and against David Brock and James Alefantis, jointly and severally, in the amount of $170,000.00 or such other amount as determined by the Court, plus costs.

COUNTERCLAIMS

30. Counterclaim-Plaintiff David Brock, by his undersigned counsel, asserts counterclaims against Counterclaim-Defendant William Grey as follows:

Introduction

31. Counterclaim-Defendant Grey committed the intentional tortuous acts of blackmail and abuse of the judicial process against Counterclaim-Plaintiff David Brock in order to secure his alleged personal possessions and in obtaining $850,000, which has harmed Counterclaim-Plaintiff Brock and for which he seeks damages. first mention

Parties and Jurisdiction

32. Counterclaim-Plaintiff David Brock ("Brock") is a nationally recognized political commentator who is director of Media Matters for America, a progressive organization that reports on conservative media. He resides in the District of Columbia.

33. On information and belief, Counterclaim-Defendant William Grey ("Grey") is a resident of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts who has brought the underlying action against Brock and James Alefantis ("Alefantis").

34. Jurisdiction of this Court is founded on D.C. Code § 11-921.

Factual Background

35. On or about July 27, 2010, Diane Schobel, counsel to Grey and at all times acting for him, sent Brock and Alefantis a demand letter for personal property in lieu of instituting a replevin action.

36. On or about September 1, 2010, counsel for Brock and Alefantis spoke to Schobel about Grey's demand for property and informed her that his claim was meritless based on the following reasons:

- Grey's claims were barred by "settlement and release" in that the parties had signed a settlement and release agreement pursuant to the sale of a home in Rehoboth Beach which Brock owned releasing Brock and Grey from any future claims they might have against each other "in any way related to the Property." Since the personal property items were situated in that home, they were covered by that release.
- Grey's claims were barred by "gift" since every single item that Grey was demanding had been gifted to Brock over ten years earlier, or by "adverse possession" in that Grey had known Brock had possessed those items for that long.

37. Counsel for Brock and Alefantis agreed with Schobel to discuss those defenses in another call, and scheduled the next call for September 8, 2010.

Settlement and Release Agreement Basics

Reviewed by Rocket Lawyer On Call Attorney Michael Duffy, Esq

When you've gotten involved in a lawsuit and it's no longer worth the fight, a Settlement and Release Agreement can help you end it quickly. Maybe you're the defendant and want to settle outside of court. Or maybe you filed the suit and want to define the terms where you'll settle. Nobody wants a long, drawn-out court drama. Using a Settlement and Release Agreement can help everyone get on with their lives.

38. Over the Labor Day weekend, prior to the September 8, 2010 call, Grey sent Brock and Alefantis a number of emails that caused them both to become extremely upset. Brock is a political commentator and activist with a national reputation who raises millions per year for Media Matters for America based almost entirely on his good reputation. Knowing this, Grey's emails to Brock alleged salacious and outlandish claims about him, and threatened to make those allegations public if he did not give in to his demands. In other words, through those emails, Grey tried to force Brock to waive his defenses and to summarily hand over the property items or else Grey would try to destroy his reputation.

39. Over the preceding two-and-half years on at least two other occasions, Grey had made other explicit email threats to expose Brock to the scorn or ridicule to his employees, donors, and the press in demanding money and property.

40. For example, on May 19, 2010, he wrote: "David, You and James pulled this same kind of sick nonsense in 2008 to try to hide your financial malfeasance. Next step is I contact all your donors and the IRS. OK? Do you understand[;]" "This is going to stink for you if you do not resolve this now. I assure you[.]"

41. Or in another example, he wrote on August 27, 2008: "Please finish this today so I don't have to waste my time emailing anyone—Biden, Coulter, Carlson, Huffington, Drudge, Ingraham[.]"

42. Through these prior emails, Brock had, under duress from Grey's threats stated in the emails, agreed to sell his Rehoboth Beach home and pay Grey approximately $850,000 in sale proceeds, a payment he would not otherwise have ever made.

43. On or about September 13, 2010, Brock reported to the DC Metropolitan Police four separate acts of blackmail committed by Grey against Brock from August of 2008 to the present, including the most recent act concerning Grey's demand for personal property items.

(Intentional Tort---Blackmail)

44. The allegations of ¶¶ 1–43 are incorporated herein by reference.

45. In the District of Columbia, one who intentionally causes injury to another is subject to liability to the other for that injury if his conduct is generally culpable and not justifiable under the circumstances.

46. Under DC ST § 22-3252, a person commits the offense of blackmail, if, with intent to obtain property of another, that person threatens to expose a secret or publicize an asserted fact, whether true or false, tending to subject any person to hatred, contempt, or ridicule, or to impair the reputation of any person.

47. Grey intentionally and deliberately committed blackmail against Brock based on three separate acts:

(1) In August of 2008, Grey threatened to publicize embarrassing facts about Brock which would subject him to hate, contempt, and/or or ridicule to order to obtain $850,000, which he was able to do.

(2) In May of 2010, Grey threatened to publicize embarrassing facts about Brock which would subject him to hate, contempt, and/or or ridicule to order to obtain which would subject him to hate, contempt, and/or or ridicule to order to obtain $850,000, which he was able to do.

(3) In September of 2010, Grey threatened Brock that he would publicize embarrassing facts about Brock, which would subject him to hate, contempt, and/or or ridicule to order to obtain personal property, including furniture, to which he has no legal right.

48. Because blackmail is an offense for which a person is criminally culpable, Grey is liable to Brock for the harm resulting for his intentionally and deliberately committing each of the three acts of blackmail against him described above.

49. As a direct and proximate cause to Grey's three separate acts of blackmail, Brock has suffered harm, including but not limited to compensatory loss and mental anguish in an amount to be determined at a later date.

WHEREFORE, Counter-Plaintiff Brock claims damages and demand judgment against Counter-Defendant Grey as set forth below.

Count 2
(Intentional Tort---Abuse of Judicial Process)

50. The allegations of ¶¶ 1–49 are incorporated herein by reference.

51. In the District of Columbia, a person who uses the court processes to accomplish some end which the process was not intended by law to achieve, or which compels the party against whom it has been used to do some collateral thing which he could not legally and regularly be compelled to do, is liable for any resulting harm.

52. In July of 2010, Grey initiated the judicial process by serving Brock with his demand letter for the return of his alleged personal possessions, which stated that he would file an action for replevin and damages if personal property was not turned over to him.

53. In September of 2010, Grey sought to obtain the property by blackmailing Brock as described above, proximately causing him harm.

54. By resorting to blackmail, Grey used the court processes to accomplish some end which the process was not intended by law to achieve, and is liable for compensatory harm in an amount to be determined at a later date.

WHEREFORE, Counter-Plaintiff Brock claims damages and demands judgment against Counter-Defendant Grey as set forth below.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

A. Judgment against Counter-Defendant Grey for disgorgement of $850,000 obtained by blackmail.

B. Judgment against Counter-Defendant Grey for compensatory loss for $500,000 for emotional harm and/or anxiety for each separate act of blackmail described above, and/or for any finding of malice, wantonness, deceit, or scienter for $1,000,000.

C. Judgment against Counter-Defendant Grey for compensatory damages, including but not limited to attorney fees, court costs, emotional harm and/or anxiety based on abusing the judicial process as described above in an amount to be determined at a later date, and/or for any finding of malice, wantonness, deceit, or scienter for $1,000,000.

D. Judgment for prejudgment interest plus costs, post-judgment interest, and reasonable attorney's fees; and

E. Such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

ANSWER TO COUNTERCLAIM

William Grey, plaintiff, answers defendant, David Brock's, counterclaim as follows:

1. Plaintiff denies the averments in paragraph 31 of defendant's counterclaim.

2. Plaintiff lacks sufficient information to admit or deny the averments in paragraph 32 of defendant's counterclaim and therefore denies them.

3. Plaintiff admits the averments in paragraph 33 of defendant's counterclaim.

8. Defendant's claims fail because plaintiff was entitled to receive the portion of the proceeds he received from the sale of the Rehoboth Beach property.

9. Defendant's claims regarding the proceeds from the sale of the Rehoboth Beach property are barred by the parties' Agreement dated August 28, 2008 and Release dated May 14, 2010.

10. Defendant would be unjustly enriched if granted the relief sought.

11. Defendant's claims are barred by defendant's ratification of the parties' agreement regarding the sale of the Rehoboth Beach property.

MES Note: Interesting… Grey believes he was entitled to receive the $850,000 USD payment from the proceeds of the Rehoboth sale, and thus it may not actually be a "blackmail payment"…

Definition See Examples Cite Term Add to Flashcards

Law phrase signifying that (1) a court case so dismissed bars the possibility of bringing a new case on the same basis as the dismissed case, (2) a court order so issued is the final order on the subject matter. See also without prejudice.

This dismissal of both the Complaint and Counterclaim by both parties is in agreement with the Fox News article above, which states the two settled on confidential terms.

> On March 8, 2011, Brock filed his own suit against Grey for more than $4 million, demanding Grey return the $850,000, plus pay millions more in punitive damages. The two settled two months ago under terms that remain confidential.
> The Rehoboth Beach home was torn down months after Brock sold it, amid much community opposition, so the buyer could divide the parcel and build two homes. It remains a vacant lot.

Appears as mainly right-leaning news outlets reported on this (this is more noticeable on Google Search since they usually filter out alternative outlets, SUCH AS PIZZAGATE.WIKI!! First time I have seen that site on the first page!! #EveryoneGetOnDuckDuckGo).

But it also appears that the media outlets that did write about it don't go in any real detail besides what appears on the surface, i.e. Brock Paid $850,000 in "Blackmail".

And as shown earlier Fox News doesn't have the lawsuit documents available anymore on that article...

That's why you gotta subscribe to MES for actual investigative work!

Summary and Conclusions

To summarize the case we have the following timeline:

- William Grey is a former partner of David Brock for over ten years.

- James Alefantis is also a former partner of David Brock.
- Grey and Brock shared two homes:
  - Rehoboth Beach, Delaware
  - Georgetown, Washington DC
- Around 2007: Grey and Brock stopped living together, i.e. broke-up.
- 2007: Brock sold the Georgetown home.
- 28 August 2008: (According to Answer to Counterclaim) Grey and Brock agreed to not make future claims relating to the Rehoboth Beach house once it was sold; they signed a "settlement and release" agreement.
- August 2008: (According to Counterclaim) Brock claims Grey made blackmail threats to try to obtain $850,000 USD.
- May 2010: (According to Counterclaim) Brock again claims Grey made blackmail threats to try to obtain $850,000 USD.
  - Note: The date of $850,000 USD payment is unclear.
- 14 May 2010: (According to Answer to Counterclaim) The house was sold (and hence the date of the "Release" of their agreement).
  - (According to Fox News article) The house was torn down, divided into two properties months after it was sold.
- July 2010: (According to Counterclaim) Diane Schobel, Grey's lawyer, sent a demand letter to Brock and Alefantis for the personal property.
- 1 September 2010: (According to Counterclaim) Brock and Alefantis told Schobel that Grey's claim was meritless.
- Between September 1 to 8, 2010: (According to Counterclaim) Lawyers of both parties agreed to discuss claims on September 8, 2010.
- 5 September 2010 (According to Police Report) & "Prior to 8 September 2010 (According to Counterclaim): Brock claims Grey threatened him with blackmail via email.
  - Brock also claims that in previous 2.5 years Grey made blackmail threats on at least 2 separate occasions.
  - 19 May 2010 and 27 August 2008 emails threats are shown in Counterclaim.
  - These prior emails caused Brock to sell his Rehoboth Beach home and pay Grey about $850,000 in sale proceeds, which he wouldn't have otherwise…
- 14 September 2010: Brock filed a police report claiming Grey blackmailed him via email if he did not return 17 pieces of property.
  - The threat involved releasing derogatory information about Brock and his organization to the press and donors.
  - The police report does not mention the $850,000 payment…
  - According to Counterclaim, Brock states he reported 4 separate acts of blackmail (but demands compensation from only 3) from August 2008 to the present demand for personal property items.
- January 2011: William Grey files a lawsuit against David Brock and James Alefantis to return items in their possession that Grey claimed belong to him, and totaling about $170,000 USD.

    - Some of these items were located at Alefantis' infamous Buck's Fishing and Camping, and Comet Ping Pong businesses.
- 6 March 2011: Brock and Alefantis file a Counterclaim against Grey.
    - Brock argues that Grey has no legal right to those possessions.
    - Brock also states he made an $850,000 USD blackmail payment to Grey (something he didn't mention in his initial police report).
    - Brock and Alefantis demands include:
        - Return of $850,000 USD blackmail payment
        - $500,000 payment for "emotional harm" from each blackmail threat (August 2008, May 2010, and September 2010), thus totaling $1,500,000 USD.
        - $1,000,000 USD for any finding of malice in regards to the blackmail threats.
        - Compensatory damages, court costs, etc., and finding of malice in these regards for $1,000,000 USD.
    - Total payment demands could total $4,350,000 USD.
- 29 March 2011: Grey files an Answer to Counterclaim, and makes the usually denial of arguments made by Brock, but also makes some very interesting points regarding the Rehoboth home.
    - Grey claims he was entitled to receive the $850,000 USD from the sale of the Rehoboth home, likely due to them living together for many years, and Grey running his Delaware Pet Adoption Center (DPAC) in that home.
    - Grey also points out that the "Settlement and Release" agreement they signed regarding the Rehoboth home would mean Brock CAN'T make the claim of paying the $850,000 USD as blackmail!!
    - Thus it may never have been a blackmail payment??!! #Wow
- 1 December 2011: Both parties dismiss their lawsuits and settle out of court under confidential terms.
- February 2012: Rehoboth house remains unsold.

This timeline is very bizarre and makes it very reasonable to assume that there may not actually have been a blackmail payment of $850,000 USD since it was not shown in the available police report filed by Brock, but only stated by Brock during his later Counterclaim.

Also since Brock knew full well of the "Settle and Release" agreement they signed regarding the sale of the Rehoboth home, he also almost certainly knew that it would be very difficult to argue in regards to payment of the $850,000 USD as blackmail since it came from the proceeds of the sale of the home… If you have some legal background, please correct me if I'm wrong.

Now, it could actually have been blackmail but my hypothesis is maybe that Brock didn't want to pay proceeds to Grey from the Rehoboth sale, and thus could use the email threats regarding the return of items as possible grounds for obtaining that home payment back from Grey…

The Rehoboth Beach home seems to be at the center of Brock and Grey's arguments, and it was only after the May 2010 sale of the house (and after destruction of the home) did their legal battle ratchet up, with such damning email exchanges as this email by Grey:

- 19 May 2010: "David, You and James pulled this same kind of sick nonsense in 2008 to try to hide your financial malfeasance. Next step is I contact all your donors and the IRS. Do you understand[;]" "This is going to stink for you and if you don't resolve this. I assure[.]"

So it appears that one possible lead would be to further investigate the Rehoboth Beach home… (as well as try to obtain the full email exchanges, the Exhibit 1 items in Grey's lawsuit, and any other court documents about the case).

And as explained in Part 26, the late Andrew Breitbart had tweeted about these bizarre possessions:

NOTE: I was researching for a video on "Climate Change" when a Twitter Audit of Barack Obama's Twitter account lead me on a side quest into another rabbit hole involving Kanye West, Katy Perry, the Rothschilds, and the Illuminati…. #WhyIsThereSoManyRabbitHoles??!

I was reviewing Barack Obama's tweets about "Climate Change" and the "97% Consensus" of "Scientists" while he was the President of the United States, and decided to do a Twitter Audit search of his Twitter followers…

About TwitterAudit

Each audit takes a sample of up to 5000 (or more, if you subscribe to Pro) Twitter followers for a user and calculates a score for each follower. This score is based on number of tweets, date of the last tweet, and ratio of followers to friends. We use these scores to determine whether any given user is real or fake. Of course, this scoring method is not perfect but it is a good way to tell if someone with lots of followers is likely to have increased their follower count by inorganic, fraudulent, or dishonest means.

Note the December 13, 2016 tweets have been removed…

Before Kanye tweeted this, he was under fire from the fakestream mainstream propaganda media for calling out Facebook, Google, and the MSM for being nothing more than a propaganda outlet for Hillary Clinton and demonizing Donald Trump and Trump supporters.

Kanye interrupted his concert to drop some truth bombs!

Instead of doing the typical "Celebrity calling for Trump's assassination", he tried to get people to unite together in spite of the MSM and internet giants constantly dividing people on politics!

Here is the typical "Celebrity":

Again, keep in mind that celebrities are often used for their influence to push particular agendas.

Now let's see what other kind of agendas celebrities push, and why Kanye West may have had a change of heart as to the direction his profession was heading…

Revealing Pictures From 1972 Rothschild Illuminati Ball

September 17, 2013 756

Share on Facebook Tweet on Twitter

On the diner table are dolls that are dismembered or with a shattered skull. This imagery is also prevalent in countless music videos. Its all about the occult elite's MK culture.

On 12/12/72 Marie-Hélène de Rothschild, member of the most powerful elite family in the world, held a Surrealist Ball at Château de Ferrières, one of the family's gigantic mansions. While these events are usually extremely secretive, photographs of this particular Ball surfaced on the web.

A mannequin-cadaver type thing on the diner table.

This website shows even more of these leaked and bizarre images…

Even "mainstream" media outlets like Business Insider show pictures of the Rothschild's Ball.

I went to a decadent, $450-a-ticket party inspired by the Illuminati – and it was a totally surreal experience

...

I recently got a peek into this mysterious world during the immersive theater performance known as The Illuminati Ball [www.theilluminatiball.com], which took place at a majestic estate in the woods of Connecticut. Although I've been sworn to secrecy by a man wearing a mouse mask, who held a sword against the palm of my hands while I was blindfolded, I can tell you that it was a night I won't soon forget.

Von Buhler's Illuminati Ball was greatly inspired by one of the strangest dinner parties ever hosted by Marie-Hélène de Rothschild, of the elite Rothschild family, in 1972. Leaked photos from the evening reveal guests such as Salvador Dali and Audrey Hepburn dressed in elaborate, surrealist garb. Mrs. Rothschild herself greeted guests in a white gown and stag's head with diamond tears.

Leaked image from Marie-Hélène de Rothschild's 1972 event. Image courtesy of The Illuminati Ball

…… I SERIOUSLY HAVE NO IDEA WHAT IS GOING ON RIGHT MEOW!

Kanye West & Katy Perry #MKUltra #MindControl #IdeologicalSubverion

NOTE: I was researching for a video on "Climate Change" when a Twitter Audit of Barack Obama's Twitter account lead me on a side quest into another rabbit hole involving Kanye West, Katy Perry, the Rothschilds, and the Illuminati…. #WhyIsThereSoManyRabbitHoles??!

I was reviewing Barack Obama's tweets about "Climate Change" and the "97% Consensus" of "Scientists" while he was the President of the United States, and decided to do a Twitter Audit search of his Twitter followers…

https://twitter.com/BarackObama/status/500341844878704640

Archive: https://archive.is/JgXqw

Keep in mind that Barack Obama has now over 90 million Twitter followers, thus many people across the world are seeing this "97% Consensus" figure.

Side Note: How many of his Twitter followers are real??

About TwitterAudit

Each audit takes a sample of up to 5000 (or more, if you subscribe to Pro) Twitter followers for a user and calculates a score for each follower. This score is based on number of tweets, date of the last tweet, and ratio of followers to friends. We use these scores to determine whether any given user is real or fake. Of course, this scoring method is not perfect but it is a good way to tell if someone with lots of followers is likely to have increased their follower count by inorganic, fraudulent, or dishonest means.

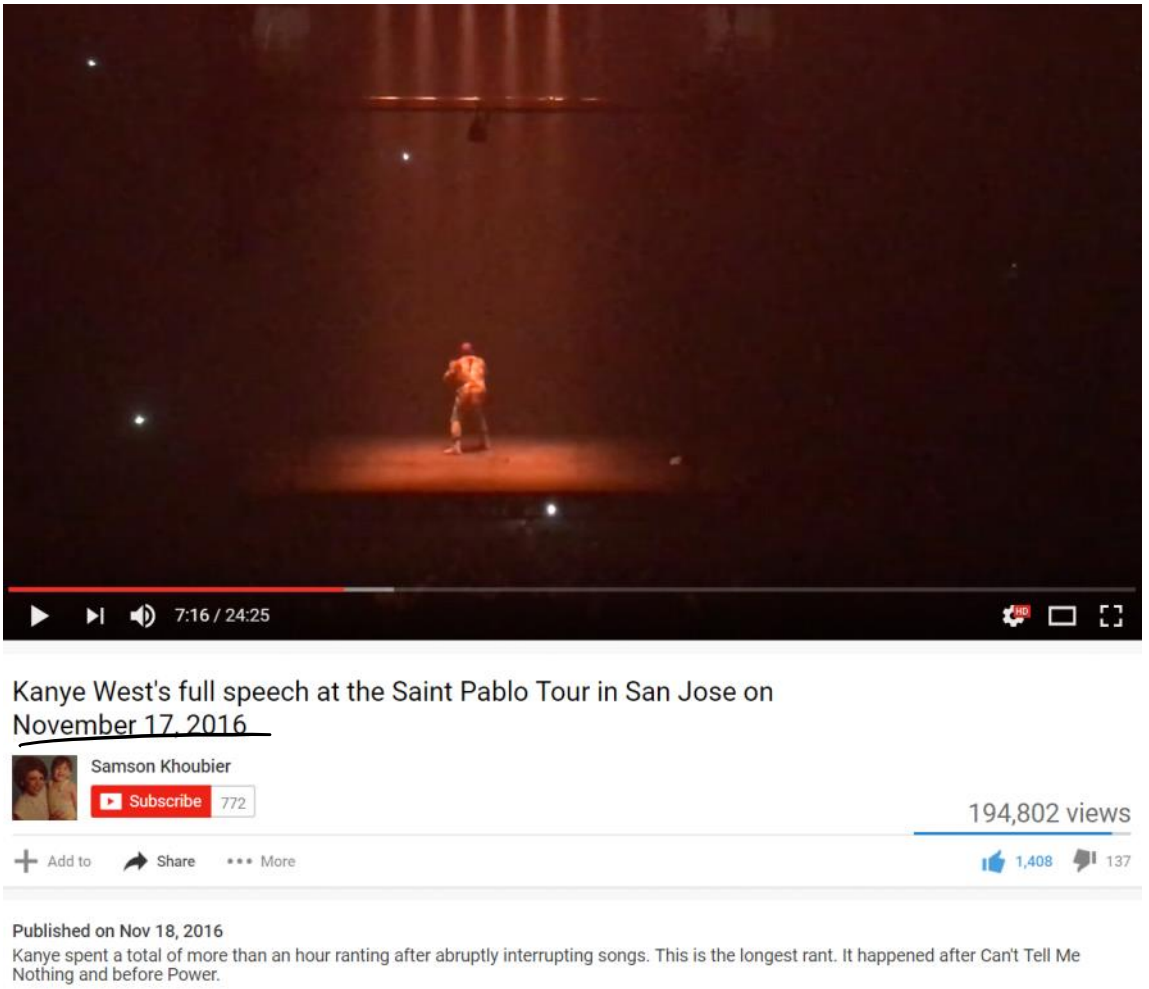
Note the December 13, 2016 tweets have been removed…

Before Kanye tweeted this, he was under fire from the fakestream mainstream propaganda media for calling out Facebook, Google, and the MSM for being nothing more than a propaganda outlet for Hillary Clinton and demonizing Donald Trump and Trump supporters.

https://youtu.be/jKoe_GteC2I

Archive: https://archive.is/pPB1Q



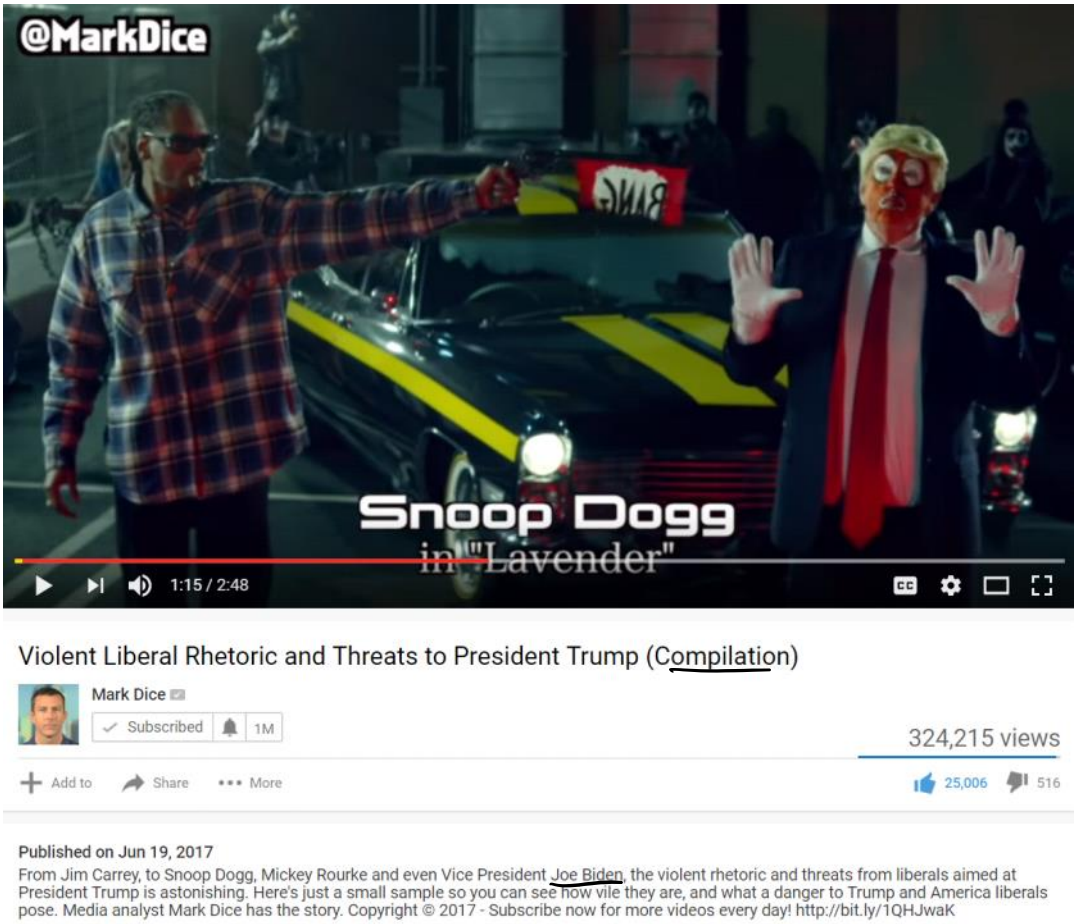
Kanye interrupted his concert to drop some truth bombs!

Instead of doing the typical "Celebrity calling for Trump's assassination", he tried to get people to unite together in spite of the MSM and internet giants constantly dividing people on politics!

Here is the typical "Celebrity":

https://youtu.be/5Dm7yVTbJo4

Archive: https://archive.is/RuJwo



Snoop Dogg illustrating exactly what Kanye warned us about!

Annnnd what happens when Kanye doesn't toe the line of his "masters"?? He gets forced into a mental institute…

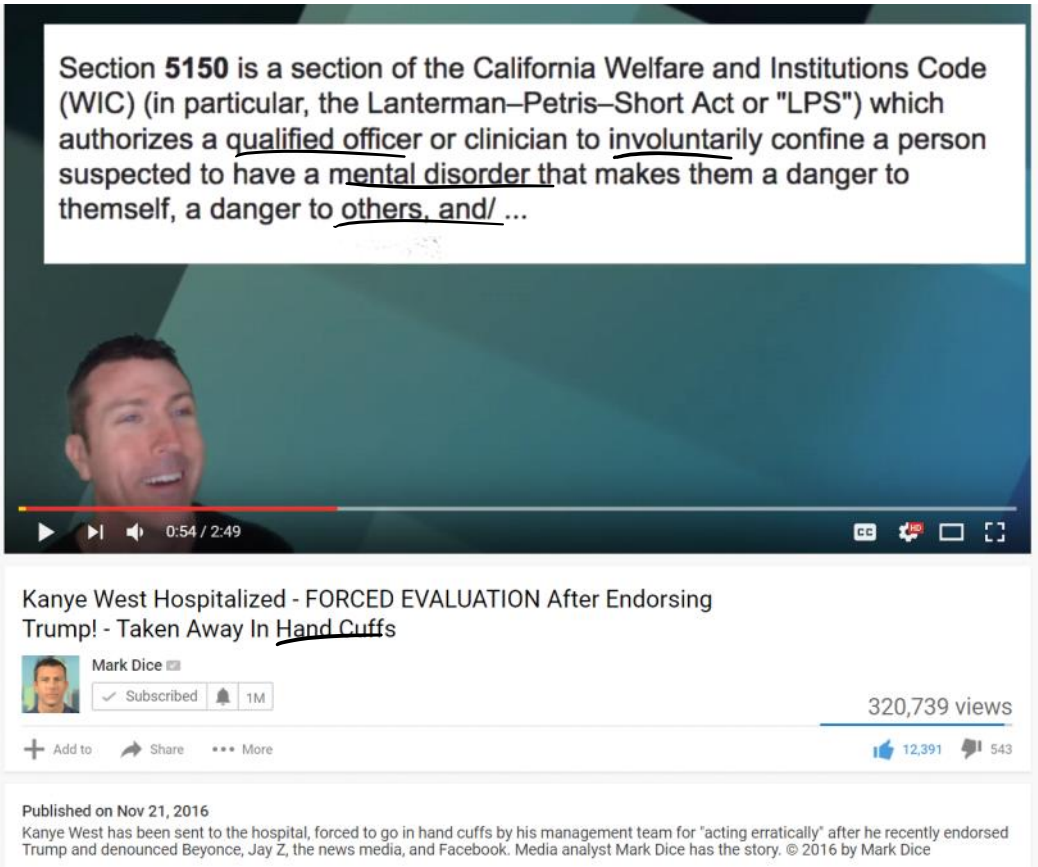
Archive: https://archive.is/gAAax



Kanye was sent to forced evaluation??!!!

WTF is this, "re-education" camps??!! #PoliceState

Again, keep in mind that celebrities are often used for their influence to push particular agendas.

Now let's see what other kind of agendas celebrities push, and why Kanye West may have had a change of heart as to the direction his profession was heading…

Revealing Pictures From 1972 Rothschild Illuminati Ball

September 17, 2013 756

On the diner table are dolls that are dismembered or with a shattered skull. This imagery is also prevalent in countless music videos. Its all about the occult elite's MK culture.

On 12/12/72 Marie-Hélène de Rothschild, member of the most powerful elite family in the world, held a Surrealist Ball at Château de Ferrières, one of the family's gigantic mansions. While these events are usually extremely secretive, photographs of this particular Ball surfaced on the web.

A mannequin-cadaver type thing on the diner table.

This website shows even more of these leaked and bizarre images…

Even "mainstream" media outlets like Business Insider show pictures of the Rothschild's Ball.

I went to a decadent, $450-a-ticket party inspired by the Illuminati – and it was a totally surreal experience

...

I recently got a peek into this mysterious world during the immersive theater performance known as The Illuminati Ball [www.theilluminatiball.com], which took place at a majestic estate in the woods of Connecticut. Although I've been sworn to secrecy by a man wearing a mouse mask, who held a sword against the palm of my hands while I was blindfolded, I can tell you that it was a night I won't soon forget.

Leaked image from Marie-Hélène de Rothschild's 1972 event. Image courtesy of The Illuminati Ball

…… I SERIOUSLY HAVE NO IDEA WHAT IS GOING ON RIGHT MEOW!

Important Note on "Shills":

Many people have commented stating that George Webb, Alex Jones, David Icke, David Seaman, Donald Trump, and many others (and even Bitcoin) are "controlled opposition" or part of the "NWO", etc., and that I shouldn't share their posts…

Whether they are or not, their audience is made up of people desperately seeking the truth that the fakestream mainstream are covering up.

Thus, I try to avoid speculation as to who is or who isn't a "shill", but rather just focus on specific facts or topics that I agree with them, even though I don't agree with everything they do.

Heck even Defango did a hit piece on me claiming that I cheated on an alien math exam….. HAHAHAHAHA I am not joking… but I still wouldn't go as far as calling him a "shill" or "disinfo agent".

Late last month, Lynn de Rothschild, a donor and friend of Clinton's, took to Twitter to blast campaign chairman John Podesta for the defeat.

"HRC lost because you ran an arrogant out of touch campaign," she wrote, before calling him a loser.

Also it is important to understand that as alternative media outlets get bigger followings, the level of attacks, threats, bribes, disinformation campaigns, infiltration, and even possibly mind control aimed at them gets exponentially greater.

This is especially true when they dare touch upon topics that affect the power structure a bit too closely, such as mentioning the work of Dr. Judy Wood on 9/11... (Follow my #911Truth video series!)

Thus it is important not to "trust" anyone but rather focus on facts you can prove, and arguments you can easily replicate to others.

That is why I make these videos as detailed and well sourced as they are, because I don't want people to "believe" or "trust" what I am saying is true, but rather see the sources and references within those sources in both video, PDF, and article format on Steemit, which then you can pick out any source you want to share with others.

But also in case I get some sort of Psychological Operation aimed at me in the future, make sure to periodically double check that my sources and arguments align with the summary and conclusions at the end of each video! #MESPsyOp

The Sad Case of Kurt Eichenwald gets sadder and sadder (and more bizarre)…

Recall from #PizzaGate Parts 15 & 17 that I showed proof that Kurt Eichenwald paid for the production of and viewing of child pornography, as well as lying in court, both of which he should be prosecuted and serve jail time.

I wouldn't put it past the CIA to possibly use the bipartisan punching bag and laughing stock Kurt Eichenwald as a Psychological Operation to introduce even more bizarre pornography to the public spotlight, i.e. Ideological Subversion.

This may sound far-fetched but again keep in mind that from #PizzaGate Parts 15 & 17, Kurt should be in jail for child pornography; so a quick email from a CIA operative with instructions on keeping a tab open and taking a screenshot is all that it would take.

Overview of David Brock

DISCLAIMER:

Please note that in my #PizzaGate series thus far that when targeting specific people, my videos have pointed out links to pedophilia and/or corruption either directly or indirectly.

But for this particular video on David Brock, I am providing an overview of his background that will help to lay the groundwork in building up possible leads of criminal activity on his part.

Since David Brock has dated the now infamous James Alefantis, and David being almost certainly directly tied into the many character assassinations of people researching into #PizzaGate through his many media watchdog groups (such as Media Matters), I believe it is important to research into David Brock.

But it is also understood that attaching the #PizzaGate label is very damaging to people's character, thus for this particular video please view the connection of David Brock to any of the negative connotations of #PizzaGate as speculative.

Thus I am making this disclaimer to clearly state that thus far there is no concrete evidence or concrete circumstantial evidence, that I am aware of, that ties David Brock to pedophilia or similar corruption, but please comment below any leads that you may have!

David Brock

David Brock (born November 2, 1962) is an American liberal / progressive political operative, author, and commentator who founded the media watchdog group Media Matters for America.[1] He has been described by Time as "one of the most influential operatives in the Democratic Party."[2]

Brock began his career as a right-wing investigative reporter during the 1990s[3] who wrote the book The Real Anita Hill and the Troopergate story, which led to Paula Jones filing a lawsuit against Bill Clinton. In the late 1990s he switched sides, aligning himself with the Democratic Party, and in particular with Bill and Hillary Clinton.

In 2004, he founded Media Matters for America, a non-profit organization that describes itself as a "progressive research and information center dedicated to comprehensively monitoring, analyzing and correcting conservative misinformation in the U.S. media."[4] He has since also founded super PACs called American Bridge 21st Century and Correct the Record, has become a board member of the super PAC Priorities USA Action, and has been elected chairman of Citizens for Responsibility and Ethics in Washington (CREW).[5][6]

The Nation has described Brock as a "conservative journalistic assassin turned progressive empire-builder;"[6] National Review has called him a "right-wing assassin turned left-wing assassin;"[7] and Politico has profiled him as a "former right-wing journalist-turned-pro-Clinton crusader."[5]Brock is a prominent proponent of astroturfing.

Astroturfing

> Astroturfing is the practice of masking the sponsors of a message or organization (e.g., political, advertising, religious or public relations) to make it appear as though it originates from and is supported by a grassroots participant(s). It is a practice intended to give the statements or organizations credibility by withholding information about the source's financial connection.

Early life and education[edit]

Brock was born in Washington, D.C., and was adopted by Dorothea and Raymond Brock.[8] He has a younger sister, Regina. Brock was raised Catholic.

Brock attended the University of California, Berkeley, where he worked as a reporter and editor for The Daily Californian, the campus newspaper. Brock arrived at college as a liberal Democrat, but at Berkeley he was "repelled by the culture of doctrinaire leftism" and turned to the political right.[6] The turning point came with a column he wrote for The Daily Californian, which supported the US invasion of Grenada, and led to demands he resign from the newspaper staff. "I thought it was McCarthyism of the left," Brock later said. "I thought it was extremely intolerant."[9] He then founded a neoconservative weekly, the Berkeley Journal.[6]

He graduated from Berkeley with a B.A. in history in 1985.

Conservative journalism[edit]

While he was at Berkeley, Brock published an op-ed in The Wall Street Journal entitled "Combating Those Campus Marxists."

The Real Anita Hill[edit]
Main article: The Real Anita Hill

In March 1992, The American Spectator published a 17,000-word article in which Brock challenged the claims of Anita Hill, who had accused Clarence Thomas of sexual harassment. Shortly thereafter Brock became a full-time staff member at that publication.

Troopergate[edit]
Main article: Troopergate (Bill Clinton)

In the January 1994, issue of The American Spectator, Brock, by then on staff at the magazine, published a story about Bill Clinton's time as governor of Arkansas that made accusations that bred Troopergate.[3] Among other things, the story contained the first printed reference to Paula Jones, referring to a woman named "Paula" who state troopers said offered to be Clinton's partner.[3] Jones called Brock's account of her encounter with Clinton "totally wrong," and she later sued Clinton for sexual harassment, a case that became entangled in the independent counsel's investigation of the Whitewater controversy, and set in motion a series of developments that led to the exposure of Clinton's affair with Monica Lewinsky and, ultimately, to Clinton's impeachment trial.[6] The story received an award later that year from Joseph Farah's Western Journalism Center, and was partially responsible for a rise in the magazine's circulation.[11]

The Seduction of Hillary Rodham[edit]
Main article: The Seduction of Hillary Rodham

After the success of The Real Anita Hill, The Free Press paid Brock a $550,000 advance to write a book about Hillary Clinton. The expectation was that it would be a takedown in the style of his writings on Anita Hill and Bill Clinton. The project, however, took a different turn, and the resulting book, The Seduction of Hillary Rodham, proved to be largely sympathetic to Mrs. Clinton. Having received a $1 million advance and a tight one-year deadline from Simon & Schuster's then-conservative-focused Free Press subsidiary, Brock was under tremendous pressure to produce another bestseller. However, the book contained no major scoops. In Blinded by the Right (2002), Brock said that he had reached a turning point: he had thoroughly examined charges against the Clintons, could not find any evidence of wrongdoing and did not want to make any more misleading claims. Brock further said that his former friends in right-wing politics shunned him because Seduction did not adequately attack the Clintons. National Review proposed another theory: since "no liberal source in the world would talk to Brock," he could not collect the kind of information he was after. National Review also suggested that while writing the book, Brock had been "seduced" by Sidney Blumenthal, a prominent champion and friend of the Clinton circle.[12][13]

When the book came out, it was widely criticized for not breaking any new ground.

The book sold very poorly. A deal to excerpt it in Newsweek fell through because the news magazine's editors decided that it contained nothing new or exciting. The publisher lost millions of dollars and Brock's editor, Adam Bellow, was fired.[16]

Changing sides[edit]

In July 1997, Brock published a confessional piece in Esquire magazine titled "Confessions of a Right-Wing Hit Man" in which he recanted much of what he said in his two best-known American Spectator articles and criticized his own reporting methods.[17][18] Discouraged at the reaction his Hillary Clinton biography received, he said, "I ... want out. David Brock the Road Warrior of the Right is dead." Four months later, The American Spectator declined to renew his employment contract, under which he was being paid over $300,000 per year.

Writing again for Esquire in April 1998, Brock apologized to Clinton for his muckraking journalism about Troopergate.[3][19][20]

In 2001 Brock accused one of his former sources, Terry Wooten, of leaking FBI files for use in his book about Anita Hill. Brock defended his betrayal of a confidential source by saying, "I've concluded that what I was involved in wasn't journalism, it was a political operation, and I was part of it.... So I don't think the normal rules of journalism would apply to what I was doing."[21]

Blinded by the Right[edit]
Main article: Blinded by the Right

In 2002 Brock published Blinded by the Right: The Conscience of an Ex-Conservative. In this book, an "outgrowth" of Confessions of a Right-Wing Hit Man, Brock charted what the Daily Beast called his "remarkable metamorphosis to ardent acolyte from sworn enemy of Bill and Hillary Clinton."[4] Brock apologized for his attacks on the Clintons and Anita Hill and claimed that he had now risen above character assassination. He wrote that he had been "a mad dog, an emotional monster," "a whore for the cash," "a Jew in Hitler's army," and "a witting cog in the Republican sleaze machine," and asserted that he hadn't known "what good reporting was."[4]

[Christopher] Hitchens responded with disgust, for example, to Brock's "coarse attack" in the book on Juanita Broaddrick, who had accused Bill Clinton of rape. Hitchens was particularly harsh, stating that rather than fact-checking, "Instead, he [Brock] inserts a completely gratuitous slander against a decent woman."[23]

Many readers on the left, however, greeted the book with enthusiasm, and eagerly welcomed Brock. This was especially true of the Clintons. Shortly after the book's publication, Bill Clinton phoned Brock at home and praised it lavishly. Later, according to Politico, "Brock was invited to the former president's Harlem office where he was shocked to discover Clinton had purchased dozens of copies — and stuffed them into a big cabinet." Clinton, it turned out, was mailing them to friends across the country.[5] Clinton "insisted" that Brock contact his speaking agent and give talks around the country attacking conservatives.[24] According to The Nation, Democratic donors "loved Brock's conversion story, particularly since he'd been inside the machine they hoped to replicate."[6] Brock's book is seen as having propelled him into a favorable position among the Democratic Party establishment.[4]

The Republican Noise Machine[edit]
Main article: The Republican Noise Machine

Brock directly addressed the right-wing "machine" in his 2004 book, The Republican Noise Machine, in which he detailed an alleged interconnected, concerted effort to raise the profile of conservative opinions in the press through false accusations of liberal media bias, dishonest and highly partisan columnists, partisan news organizations and academic studies, and other methods.

> MES Note: I thought liberal mainstream media bias was widely accepted as fact??

Media Matters for America[edit]
Main article: Media Matters for America

In 2004, Brock founded the progressive media watchdog group Media Matters for America (MMA) which describes itself as being "dedicated to comprehensively monitoring, analyzing, and correcting conservative misinformation in the U.S. media." [26]

> MES Note: The use of the term MMA, similar to Mixed Martial Arts, is not a coincidence… #InformationWar

In 2011, Brock vowed to wage "guerrilla warfare and sabotage" against Fox News.[29] The New York Times, in 2008 profile of MMA, called it "a highly partisan research organization." The Times quoted Democratic operative James Carville as saying that MMA was "more effective than any single entity" on the left. New York Times, in 2008 profile of MMA, called it "a highly partisan research organization." The Times quoted Democratic operative James Carville as saying that MMA was "more effective than any single entity" on the left. Pollster Frank Luntz called MMA "one of the most destructive organizations associated with American politics today."[30]

When Brock proposed the idea of Media Matters, Hillary Clinton invited him to the Clintons' Chappaqua home to pitch the idea to potential donors.[24] MMA, according to a 2015 article in The Daily Beast, "operates from a posh Washington office space with a multi-million-dollar budget and nearly 100 employees."[4] In 2014, The Nation stated that "Brock, in partnership with fundraiser Mary Pat Bonner—often described as his secret weapon—has turned out to be unparalleled at maintaining rich liberals' loyalty and support."

American Bridge 21st century[edit]
Main article: American Bridge 21st Century

Brock announced in 2010 that he was forming a Super PAC, American Bridge 21st Century, to help elect liberal Democrats, starting with the 2012 election cycle.[33] In 2011, Brock founded the PAC, which seeks "to track every utterance of every major GOP candidate."

The group, whose donors include George Soros, has more than 80 staffers.[26] It has researchers based in Washington, D.C., plus "a national network of professional trackers" who follow the moves and statements of every conceivable contender for the Republican nomination.[6] The Nation has described American Bridge as "the natural next step" after MMA, explaining that "Brock took the Media Matters method—which involves monitoring virtually every word uttered by the right-wing media—and transferred it to the realm of Republican politicians."[6]

Correct the Record[edit]
Main article: Correct the Record

In late 2013 Brock founded Correct the Record, described by The New York Times as Hillary Clinton's "own personal media watchdog," keeping track of all negative news surrounding her.[24] Brock had first come up with the idea for the group that summer. "Having left the State Department," he said, "Clinton didn't have the kind of robust operation that one would have if one was holding public office. That's where I saw the need." The organization, whose staff "is crammed into a newsroom-style bullpen in the back corner of the offices of American Bridge 21st Century," "keeps constant watch for back corner of the offices of American Bridge 21st Century," "keeps constant watch for any conceivable attacks against her, and then aggressively beats them back before they take hold."[36]

The American Democracy Legal Fund[edit]

Brock also founded and runs the American Democracy Legal Fund, a nonprofit that has been accused of existing solely to create "a steady stream of lawsuits accusing Republicans of ethics and campaign finance violations."[32]

American Independent Institute[edit]
Main article: American Independent Institute

In 2014, Brock relaunched the American Independent News Network, formerly a network of progressive state-based reporting outlets, into the American Independent Institute, a group which provides grants for liberal investigative journalism projects. Brock serves as the group's president.[41] The Institute finances journalists "investigating rightwing activities."[26] In 2014, it gave $320,000 in grants "to reporters investigating right-wing misdeeds."[6]

> MES Note: Compare that with David Seaman's $1000 reward for finding David Brock's "misdeeds"… #WeGottaStepUpOurGame

Killing the Messenger[edit]

In his 2015 book Killing the Messenger: The Right-Wing Plot to Derail Hillary Clinton and Hijack Your Government, Brock described "how the Clintons quickly switched from prey to patrons, setting him on his current path as a fundraiser and progressive provocateur." In the book, Brock accused The New York Times of being a "megaphone for conservative propaganda" directed inordinately at Clinton.[5] …
At the same time, in the words of Politico, he depicted Bill and Hillary Clinton "as personal and political angels."[5]

In October 2015, Brock gave a presentation at Georgetown University entitled "Is the Mainstream Media in Cahoots with Conservatives?".[46]

MES Note: …… HAHAHAHA So much garbage here! Clintons angels?? NYT / MSM has conservative bias???.... #WOW

Purchase of Blue Nation Review[edit]

In 2015, Brock formed an investment vehicle, True Blue Media, to purchase an 80 percent stake in Blue Nation Review, an online news website. Blue Nation Review was later re-branded as Shareblue.[47]

Hillary Clinton's 2016 campaign[edit]

The Los Angeles Times has described Brock as "integral to Hillary's run" for the presidency in 2016.[32]

It was reported on February 1, 2016, that Brock was still drawing a salary from American Bridge 21st Century, which was legally prohibited from coordinating with the Clinton campaign, while also drawing a salary from Correct the Record, which was "directly working with the Clinton campaign on Internet-based pushback against the controversies that have dogged her presidential bid." This situation was described as "pushing campaign finance boundaries," with experts saying that Brock had found loopholes to circumvent campaign finance restrictions. Robert Maguire of the Center for Responsive Politics suggested that Brock was "running a shadow campaign" via a network of groups that Maguire called "the Brocktopus."[52]

Personal life[edit]

Brock was formerly the domestic partner of William Grey; their relationship ended in a bitter, three-year-long legal battle in which "Brock and Grey traded angry accusations, ... replete with charges of blackmail, theft and financial malfeasance" related to a Rehoboth Beach, Delaware house that the two once shared.[54] Grey filed a lawsuit against Brock in January 2011, and Brock countersued Grey in March 2011.[54] The dispute was settled at the end of 2011 on confidential terms.[54] On 22 March 2017, Brock suffered a heart attack whilst at work at Media Matters headquarters; he was expected to fully recover.[55][56] → 54 years

MES NOTE: Why no mention of Brock dating James "Jimmeycomet" Alefantis??

Comments about Brock[edit]

In 2001, Jonah Goldberg wrote in National Review that while Brock has been "hailed by liberals for 'coming clean,' they would never really trust him." He quoted reporter Jill Abramson as having said that "the problem with Brock's credibility" is that "once you admit you've knowingly written false things, how do you know when to believe what he writes?"[12] Similarly, The Guardian referred in 2014 to "residual unease among some liberal operatives that Brock's conversion story fits into a pattern of opportunism and self-promotion rather than ideological transformation."[26] Observing in 2015 that Brock had admitted to mudslinging before, The Daily Beast noted a difficulty in dispatching fears he would do it again.[4]

Brock's claim that the Clintons have never committed any wrongdoing has received criticisms from many, including fellow Democrats, who have cited instances of abuse.[57] Cenk Uygur of The Young Turks criticized Brock's negative coverage of the Bernie Sanders 2016 Presidential Campaign, specifically the invention of the "Bernie Bro" controversy.[58][59] Uygur said that Brock's January 10, 2017 open letter of apology to Sanders and his voters[60] was disingenuous because it was motivated by a desire to raise money from wealthy democratic donors and to foster a perception of himself as being a member of the US progressive movement.[58]

Troopergate (Bill Clinton)

Troopergate is the popular name for a political controversy that emerged in the 1990s in which several Arkansas State Troopers claimed they had arranged sexual liaisons for Governor of Arkansas Bill Clinton during his time in office (1979-81, 1983-92) and had helped deceive his wife, First Lady of Arkansas Hillary Rodham Clinton.

Core allegations[edit]

The allegations by state troopers Larry Patterson and Roger Perry were first reported by David Brock in the conservative magazine American Spectator,[1] in a piece entitled "His Cheatin' Heart"[2] that was released in December 1993 with a magazine publication date of January 1994.[3]

The core allegations that the troopers made were that, while on official duty, they:[2][6]

- Scouted women and asked them for their phone number to give to the governor;
- Secured motel rooms and other assignation points;
- Drove Clinton in state vehicles to these assignation points and kept watch while he did what he did;
- Lent Clinton their own state cars to make his escapes less noticeable;
- Delivered gifts to the women afterward; and
- Informed Clinton about where his wife was and lied to his wife about where he was.

The troopers said that these episodes involved dozens of women, from long-running mistresses to one-off encounters.[2] As far as they were aware, all of the women involved had been consensual involvees and that no alcohol or drugs abuse had been part of the encounters.[2] One of the long-running group was Gennifer Flowers, who had come forward with her tale of a 12-year relationship with the governor at the start of the Bill Clinton presidential campaign, 1992; this had caused an early crisis in that endeavor which Clinton and his wife had to address in a televised and much-discussed 60 Minutes interview.[6]

As for the governor and his wife, Brock wrote that, "As the troopers saw it, the Clintons' relationship is an effective political partnership, more a business relationship than a marriage."[2]

No official findings

No investigation of the Troopergate allegations by any official state body of Arkansas appears to have taken place. Nor was it a subject of the 1990s Independent Counsel investigations into the Whitewater controversy and related matters. Clinton was never charged with any wrongdoing in relation to the Troopergate allegations.

Jones lawsuit[edit]

The Brock story had mentioned a woman named "Paula", a reference to the then-unknown Paula Jones.[4] This reference was cited by Paula Jones in her May 1994 sexual harassment lawsuit against President Clinton. According to Gennifer Flowers's deposition in the suit, she claimed that Clinton told her to contact Larry Patterson or Roger Perry to communicate.[9]

The lawsuit, Jones v. Clinton, was initially dismissed, whereupon Jones appealed. In 1998, Clinton settled with Jones for $850,000, the entire amount of her claim, but without an apology, in exchange for her agreement to drop the appeal.[10]Meanwhile, the Jones matter had begun a chain of events that led to exposure and instantiation of the Lewinsky scandal.[1]Thus, arguably, state-level Troopergate indirectly led to the federal Impeachment of Bill Clinton.[1]

Brock apology[edit]

In a 1998 article for Esquire magazine, Brock said he wished he had never written the original Spectator story.[4] Following the admission, Brock publicly apologized to President Clinton for his Troopergate story, which he stated was written not "in the interest of good government or serious journalism," but as part of an "anti-Clinton crusade."[3][4]

However, in his apology Brock did not say that anything in his 1993 article was specifically false: "I'm saying that story was bad journalism, that I don't stand by the story any more. I can't point to anything specific ... [that] might be wrong."[4] He said that both he and the troopers had had impure motivations.[4]

Adding more credibility to Troopergate is Colin Powel's leaked emails....

Guess Who Colin Powell Is Talking About: He's "Still Dicking Bimbos At Home"

Having exposed the apparent strong mutual dislike between The Obamas and The Clintons, the leaked Colin Powell emails had another gem of an admission about just what other 'elites' think of The Clintons, and in particular Bill.

Just two years ago, Powell told billionaire megadonor Jeffrey Leeds just how he feels about Hillary "I would rather not vote for her," and Bill "still dicking bimbos at home."

Lewinsky scandal

The Lewinsky scandal was an American political sex scandal that involved 49-year-old President Bill Clinton and a 22-year-old White House intern, Monica Lewinsky. The sexual relationship took place between 1995 and 1996 and came to light in 1998. Clinton ended a televised speech with the statement that he did not have sexual relations with Lewinsky. Further investigation led to charges of perjury and led to the impeachment of President Clinton in 1998 by the U.S. House of Representatives and his subsequent acquittal on all impeachment charges of perjury and obstruction of justice in a 21-day Senate trial.[1]

Whitewater controversy

The Whitewater scandal (also known as the Whitewater controversy, or simply Whitewater) began with an investigation into the real estate investments of Bill and Hillary Clinton and their associates, Jim and Susan McDougal, in the Whitewater Development Corporation, a failed business venture in the 1970s and 1980s.

A U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission investigation did result in convictions against the McDougals for their role in the Whitewater project. Jim Guy Tucker, Bill Clinton's successor as governor, was convicted of fraud and sentenced to four years of probation for his role in the matter.[5] Susan McDougal served 18 months in prison for contempt of court for refusing to answer questions relating to Whitewater. The Clintons themselves were never prosecuted, after three separate inquiries found insufficient evidence linking them with the criminal conduct of others related to the land deal,[6] and Susan McDougal was granted a pardon by President Clinton before he left office.

The term Whitewater is sometimes used to include other controversies from the Bill Clinton administration, especially Travelgate, Filegate, and the circumstances surrounding Vince Foster's death, that were also investigated by the Whitewater independent counsel.[7]

Removal of documents[edit]

> Within hours of the death of Vince Foster in July 1993, chief White House counsel Bernard Nussbaum removed documents, some of them concerning the Whitewater Development Corporation, from Foster's office and gave them to Maggie Williams, Chief of Staff to the First Lady. According to the New York Times, Williams placed the documents in a safe in the White House for five days before turning them over to their personal lawyer.[25]

Wikipedia does a very bad job at explaining what exactly the scandal was but I believe it involved predatory lending, where they targeted people that couldn't make the payments in hopes of taking over their property, as well as making bad/illegal government-back loans, thus stealing millions or even billions from tax-payers!

- Please correct me if you have a better explanation by commenting below, as it is hard to keep track of every scandal the Clinton Crime Family are involved in!

Note that the pure-evil Orwellian Revisionist Wikipedia, unsurprisingly, didn't mention that ex-FBI Director fired by Trump, James Comey, was a "deputy special counsel" in the Whitewater case, so pardoning the Clintons is something he has been doing for years!

Comey's first brush with them came when Bill Clinton was president. Looking to get back into government after a stint in private practice, Comey signed on as deputy special counsel to the Senate Whitewater Committee. In 1996, after months of work, Comey came to some damning conclusions: Hillary Clinton was personally involved in mishandling documents and had ordered others to block investigators as they pursued their case. Worse, her behavior fit into a pattern of concealment: she and her husband had tried to hide their roles in two other matters under investigation by law enforcement. Taken together, the interference by White House officials, which included destruction of documents, amounted to "far more than just aggressive lawyering or political naiveté," Comey and his fellow investigators concluded. It constituted "a highly improper pattern of deliberate misconduct."

Comey parlayed the Whitewater job into top posts in Virginia and New York, returning to Manhattan in 2002 to be the top federal prosecutor there. One of his first cases as a line attorney in the same office 15 years earlier had been the successful prosecution of Marc Rich, a wealthy international financier, for tax evasion. But on his last day as President in 2001, Bill Clinton pardoned Rich. "I was stunned," Comey later told Congress. As top U.S. prosecutor in New York in 2002, appointed by George W. Bush documents obtained by FoxNews.com.

Media Matters chief David Brock paid a former domestic partner $850,000 after being threatened with damaging information involving the organization's donors and the IRS – a deal that Brock later characterized as a blackmail payment, according to legal documents obtained by FoxNews.com.

In an acrimonious lawsuit settled at the end of last year, Brock accused William Grey of making repeated threats to expose him to the "scorn or ridicule of his employees, donors and the press in demanding money and property." Brock claimed in legal papers that he sold a Rehoboth Beach, Del., home he once shared with Grey in order to meet Grey's demands, which he called "blackmail" in the lawsuit.

Brock, 49, heads the non-profit Media Matters for America, which bills itself as a watchdog of the conservative media but has recently come under fire for allegedly coordinating with Democrats in what could be a violation of its tax-exempt status.

Brock's bitter legal battle with Grey, who is described in a Sept. 14, 2010, police report obtained by FoxNews.com as his domestic partner of more than 10 years, began after Brock began dating Washington, D.C., restaurant impresario James Alefantis about five years ago. For the next three years, Brock and Grey traded angry accusations, which were documented in the police report and were the foundation of a pitched legal battle replete with charges of blackmail, theft and financial malfeasance.

On September 14, 2010 C-1 reported to the Metropolitan Police Department that S-1, his former domestic partner had recently contacted him via e-mail and attempted to blackmail him if he did not give him 17 pieces of property he felt belonged to him. C-1 states that he and S-1 had been involved in a domestic partnership for over 10 years but are no longer together. According to C-1, S-1 sent him a series of e-mails stating that he would release specific derogatory information about him (C-1) and his organization to the press and donors that would be embarrassing to him and cause harm to the organization if he didnot comply. C-1 is currently a District of Columbia resident.

In his response to Brock's lawsuit, Grey "denies that he committed any "acts of blackmail.""

Grey threatened to go public about Brock and Media Matters' finances after he accused Brock in a civil suit filed in Washington of taking $170,000 in possessions, including an $8,000 Louis Vuitton suit bag, paintings, a rug, a chandelier, a painted bust of a Roman soldier and a pair of carved wooden chairs upholstered with purple fabric. Those possessions were displayed in the Washington townhouse where the couple entertained liberal movers and shakers in happier times.

Brock took Grey's threats seriously and called police in 2010. In the police report, filed by Metropolitan Police as a stalking incident, Brock accused Grey, also 49, of attempting to blackmail him with a series of emails threatening to "release specific derogatory information about [Brock] and his organization to the press and donors that would be embarrassing to him and cause harm to the organization …"

Some of those emails came out as the lawsuit, filed by Grey on Jan. 28, 2011, wound its way through Superior Court of the District of Columbia last year.

"Please finish this today so I don't have to waste my time emailing anyone – Biden, Coulter, Carlson, Huffington, Drudge, Ingraham," Grey wrote in a 2008 email.
Nearly two years later, Grey accused Brock of "financial malfeasance" and threatened to undermine Brock's fundraising efforts.

"Next step is I contact all your donors and the IRS," Grey wrote in an email dated May 19, 2010. "This is going to stink for you if you do not resolve this now."
Brock said in court papers that he paid Grey "under duress."

On March 8, 2011, Brock filed his own suit against Grey for more than $4 million.

Brock said in court papers that he paid Grey "under duress."

On March 8, 2011, Brock filed his own suit against Grey for more than $4 million, demanding Grey return the $850,000, plus pay millions more in punitive damages. The two settled two months ago under terms that remain confidential.

MES Note: This link is also no longer working.

Paying off Grey may not have been easy for Brock, even with his salary of nearly $300,000 at Media Matters. Records show Brock had pulled massive amounts of equity from the six-bedroom Rehoboth Beach house as its value skyrocketed during the real estate bubble.

Sussex County property records show he took out a $273,000 mortgage to buy the pale yellow colonial and carriage house for $606,666 in 1995. As the converted inn, built in 1793, continued to rise in value, Brock refinanced his loan on at least two occasions. Records show he had a $1.44 million mortgage on the property, as well as two more loans against the home totaling just over $500,000.

MES Note: Notice the 6's in the mortgage amount… #SatanismSymbolism??

Brock received $1,587,500 for the home on May 25, 2010, in a sale to McLean, Va.-based Vardell Realty Investments. It could not be determined how much Brock still owed on the $1.44 million mortgage, or how much he netted from the sale, if any.

Records indicate that Brock had paid off the two smaller loans at the time of the sale.

Within a year of selling the house, Brock apparently had second thoughts about paying off Grey. In the civil suit, Brock accused Grey of three counts of blackmail, citing a statute that defines blackmail as threatening "to expose a secret or publicize a fact, whether true or false, tending to subject any person to hatred, contempt, or ridicule, to impair the reputation of any person."

He countersued to get his $850,000 back, plus $500,000 for each of three counts of alleged blackmail, and another $2 million in compensatory damages based in part on what Brock's lawyers called abuse of the judicial system and legal fees.

Grey, who relocated to Massachusetts, declined to comment when contacted by FoxNews.com. Brock and Alefantis remain in Washington, where Brock has released a new book attacking Fox News. He is also under scrutiny from several members of Congress amid reports Media Matters for America is in possible violation of IRS laws governing nonprofits.

The Rehoboth Beach home was torn down months after Brock sold it, amid much community opposition, so the buyer could divide the parcel and build two homes. It remains a vacant lot.

Perry Chiaramonte contributed to this report.

Summary

The background of David Brock is a very very bizarre tale.

David Brock, an adopted child, started out as a liberal democrat in college but after experiencing liberal intolerance to his writings, became a neoconservative.

He gained notoriety for his role in writing about the Troopergate scandal, in which former governor of Arkansas Bill Clinton was alleged to use his power to get law enforcement to arrange women for sex with the governor.

Brock's role in Troopergate, as well as in the Anita Hill / Clarence Thomas scandal, helped land Brock a $1 million book deal to try to expose Hillary Clinton.

It was during writing this book that Brock made a sudden shift in politics, and in fact instead of exposing Hillary, the book was largely "sympathetic to Mrs. Clinton".

This led Brock to switch sides, disavow his previous work against the Clintons (although never denied the accuracy of the claims), and write his now famous "Blinded by the Right" book detailing his switch.

Since that switch, he has worked closely with the Clintons and helped form big think-tank groups that are funded by millionaires and billionaires such as George Soros, and whose sole purpose are to patrol the media landscape to combat conservative view points, and especially to defend Hillary Clinton from all criticism.

Brock has dated the now infamous James Alefantis, surprisingly powerful "pizza" shop owner, and his many media watchdog groups, such as Media Matters, have made major efforts to discredit anyone looking into claims of corruption and child trafficking by Alefantis and his Comet Ping Pong pizza shop.

Brock has also paid off his former long-time lover William Grey $850,000 whom he accused of blackmail, and which Brock claimed to sell off their former house to meet Grey's demands.

The house that Brock and Grey have shared was demolished months after Brock sold it, and then about a year later countersued Grey for the money back; which led to a confidential settlement…

Brock's background is a very strange one and illustrates just how powerful the Clintons are so maybe Brock wasn't willing to test his luck in going after them…

Also interesting "coincidence" is Andrew Breitbart dies days after tweeting up a storm about Brock's blackmail lawsuit….

And for even more "random" and "accidental" deaths, Ex-Chef of Clinton / Bush administrations suddenly died via "drowning"…

http://www.cnn.com/2015/06/24/politics/white-house-chef-missing-found-dead/index.html

(CNN) - A former White House executive chef found dead in the mountains of New Mexico drowned, according to the New Mexico Department of Public Safety.

> An autopsy determined the nature of Walter Scheib's death was accidental, a department statement said.

…. I don't know anymore…

Also interesting is that David Brock also had a "heart attack" on March 22, 2017, age 54, but is expected to recover…

I will be researching more into David Brock to see if I can connect some dots in hopes of winning the David Seaman contest, but if you have any possible leads please let me know and I will mention you if I win!!

A 29 year old staffer for NYC mayor Bill De Blasio's office has been arrested and charged with two felonies after police found a massive collection of child porn on his laptop, according to court documents. The NYPD's investigation began March 29th when Jacob Schwartz, 29, handed over his laptop - on which over 3,000 images and 89 videos were discovered depicting sexual acts with children as young as 6 months old.

Schwartz - a computer programmer making $66k / year was also the president of the Manhattan Young Democrats - as well as VP of the NY State Young Democrats. When the NY Post reached the former organization for comment, they said they were "shocked" by the allegations against Schwartz - adding that he is "no longer a member of the board."

... Schwartz is out on $7500 bail.

Boy was Hillary's timing bad...

During Friday's commencement address at Wellesley College, Hillary tried to smear those investigating high level pedophilia:

Eilis O'Hanlon wrote that the disappearance "could almost stand as a metaphor for the rise of social media as the predominant mode of public discourse".[280] Twitter, one year old when Madeleine went missing, was the source of much of the vitriol against the McCanns.[281] Allegations were spread by YouTube videos, tweets, Facebook posts, discussion boards, blogs and personal websites, as well as across traditional media.[282] Ten years after the disappearance, the McCann hashtag was still producing over 100 tweets an hour, according to researchers at the University of Huddersfield.[283] Social media's attacks included a threat to kidnap one of the McCanns' twins, and when Scotland Yard and Crimewatch staged their reconstruction in 2013, there was talk of phoning in with false information to sabotage the appeal.[284] One man who ran an anti-McCann website received a three-month suspended sentence in 2013 after leafleting their village with his allegations, and the following year a Twitter user was found dead from a helium overdose after Sky News confronted her about her 400 anti-McCann tweets.[285]

Wow! As usual the pathetic fakestream media and pathetic controlled Orwellian Wikipedia demonize and ridicule Social Media because, as I have shown in the previous parts of this video series, the public are waking up to the fact that the mainstream media is nothing but a Public Relations arm of the very evil elites. #TrulyDisgusting

Now notice how Wikipedia first demonizes people on Social media to psychologically condition the reader to accept the #PoliceState consequences of those that speak out against the McCanns.

Also note how they don't even include the names those people, which is further underreporting, and in my opinion, a way to further de-humanize these people.

Let's take a look at these two critics of the McCanns:

Madeleine McCann contempt case: Tony Bennett guilty

Tony Bennett has pledged never to speak about the McCanns in public again

A man who claims he is campaigning to find out what happened to Madeleine McCann has been convicted of contempt of court at the High Court in London.

Tony Bennett was found to have breached an earlier court undertaking not to publish allegations linking Madeleine's parents with her disappearance.

allegations linking Madeleine's parents with her disappearance.

Bennett, who is behind the Madeleine Foundation, was given a three-month prison sentence, suspended for a year.

He was also ordered to pay Kate and Gerry McCann's court costs.

Bennett, 65, of Harlow in Essex, was found to have breached on at least 13 occasions the undertaking not to publish allegations linking the couple, from Rothley in Leicestershire, with their daughter's disappearance.

Wow… the Maddie case is one of the most widely publicized "missing" children cases so I don't see how anyone should be forced to not publish their research into the case! #PoliceState

I have published videos that the McCanns wouldn't want published so does that mean the cops are going to come knocking on my door???.... #Probably

McCann 'Twitter troll' Brenda Leyland 'killed herself'

Brenda Leyland was said to use the handle @sweepyface on Twitter

A woman who "trolled" Madeleine McCann's family on Twitter killed herself days after she was challenged by reporters, an inquest concluded.

Brenda Leyland, 63, from Leicestershire, was found dead after she was confronted by Martin Brunt from Sky News over the abuse.

Mr Brunt told the inquest in Leicester he had been "devastated" by her death.
Coroner Catherine Mason concluded she had killed herself and called for sales of helium to be regulated.

Confronted at home

The inquest heard that divorcee Mrs Leyland, of Burton Overy, posted 400 tweets about the McCann family between November 2013 and September 2014.
Mr Brunt told the inquest he and a cameraman confronted Mrs Leyland after Sky News obtained a dossier of alleged Twitter "trolls" handed to police.

MES Note: I could not find this mysterious "dossier" anywhere online…

She initially told him she was "entitled" to send the messages, later inviting him into her home for an interview.

Gerry McCann, with his wife Kate, previously told the BBC more needed to be done about online abuse

He told the hearing he kept her informed of his plans - which included picturing but not naming her - because he was aware it could have an impact.

Asked by the coroner if there was anything which indicated a concern for her life, Mr Brunt said: "No, but when I asked her how she was, she said 'oh I have thought about ending it all but I am feeling better - I have had a drink and spoken to my son'".

> MES Note: Where is the proof for this quote by Martin Brunt, the person who had, in my opinion, no credible reason to confront Brenda??!! #ProsecuteSkyNews

He said he thought her comments were a throwaway remark and had no idea about her history of depression or a previous attempt at suicide.

She was found dead in a Leicester hotel after an overdose on 4 October.

"I was devastated, I still am and the enormity of what's happened will always be with me," Mr Brunt added.

'Panic and fear'

The court also heard evidence from her son Ben, who said he believed the confrontation had been the final straw.

In a statement, he said he believed she was "completely destroyed" by what had occurred.

He said he heard "panic and fear" in her voice when he spoke to her after the Sky interview.

A Sky News spokesman said the news team had followed its editorial guidelines "in a responsible manner", adding the story was "firmly in the public interest".

> MES Note: It is not in the public's interest to confront random Twitter users over random tweets, while IGNORING the damning testimony from people like the Gaspars, and Yvonne Martin, which suggest some pedophilia involvement by the McCanns and their friends (See #PizzaGate Part 5 and 6).
> Why doesn't the pathetic Sky News (and the pathetic BBC) confront the Gaspars and Yvonne about their testimony?? #DefundBBC #DefundSkyNews #ProsecuteBoth

"Brenda Leyland's tragic death highlights the unforeseeable human impact that the stories we pursue can have, and Sky News would like to extend its sincere condolences to her family," the Sky statement said.

None of the messages sent by Mrs Leyland were directed personally at the McCanns, who have "no significant presence" on social media.

> MES Note: WTF??!! No evidence is provided of any "trolling", and the very last sentence completely flips the entire narrative of "online abuse".

This is a very bizarre case:

- Random twitter user, Brenda Leyland, gets called a "troll" without any evidence or explanation
- Brenda writes "400 tweets" about the McCanns, in which the McCanns don't even have Twitter, and posted these tweets 7 to 8 years AFTER Madeleine was reported "missing"… #Wow #WhoBelievesThisBS
- Sky News confronts her.
- Brenda then found dead a few days later…
- "Overdoses" on Helium…??
- Ruled a suicide…. #surrreee

This article by BBC also illustrates why fakestream media is just that, fakestream propaganda agenda driven, and pure evil, fake news media. #DefundBBC

You can see how worried Brenda looked, especially as Martin mentioned that she has been reported to the pathetic Scotland Yard (UK Police)…

Also note that Martin NEVER mentions that the mysterious dossier that was handed to the police by an anonymous source includes @SweepyFace (i.e. allegedly Brenda).

It appears that Martin is DELIBERTLY trying to demonize Brenda by showing her image and then showing random tweets from other users that include threats to the McCanns.

In fact, this is exactly what he does in his article that he writes which I will explain further below.

I could not find the Police reports but luckily there was a few users of an internet forum investigating the McCann case that actually went to the inquest hearing and recorded some notes! #CitizenJournalistsFTW

by Get'emGonçalo on 13.10.15 22:14

A BIG thank you two to people who attended the inquest on Friday, took notes and have given me permission to post them here for others to see.

They wish to remain anonymous.

Please note that they should not be taken as verbatim. They are in the most part a paraphrased record of what could be heard. It was very difficult to hear what they were saying as the witnesses were facing away towards the coroner, and there was no audio system to assist.

The evidence of Martin Edward Brunt. Journalist.

He states that the dossier came into his possession by a third party.
Asked to name the person HE REFUSES.

Brenda was not named in the dossier. But the source knew where Brenda lived and her name.

He got the information from a TWEETER.

Brunt had trawled Facebook and found Brenda because of the photos of her Boxer dog.

The evidence of Detective Sergeant Hutchins;

He examined her computers.
@sweepyface
Between November 2013 and September 2014 Ms.Leyland tweeted 2210 times. 19% of them were #mccann related.

The dossier was handed to the Met by a third party. It was deemed NOT RELEVANT.
Brenda's tweets re;McCann were not illegal and did not cause offence.

The dossier was handed to the Met by a third party. It was deemed NOT RELEVANT.
Brenda's tweets re;McCann were not illegal and did not cause offence.

If a crime has NOt been committed then the journalist does not have to reveal his source.
There was no offence by journalist. Oct. 1 died.
Ms Leyland did not tweet again after 29th September.
She did not see postings by others after 29th September.(on Twitter)

Martin Brunt does not name the person behind the "dossier" but says the source knew where Brenda lived, even though she wasn't included in the dossier…. #Unbelievable!!

This is probably because Brenda's tweets were tame compared to the threats some other users were making.

Note that these "users" could be just paid trolls, even possibly by the McCann's PR team: i.e. pay a company to send threats on Twitter, and then cry about online abuse to gain sympathy from the public, as well as demand tighter internet censorship.

In other words, this could be Psychological Operation (PsyOp) to push for more legislation and infringement on the rights of the people, as well as to create an overall environment of fear so that people are always thinking twice when sharing opposing views online, especially those that run in opposition to the official government narrative…

This is in my opinion the most likely scenario.

'Evil' Trolls In Hate Campaign Against McCanns

Abuse uncovered by Sky News includes calls for the couple to "burn in hell" - while others want them "trampled by horses".

23:07, UK,
Wednesday 01 October 2014

McCann Family Twitter Trolls Confronted

By Martin Brunt, Crime Correspondent

The Metropolitan Police is investigating a catalogue of vile internet abuse targeting the family of Madeleine McCann including death threats, Sky News can reveal.

Officers are in talks with the Crown Prosecution Service after being handed a dossier of more than 80 pages of Tweets, Facebook posts and messages on online forums aimed at Kate and Gerry McCann.

Over the past few years hundreds of shocking messages have been posted by 'trolls' who believe - despite no evidence - that the McCanns had some involvement in the disappearance of their daughter in Portugal in 2007.

MES Note: HAHAHAHAHA Sky News is trash!

These include suggestions that the McCanns should be tortured and killed and calls for them to "burn in hell".

Some messages are even directed at Madeleine's younger siblings, now aged nine.

Manipulated images involving the McCanns - many of them graphic - are also in wide circulation online.

MES Note: i.e. memes…

One troll - who uses the Twitter identity "Sweepyface" and has posted dozens of anti-McCann messages using the #mccann hashtag - was confronted by Sky News.

When asked about her use of social media to attack the couple, she replied: "I'm entitled to."

MES Note: This is DISGUSTING framing of Brenda by Martin.

Brenda was clearly frightened by Martin's pathetic ambush and her tweets were not the alleged threats sprinkled throughout this pathetic Public Relations (PR) article.

The dossier - compiled by members of the public alarmed at the online treatment of the McCanns and shown to Sky News - calls on police and MPs to act to crack down on such abuse.

Some of the abuse directed at Kate and Gerry McCann on Twitter

MES Note: Where is the proof of this?? Are these real people?? Who are these people?? Why don't you go after these people instead of Brenda?? Why are you > people?? Why don't you go after these people instead of Brenda?? Why are you misleading the public by making it seem that Brenda was tweeting these?? How do we know this is not just a #PsychologicalOperation??

Among the messages identified in the dossier is an exchange on a message board which reads: "These 2 should burn in hell"; "I will supply the petrol"; "I'll supply the lighter - happily".

Other posts include: "We need some numbers for some assassins on taps", "I hope that the McCanns are living in total misery" and "I want to see them smashed up the back of a bus or trampled by horses".

In one of her tweets "Sweepyface" called for the McCanns to suffer "for the rest of their miserable lives".

> MES Note: This is the "worst" tweet from "Sweepyface", i.e. allegedly Brenda, yet again notice the framing around the threats above.

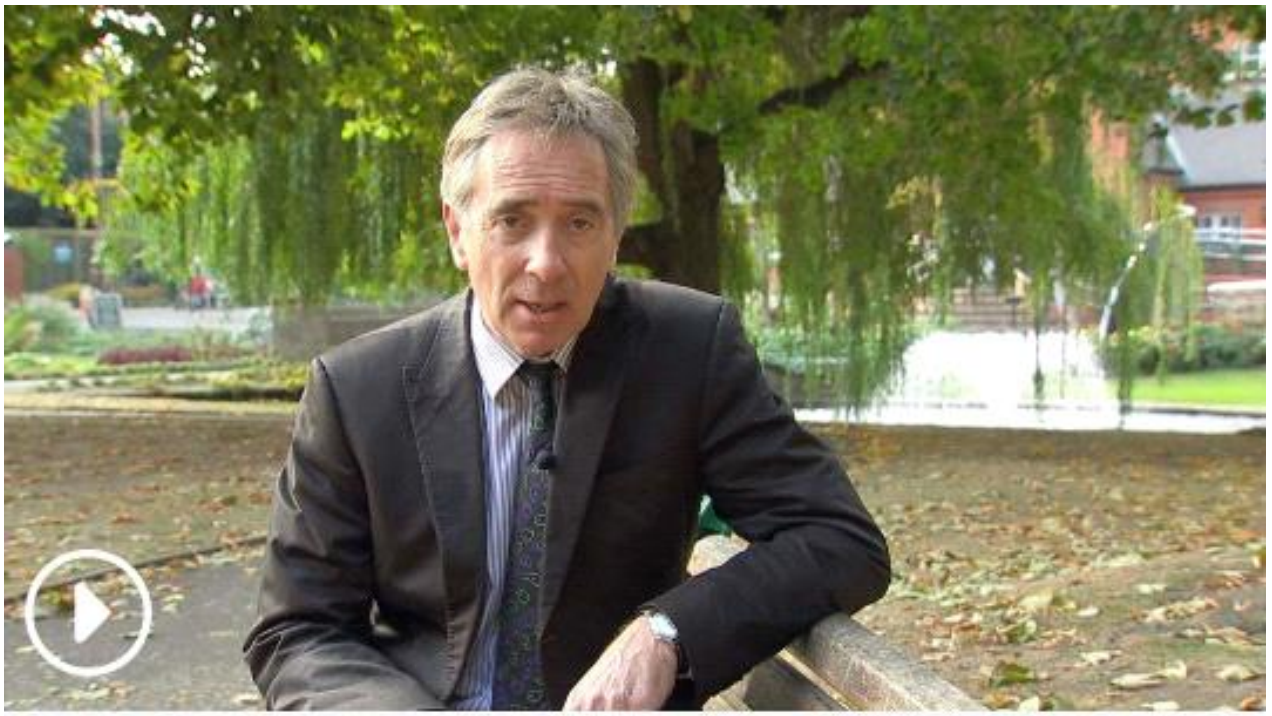
The campaigner spearheading the appeal - who has asked to remain anonymous - told Sky News: "We're very worried that it's only going to take somebody to act out of some of these discussions, some of the threats that have been made, and we couldn't live with ourselves if that happened and we had done nothing."



Sky's Martin Brunt On McCann Abuse

Notice how Martin doesn't actually state "Sweepyface" was mentioned in the Dossier, and makes it seem like she was a vile "evil" person… #ProsecuteMartinBrunt

The lack of any real evidence shown by Sky News, the framing of a McCann online critic as an "evil troll", and the use of anonymous sources (and documents) strongly suggest that this is a Psychological Operation (PsyOp).

Gerry McCann Says Make Example Of Web Trolls

Madeleine McCann's father calls for more prosecutions after Sky News revealed details of a dossier of abuse targeting his family.

McCann Family Twitter Trolls Confronted

Madeleine McCann's father has called for tougher action against web trolls after Sky News exposed a woman who abused his family online.

Gerry McCann said online abuse had caused "severe distress" to him and his wife Kate and that police should be more willing to prosecute the perpetrators.

He was speaking after Sky's Crime Correspondent Martin Brunt revealed in a special report that Scotland Yard is investigating a dossier of social media abuse targeting the McCanns - whose three-year-old daughter went missing on a family holiday in 2007.

When confronted over her actions, one of the trolls, who used the name "Sweepyface" online, told Sky News she believed she was "entitled" to attack the couple on Twitter.

When confronted over her actions, one of the trolls, who used the name "Sweepyface" online, told Sky News she believed she was "entitled" to attack the couple on Twitter.

Mr McCann said he had not read the Sweepyface tweets, but he told BBC Radio 4's Today programme: "Clearly something needs to be done about the abuse on the internet. I think we probably need more people to be charged.

"We do not have any significant presence on social media or online and I've got grave concerns about our children as they grow up and start to access the internet in an unsupervised capacity.

"People are threatening to kidnap our children, people are threatening violence against Kate and myself."

He said police should be more willing to charge internet trolls.

Campaigner: Some Material Is 'Really Disturbing'

"I'm glad to see the law around this area has been reviewed. We need to make examples of people who are causing damage," he said.

"It causes us severe distress. There is so much vile nonsense written on the internet."

Unbelievable!! Gerry McCann calls for making an example of online "trolls", and then just DAYS later Brenda Leyland is found dead!! #YOUCANTMAKETHISSTUFFUP

Looks like Gerry took a play from John "Skippy" Podesta's playbook… ;) #SethRich

Once again notice the disgusting framing of Brenda… #Unbelievable #ProsecuteSkyNews

Brenda Leyland was featured in a Sky News report on internet abuse

A woman who abused the parents of Madeleine McCann on social media has been found dead in a Leicestershire hotel.

Brenda Leyland was featured in a Sky News report on internet abuse earlier this week.

A spokesman for Leicestershire Police said: "Police were called at 1.42pm on Saturday 4 October to a report of a body of a woman in a hotel room in Smith Way, Grove Park, Leicester.

"Officers attended the scene, and a file is being prepared for the coroner."

The body has now been formally identified as Ms Leyland.

Police said her death is not being treated as suspicious. ! ?

Inquest Opens Into Brenda Leyland Death

Police tell the hearing there "did not appear to be foul play" involved in the 63-year-old's death.

The inquest into the death of a woman accused of directing online abuse at the McCann family has heard how the first post-mortem examination could not establish a cause of death.

Further tests are now being carried out to try to work out how Ms Leyland died.

The 63-year-old, from Burton Overy, Leicestershire, had been accused of posting thousands of online messages directed at the McCanns.

MES Note: It wasn't thousands… #HorribleReporting

Senior Coroner Catherine Mason said: "I am not in a position to conclude this today. This is because the cause of death is still not known and police inquiries are still, rightly, ongoing."

The inquest was adjourned until 18 December.

Annnnnd it's ruled a "suicide"… #NotSurprised

Inquest: McCann Troll's Death Was Suicide

Brenda Leyland had tweeted under the name Sweepyface

By Ashish Joshi, Sky News Correspondent

A Leicester coroner has concluded a woman found dead days after she featured in a Sky News report into online trolling took her own life.

An inquest into her death at Leicester's Coroners Court heard witness testimony from a toxicologist, two police officers, Mrs Leyland's former psychiatrist and two Sky News employees.

A written statement from Mrs Leyland's youngest son, Benjamin, was read to the court. He said: "I have no doubt in my mind that the panic and fear that I heard in her voice after the Sky News interview was the final straw that pushed my mum to do what she did.

"She was broken, destroyed."

Mr Leyland, who lives in America, described his mother as a woman who "felt it hard to connect with people".

He wrote: "She struggled with depression. She had undergone psychiatric treatment and medicated for anxiety. The court was also told that there had been a previous suicide attempt."

Sky News' Crime Correspondent Martin Brunt, who challenged Brenda Leyland about her alleged online trolling in a report for the channel, said he had talked to Mrs Leyland on the telephone after approaching her but before the report had been broadcast.

He said: "I asked her how she was and she said 'Oh, I had thought about ending it all but I'm feeling better, I've had a drink I've spoken to my son who has told me I've been a silly, stupid woman."

Mr Brunt was asked by Coroner Catherine Mason if he thought it was a throwaway line. He replied: "Yes".

Detective Sergeant Steven Hutchings told the court that Mrs Leyland had posted more than 2,000 tweets under the name Sweepyface.

Of these, 424 mentioned Gerry and Kate McCann. The couple's three-year-old daughter Madeleine was taken from the family's Portugal holiday apartment in 2007.

In recording a verdict of suicide, the coroner said: "I'm satisfied although Mrs Leyland had a mental health history, that others would not necessarily have known that she was suffering from mental health (problems).

"She had mentioned wanting to take her own life but then dismissed it. I don't think it could have been known to anybody that there was a definite intention for her to take her own life."

A Sky News statement issued after the coroner's verdict said the broadcaster was confident that no editorial guidelines were breached.

"The team at Sky News followed its editorial guidelines and pursued a story in a responsible manner that we believed was firmly in the public interest," the statement said.

"Brenda Leyland's tragic death highlights the unforeseeable human impact that the stories we pursue can have, and Sky News would like to extend its sincere condolences to her family."

"Brenda Leyland's tragic death highlights the unforeseeable human impact that the stories we pursue can have, and Sky News would like to extend its sincere condolences to her family."

The article tries really hard to make it seem that Brenda was suicidal, and her son blames the Sky News and Martin Brunt for their ambush journalism.

Without the court documents or the coroner's report, it is difficult to assess the accuracy of this article, but given Sky News' extremely bad reporting, the claim that she committed suicide should be taken with a grain of salt.

In fact, as I will show shortly, Brenda had tweeted that if she were to die in odd circumstances, to not accept the first version…. #YouCantMakeThisStuffUp

McCann Trolls: Police Won't Take Action

Police say some of the online messages sent to the family were "extremely distasteful", but none would lead to prosecutions.

10:51, UK, Friday 01 May 2015

Gerry McCann said last year that trolls should be prosecuted

Gerry McCann said last year that trolls should be prosecuted

No further action will be taken against dozens of people accused of targeting online abuse at the family of Madeleine McCann, Sky sources have revealed.

Sky News Crime Correspondent Martin Brunt said: "Leicestershire Police had spent about eight months investigating the dossier, which effectively was a catalogue of abuse tweeted and posted online elsewhere by antagonists of Kate and Gerry McCann.

"There were dozens of such individuals identified in the dossier. They had threatened violence and even death against the couple."

The online posts included words like petrol and matches, handcuffs, shooting, torture and lynching, Brunt said.

One woman named in the dossier, Brenda Leyland, committed suicide after being confronted by Sky News.

> MES Note: There is NO proof given yet that show Brenda was named in that dossier, and again witnesses in the Inquest trial state the contrary… #AgainHorribleReporting

Brunt said those who compiled the dossier have reacted with "absolute dismay" at the decision not to prosecute.

"They say it is tantamount to giving the trolls, as they call them, carte blanche to carry on abusing the McCanns," he said.

Hmmm so all this online (alleged) witch-hunting resulted in no successful prosecutions, one (allegedly) dead woman, and an environment of fear regarding online speech, especially criticism of the McCanns…

Sounding more and more like a PsyOp to me…

Read The Deleted Tweets Brenda Leyland Sent About The McCanns Before She Died

Brenda Leyland was found dead days after being accused on Sky News of trolling the parents of Madeleine McCann. Since then thousands of tweets from her deleted Twitter account have emerged.

This is the moment last Thursday when Brenda Leyland was confronted by Sky News about her alleged online abuse of Gerry and Kate McCann, parents of the missing child Madeleine.

Sky News visited her and asked her about her McCann tweets - the following day the Daily Mail named her and revealed she was the owner of the @Sweepyface account. So what was in the dossier that Sky News said was being handed over to the Crown Prosecution Service? What did @Sweepyface actually say?

MFS Note: Again there is no actual evidence or claim by Martin Brunt that her name Prosecution Service? What did @Sweepyface actually say?

MES Note: Again there is no actual evidence or claim by Martin Brunt that her name was in the dossier, and witnesses to the police hearing state she was not and Martin heard about Brenda from the anonymous source of the dossier.

Her first tweet, from December 2010, was about the McCanns and accuses others of "unhelpful and uninspired trolling". Over the next four years she sent 4,625 tweets, very rarely on any other subject.

@The_Edge_Man how about we leave this Tweet to those who actually need the updates, rather than unhelpful and uninspired trolling?
Gasper was a friend of theirs? Payne + Mccann's reputation was at stake

Leyland was part of a subculture of people on Twitter who vociferously ask questions of the McCanns on Twitter – up to and including the conspiracy theory that they were somehow involved in Madeleine's disappearence.

Leyland's account went mostly dormant in 2011 and 2012 but returned with gusto in 2013, some crimewatch days posting more than 50 tweets, most beginning with the #McCann hashtag.

#McCann This has now gone beyond just poor M, the credibility of our Police and Gov around the world will suffer ? is suffering?

A common theme, as seen in this tweet on 3 November 2013, is freedom of speech – the idea that the McCanns are trying to silence critics.

@DodgyDrPayne Horrible tone to these pro McCannites, same " sue em" mind set as their hero

At times, Leyland painted herself almost as a campaigning journalist, as here on 7 December 2013 when she tried to find evidence that royalties from Kate McCann's book were deposited in the Find Madeleine fund.

#mccann	really need help here from ~~those in " the know~~ " cannot find deposits from K & G s earnings and have stalled ! can u point out
#mccann	Or indeed any money earned from selling interviews with MSM, am unable to locate where they have been deposited in the fund?
#mccann	unable to see where any of the royalty monies from Kates book has been deposited in the fund account, can u help?
#mccann	I do not donate, however I did once, and reasonably generously.when I still believed in them ! never expected money 2B used thus
#mccann	If you have to set up Bank transfer yourself that is interesting and done so that it is NOT a donation but a private transfer
#mccann	Google check out gave months of notice and the switch is a simple procedure, usually you can morph ols system to new seamlessly.
#mccann	Keep trying 2 make allowances 4 Official DWB as I think he must be a bit simple or form of Tourettes maybe?
#mccann	Every good, Journalist, Detective, Doctor or scientist is obsessive about their work, ergo you have paid us ALL a great compliment
If, by the snide use of " obsessive " you mean obsessive about finding answers & not accepting #mccann PR spin, I agree

As well as delivering strongly worded attacks on the McCanns and their actions, Leyland sometimes stuck up for them. On 20 November 2013 she asked why some people were laughing "like demented hyenas" at the McCanns' plight.

#mccann Why do some ROFL and LOL like demented hyenas no matter how awful the facts are? so much laughing so little funny

...

On 15 March this year, Leyland alluded to attempts made to reveal her identity and tried to throw people off the scent by saying she didn't live in Leicestershire.

#mccann In what sane universe is it acceptable to seek a tweeters place of work, it is sick and obsessional

#mccann haha, been on and seen I am supposed to live in Leicestershire ? new one on me, hey ho,

...

On 17 September this year she tweeted what might have amounted to a personal manifesto: to make the McCanns "live in shame".

I fear, that we are in this 4 long haul, up to all of us to a) Bang home the facts b) make #mccann s live in shame for years

But Leyland's language was polite and measured. She rarely swore (out of more than 4,500 tweets, only 16 contained the word "fk").

There were none of the physical threats and sexual violence that have typified other high profile "Twitter troll" cases, such as the campaign of abuse targeted at Stella Creasy MP and feminist campaigner Caroline Criado-Perez (which led to the jailing of Peter Nunn last week).

Between bursts of anger and invective aimed straight at the McCann family and what she saw as a cadre of blinkered supporters, Leyland occasionally showed a sense of fairness, and was often keen to stress that a child had gone missing.

Leyland saw her tweets as a public service – she clearly believed that an injustice was taking place. "I'm committed to (finding) the truth of Maddie's death," she said on 15 August this year.

Her sudden death – plus the footage of her being challenged by Sky News, which has spread like wildfire online – caused an outpouring of sympathy on Twitter this morning, with many blaming Sky News for its perceived role in her death.

It is clear that Brenda was not an "evil" troll, but rather just someone investigating the McCann case because it is clear the police and fakestream media isn't doing their job.

In fact Brenda also defends the McCanns at times from online trolls!! Why doesn't the pathetic Sky News include this in their PsyOp hit-piece??

pathetic Sky News include this in their PsyOp hit-piece??

But there is a lesson to learn here: aim your criticism at the police and fakestream media covering up alleged crimes rather than those that allegedly benefit from them (i.e. the McCanns).

For example if a person sets a building on fire and is not arrested, blame the police for not doing their job.

Also note how Brenda tweets a year before her death that if she were to die in odd circumstances she wanted people to question and not accept the first version… #YOUCANTMAKETHISSTUFFUP

Also, Brenda's tweets aren't even that bad, in fact I get MUCH worse tweets aimed at me daily!

So why isn't Sky News "doorstepping" this ALMOST CERTAIN paid troll for their "hateful" and "abusive" tweets towards me??

My name is not plastered all over the news for a DECADE so I have even MORE reason for the pathetic Sky News, BBC, and Wikipedia sites to "investigate" against this "Online Abuse" against me.... #MSMisPureEvil

This contrast in what Sky News considers "online abuse" worth "investigating" is enough evidence by itself to understand how much a propaganda Public Relations (PR) mouthpiece the fakestream media is!

Summary and Conclusions

I started this investigation into Brenda Leyland's death by first reading the "Trial by Media" section of the Wikipedia page for the Madeleine McCann case which argued that the McCanns were being tried by the online social media.

But it turns out that the only "trial by media" being done was the pathetic fakestream mainstream media in misleadingly framing Brenda as a hateful online troll that was threatening the lives of the McCanns and their children, and which this led to Brenda's untimely and bizarre "suicide" by "helium overdose".

To summarize how strange this story is, consider the following:

- Martin Brunt of Sky News doorsteps online McCann critic "SweepyFace" demanding answers to vague questions of online abuse towards the McCanns.
- Sky News claims to have possession of a "dossier" compiled by an anonymous group of concerned individuals which they didn't reveal because of concern for their safety.
- Sky News and most mainstream media outlets plaster SweepyFace's video and image, in which it was eventually revealed that Brenda Leyland is SweepyFace.
- Sky News give every allusion that Brenda was named in the dossier but Martin Brunt NEVER claims this, and in fact witnesses to the inquest trial state the contrary.
    - Other news outlets, and even Sky News a year later, state Brenda was named in the Dossier, likely due to the misleading original reporting by Sky News.
- Sky News gives every allusion that Brenda was behind the tweets involving threats to the McCann but in fact she wasn't, and Sky News very careful word their articles such that they may have "plausible deniability" in court.
- Gerry McCann states he wants an example made of "evil" online "trolls".
- Brenda is found dead in a hotel days after being ambushed by Sky News.
- The cause of death was initially not known.
- The death is later ruled a suicide by "helium overdose" about 5 months later.
- The corner and police reports were never made public (to my knowledge).
- The dossier and source were never made public (to my knowledge).
- The Twitter users named in the dossier are never publicly proven to be real people, instead of random paid PsyOp trolls.
- No one is prosecuted, including alleged online "trolls" with "death threats" (to my knowledge).

Given the absolutely horrible and disgusting reporting, it is my view that this entire story is a psychological operation (PsyOp) that has following goals all being achieved simultaneously:

- The public feels sympathy towards the McCanns.

- The public feels sympathy towards the McCanns.
- People fear what they post online.
- Governments are given reason to enforce stricter legislation.
- Social Media and Alternative Media outlets are demonized.
- Critics are ridiculed and demonized by the mainstream media.
- Questioning the official narrative is a dangerous game…

And Now For The Bizarre Twist…

To make things even more bizarre, the following website makes a very compelling argument that the person behind the infamous "dossier" is none other than Gerry McCann's older sister….

In addition, Sky chose to 'voice-over' the original, in standard English with an acceptable accent. Listening to the following recording of the likely suspect might help explain why.

It is suspected on reasonable grounds that the woman in question is of course Philomena McCann, Gerry McCann's elder sister. She is a part time teacher in Ullapool.

The person who set up and ran, and may still do so, the ludicrously expensive website for the McCanns and their "Fund", (in fact a Private Limited Company), was one of her pupils.

I am very new to the Gematria side of things, but I still find it VERY interesting that the Sumerian Gematria Calculator states that "PizzaGate" = 666 = "Mark of Beast".

Also interesting is that "Emmanuel Macron" = 888 = "Donald J. Trump"…. #Interesting

Misleading 'PizzaGate' Google Search Trends

https://voat.co/v/pizzagate/1827743

IMPORTANT: Proof that Google Search Trends are MISLEADING for PizzaGate vs. Fake News

I posted a while a go on Voat illustrating how the Google Search Trends for "pizzagate" and "fake news" were misleading, because according to Google AdWords search data, "pizzagate" was actually searched much more than "fake news"!

Recall from earlier video on Google Search Trends:

Search tips for Trends

You can use punctuation in your searches to filter the results you see in Trends.

Search term	Type of results you'll see tennis shoes	Results can include searches containing both tennis and shoes in any order. Results can also include searches like red tennis shoes, funny shoes for tennis, or tennis without shoes. No misspellings, spelling variations, synonyms, plural or singular versions of your terms are included.
"tennis shoes"	Results include the exact phrase inside double quotation marks, possibly with words before or after, like red tennis shoes. semi-broad

Let's take a closer look at the search trends for "fake news" and "pizzagate".

Note that the trends for "fake news" and "pizzagate" both include longer phrases, as long as the exact terms are included.

https://trends.google.ca/trends/explore?date=2016-05-15%202017-05-09&q=pizzagate,fake%20news

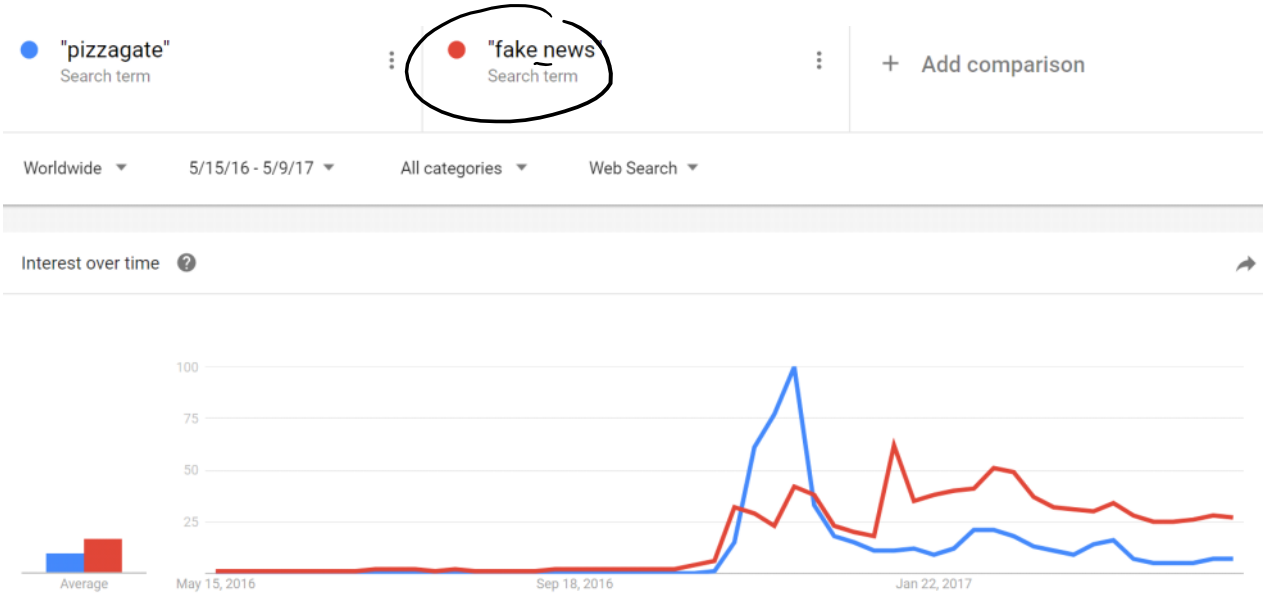
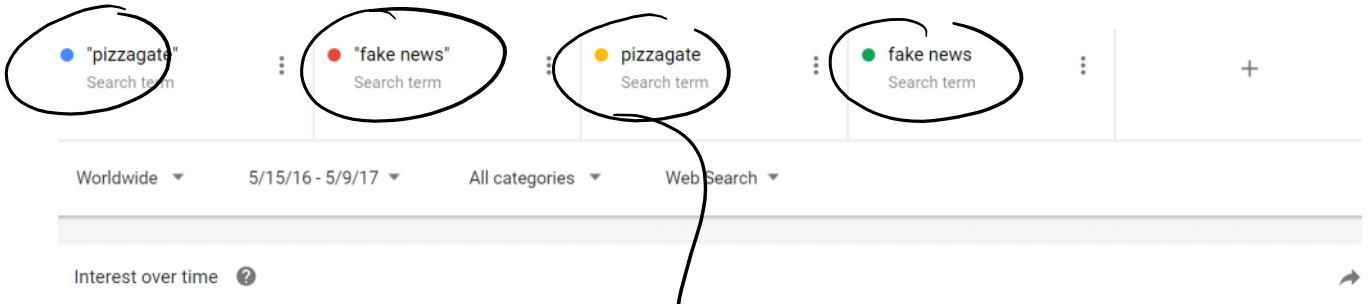
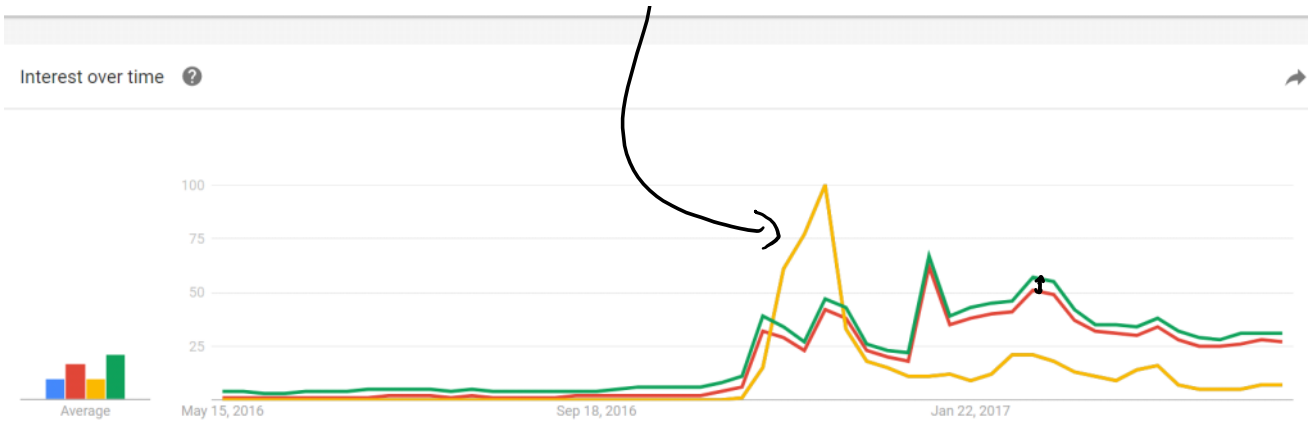
https://trends.google.ca/trends/explore?date=2016-05-15%202017-05-09&q=%22pizzagate%22,%22fake%20news%22



https://trends.google.ca/trends/explore?date=2016-05-15%202017-05-09&q=%22pizzagate%22,%22fake%20news%22,pizzagate,fake%20news



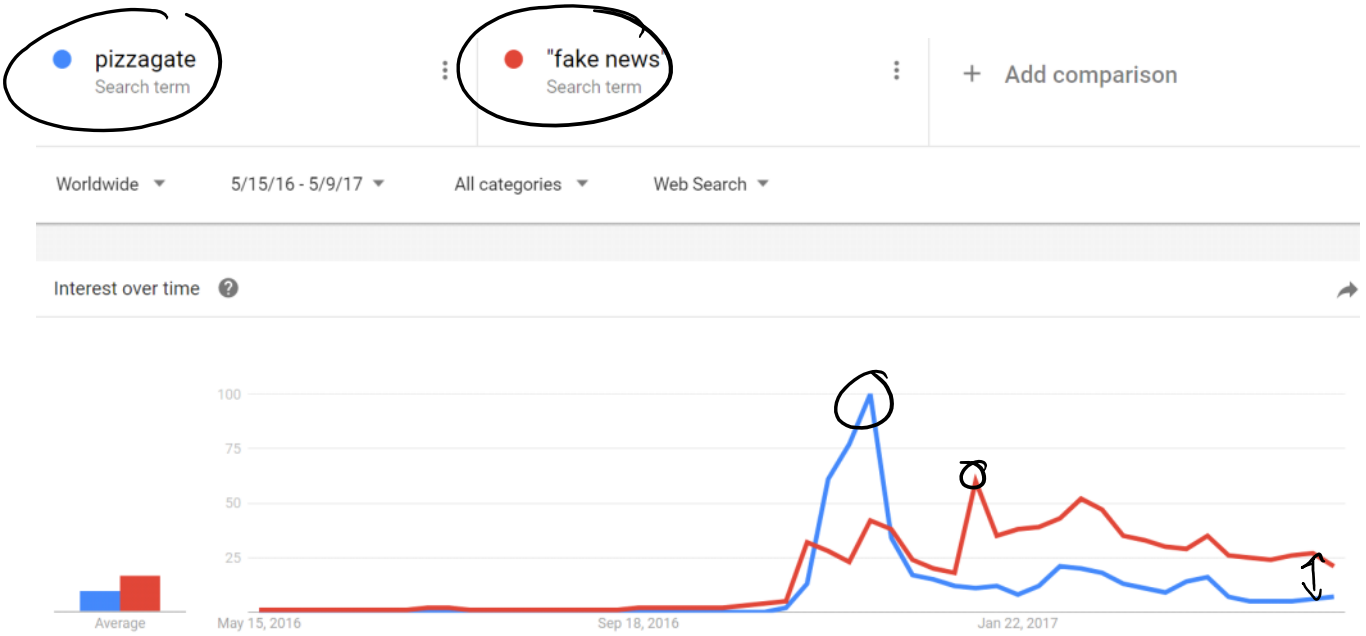


Note that "fake news" is just a bit below the broad search term fake news.

Thus even though according to Google, the "fake news" search may include longer phrases that include the exact match "fake news", it is very unlikely that those long phrases have a significant impact, because the broad search type is not even much more than the exact.

https://trends.google.ca/trends/explore?date=2016-05-15%202017-05-09&q=pizzagate,%22fake%20news%22

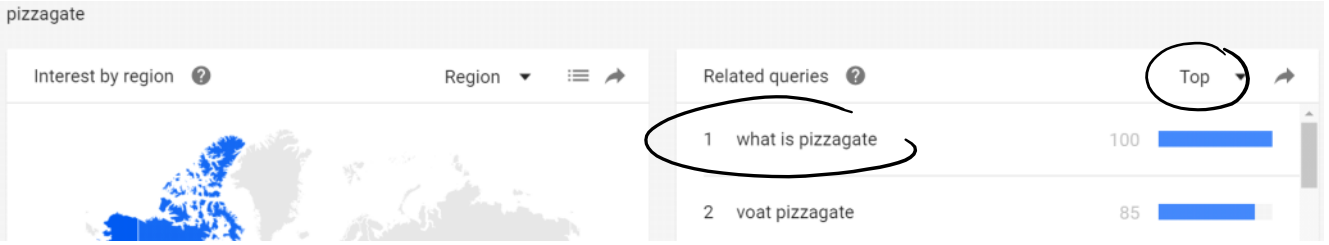
Retrieved: 9 May 2017

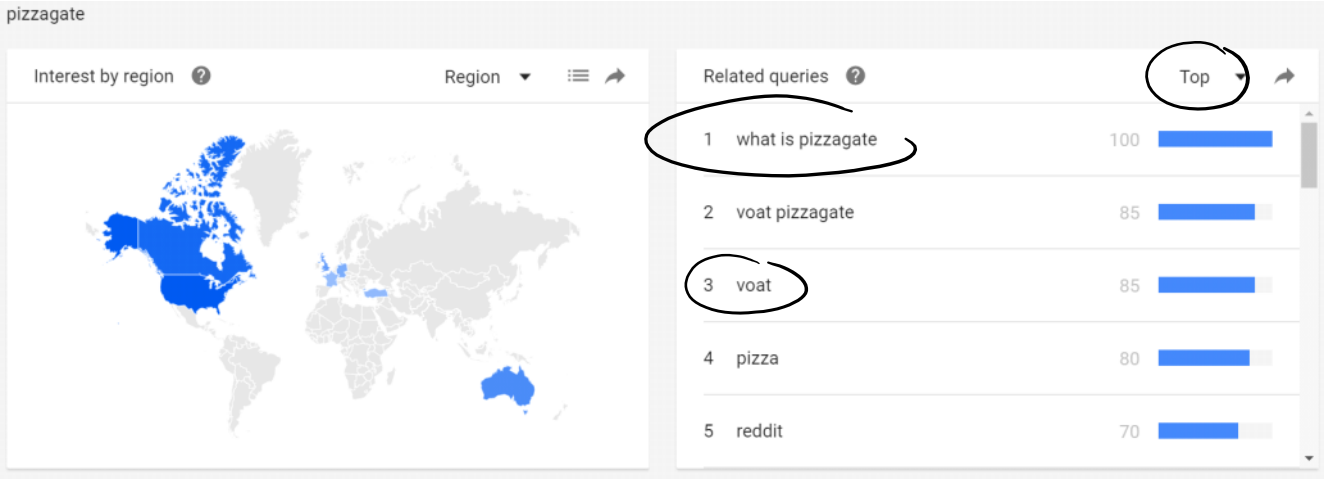


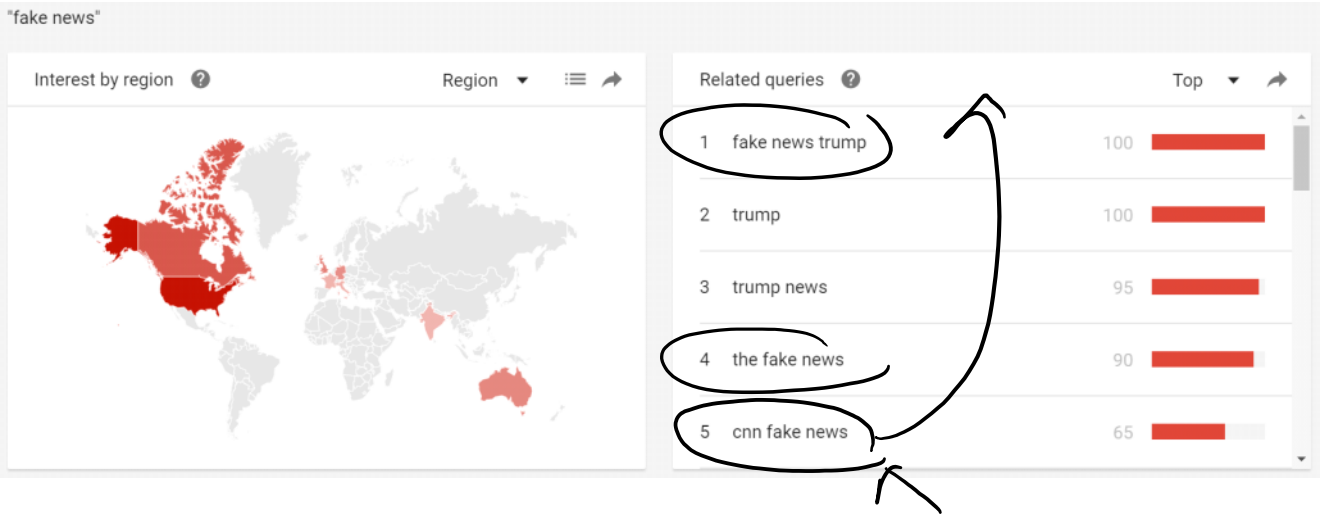
From this graph it is clear that "fake news" is trending much more than "pizzagate" despite "pizzagate" having a much larger peak in traffic.

Let's take a look at some of the locations searching these terms:

The country in blue, i.e. searched PizzaGate more than Fake News was Turkey. #Interesting…



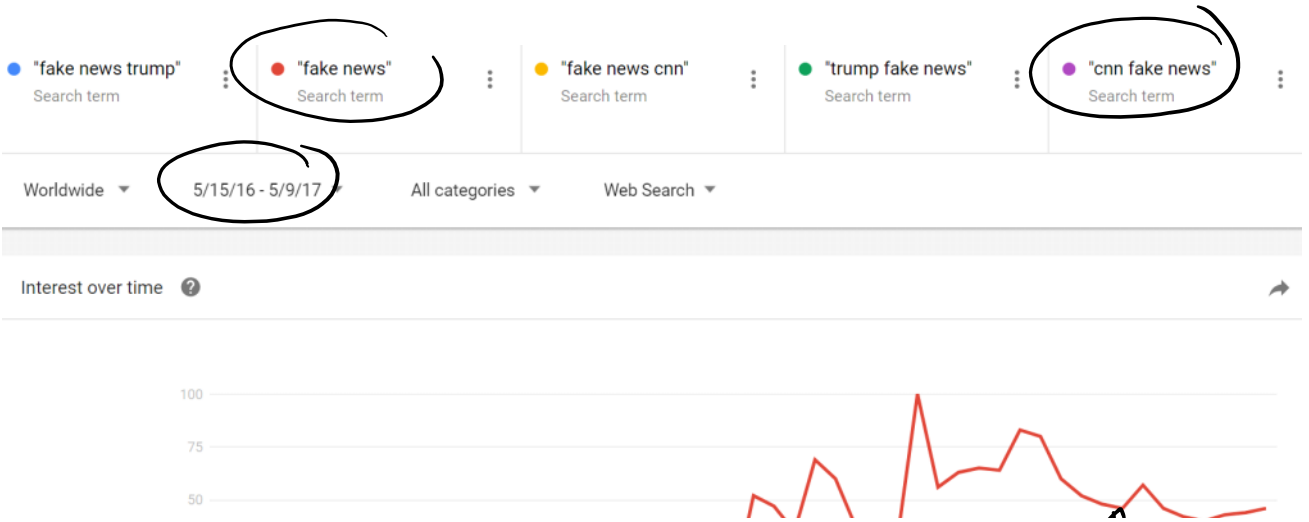




Since the Search Trends includes all phrases that include "fake news", let's see how the relative size is of the top related phrases "fake news trump" and "cnn fake news".

https://trends.google.ca/trends/explore?date=2016-05-15%202017-05-09&q=%22fake%20news%20trump%22,%22fake%20news%22,%22fake%20news%20cnn%22,%22trump%20fake%20news%22,%22cnn%20fake%20news%22

Retrieved: 9 May 2017



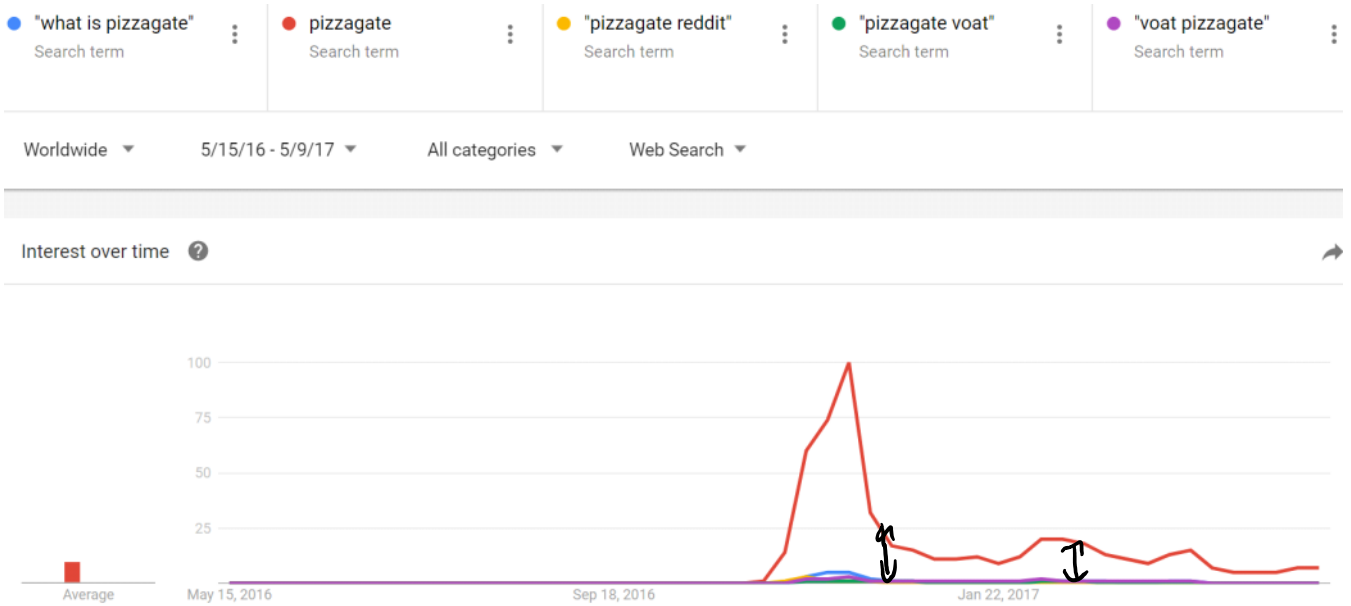
Note that "cnn fake news" and "trump fake news" have higher trends than "fake news trump", even though "fake news trump" was the "top" query.

This shows that first off all, the "top" related queries are misleading because the actual "top" ones listed in the previous table aren't necessarily the actual top related searches… #WTF #GoogleGetYourActTogether

Nonetheless, it appears that these "top" related searches are relatively very small, besides at during two peak times, and thus it can be assumed that most of the Google Search Trends data is due to the exact phrase "fake news".

https://trends.google.ca/trends/explore?date=2016-05-15%202017-05-09&q=%22what%20is%20pizzagate%22,pizzagate,%22pizzagate%20reddit%22,%22pizzagate%20voat%22,%22voat%20pizzagate%22

Retrieved: 9 May 2017



Like-wise, the top related queries are searched relatively little, and thus it can be assumed that the exact phrase "pizzagate" is the main driver of the Google Search Trends data.

Thus it is reasonable to assume that the exact terms "pizzagate" and "fake news" are more or less as shown in the Google Search Trends charts.

Thus it is reasonable to assume that the exact terms "pizzagate" and "fake news" are more or less as shown in the Google Search Trends charts.

> If you use keyword match types with your keywords, we take only those match types into account when calculating traffic forecasts. For example, if you add a keyword as exact match, like [Cabo luxury resort], your forecasts will give you an idea how that keyword might perform as an exact match keyword.

This keyword planner is used by Advertisers on Google so I put more trust onto this tool because the results of this tool DIRECTLY leads to BILLIONS of dollars spent by Advertisers.

Thus we should compare the Google Search Trends data with the AdWords Keyword Planner, and give preference to AdWords for any discrepancy.

	Average	10.38	17.40

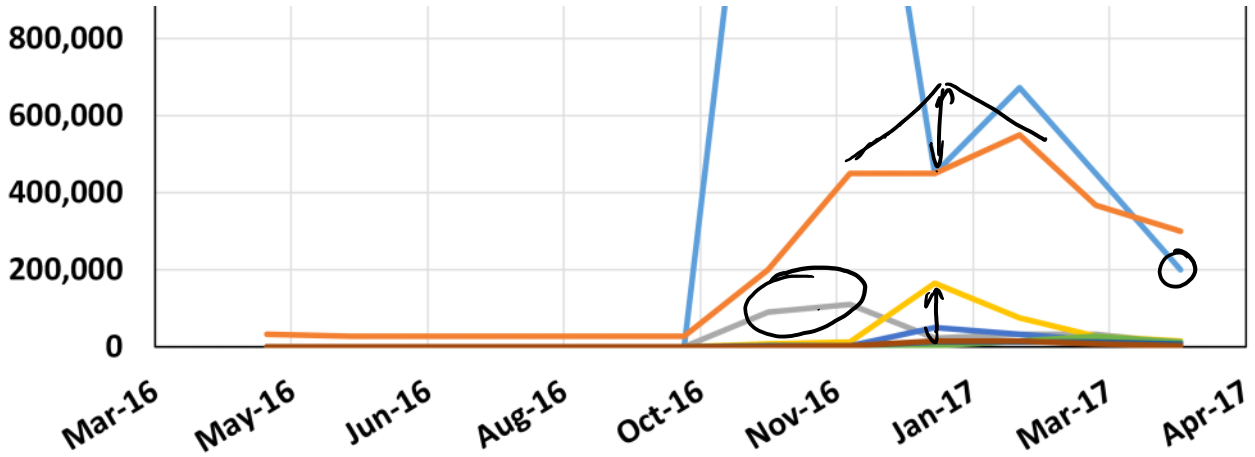
Note that there are multiple ways of interpreting the comparison because the Google Search Trends data is more broad than the exact terms in AdWords.

Thus in aligning how to compare the two data sets together, let's first look at the previous chart from above:

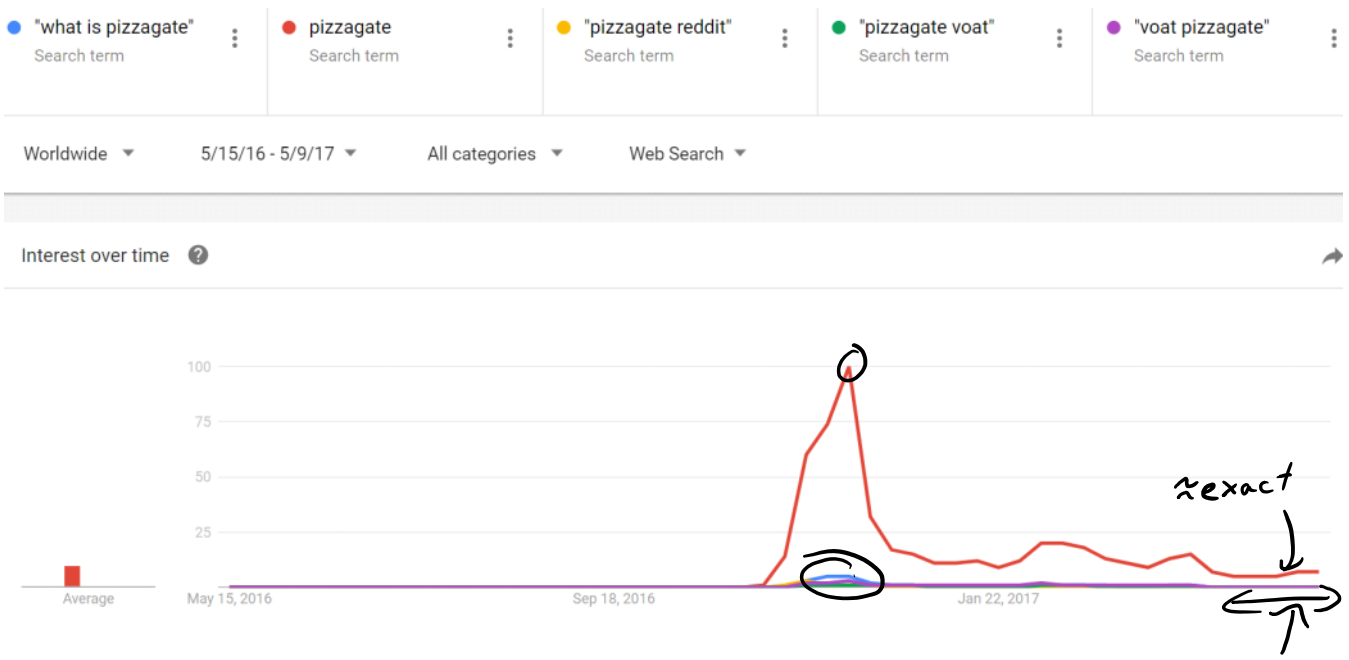


Notice how during the November/December period the term "what is pizzagate" was search relatively high.

But notice how "CNN Fake News" was searched relatively high during January.

This suggests that during November/December, the fact that "pizzagate" was a new term likely caused people searching for "pizzagate" using more broad queries, and thus the Google Search Trends data should be noticeably larger than the "exact" data by AdWords.

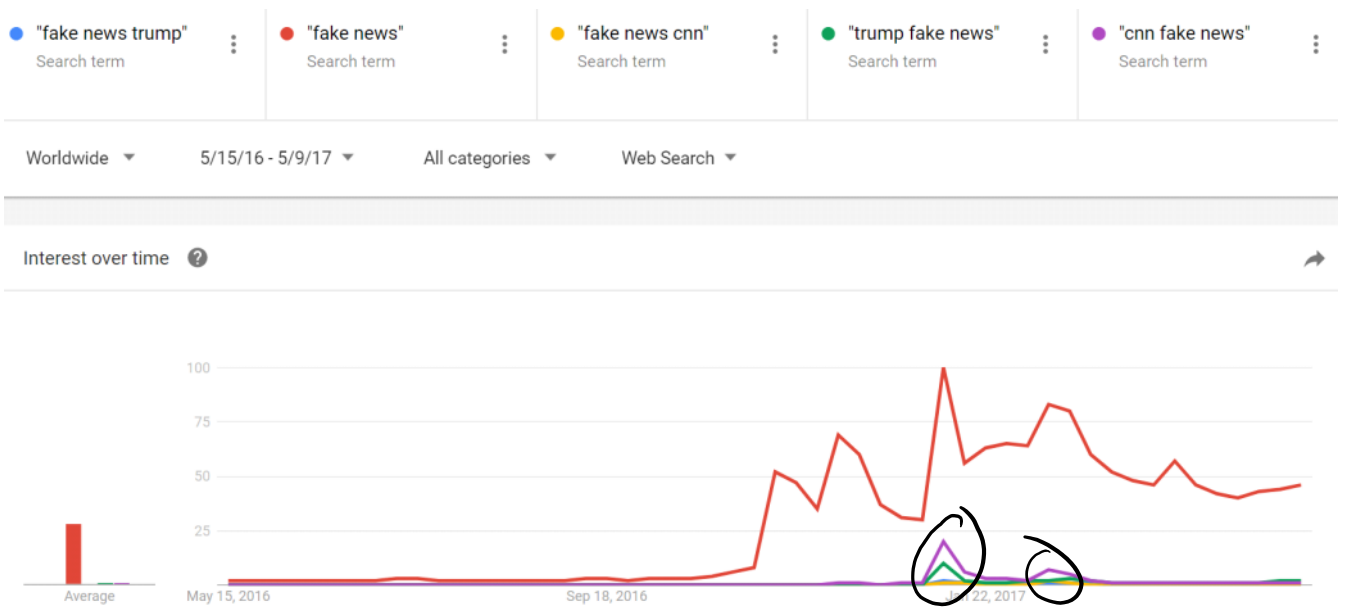
This chart, also from above, further illustrates that this is the case.



Thus if we include even more terms, the combination of them all should have a significant impact at the peak trend in November / December.

Like-wise, the related queries to "fake news" have peaks during January and a smaller peak during February, as illustrated by the chart below (also taken from above):

Like this, the related queries to "fake news" have peaks during January and a similar peak during February, as illustrated by the chart below (also taken from above):



> This is likely because of when Trump called CNN "fake news" in January, and then "very fake news" in February! HAHAHAHA #ItsFunnyBecauseItsTrue

Now understanding where the related queries peak is important when comparing Google Search Trends vs. AdWords data, because we need to accurately align the data sets, since both represents different data, i.e. "broad" vs. "exact" trends.

Thus the likely most comparable data sets are when the related queries are negligible compared to the exact term.

Thus I have chosen to align the most recent search data for the "pizzagate" query.

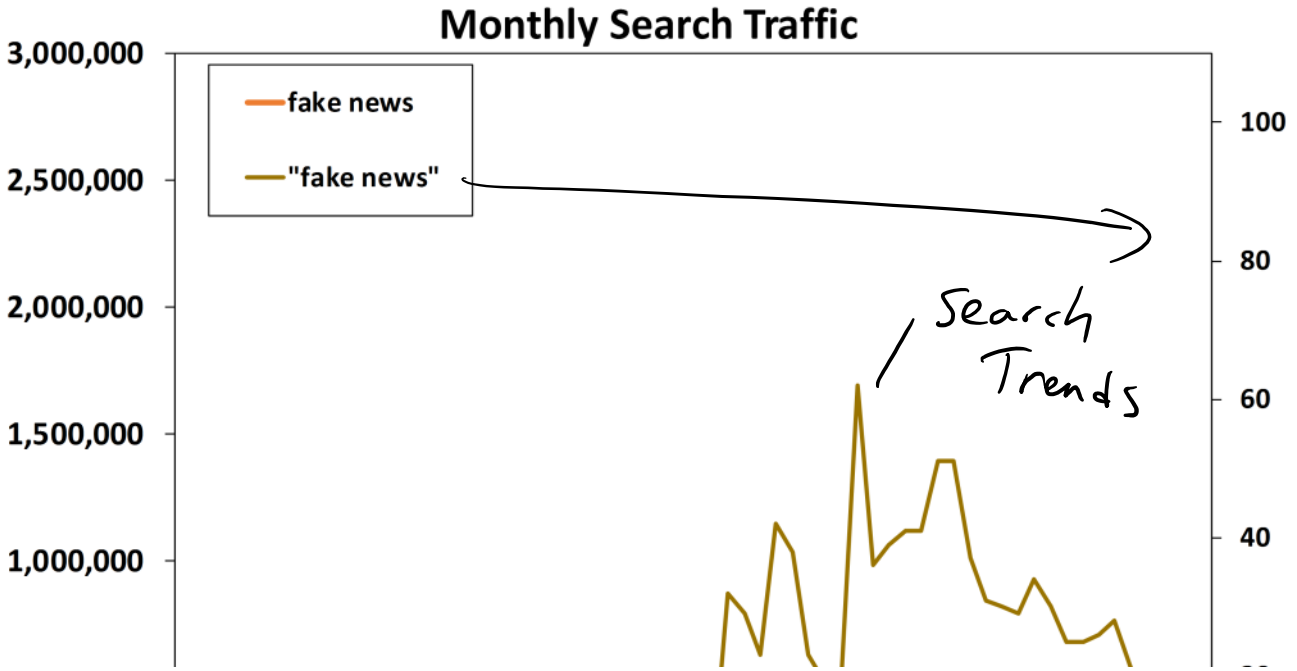
Notice how the peak Google Search Trends Data exceeds beyond the AdWords data as it should be because of the relatively high related queries searches during November / December.

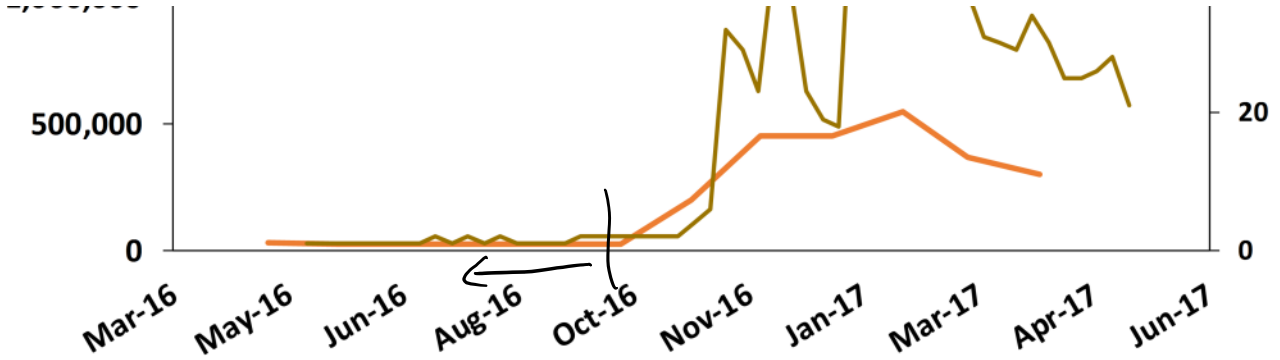
The rest of the time period appears to closely match for both charts, as was expected.

Also note that it is difficult to align the two data sets properly, for the reasons just explained, but as well as for the fact that the Google Search Trends data is given in weeks, while the AdWords data is in months.

But luckily the April Google Search Trends weekly data is fairly horizontal, thus we can align the AdWords monthly data by changing the vertical scales so that the April Data match up for both charts.

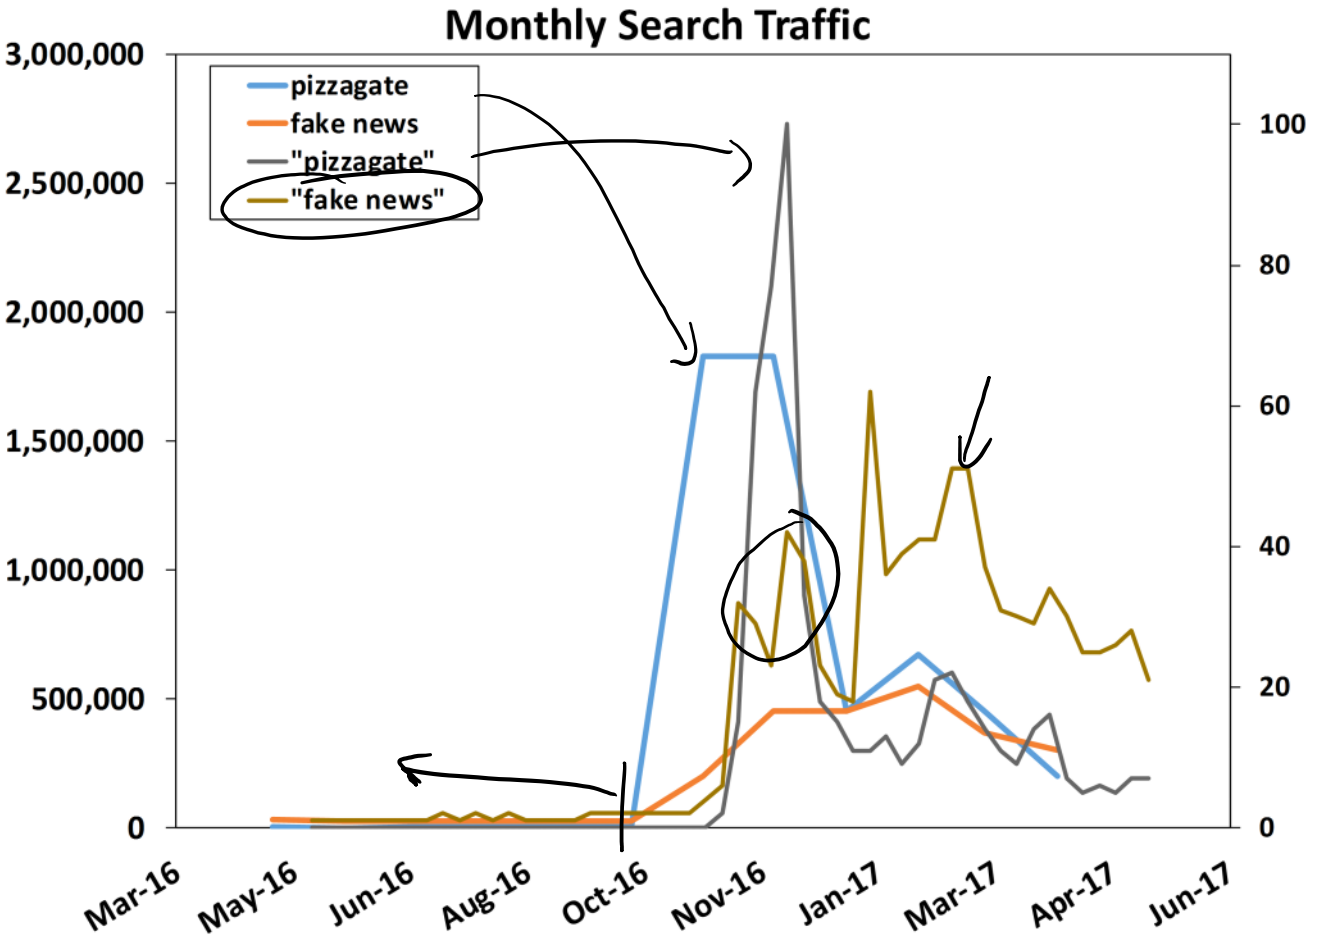
This alignment serves as a the benchmark upon which the "fake news" data can also be plotted together.





This graphs shows that the Google Search Trends were much higher for "fake news" than the AdWords data for nearly the entire time period.

This suggests that either the related queries combine to be relatively very high, for more than just the two peak periods I already alluded to, or the data is not actually representative of the actual search trends.



Putting all the graphs together we see a better picture of how the "fake news" data from Google Search Trends are much higher than the AdWords data for both "pizzagate" and "fake news".

Note the similar and extremely low data for all the search terms before October 2016

"fake news".

Note the similar and extremely low data for all the search terms before October 2016… #Interesting…

As pointed out numerous times above, I believe that besides just at one or two short time periods where related queries were searched high, there shouldn't be too much deviation from the Google AdWords "exact" data.

Regardless of what the graphs should or shouldn't look like, they are very misleading when considering the "exact" search phrases.

A perfect example of this is the following comparison between AdWords and Google Search Trends during the "peak" searches:

Peak Searches

Keyword	AdWords	Search Trends
"pizzagate"	1,830,000	100
"fake news"	550,000	62
% Difference	333%	161%

Notice how AdWords suggests "pizzagate" peaked at double the % difference of the Search Trends data.

Now, the question of whether this is intentional on the part of Google requires more data on various other keywords and phrases for comparison, which I may look into in a later video.

Summary and Conclusions

The Google Search Trends suggests that "fake news" has been for the most part searched significantly more than "pizzagate".

The AdWords search trends show the opposite, in that "pizzagate" has been searched more for the most part and only dropped down slightly below "fake news" last month on April. #WeGottaStepUpOurGame

It is my view, that the AdWords search trends are to be more trusted when any discrepancies arise from the Google Search Trends data because there is a higher incentive to give accurate data to advertisers, which totals in the billions per year.

While Google Search Trends is a "broad" search type in that longer phrases are taken into data to advertisers, which totals in the billions per year?

While Google Search Trends is a "broad" search type in that longer phrases are taken into account, yet include the selected search term, it is reasonable to assume that the Google Search Trends should show higher search traffic than of the "exact" search type in AdWords.

But after comparing some of the "top" Search Trends related queries, there are only few short time periods where they are searched enough to suggest they impact the overall trends in any significant way.

This is especially highlighted by the fact that the fake news term without the quotations " ", is searched only slightly higher than "fake news" through Google Search Trends.

- Note that fake news accounts for any phrase that includes "fake" or "news" in any order, and was only slightly higher than any phrase that includes exactly "fake news".

During their peak searches, "pizzagate" was searched over 3 times more than "fake news" according AdWords, but only just over 1.5 times according to Google Search Trends.

This is a massive discrepancy, just over double the difference, which I personally doubt it was just an unintentional consequence on the part of Google.

But I need to look at more data from other queries and comparisons, and maybe even other 3rd party keyword search tools, before I can prove any "intent" which Google may have, possibly to give the public the impression that the #PizzaGate was just a small fringe conspiracy.

I may look into this further in later videos, so stay tuned!

And as a reminder, since the AdWords data suggests "pizzagate" is losing steam to "fake news", we need to up our game and keep pushing #PizzaGate further!!

Stay Tuned for #PizzaGate Part 25...

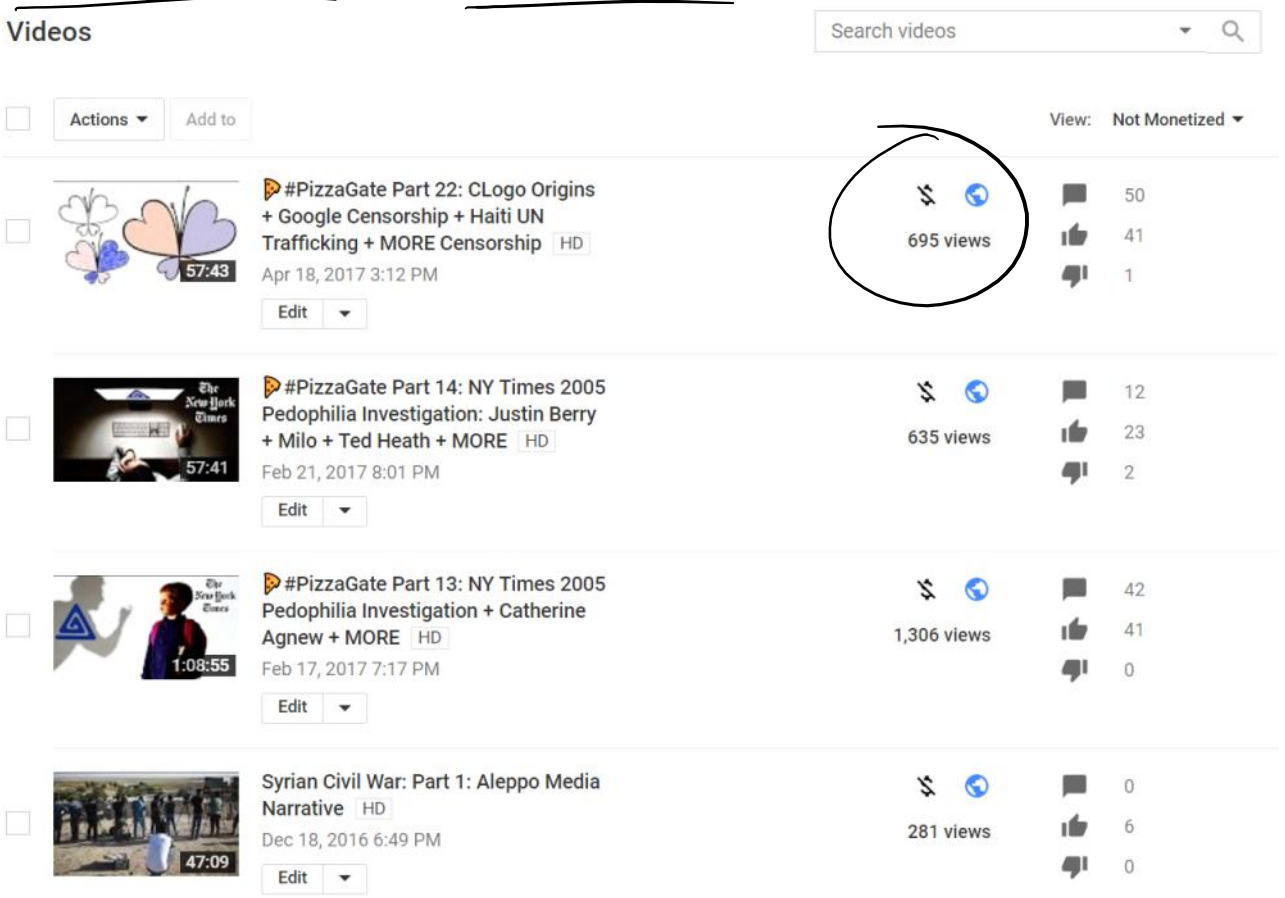
More YouTube Demonetization…. #YouTubeIsEvil



My latest video is demonetized….

Not only that, but another tactic that YouTube does is to put videos "In-Review" which removes monetization until the video gets approved again, which usually occurs shortly after uploading thus resulting in much lower money because that is usually when a video gets a lot of views.

https://twitter.com/PrisonPlanet/status/856652436508991489

It is clear that YouTube will do whatever it takes to take YouTubers livelihoods away.

Thus we need support each other especially the YouTube Channels that we sometimes take for granted.

Also we can fight back against this demonetization by #BoycottingEverything!

Luckily I found some archives!

The members of the childlove movement seek societal acceptance of their sexual or romantic attraction to children, and often also of sexual relations between adults and children (see pedophilia). Chiefly composed of pedophiles, many members of the movement seek to eliminate legal and social obstacles to pedophilic activity by:

- attempting to change public perceptions of pedophilia and pedophiles;
- promoting the repeal of legislation that criminalizing sexual activity between children and adults, such as age of consent legislation; and
- promoting the use of the relatively unknown and benign-sounding terms "childlove" and "childlover" to avoid the highly negative connotations of the terms "pedophile" and "pedophilia" (which in its Greek roots actually means "child-loving" (παιδοφιλια < παις "child" and φιλια "love").

Many in the movement actively campaign against the idea that children are unable to properly consent to sex — a belief held by the vast majority of people, cultures, experts in child development and legal authorities.

Many opponents of the childlove movement believe the term childlove to be a misnomer since they view any and all adult-child sexual contact to be abuse.

In the 1980s, a number of other "childlove advocacy" groups were created. The most significant of these were MARTIJN in the Netherlands in 1982and the Danish Pedophile Association in 1985. This was followed by the formation of IPCE, an umbrella organization and repository for pedophilia-related research, in the early 1990s. Of these groups, both MARTIJN and IPCE are still functioning, while the DPA decided to disband in early 2004.

The 1990s saw activity shift once again, to Montreal, Canada. It also saw the formation of online communities of childlovers. The Ganymede Collective was formed in Montreal in 1995 as a forum for "boylovers" to meet in the real world. Out of this group emerged the first online communities, some of which eventually coalesced under the umbrella of Free Spirits.

Most pedophiles understand that there is an innate power imbalance between adults and children, but they argue that within the correct ethical framework, relationships can take place in a mutually beneficial fashion.

The primary activity of the movement is support for pedophiles. They attempt to provide support to others who would otherwise be reluctant to discuss their attractions for fear of being ostracized. To this end, some organizations provide online counseling and suicide prevention services. More radical elements have chosen to "out" themselves publicly, as is the case with the group Krumme 13 (en: Crooked 13) [2] that counsels pedophile convicts to continue their activities once released, and The Human Face of Pedophilia.

Robin Sharpe, a Canadian pedophile, successfully challenged some aspects of child pornography laws in the Canadian Supreme Court in 2002, arguing that his fictional writings were not illegal because they had artistic merit.

Some pedophiles labeling themselves boylovers and girllovers celebrate their sexual preference. International BoyLove Day is celebrated on the first Saturday after the summer solstice. This is the day pedophiles attracted to boys celebrate their attraction, often by lighting blue candles discreetly in public. Alice Day, April the 25th, is a day of celebration to pedophiles attracted to girls. This is the day Lewis attraction, often by lighting blue candles discreetly in public. Alice Day, April the 25th, is a day of celebration to pedophiles attracted to girls. This is the day Lewis Carroll met Alice Liddell, the girl for whom he wroteAlice's Adventures in Wonderland, on 25 April 1856.

Controversy and public reaction to the movement

Members of the movement claim that they do not support child abuse or illegal activity; public reaction to this claim has been skeptical. This skepticism has been reinforced by publicized incidents linking members and groups associated with the movement to actual sexual child abuse and by the similarity of the movement's views to the views used by sexual child abusers to justify their abuse [18], [19].

Many of these incidents involve NAMBLA, the movement organization most widely known to the public.

Recent incidents include:

- Rev. Paul Shanley, a priest accused of abusing children as young as six years old over a period of three decades, allegedly participated in early movement workshops and advocacy, according to contemporaneous accounts of the events obtained by the Boston Globe. [24],[25]
- Charles Jaynes, also allegedly a member of NAMBLA, was convicted of murdering a 10-year-old boy then having intercourse with his body; the parents of the boy sued NAMBLA and its steering committee, alleging that Jaynes wrote in his diary that participating in NAMBLA and reading NAMBLA publications helped him overcome his inhibitions about having sex with young boys [26],[27].
- John David Smith, a San Francisco man convicted of sexually assaulting an 11-year-old boy he was babysitting, met an undercover investigator through his activities as a NAMBLA member; according to the investigator, Smith used his contacts with NAMBLA to trade child pornography and arrange sex with children [28],[29].
- Johnathan Tampico was convicted of child molestation in 1989 and paroled in 1992 on condition of not possessing child pornography. After moving without informing authorities of his new address, he was found after a broadcast of America's Most Wanted. He was arrested and convicted on child pornography charges. In his sentencing, the court found that Tampico was a member of NAMBLA, that NAMBLA supported a foster home in Thailand that sexually exploited children, and that Tampico and others traveled to Thailand in order to have unlimited access to young boys at the foster home, as evidenced by a number of Polaroid pictures, provided by Thai officials, depicting Tampico with young Thai boys sitting on his lap[30],[31], [32].
- James C. Parker, a New York man who, according to court records, told the police that he was a member of NAMBLA, was arrested in 2000 and convicted in 2001 of committing sodomy with a young boy [33].

Publicity regarding these incidents -- in addition to deeply felt opposition to the movement's views -- have led to extreme controversy surrounding the movement's activities and members.

Also note, prominent people that either founded or are connected to the founders of the BLogo, LBLogo, GLogo, and CLogo have also been convicted of child abuse, which I covered in my earlier parts.

Founded	December 2, 1978; 38 years ago[1]
Founder	David Thorstad
Type	Unincorporated association
Focus	Pedophile and pederasty activism
Location	New York City and San Francisco
Area served	North America
Mission	Removing age of consent laws

The North American Man/Boy Love Association (NAMBLA) is a pedophile and pederasty advocacy organization in the United States. It works to abolish age-of-consent laws criminalizing adult sexual involvement with minors[2][3] and campaigns for the release of men who have been jailed for sexual contacts with minors that did not involve coercion.[2][4] The group no longer holds regular national meetings, and as of the late 1990s—to avoid local police infiltration—the organization discouraged the formation of local chapters.[4][5] Around 1995, an undercover detective discovered there were 1,100 people on the organization's rolls.[4] In 1997, NAMBLA was the largest group in IPCE, an international pro-pedophile activist organization.[6] Since then, the organization has dwindled to only a handful of people, with many members joining online pedophile networks such as DanPedo, BoyChat, and Annabelleigh, according to Xavier Von Erck, director of operations at the anti-pedophile organization Perverted-Justice.[7] As of 2005, a newspaper report stated that NAMBLA was based in New York and San Francisco.[4]

In the late 1970s, the center of activity briefly shifted to the United States and the United Kingdom with the 1974 formation of the Paedophile Information Exchange (PIE) in Scotland (later based in London), and the 1978 formation of the North American Man/Boy Love Association (NAMBLA) in Boston: "In 1978, the Boston protests spawned an authentic pedophile activist movement, the North ...American Man-Boy Love Association [...] NAMBLA claimed to be in the tradition of an earlier gay rights movement, the Mattachine Society, which had been intolerably controversial in its day but was now seen as an honored forerunner of mainstream gay activism."[31] Both of these groups achieved relative notoriety in the early 1980s due to a public outcry against them. In an aforementioned 1988 interview, Bernard credited this to severely aggressive and radical behaviour of pedophile activism outside of continental Europe, [26]while on the other hand stating his regret of what he called significant ignorance in sexual matters in general in the US.[26] The PIE capitulated to public pressure and disbanded in 1985, however NAMBLA continued to exist. A 2005 newspaper article quoted an undercover police officer as saying that, in 1995, NAMBLA had about 1,100 members.[32]

In the coming years, pro-pedophile advocacy began to make use of the Internet: "For socially isolated pedophiles, the search for 'human companionship' was a salient concern, and Internet technology provided a virtual solution to the absence of physical convergence settings."[35] This use of the Internet as a space for advocacy and as a "convergence setting" began with the establishment in 1995 of BoyChat, a message board for "boylovers." In 1997, participants on BoyChat and other online resources formed Free Spirits, an umbrella organization with the mission of raising money and providing Internet hosting services: "Web sites such as Free Spirits can be viewed as 'convergence settings' in the sense that they provide structure and continuity in [the] face of any given individual, group or network instabilities."[36] Ipce (formerly "International Pedophile and Child Emancipation"[37]) is a leading activist site. The Montreal Ganymede Collective was formed in Montreal by Free Spirits members in 1998 as a forum for pedophiles to meet in the real world.[38]

- Ad van den Berg, co-founder and treasurer of the pro-pedophile Partij voor Naastenliefde, Vrijheid en Diversiteit political party in the Netherlands, was convicted of molesting an 11-year old boy in 1987. [143]
- The late Edward Brongersma, a Dutch lawyer, politician and journalist was sent to jail in 1950, for 10 months after having sexual contacts with a male of around 17 years old. Upon his release, he successfully campaigned for a reduction in the legal age, which was first lowered to 16 and then to 12 (with parental consent and no objection from welfare).

Pedophilia or paedophilia is a psychiatric disorder in which an adult or older adolescent experiences a primary or exclusive sexual attraction to prepubescent children.[1][2] Although girls typically begin the process of puberty at age 10 or 11, and boys at age 11 or 12,[3] criteria for pedophilia extend the cut-off point for prepubescence to age 13.[1] A person who is diagnosed with pedophilia must be at least 16 years old, and at least five years older than the prepubescent child, for the attraction to be diagnosed as pedophilia.[1][2]

See also: Category:Pedophile activism and List of pedophile and pederast advocacy organizations
From the late 1950s to early 1990s, several pedophile membership organizations advocated age of consent reform to lower or abolish age of consent laws,[136][137][138] as well as for the acceptance of pedophilia as a sexual orientation rather than a psychological disorder,[139] and for the legalization of child pornography.[138] The efforts of pedophile advocacy groups did not gain any public support[136][138][140][141][142] and today those few groups that have not dissolved have only minimal membership and have ceased their activities other than through a few websites.[138][142][143][144] In contrast to these organizations, members of the support group Virtuous Pedophiles believe that child sexual abuse is wrong and seek to raise awareness that some pedophiles do not offend;[145][146] this is generally not considered pedophile advocacy, as the Virtuous Pedophiles organization does not approve of the legalization of child pornography and does not support age of consent reform.[147]

Age of consent reform

Age of consent reform is efforts to change age of consent laws. Proposed reforms typically include raising, lowering, or abolishing the age of consent, applying (or not applying) close-in-age exemptions, changing penalties, or changing how cases are examined in court. A related issue is whether or not to apply ages of consent to homosexual relationships that are different from those applied to heterosexual relationships. Organized efforts have ranged from academic discussions to political petitions.

Following Salon's coverage of Milo Yiannopoulos, the site has deleted all of its articles by Todd Nickerson, who defended pedophilia.

4:23 PM - 20 Feb 2017

5,334 7,106

This is half-true. Yes, the article, which had been decried as "pro-pedophile" by some people long before the Yiannopoulos controversy erupted, was unpublished (as was an accompanying video). No, it didn't have anything to do with Yiannopoulos. Here's how Jordan Hoffner, Salon Media Group CEO and Salon.com acting editor-in-chief, explained what happened in a statement sent to Science of Us by a spokesperson:

> Prior to my joining Salon Media Group, the original Nickerson column was published in September 2015. The column was taken down in January 2017 as we rolled out new editorial policies. All stories on Salon.com, including our 'Life Stories' columns, now follow a new vetting process and standards for contributions before any are published. We're dedicated to covering breaking cultural news stories, and the coverage of Milo Yiannopoulos falls under our current editorial standards.

This doesn't really explain why the column was taken down, so I sent a follow-up email asking which standards exactly were breached, but the spokesperson said Hoffner wouldn't have any further comment.

…. And just like Snopes, their "Fact Checking" is horrible… "It had nothing to do with Milo because Salon said he has nothing to do with Milo"…. #HorribleReporting

Similarly, 60 Minutes also "fact checks" Hillary Clinton's health by asking the Clinton Campaign about her health and take their word as fact… #WOW

Summary and Conclusions

Pedophilia activism has been a long-standing struggle for pedophiles looking to lower or even abolish the age of consent, decriminalize child pornography, as well as arguing children can consent.

Many of the prominent pedophile activists, and even organizations, have been convicted or involved in child pornography and/or abuse.

The mainstream media, which can be seen through a quick search engine search to be actively trying to normalize pedophilia through a lens of moral relativism, giving platforms to pedophiles, and overly focusing on empathy for the pedophiles; and very little on actual news about pedophile rings and child trafficking.

Alternative media such as Infowars appear to focus on actual news and crimes involving pedophiles, as opposed to purely moral arguments by the MSM.

This is a major reason (if not the major reason) why Infowars is being censored and ridiculed to such astronomical levels as of recent.

Same goes for #PizzaGate because I believe we are hitting a bit too close to the truth for what

ALERT: We must shift our focus onto Google's massive role in censoring Pizzagate

Check out that video there about Podesta / Google / Eric Schmidt's role in YouTube / Google Censorship!

#GoogleIsEvil #DuckDuckGoToDuckDuckGo

My Rant:

To be able to change the world in any positive direction, freedom of speech is necessary!

We cannot rely on anyone and especially anyone in government to get justice.

We must start a grassroots movement that only votes in politicians that advocate publicly for freedom of speech, and especially speaks out about #PizzaGate.

We also need to boycott everything!!

Those of us seeking political office must use social media / alternative media / creating our own block-chain internet browser / media / etc., to get our message across unfiltered.

Billionaire Pedophile Jeffrey Epstein Files Secret Legal Papers Against Mike Cernovich

Convicted pedophile and registered sex offender Jeffrey Epstein served investigative journalist Mike Cernovich with legal papers earlier today. In a plot twist fitting of a Kafka novella, the entire motion is redacted. I can't tell you what this motion claims, nor can I defend myself in court against these secret charges.

Please check out this back-and-forth discussion I had with someone very familiar with how law suits work: https://voat.co/v/pizzagate/1779892/8719550

@JrSlimss argues that Cernovich is lying about being served papers from Jeffrey Epstein and makes a good argument.

This is something we should get to the bottom of so please go over that discussion and message Mike Cernovich on social media to get him to clarify his article.

I personally don't believe he is doing anything purposely nefarious, but nonetheless it can be seen as such if he doesn't clarify his article(s) more clearly.

Board index » General and Private " Arena ~ GL - Symbol?

NOTE: The article is translated from German.

Hello Hexxe,

we know from a quite inconclusive discussion from which you seem to have really learned nothing. Nevertheless, I want to be so polite and answer your questions as far as possible. In return, I would like to ask for a differentiation - also in your sense, because you are currently working on the actual problem. Much more still: they work against people instead of doing something for people.

The answers for questions 1, 2, 3 and also 5 I summarize here. Info can be found only sparsely and some information is also controversial.

Childlove Logo (Butterfly):

> Quote:
> The Childlove logo (abbreviation: CLogo) is an international symbol for pedophilia. It symbolizes the love between a BL and a boy or a GL and a girl. It is used by many to show their solidarity with the four proposed guidelines for physical intimacy in friendships between children and adults. The logo was registered at the Benelux stamp office on 15 February 2002.
> The Four Guidelines:
> - Consent of both: child and adult,
> - Openness towards the child's parents ,
> - Relieving freedom for the child from the relationship at any time,
> - Harmony with the development of the child.
> Appearance
> The CLogo is a butterfly and consists of four hearts: a large blue for the man, a great Pinkes for the woman A little blue for boys and a little pink for girls. The logo was designed by Norbert de Jonge. (Due to insufficient information, this is not the case!)

> Quote:
> 4. What are the meaning of these symbols for you?

For me the butterfly in particular has a special meaning. It symbolizes the tenderness, fragility and beauty of a girl as well as the relationship to a girl.

> Quote:
> 5. What message should be given to "not" pedophiles?

Would the answer of 4 actually be mediated?

> Quote:
> 6. Is there a symbol for convicted pedophiles?

Not that I was aware. If one assumes that in Germany every year around 250 pedophiles are condemned according to the 176er paragraphs and the following, I wonder whether the effort for the few people would be worth it ;).

Edition NL about OK magazine

On 13 July an item about OK magazine of MARTIJN Association could be watched in Editie (Edition) NL, a programma by RTL 4, a Dutch commercial TV station. The editors of the programme clearly proved to be surprised that the photographs of nude little boys in the magazine are legal. During the item two reactions from MARTIJN Association were read, which were to be seen on the screen too. These are the reactions:

"MARTIJN did not make the photos in the magazine. Photographers give us permission to use them for free. Worldwide, a lot of photographers are active to record the beauty of children with permission from the children and the parents. People often find things morally objectionable, but they should just ask themselves what is bad about a naked child. It's quite allright to appreciate beauty."

"MARTIJN is very necessary to break up the witch hunt against pedos. MARTIJN happens to be one of the few organizations in the world which makes a stand actively for children's rights, also sexually. Society is afraid for sexuality and a lot of people are frustrated about sexuality."

The Dutch sexologist Lex van Naerssen managed to report in the item that the photos which are in OK magazine, are legal.

General Members Meeting of April

During the General Members Meeting (ALV) of April, a number of proposals have been accepted with a majority of votes. The most important changes relate to the way the association presents itself to the outside world:

- From now on, it will be stated that the association is a platform for discussion about pedophilia. (By the way, the association will continue to fight for the social and societal acceptance of child-adult relationships.)
- MARTIJN Association now proposes four guidelines in relation to physical intimacy in child-adult relationships. They can be found under About MARTIJN. The association hopes that it is more clear now what it is fighting for and what it is not fighting for. With the guidelines, the association shows what it stands for on this crucial point.

General

MARTIJN Association, founded in 1982, is a platform for discussion about pedophilia. MARTIJN Association fights for the social and societal acceptance of child-adult relationships. In relationships between children and adults that are experienced as pleasant, possible physical intimacy should not have to be a problem. In relation to this physical intimacy, MARTIJN Association proposes four guidelines, namely:

1. Consent of both child and adult.
2. Openness towards the parents of the child.
3. Freedom for the child to withdraw from the relationship at any moment.
4. Harmony with the child's development.

MARTIJN Association is for the objective, scientifically verifiable truth and against political terror and discrimination. It is a platform for everyone who wants to offer a counterbalance to the dogma that children and youngsters are harmed by friendships and loving intimacy with older persons.

counterbalance to the dogma that children and youngsters are harmed by friendships and loving intimacy with older persons.

MARTIJN Association advises everyone to observe the law.

In article 2 of the MARTIJN Association Bylaws, the purpose of the association is being described as follows: "To make debatable the aspiration towards legal and societal acceptance of adult-child relationships."

> Thijs (10): "Just like a woman makes love to a man, I see it the same way, fun. And what they feel, I feel too." John (13): "I have no objection to it; well I think it's all right the way it's going, as I already said. And it's love."

Volunteer aid and action
MARTIJN Association is concerned both with the "volunteer aid" and support to its members and with information supply to members and others. MARTIJN Association:

- publishes OK magazine,
- publishes Persfocus,
- publishes a newsletter,
- manages the www.martijn.org website,
- speaks with the press and others,
- gives advice, aid and information,
- looks for dialogue with politics,
- strives for cooperation with like-minded groups,
- has a discussion group.

"OK magazine" is an informational magazine about adult-child relationships and pedophilia. The magazine is published three times per year and is sent to our members. It can also be obtained from a few bookshops and is available for perusal at some libraries. Members and non-members can share their stories in OK. OK contains serial stories, short stories, poetry, essays, articles on topical issues, reviews, letters, cartoons and useful addresses. Furthermore it always contains a delightful assortment of legal pictures and illustrations.

Vereniging MARTIJN ("Martijn Union") was a Dutch association that advocated the societal acceptance of pedophilia and legalization of sexual relationships between adults and children.[1]

Opposition

MARTIJN was expelled from the International Lesbian and Gay Association in 1994. The group was seen as "widely reviled" though Dutch prosecutors initially formed the view that it could not be prosecuted.[3]

In 2003 Vereniging MARTIJN faced opposition by the Actiecomité Stop MARTIJN (Action Committee Stop MARTIJN), which organized demonstrations against them. Formed and led by Michiel Smit of the New Right, Florens van der Kooi of the NNP, as well as Inge Bleecke of Moeders tegen Pedofilie (Mothers against Pedophilia),[4] the committee was labelled as extreme right by their opponents.[5]

Police investigations

Ad van den Berg

The home of the organization's president, Ad van den Berg, was raided by police in October 2010; downloads of illegal material had been traced back to Van den Berg's internet connection. It was announced in March 2011 that large quantities of child pornography were found among the confiscated material, and even more material, including computers, was confiscated when Van den Berg was arrested on 29 March.[10] Suspects in the Amsterdam sex case, an investigation into the abuse of tens of children in Amsterdam kindergartens, were members of MARTIJN.[11]

...

Catholic Church involvement

On 20 May 2011 Herman Spronck, the head of the Dutch arm of the Salesian Catholic order, confirmed to RTL Nieuws that a priest under him had been on the board of MARTIJN until the Van den Berg raids. He added, "Of course we reject this and distance ourselves from this personal initiative." RTL obtained interviews both with Spronck and the priest (73-year-old "Father Van B.") in which the two defended adult-child sex as not always damaging.[12] The priest concerned had prior convictions for child sexual abuse.[13]

Disbandment

On 18 June 2011, the Ministry of Security and Justice announced that the association's activities were not illegal. Crimes committed by its members could not be attributed to the association could not be prosecuted, banned or disbanded.[14] actions and statements regarding sexual contact between adults and children were in conflict with the accepted norms and values of Dutch society. In his statement, the judge emphasised the overriding need to protect children.[15] However, in April 2013, a higher court overturned this decision, upholding the Martijn club's right to freedom of association.[16] On 18 April 2014 the Supreme Court overturned the acquittal and reinstated the trial judge's order.[17] On 3 February 2015, an appeal by the association to the European Court for Human Rights (ECHR) was rejected.[18]

The CLogo

Designed with the intention of representing Boylovers and Girllovers as Childlovers, rather than as two individual groups as the BLogo and GLogo had previously, the CLogo is a good symbol with good intentions. However, what's lacking in the CLogo is that the modern childlover community needs a symbol which goes one step further to include non-childlovers and anyone who is in support of the individual rights of minors to choose who they want to have intimate relationships with.

We need a symbol which represents our struggle, not just who we are.

For nearly a year, discussions have been on-going inside the Newgon Forums, any thoughts, opinions and constructive criticisms are welcome, we need your help and input in designing a symbol to be used as our flag in this fight.

Ad van den Berg is treasurer of the PNVD and former leader of MARTIJN. He has served a sentence for having consensual sex with an 11 year old boy, who was scaremongered into confessing after being indoctrinated with myths about AIDS and homosexuality.

Clogo.org

Clogo.org was a small, informational website maintained by a mainly dutch work group, including among others - Norbert de Jonge. It contained an archive, Clogo, links, computer game, videos and a pamphlet for download.

Coming off-line

Clogo was taken down with advanced notice, eventually coming off-line in May, 2008. This roughly coincided with its web master's transition into generic politics.

Norbert de Jonge, is secretary of the PNVD. He also has MARTIJN links, having once been active in this organisation. Like Uittenbogaard, he came out as a Pedophile (Girl Lover). De Jonge is also a highly assertive and organised online activist - for example, using his webspace to upload an archive of podcasts.
De Jonge transferred into generic politics due to a lack of support for initiatives such as Clogo.org and Support of Activism.

Partij voor Naastenliefde, Vrijheid & Diversiteit (PNVD, founded 18 May 2006) was a small, Leiden-based Dutch political party that supported some of the objectives associated with childlove and liberalisation of Age of Consent laws. Its motto was "sapere aude ("Have courage to use your own reason"). During its existence, the PNVD faced persecution from organisations such as SKS, members of the public and their own state. The PNVD dissolved on March 14, 2010.

Structure

The public membership of this party currently consists of the standard three posts required by Dutch politics.
Marthijn Uittenbogaard - President | Ad van den Berg - Treasurer | Norbert de Jonge - Chairman.
All three public members have at some point been active in Vereniging Martijn, an organisation that campaigns for liberalisation of laws against sex between adults and minors.

Besta Pizza logo | Icon found on Terasol website | Comet Ping Pong logo | Symbol found in Comet Ping Pong menu

However, countless other major American brand logos contain similar shapes. Hearts, triangles and spirals are widely used symbols in business logos.

AOL | Wall's ice-cream | Time Warner Cable | MSN

NOTE the CPP menu P.E.D. abbreviation… and that Besta Pizza , Terasol, and CPP are located VERY close together…. #YouCantMakeThisStuffUp… #StayTunedForMore…

Also, in my opinion the only popular business logo resembling a pedo logo is Wall's ice-cream because it is near an exact mirror-image of the GLogo.

Note: Unilever (Wall's ice-cream), as will be explained in later videos has some very troubling links to the McCann case and #PizzaGate in general, so stay tuned…

Also note the horrible reporting by the NY Times… #Propaganda

Summary and Conclusions

Just like as with the GLogo and BLogo, there is a high level of detail, dedication, and pride put into the creation of a symbol for "Child Lovers", as well as creating many different variations of the CLogo and art-work relating to it.

The CLogo consists of 2 large hearts intertwined with 2 smaller hearts to resemble a butterfly.

The large hearts resemble an adult man or woman.

The small hearts resemble a child girl or boy.

The butterfly was chosen possibly to represent "tenderness, fragility and beauty" of a child.

The CLogo is used by pedos who have a more broad sexual preference as well as to incorporate GL's and BL's in their efforts for "activism".

The pedo-activists take their cause very seriously and have even tried running for political office in order to lower/abolish the age of consent and drive public acceptance of pedophilia…

One of the main pedo activists Ad van den Berg has been arrested for sex with a 11 year old child (i.e. rape) as well as for a second time of possession of child porn… #LockHimUp

My Rant:

To be able to change the world in any positive direction, freedom of speech is necessary!

We cannot rely on anyone and especially anyone in government to get justice.

We must start a grassroots movement that only votes in politicians that advocate publicly for freedom of speech, and especially speaks out about #PizzaGate.

We also need to boycott everything!!

Those of us seeking political office must use social media / alternative media / creating our own block-chain internet browser / media / etc., to get our message across unfiltered.

This is something we should get to the bottom of so please go over that discussion and message Mike Cernovich on social media to get him to clarify his article.

I personally don't believe he is doing anything purposely nefarious, but nonetheless it can be seen as such if he doesn't clarify his article(s) more clearly.

NOTE: The article is translated from German.

Hello Hexxe,

we know from a quite inconclusive discussion from which you seem to have really learned nothing. Nevertheless, I want to be so polite and answer your questions as far as possible. In return, I would like to ask for a differentiation - also in your sense, because you are currently working on the actual problem. Much more still: they work against people instead of doing something for people.

The answers for questions 1, 2, 3 and also 5 I summarize here. Info can be found only sparsely and some information is also controversial.

Childlove Logo (Butterfly):

> Quote:
> The Childlove logo (abbreviation: CLogo) is an international symbol for pedophilia. It symbolizes the love between a BL and a boy or a GL and a girl. It is used by many to show their solidarity with the four proposed guidelines for physical intimacy in friendships between children and adults. The logo was registered at the Benelux stamp office on 15 February 2002.
> The Four Guidelines:
> - Consent of both: child and adult,
> - Openness towards the child's parents ,
> - Relieving freedom for the child from the relationship at any time,
> - Harmony with the development of the child.
> Appearance
> The CLogo is a butterfly and consists of four hearts: a large blue for the man, a great Pinkes for the woman A little blue for boys and a little pink for girls. The logo was designed by Norbert de Jonge. (Due to insufficient information, this is not the case!)

> Quote:
> 4. What are the meaning of these symbols for you?

For me the butterfly in particular has a special meaning. It symbolizes the tenderness, fragility and beauty of a girl as well as the relationship to a girl.

> Quote:
> 5. What message should be given to "not" pedophiles?

Would the answer of 4 actually be mediated?

> Quote:
> 6. Is there a symbol for convicted pedophiles?

Not that I was aware. If one assumes that in Germany every year around 250 pedophiles are condemned according to the 176er paragraphs and the following, I wonder whether the effort for the few people would be worth it ;).

Edition NL about OK magazine

On 13 July an item about OK magazine of MARTIJN Association could be watched in Editie (Edition) NL, a programma by RTL 4, a Dutch commercial TV station. The editors of the programme clearly proved to be surprised that the photographs of nude little boys in the magazine are legal. During the item two reactions from MARTIJN Association were read, which were to be seen on the screen too. These are the reactions:

"MARTIJN did not make the photos in the magazine. Photographers give us permission to use them for free. Worldwide, a lot of photographers are active to record the beauty of children with permission from the children and the parents. People often find things morally objectionable, but they should just ask themselves what is bad about a naked child. It's quite allright to appreciate beauty."

"MARTIJN is very necessary to break up the witch hunt against pedos. MARTIJN happens to be one of the few organizations in the world which makes a stand actively for children's rights, also sexually. Society is afraid for sexuality and a lot of people are frustrated about sexuality."

The Dutch sexologist Lex van Naerssen managed to report in the item that the photos which are in OK magazine, are legal.

General Members Meeting of April

During the General Members Meeting (ALV) of April, a number of proposals have been accepted with a majority of votes. The most important changes relate to the way the association presents itself to the outside world:

- From now on, it will be stated that the association is a platform for discussion about pedophilia. (By the way, the association will continue to fight for the social and societal acceptance of child-adult relationships.)
- MARTIJN Association now proposes four guidelines in relation to physical intimacy in child-adult relationships. They can be found under About MARTIJN. The association hopes that it is more clear now what it is fighting for and what it is not fighting for. With the guidelines, the association shows what it stands for on this crucial point.

General

MARTIJN Association, founded in 1982, is a platform for discussion about pedophilia. MARTIJN Association fights for the social and societal acceptance of child-adult relationships. In relationships between children and adults that are experienced as pleasant, possible physical intimacy should not have to be a problem. In relation to this physical intimacy, MARTIJN Association proposes four guidelines, namely:

1. Consent of both child and adult.
2. Openness towards the parents of the child.
3. Freedom for the child to withdraw from the relationship at any moment.
4. Harmony with the child's development.

MARTIJN Association is for the objective, scientifically verifiable truth and against political terror and discrimination. It is a platform for everyone who wants to offer a counterbalance to the dogma that children and youngsters are harmed by friendships and loving intimacy with older persons.

counterbalance to the dogma that children and youngsters are harmed by friendships and loving intimacy with older persons.

MARTIJN Association advises everyone to observe the law.

In article 2 of the MARTIJN Association Bylaws, the purpose of the association is being described as follows: "To make debatable the aspiration towards legal and societal acceptance of adult-child relationships."

> Thijs (10): "Just like a woman makes love to a man, I see it the same way, fun. And what they feel, I feel too." John (13): "I have no objection to it; well I think it's all right the way it's going, as I already said. And it's love."

Volunteer aid and action
MARTIJN Association is concerned both with the "volunteer aid" and support to its members and with information supply to members and others. MARTIJN Association:

- publishes OK magazine,
- publishes Persfocus,
- publishes a newsletter,
- manages the www.martijn.org website,
- speaks with the press and others,
- gives advice, aid and information,
- looks for dialogue with politics,
- strives for cooperation with like-minded groups,
- has a discussion group.

Opposition

MARTIJN was expelled from the International Lesbian and Gay Association in 1994. The group was seen as "widely reviled" though Dutch prosecutors initially formed the view that it could not be prosecuted.[3]

In 2003 Vereniging MARTIJN faced opposition by the Actiecomité Stop MARTIJN (Action Committee Stop MARTIJN), which organized demonstrations against them. Formed and led by Michiel Smit of the New Right, Florens van der Kooi of the NNP, as well as Inge Bleecke of Moeders tegen Pedofilie (Mothers against Pedophilia),[4] the committee was labelled as extreme right by their opponents.[5]

Police investigations

Ad van den Berg

The home of the organization's president, Ad van den Berg, was raided by police in October 2010; downloads of illegal material had been traced back to Van den Berg's internet connection. It was announced in March 2011 that large quantities of child pornography were found among the confiscated material, and even more material, including computers, was confiscated when Van den Berg was arrested on 29 March.[10] Suspects in the Amsterdam sex case, an investigation into the abuse of tens of children in Amsterdam kindergartens, were members of MARTIJN.[11]

...

Catholic Church involvement

On 20 May 2011 Herman Spronck, the head of the Dutch arm of the Salesian Catholic order, confirmed to RTL Nieuws that a priest under him had been on the board of MARTIJN until the Van den Berg raids. He added, "Of course we reject this and distance ourselves from this personal initiative." RTL obtained interviews both with Spronck and the priest (73-year-old "Father Van B.") in which the two defended adult-child sex as not always damaging.[12] The priest concerned had prior convictions for child sexual abuse.[13]

The CLogo

Designed with the intention of representing Boylovers and Girllovers as Childlovers, rather than as two individual groups as the BLogo and GLogo had previously, the CLogo is a good symbol with good intentions. However, what's lacking in the CLogo is that the modern childlover community needs a symbol which goes one step further to include non-childlovers and anyone who is in support of the individual rights of minors to choose who they want to have intimate relationships with.

We need a symbol which represents our struggle, not just who we are.

For nearly a year, discussions have been on-going inside the Newgon Forums, any thoughts, opinions and constructive criticisms are welcome, we need your help and input in designing a symbol to be used as our flag in this fight.

Ad van den Berg is treasurer of the PNVD and former leader of MARTIJN. He has served a sentence for having consensual sex with an 11 year old boy, who was scaremongered into confessing after being indoctrinated with myths about AIDS and homosexuality.

Clogo.org

Clogo.org was a small, informational website maintained by a mainly dutch work group, including among others - Norbert de Jonge. It contained an archive, Clogo, links, computer game, videos and a pamphlet for download.

Coming off-line

Clogo was taken down with advanced notice, eventually coming off-line in May, 2008. This roughly coincided with its web master's transition into generic politics.

Norbert de Jonge, is secretary of the PNVD. He also has MARTIJN links, having once been active in this organisation. Like Uittenbogaard, he came out as a Pedophile (Girl Lover). De Jonge is also a highly assertive and organised online activist - for example, using his webspace to upload an archive of podcasts.
De Jonge transferred into generic politics due to a lack of support for initiatives such as Clogo.org and Support of Activism.

Partij voor Naastenliefde, Vrijheid & Diversiteit (PNVD, founded 18 May 2006) was a small, Leiden-based Dutch political party that supported some of the objectives associated with childlove and liberalisation of Age of Consent laws. Its motto was "sapere aude ("Have courage to use your own reason"). During its existence, the PNVD faced persecution from organisations such as SKS, members of the public and their own state. The PNVD dissolved on March 14, 2010.

Structure

The public membership of this party currently consists of the standard three posts required by Dutch politics.
Marthijn Uittenbogaard - President | Ad van den Berg - Treasurer | Norbert de Jonge - Chairman.
All three public members have at some point been active in Vereniging Martijn, an organisation that campaigns for liberalisation of laws against sex between adults and minors.

However, countless other major American brand logos contain similar shapes. Hearts, triangles and spirals are widely used symbols in business logos.

NOTE the CPP menu P.E.D. abbreviation… and that Besta Pizza , Terasol, and CPP are located VERY close together…. #YouCantMakeThisStuffUp… #StayTunedForMore…

Also, in my opinion the only popular business logo resembling a pedo logo is Wall's ice-cream because it is near an exact mirror-image of the GLogo.

Note: Unilever (Wall's ice-cream), as will be explained in later videos has some very troubling links to the McCann case and #PizzaGate in general, so stay tuned…

Also note the horrible reporting by the NY Times… #Propaganda

Summary and Conclusions

Just like as with the GLogo and BLogo, there is a high level of detail, dedication, and pride put into the creation of a symbol for "Child Lovers", as well as creating many different variations of the CLogo and art-work relating to it.

The CLogo consists of 2 large hearts intertwined with 2 smaller hearts to resemble a butterfly.

The large hearts resemble an adult man or woman.

The small hearts resemble a child girl or boy.

The butterfly was chosen possibly to represent "tenderness, fragility and beauty" of a child.

The CLogo is used by pedos who have a more broad sexual preference as well as to incorporate GL's and BL's in their efforts for "activism".

The pedo-activists take their cause very seriously and have even tried running for political office in order to lower/abolish the age of consent and drive public acceptance of pedophilia…

One of the main pedo activists Ad van den Berg has been arrested for sex with a 11 year old child (i.e. rape) as well as for a second time of possession of child porn… #LockHimUp

Stay tuned for #PizzaGate Part 23…

Changes are coming

by Julia Alexander | Mar 21, 2017, 3:45pm EDT

YouTube has been in hot water for quite some time following the the increase of far-right, racist and sexist channels growing in popularity over the past few years. Other channels, like those that belong to white nationalist Richard Spencer, grew in prominence during the election. Both subscriber and viewership numbers increased for many right-wing personalities. Many prominent members of conservative, right-wing and even alt-right — a xenophobic, sexist and racist hate movement — affiliations are well aware of the rise in their supporters on YouTube.

Freedom of Speech: The Walls Are Closing In - The David Icke Dot-Connector Videocast

To have David's Videocast sent to you in full every week, Click here http://www.davidicke.com/register

David Icke, the famous "Reptilian" theorist had his shows banned in Germany because of calls of "racist", "anti-Semite", and "deny the holocaust".

Since he believes life is a hologram then the holocaust couldn't have existed… this is considered "holocaust denial"… #unbelievable!

The venues where he was supposed to speak at, possibly pressured by anti-free Speech groups or Government officials, claim his use of "Reptilian" is taken as code for Jewish people…. #UNBELIEVABLE!

He is called a "racist" because again he believes since life is a hologram, then race doesn't exist… THIS IS CONSIDERED "RACIST"….. #HASTHEWORLDGONEMAD??!!

This shows how utterly dangerous these anti-speech laws are!

Boycott companies "Boycotting" YouTube's advertisment program

Random RantsofRyan Washington, DC, DC

We vow to boycott the purchasing of any products from any company boycotting YouTube's Adsense program on supposed "moral" grounds. This will take effect immediately until your YouTube ad revenue is turned on. We also request a statement from your company expressing allegiance to the spirit of our Bill of Rights and Constitution specifically the 1st Amendment. And an acknowledgement that like every citizen of this great country your company has a SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY to honor the 1st Amendment and Bill of Rights.

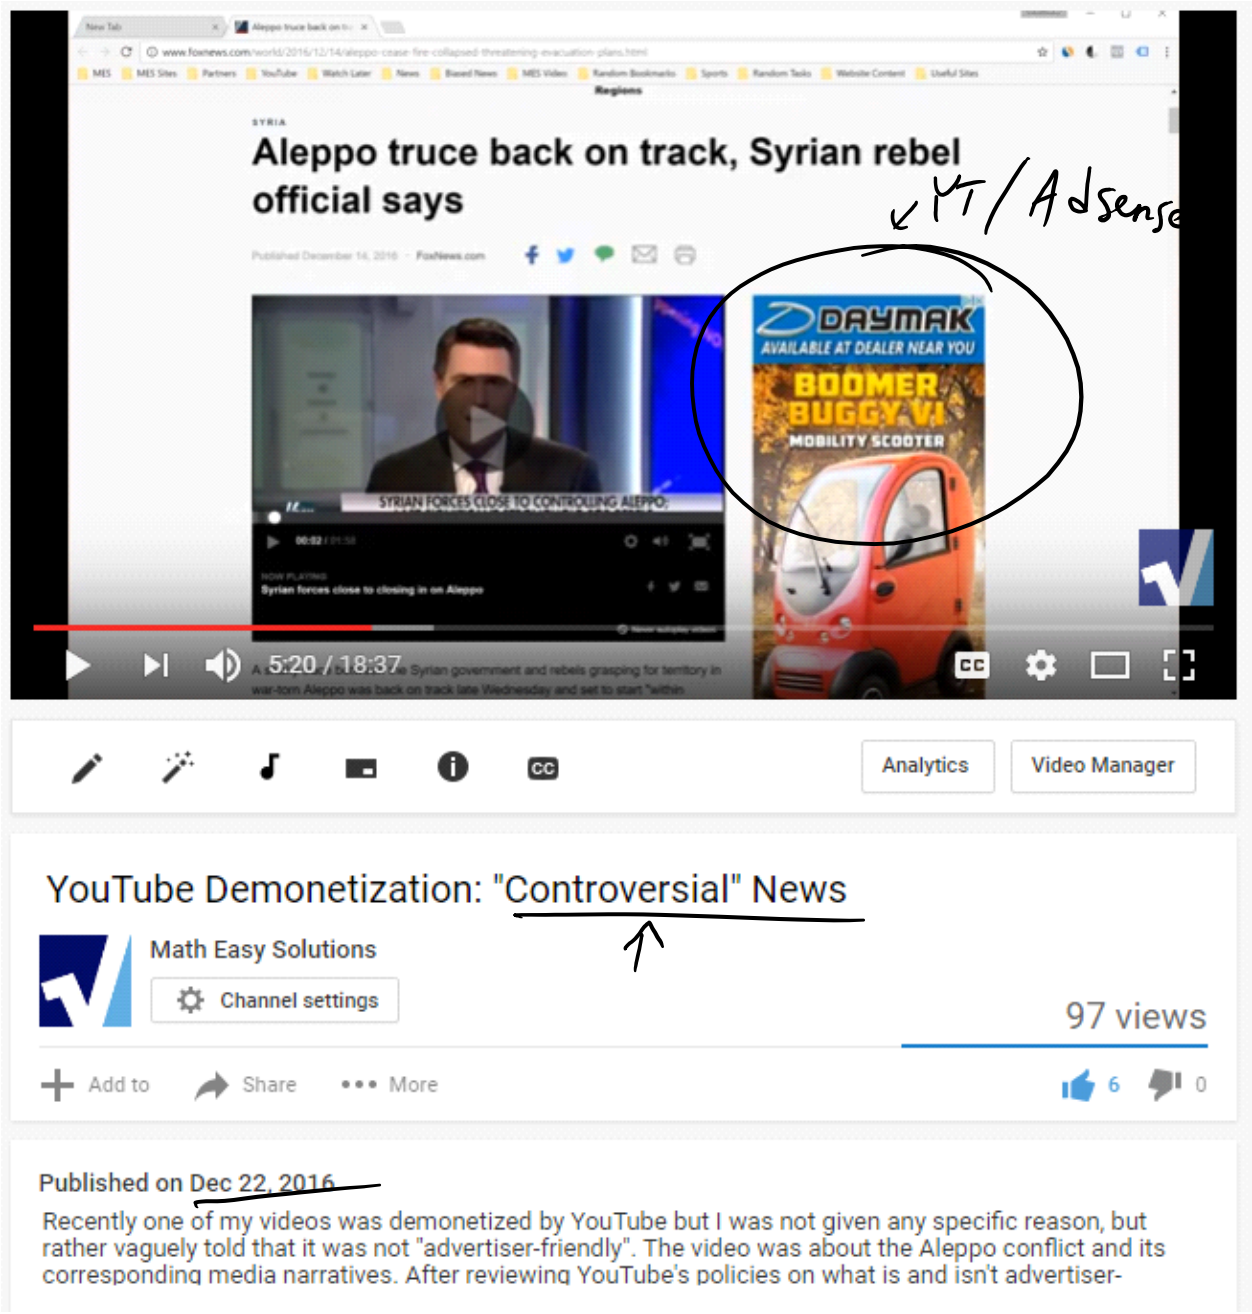
Demonetization is STRICTLY about censorship and not the "advertisers"



In this video I show YouTube's demonetization is strictly about censorship, and show how the exact same topics covered on YouTube have ads from the same ad network (AdSense) shown on MSM sites!

Also, as an advertiser myself, you can easily choose what types of videos, channels, topics, etc., that you want your ads shown on!

So if advertisers didn't want their ads shown on specific content they can already easily do so!

Thus YouTube / companies / fakestream media are lying about their "reasons" for removing ads from YouTube.

Mike Cernovich explains from his Insider Sources that the Deep State makes sure the people handing out clearances are compromised, i.e. are pedophiles, and that we should investigate every time someone gets denied a security clearance!

I pointed out how pedo blackmail is used by CIA / MI5 etc. in Part 12 so make sure to check it out!

Craig Sawyer is a man with a simple mission: Defending Children from Pedophiles. Sawyer is a great TV host with hit shows, but the Media shot-callers don't want him to make a show that can reach the people with this bombshell information which will devastate the pedo elite. Help us spread the word about the liberty movement, we're reaching millions help us reach millions more. Share the free live video feed link with your friends & family: http://www.infowars.com/show

Note that YouCaring.com canceled his crowd funding campaign for no reason at all!! #UNBELIEVABLE!

This is the disgusting level of censorship the pedo elites are willing to go to, even trying to cut crowd-funding sources from people that want to rescue children from sex slavery…

The former Navy Seal Craig Sawyer tried YouCaring.com after GoFundMe cancelled his application before he was even done it! #WTF Pedophile Activists Harold Spurling (aka Aztram) and Jeffery Brisson (aka Night Raven) were caught minutes after having video recorded themselves sexually assaulting a child.

After searching through the interweb, I came across these same pedos but in a Girl Lover forum…

Browser Tab: Glogo

Note: The current site cuts off at the bottom but luckily I have found an archived version that includes when the forum was initially opened (in 3 August 2000) (Archive is in 2011).

Archive: https://web-beta.archive.org/web/20110925202155/https://www.girlloverforum.net/archiv/glldforum/international/index.htm

I will be referencing the Archive version since it contains more information.

In contrast to boylovers the girllover till now don´t use any "official" logo. This forum contributes to stimulate the discussion about the design of such one. So it especially addresses GLs who ask for an exclusive logo to express their passion, but fundamentally also all persons who feel involved in this field and who are interested in graphics and design.

What´s off topic here?

Please, only send messages in connection with a future "GLogo".
This is not a board for general girllove/boylove- and pedophilia-discussion!
My recommendation for girllover is Girl-Chat

For infos to the already existing BLogo please klick the link at the bottom of this board.

> A blue (or yellow) heart with a pink (or yellow) female symbol in it. I mentioned this on GC earlier but not many people were excited over it. I was about to put it in as my sigpic but never got around to it. A heart should be used because GLs are not exclusively male. This symbol can work without color too. It should be a simple design, I planned that it would be crayola crayon-like in its appearance.

And designs always change over time. We can have one type of design now and alter it in some way later on when it's necessary, maybe even totally change it. I personally feel the design I propose would be the best overall GL symbol. I'd gladly put a sticker of it on my rear car window. You know what? I think I'm gonna go out tomorrow and make stickers of it or put it on a t-shirt. Hm, it took me a while to try and put up a simple sigpic, stickers may take longer. Oh well we'll see what happens.

Hope you like my idea.

Regenbogen?

Hi,

I think it would be a good idea to use the BLogo with the colours of the rainbow. But this would be a general pedophile logo (PLogo?) because the rainbow is meant to show the variety of sexuality. (NO, it is not only a gay sighn.)

GLOGO suggestion by anonymgl

[Girl-Lover-Logo-Design-Forum]

Posted by GL pap @ geno on September 19, 2000 06:31:11 AM:

These variations of a very nice Glogo suggestion sent me anonymously.

"My suggestion takes up the idea of a small / big heart
, but renounces the double heart shape. The advantage of a simple line is that everyone can paint them in the sand or in the snow."

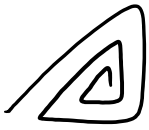
Best regards!
GL pap @ geno



Enjoy the sweethearts of the world

Note: The webpage is in German, so I used Google Translate Browser Plugin to translate to English.

The Girlloverforum was founded in its original form as a phpBB2 board by Ferry at the end of May 2004 and was operational by October 2008. This was the longest continuous online presence of a German-speaking pedophile.

Paedoforum.de

From May 2002 the paedoforum was online, filling the gap, which had been created since October 01 by the closure of the portal forum. It was the first forum on the topic, which was operated with PHPBB and remained online until the turn of the year 2003/2004. By the end it had about 14,000 contributions.

Pedophile girl lovers

Archive

Welcome to my Girllover Forum. For visitors of this site, I assume that there is a certain basic knowledge about pedophilia. I would like to begin the attempt to create a place where mainly so-called GLs can exchange their experiences with the judiciary. It also discusses how GLs can live their sexual preference within the very sharp legislation. More detailed information can be found on my Extran-GL-Page . Another request: Do not respond to hatepostings like "your pigs are all dead". These so-called "contributions" will be deleted without comment!

Hints

In this forum write people of both sexes and of all ages, who have a special affinity to girls in childhood or adolescence. These persons are called Girllover (GL).
Usually, sexual attraction is associated with this property. Many have decided not to live out this. In society, girls are often referred to as "pedophiles".
The Forum is open to the public, and people are welcome to attend. However, we will not tolerate insults and attacks against the Forum or its participants and will pursue them with legal means.

If there are risks associated with participating in this forum, then only those that are valid for every Internet activity: For example, it is technically inevitable to process the users' IPs. Identifying their identity requires some effort, since the issuing of IPs to authorities can only take place on the basis of a court decision in the country where the server of this forum is.

My biggest fear

Posted by Angel Lover on Thursday, February 13 2003 at 04:42:25pm

As the 100% of human beings, I have several fears. But there' s one fear regarding LGs and mainly the LG I love: the fear that she may forget me in time, or forget the real happy (or the sad) moments we enjoyed together.

Dara and I have been separated a few weeks ago and we' 1l probably see each other quite rarely from now. And I fear that if she stays more than, let' s say, one year without seeing me, her little child ⍰hard disk' may erase me from her memories. I intend to get ourselves together again in 3 or 4 years but I need her to see me as often as possible so she can' t forget about me.

What about yourselves, what is your biggest fear concerning the LGs you love/care about?

AL

I have also found a Wikipedia-styled page for pedos to document information…

https://www.newgon.net/wiki/Main_Page

Our resource aims to document facts, opinions, arguments, research and testimonies relating to physical attractions and relationships between minors and adults (see ethos).

GLogo

The GLogo is a graphic symbol for girllove that is widely used across the online girllove community. It consists of two pink intertwined hearts, one outer that symbolises the adult, and one inner that symbolises the girl in a girllove relationship.

A GLogo

Here is an interesting site that fights against child abuse, showing how pedos like to also use well-known symbols that look similar to their logos, instead of the actual logo.

PEDOPHILE SYMBOLS AND CODES: An Update

Recently, I received a comment from a suspected pedophile bragging about the newest additions to their collections. These logos were not created by them but are already in place as innocent designs for unrelated issues. The purpose for using these common images is to fool society into not thinking twice when seeing someone wearing these items. In the words of the person who commented to me:

> We do not adhere strictly to the shapes you posted. We can modify them slightly and still recognize other girl and boy lovers. I am sure you have seen the new necklace designed by Jane Seymour. You probably have a pendant of your own. The ladies like them. So do little girls and little girl lovers. When asked about mine and why I wear a bit of woman's jewelry, I say it is a reminder of my dead wife and child. Don't you know, people don't like talking to widowers because it is a sore subject. They would rather change the subject fast, and so I escape further prying into my necklace that signals other girl lovers that I am a GL. For my BL attraction, I don the wiccan triple knot. I know too of GLs who use the Roxy surfer girl heart logo and BLs who use the pagan vaulknot. These are both variations of the GL heart logo and the BL triangle logo but the public will never know the difference don the wiccan triple knot. I know too of GLs who use the Roxy surfer girl heart logo and BLs who use the pagan vaulknot. These are both variations of the GL heart logo and the BL triangle logo but the public will never know the difference.

The items to which he is referring:

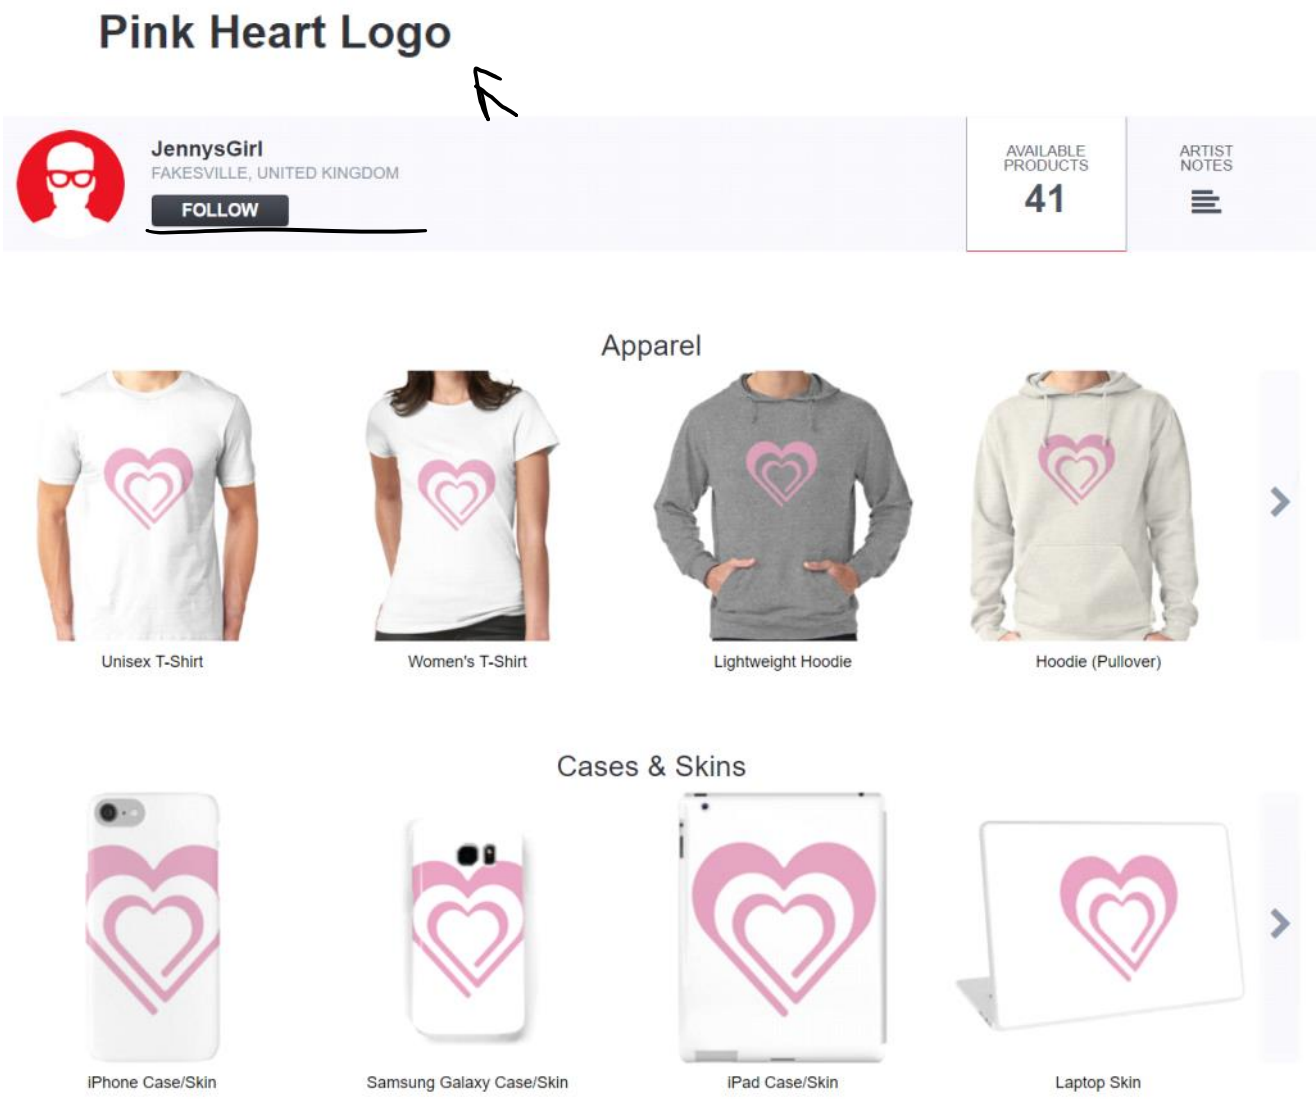
Pink Heart Logo



This Art Logo was up online by at least March of 2016: https://web-beta.archive.org/web/20160314034658/https://www.redbubble.com/people/jennysgirl/works/20028159-pink-heart-logo

This is the exact GLogo symbol.

Also, while some people mentioned that since the address was "Fakesville, UK" that this might be a person trolling, but the date of the post was before #PizzaGate.

Thus it is likely NOT a troll, but rather a pedo wanting to buy and/or sell pedo logo merchandise, but at the same time not revealing their actual address.

Summary and Conclusions

In researching the origins of the Girl Lover (GLogo), it is clear that there was a gradual progression through a coordinated effort by a vast online pedophile community.

While the GLogo has some variations and progressed over a "review" and "vote" process online, the underlying theme remains the same, which is large heart + small heart, symbolizing an adult and a girl.

Pedophiles are well connected and also associate themselves into subgroups, such as Girl Lovers (GLs), which is represented by the GLogo.

Pedos also like using variations of the GLogo, and even from popular brands that have similar looking logos.

The online forums and networks that pedos communicate in are very vast, have a dedicated member base, and share thousands of posts, documents, images, and even support among themselves.

Also important to note is that a quick "Site Image Search Engine" search of these pedo forums and websites leads some very disturbing images of little children… #disgusting

Memetics

Memetics is the theory of mental content based on an analogy with Darwinian evolution, originating from the popularization of Richard Dawkins' 1976 book The Selfish Gene.[1] Proponents describe memetics as an approach to evolutionary models of cultural information transfer.

The meme, analogous to a gene, was conceived as a "unit of culture" (an idea, belief, pattern of behaviour, etc.) which is "hosted" in the minds of one or more individuals, and which can reproduce itself, thereby jumping from mind to mind. Thus what would otherwise be regarded as one individual influencing another to adopt a belief is seen as an idea-replicator reproducing itself in a new host. As with genetics, particularly under a Dawkinsian interpretation, a meme's success may be due to its contribution to the effectiveness of its host.

AUTHOR: Major Michael D. Prosser, United States Marine Corps

THESIS: Tomorrow's US military must approach warfighting with an alternate mindset that is prepared to leverage all elements of national power to influence the ideological spheres of future enemies by engaging them with alternate means—memes—to gain advantage.

- DISCUSSION:
- Defining memes. Memes are "units of cultural transmission, or a unit of imitation," and as ideas become means to attack ideologies. Meme-warfare enters into the hotly contested battlefields inside the minds of our enemies and particularly inside the minds of the undecided.
- Formations charged with Information Operations (IO) Psychological Operations (PsyOps), and Strategic Communications (SC) provide an existing construct for memes and the study of memes, memetics, to grow and mature into an accepted doctrinal discipline.
- Epidemiology of insurgency ideology. Using the analogy that ideologies possess the same theoretical characteristics as a disease (particularly as complex adaptive systems), then a similar method and routine can/should be applied to combating them. Memes can and should be used like medicine to inoculate the enemy and generate popular support.

Retrieved: 15 March 2017

Chapter 1. What is epidemiology?

> Epidemiology is the study of how often diseases occur in different groups of people and why.

- Private sector meme application. 3M Corporation employed an innovation meme designed to cultivate an employee culture, which accepts and embraces innovation in product development. As a practical matter, 3M executives endorsed and employed the lead user process in new product development, which translated into a thirty percent profit increase. The innovation meme was key to 3M's profit increase.
- The proposed Meme Warfare Center (MWC). The MWC as a staff organization has the primary mission to advise the Commander on meme generation, transmission, coupled with a detailed analysis on enemy, friendly and noncombatant populations. The MWC aims for a full spectrum capability of meme generation, analysis, quality control/assurance and organic transmission apparatus. The proposed MWC structure lays in stark contrast to the ad hoc nature of current IO and JPOTF formations.

CONCLUSION: Cognitive scientists, cultural anthropologists, behavior scientists, and game theory experts must be included as professional meme-wielding-gunfighters on future battlefields. The US must recognize the growing need for emerging disciplines in ideological warfare by 'weaponeering' memes. The Meme Warfare Center offers sophisticated and intellectually rich capability absent in current IO, PsyOps and SC formations and is specifically designed to conduct combat inside the mind of the enemy. Memes are key emerging tools to win the ideological metaphysical fight.

Some argue memes operate by the strength of their meaning and their fitness is analogous to Darwinian theory, hence only the strongest and fittest memes survive.3

Using this logic progression, any attack upon an ideology must consider an assault on a central or transcendent 'idea' or group of ideas as means of achieving success. Memes as ideas are then 'in play' as tools (or means) to attack ideologies.

Conclusion and Recommendations

Reshaping tomorrows US military must encourage an alternative approach to warfighting and shifting to a mindset fully prepared to include all available national resources in order to gain advantage in the contest for human minds.

At the same time, the US must recognize the growing need for emerging disciplines in ideological warfare by 'weaponeering' cultural information, transmission and replication—in other words, using memes as weapons. While perhaps contentious, current US military Information Operations, PsyOps and Strategic Communications structure are inadequate to offer sophisticated combat methods to counter the nonlinear threats lurking inside the minds of our enemies. Recent comments by the Secretary of Defense underline this chasm,

> "Our enemies have skillfully adapted to fighting wars in today's media age, but for the most part we, our country, our government, has not…. the violent extremist[s] have established 'media relations committees'—and have proven to be highly successful at manipulating opinion elites. They plan and design their headline-grabbing attacks using every means of communications to intimidate and break the collective will of free people." 15

The emerging tools to win the metaphysical fight are memes. Managing, employing and leveraging memetic power is key for the US to shape and win on future battlefields.

This paper shows that top United States military officials are taking the concept of meme and ideological warfare seriously.

This paper is published through NATO as well, which further illustrates the importance and influence that memes have at shaping people's minds, and even entire cultures.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO /ˈneɪtoʊ/; French: Organisation du Traité de l'Atlantique Nord; OTAN), also called the North Atlantic Alliance, is an intergovernmental military alliance based on the North Atlantic Treaty which was signed on 4 April 1949. The organization constitutes a system of collective defence whereby its member states agree to mutual defence in response to an attack by any external party. Three NATO members (the United States, France and the United Kingdom) are permanent members of the United Nations Security Council with the power to veto and are officially nuclear-weapon states. NATO's headquarters are located in Haren, Brussels, Belgium, while the headquarters of Allied Command Operations is near Mons.

NATO is an Alliance that consists of 28 independent member countries across North America and Europe, the newest of which, Albania and Croatia, joined in April 2009. An additional 22 countries participate in NATO's Partnership for Peace program, with 15 other countries involved in institutionalized dialogue programmes. The combined military spending of all NATO members constitutes over 70% of the global total.[4] Members' defence spending is supposed to amount to 2% of GDP.[5]

We've just witnessed a successful meme insurgency in America. Donald Trump's campaign was founded as an oppositional movement—against the Republican establishment, Democrats, the media, and "political correctness." It used memes successfully precisely because, as an opposition, it benefited by increasing disorder. Every meme about "Sick Hillary," "cucks," or "draining the swamp" chipped away at the wall built around institutional authority.

Trump's win shocked the world, but if we all read alt-right power broker Jeff Giesea's paper about memetic warfare in 2015, we might have seen it coming.

This article by Vice illustrates the growing acceptance of the importance of using memes to convey information, as well as attack and destroy an enemy ideology, which can be applied to actual warfare, and even politics.

The article also illustrates the interest of top scholars, academics, business professionals, and military personal in understanding the power of memes.

Summary and Conclusions

Although memes are mostly known for funny or witty images with text shared on social media, their effectiveness and widespread adoption throughout the world has gained the interest of many top scholars and even governments.

They can be more generally defined as being an idea or cultural aspect that gets spread from person to person.

The United States military, as well as NATO, have been researching into the field of memetics in hopes of developing a concrete science in developing and understanding memes.

Some top military personal have also suggested the development of a Meme Warfare Center (MWC) to develop, track, and analyze the effectiveness of memes in the hard fought ideological war for the minds of the people.

The spread of ideas through memes is being viewed as the spread of diseases in populations.

The extent of the actual usage of meme warfare by institutions of power is unknown but there is a growing acceptance, even by the mainstream media, of adopting non-linear fighting mechanisms in both war and ideological war.

I have been pointing out the importance of memes for spreading #PizzaGate long before I found out that the United States military, NATO, political parties, and even before the mainstream media are trying to quantify memes in an actual social science called memetics.

Meme warfare is necessary in the ideological war for the minds of people, and the powerful elite are focusing on it because they have seen the widespread effectiveness of viral dank troll memes on the internet.

Meme warfare is not only a great way to spread awareness of #PizzaGate, but it is necessary to get widespread awakening of the people.

A great meme idea is to illustrate the code-words that the elite pedos use, such as "cheese", "pizza", "hotdogs", "Haitian special", "dominos", "torture chamber", "kill room", "handkerchief", "pizza-related map", "chicken-lover", etc., to convince people that these people are clearly speaking in code.

All wars are in essence ideological wars, i.e. we are trying to convince people to join our side, and it is clear that the current and future wars will be fought through meme warfare, so train and equip yourself accordingly…

Vault 7 Year Zero Released!

https://youtu.be/X5a7dAoBu40

In this video I explain the BOMBSHELL WikiLeaks release of the Vault 7 part 1 titled Year Zero which shows the unprecedented near universal spying capabilities by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

#Vault7 #YearZero shows how the CIA can hack into nearly any device, even cars and planes, make phones/TVs "fake off", able to commit undetectable assassinations, and even hide "fingerprints" to make it look like a foreign entity, such as Russia, doing the hacking!

Also, the CIA has in essence developed its own National Security Agency (NSA) which makes the CIA even more secretive and autonomous because they are less dependent with the NSA.

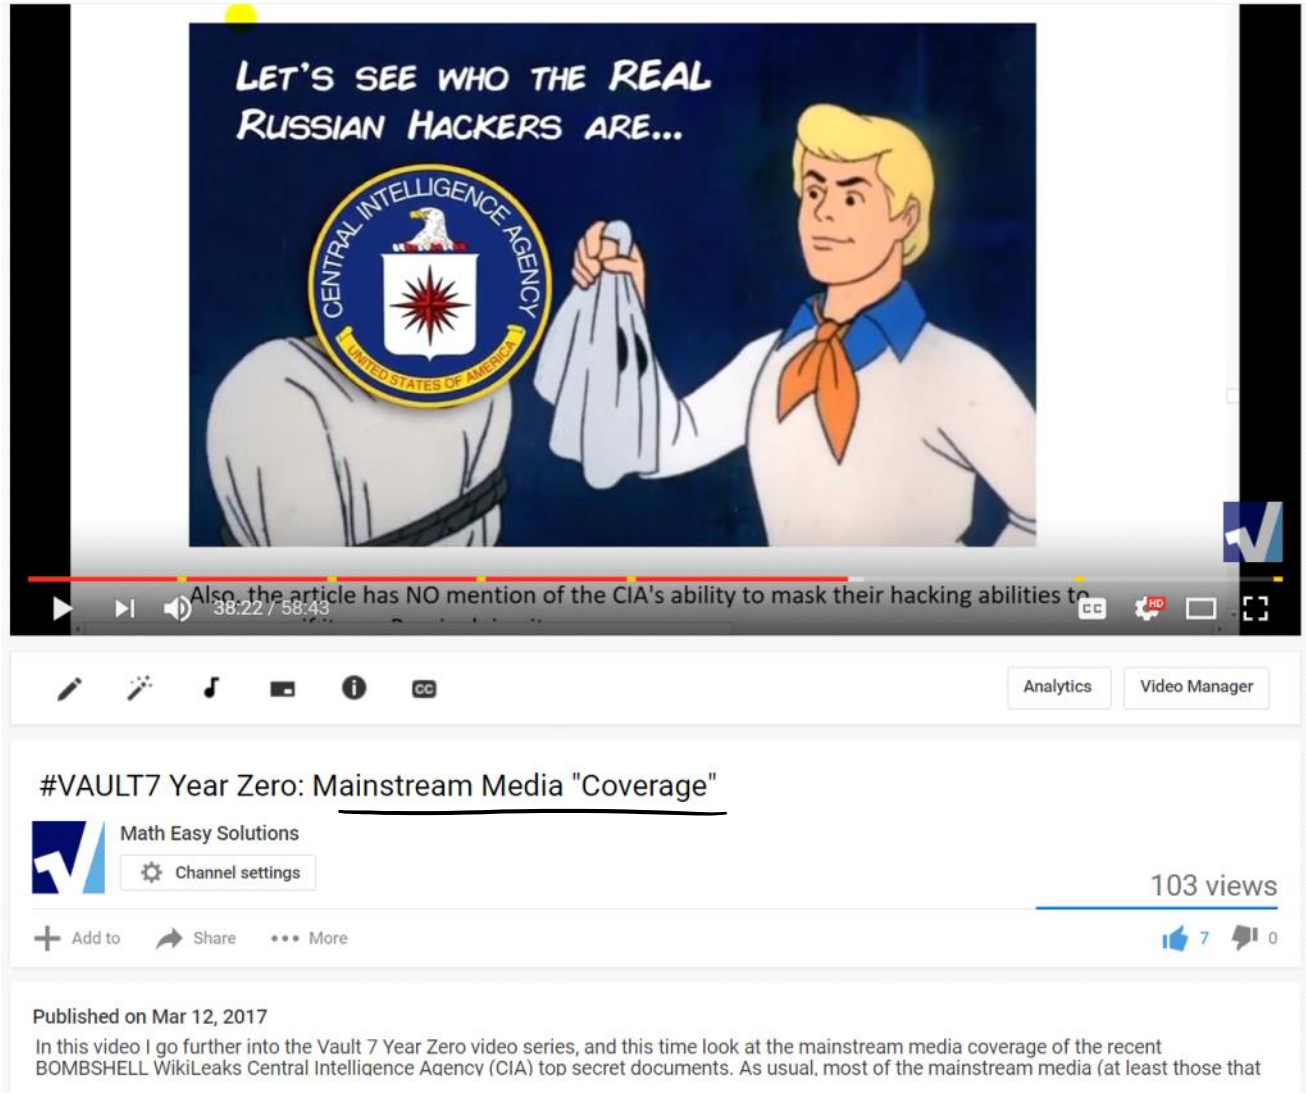
A major revelation shown was the loose way the CIA dealt with cyber weapons, by making them unclassified in order to use over the internet thus allowing hackers to obtain these weapons.

A major revelation shown was the loose way the CIA dealt with cyber weapons, by making them unclassified in order to use over the internet thus allowing hackers to obtain these weapons.

The proliferation of cyber weapons is a major risk, and hackers may already have obtained and copied these CIA created virus/malware etc. …

https://youtu.be/SD47K5x1cZ8



I go over the mainstream media coverage of Vault 7 Year Zero, and show as usual, the MSM is in full damage control and is just pushing the ridiculous Russia boogeyman narrative, going so far as saying the dank viral memes during Vault 7's release were made by RUSSIAN ROBOTS….. Yes…. Really…. #youcantmakethisstuffup

This is just another example of why we need an independent, censorship-free media, social media, and for all people to be individually open-minded to all information and on all topics!

#VAULT7 HAS EVERYTHING TO DO WITH #PIZZAGATE!!!

The CIA capabilities show the utter ease in which they can find incriminating dirt on people, blackmail them, and keep them inline while in positions in power.

And the best type of people for this is those inclined to pedophilia, which the CIA and other intelligence agencies, such as the UK's MI5, would prefer to control because of the social stigma against pedophiles.

Consider the following clip from Richard Hall:

https://youtu.be/Zw7ydhxRUEM?t=21m13s

A short clip of Bill Maloney, a prominent UK Activist against child abuse, talking with the investigative journalist Richard Hall about how the CIA, MI5, and other intelligence agencies spot out pedophiles and then secretly video tape them as blackmail!!!

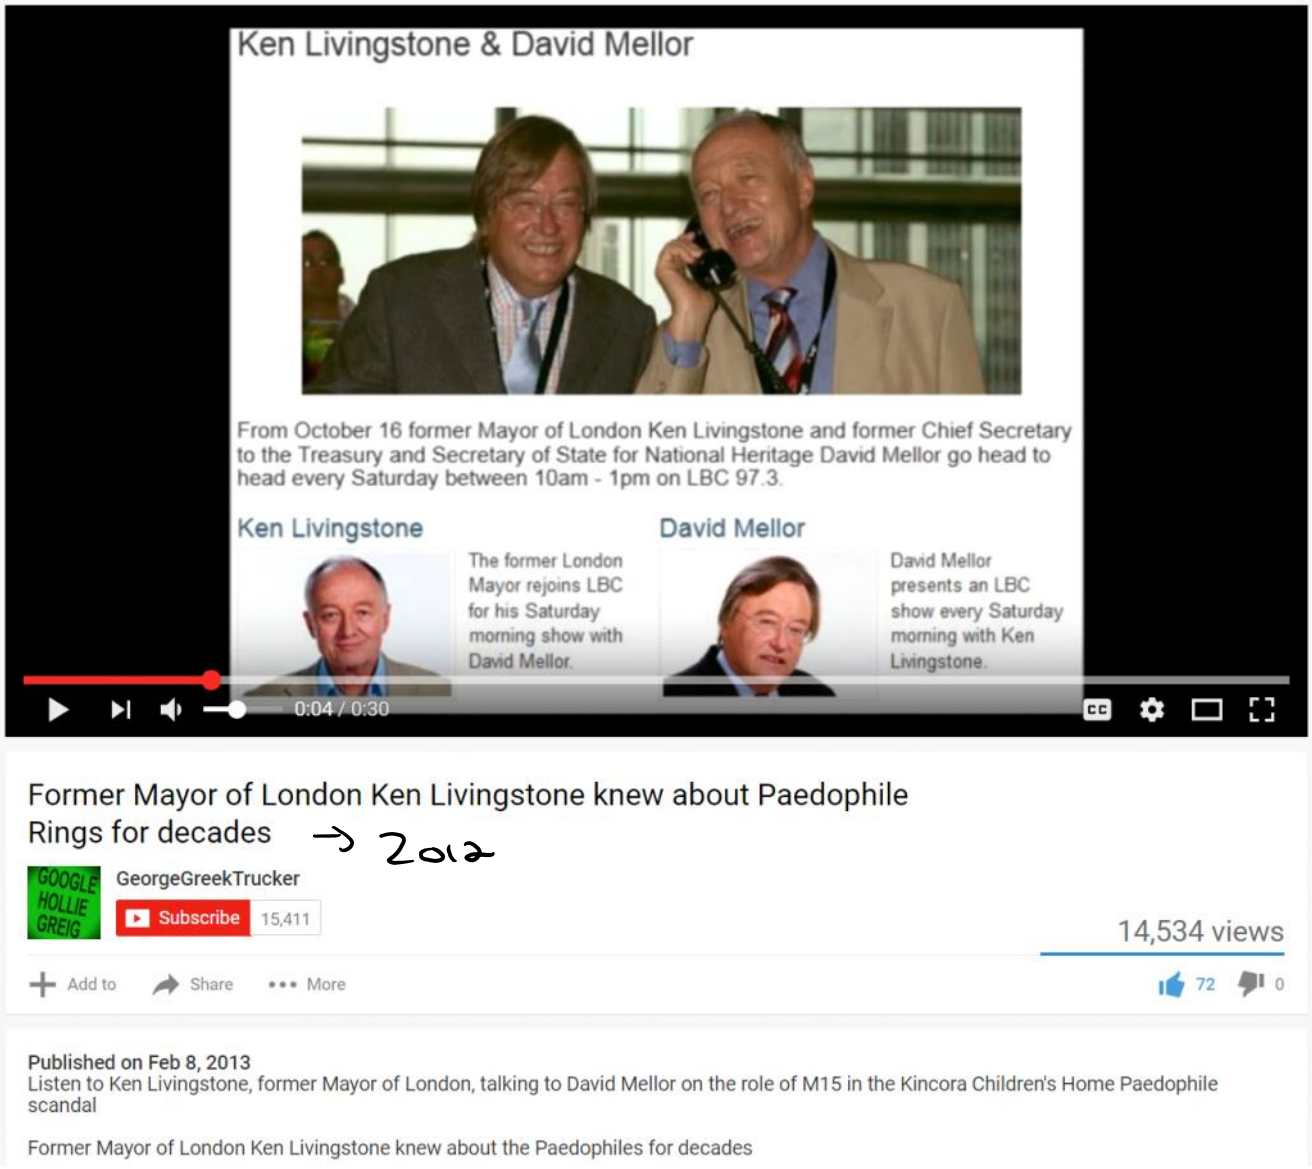
Also in the video clip, FORMER MAYOR OF LONDON, ENGLAND, Ken Livingston states how the UK's MI5 intelligence agency was trying to record politicians abuse young boys in hopes of gaining leverage against them…. #disgusting..

Ken Livingston NEEDS to be forced to go to court and elaborate more on this, and the mainstream media should push for this…. If they weren't nothing more than pure evil propaganda that would rather let kids suffer than do anything about it…

Also, Richard explains that the pedophiles are only usually exposed after they are dead so that they don't expose the government for blackmailing them, or exposing other powerful people involved in pedophilia…

Here is a longer clip:

https://youtu.be/dU4wfVI7LNc



Ken Livingstone said:-

"I was raising in parliament against Mrs Thatcher the Kincora Boys Home where boys were being abused and MI5 was filming it because they were hoping to be able to blackmail senior politicians in Northern Ireland.

They were hoping to catch one of Ian Paisley's MP's - and they never did - and give themselves some leverage. The truth is there's been an awful lot of covering up of paedophiles and paedophile rings for decades and decades."

#PizzaGate has been happening for decades…. #WakeUpPeople

MI5

The Security Service, also MI5 (Military Intelligence, Section 5),[3] is the United Kingdom's domestic counter-intelligence and security agency and is part of its intelligence machinery alongside the Secret Intelligence Service (MI6), Government Communications Headquarters (GCHQ) and Defence Intelligence (DI). MI5 is directed by the Joint Intelligence Committee (JIC), and the service is bound by the Security Service Act 1989. The service is directed to protect British parliamentary democracy and economic interests, and counter terrorism and espionage within the UK.

Within the civil service community the service is colloquially known as Box 500 (after its official wartime address of PO Box 500; its current address is PO Box 3255, London SW1P 1AE).[4]

Kenneth Robert "Ken" Livingstone (born 17 June 1945) is an English politician who served as the Leader of the Greater London Council (GLC) from 1981 until the council was abolished in 1986, and as Mayor of London from the creation of the office in 2000 until 2008. He also served as the Member of Parliament (MP) for Brent East from 1987 to 2001. A suspended member of the Labour Party, he was on the party's hard left, ideologically identifying as a democratic socialist.

Note: ZERO mention of his MI5 pedophilia blackmail recording… #unbelievable.

Note: Wikipedia should only be looked at as a source of general mainstream information and links, but nothing more.

Also, editing Wikipedia is not too easy, especially for political or controversial topics (i.e. look at their pathetic "summary" of Pizzagate…).

Vault 7 Year Zero has 8,761 documents, which means that there are a total of approximately 1 MILLION documents!! #WOW

COMMENT & LET ME WHAT YOU THINK THE REST OF THE VAULT 7 LEAKS WILL REVEAL!

I believe the Vault 7 series may in fact lead to more criminating evidence of #PizzaGate related activities…

Summary and Conclusions

The release of Vault 7 Year Zero is a game changer.

It provides conclusive evidence, which even the mainstream media have accepted, that the CIA has unprecedented capabilities in spying, hacking, and even masking those hacks, on nearly any electronic device.

Also, the CIA purposely left the devices of millions, if not billions, of people vulnerable to cyber weapon attacks, some of these weapons are CIA-created and may even have been obtained by third-party hackers because of the CIA's loose way of passing them through the internet.

The CIA can be viewed, and I do, as a terrorist organization, and should be treated as such.

Cyber Weapon Proliferation is a major risk.

The ease in which the CIA can hack anyone, even by making TVs & phones, appear off but still record audio and video, gives the CIA, or at least segments within the CIA to be able to blackmail many people.

A very powerful blackmail tool is targeting those inclined to Pedophilia, because of the social stigma, which makes those being blackmailed less likely to incriminate themselves by stating that the CIA/MI5 are blackmailing them.

The news of pedophilia in the elites are reported by the mainstream media (and law enforcement) usually after the person dies, because that way they can't incriminate those blackmailing them or others big names involved…

Even former Mayor of London, Ken Livingstone is recorded in saying that the British MI5 intelligence agency would secretly record politicians committing pedophilic acts, to be used as blackmail, and has been going on for decades and decades!

Ken Livingstone should be investigated and forced to name names, and elaborate on the extent of the pedophile rings…

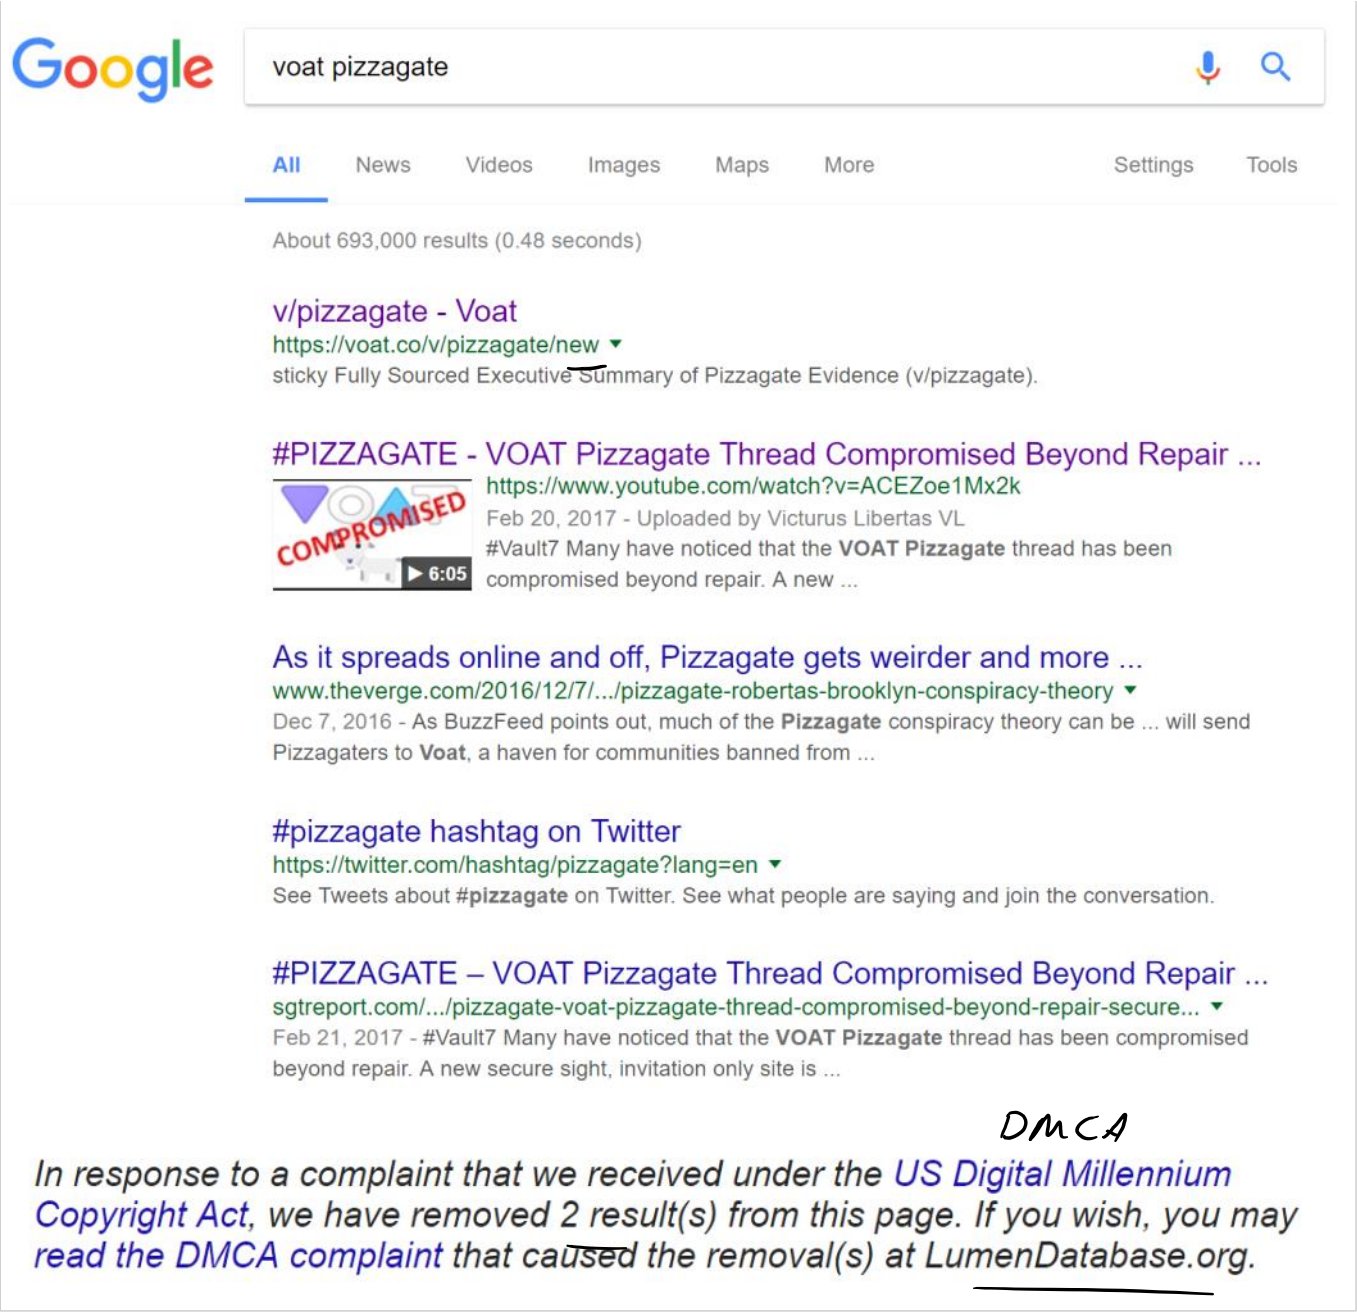
Google Search: Voat Pizzagate



While the voat.co/v/pizzagate link doesn't show, luckily the voat.co/v/pizzagate/new (for me) shows.

But the main Search Engine Optimization (SEO) backlinks, etc., are directed to the main thread, so this will greatly reduce the search traffic from those searching "pizzagate" or related keywords.

This is an absolutely disgusting tactic by Google, and in fact has nothing to do with "copyright", especially since if it is then they can easily target the alleged posts within the thread.

Also, to show how stupid this claim is, anyone can go and post the same post deemed "copyrighted" on any thread on any social media platform such as Reddit, and thus should the entire thread be removed from Google??

Clearly this is a targeted effort at squashing #PizzaGate researchers, which in my opinion are one of the greatest heroes humanity has ever had…

26 December 2016 by Bill Moran

Fool's Conspiracy: Did Kurt Eichenwald Use Journalism to Shield Himself After Viewing Child Porn 22+ Times?

Child Porn 22+ Times?

In the mid-2000s, former New York Times writer Kurt Eichenwald fell into disrepute after being caught paying a source $2,000— money that the journalist claims he requested back —an additional $1,184 to that source via PayPal to acquire and download illicit images and likely wired $1,000 more to the same source under a fraudulent name. That source, former child porn "star" Justin Berry, had become a cautionary tale of the perils of child pornography with Kurt Eichenwald being initially heralded as a hero who "saved" him.

What has not been reported until this time is that Mr. Eichenwald accessed illicit images of Mr. Berry (then an 18-year-old) and a 14-year-old young man masturbating at least 22 times over a seven day period from June 23–29, 2005 — a video that the now rehabilitated Newsweek Senior Writer claimed he had only viewed a single time with Justin Berry after the two met at LAX Airport on June 30.

It has also gone unreported that Mr. Eichenwald appears to have proffered false testimony both in written statements and verbal testimony asserting that he had not identified himself to Mr. Berry until June 30, 2005 notwithstanding having sent the former child porn actor a check for $2,000 with his name on it on June 8, 2005.

Further that payment went to the production of the child pornography video (titled JustinPreview2) featuring the 14-year-old child masturbating side-by-side with Mr. Berry on June 9, 2005 (the following day) — with court records indicating that Berry withdrew $300 following the deposit of that check to pay the young man for his participation in the illicit video.

Not only did Mr. Eichenwald violate all bounds of journalistic standards, but he proceeded to convince Mr. Berry to flip state's evidence on the same day — July 14 — that Eichenwald's administrative account on the JustinFriends.com child porn site was deleted and all messages between Eichenwald and Berry were scrubbed from Mr. Berry's computer.

On December 19, 2005, Kurt Eichenwald turned his criminal act into the cause du jour writing an impactful piece alleging to uncover the dark underworld of child pornography titled Through His Webcam, a Boy Joins a Sordid Online World based on the trials and tribulations of his associate Mr. Berry.

The made for Hollywood piece was but an opening salvo in the story of a tormented young man preyed upon by online predators until Eichenwald, by his accounts, swooped in to help him find salvation. In Making a Connection With Justin— the former New York Times writer provides a firsthand account of a heroic journalist who rescued a then 19-year-old Justin Berry from a life of crime, drugs, and self-degradation.

The files also show that an individual referring to himself as "Andrew McDonald" using the email address "mostin2003@yahoo.com" made $1,184 in payments to Justin Berry from 6/6/2005 to 6/23/2005. In the payment memo section, the user criticized the quality of potentially illicit images sent to him —court records confirm that account belonged to Eichenwald.

… he may have used the power of his pen to shield himself from accountability for viewing child pornography.

As one writer explained at the time in "Why No One Wants to Write About Kurt Eichenwald," many in the journalistic community were horrified by the revelations regarding Mr. Eichenwald's dubious reporting practices and other potential acts of impropriety in connection to Justin Berry, but as a result of his desperate effort at self-preservation many child sex felons were arrested and prosecuted.

The truth is Eichenwald was never held accountable for his actions. Truth knows no expiration date.

- Bill Moran

Note: The author was involved in a high-profile public dispute with Mr. Eichenwald in October 2016. It is for the reader to decide whether the evidence leads to the author's conclusion.

The story was inspired by Plaintiff searching the Twitter hashtag #PodestaEmails2 at approximately 3:05PM EDT and noticing a series of viral tweets attributing words in a WikiLeaks document to Sidney Blumenthal. Plaintiff went to WikiLeaks webpage, searched for and found the document. Plaintiff typed in the operative term "preventable" into a ctrl-f search of the 75-page document and determined the phraseology was accurate. Plaintiff then proceeded to scan the document for attribution in a rush. Plaintiff did not receive any instruction to write this piece by his supervisor Mindia Gavasheli, any employee of Sputnik News, anybody affiliated with the Russian government, or anybody at all. Plaintiff found the content for this piece, wrote it in a short roughly 20 minute period, and published it without edit or input.

Russian government, or anybody at all. Plaintiff found the content for this piece, wrote it in a short roughly 20 minute period, and published it without edit or input.

22. At approximately 3:42PM EDT on October 10, 2016, Plaintiff deleted the story from the website, from Twitter, and from Facebook after running a full quote into a Google search box as a precautionary second look at which point he realized the phraseology used in the article was written not by Sidney Blumenthal, but by Newsweek Senior Writer Kurt Eichenwald. Plaintiff did not receive any instruction to delete it from nor was he informed of any error by his supervisor Mindia Gavasheli, anybody affiliated with the Russian government, anybody affiliated with Newsweek, or anybody at all.

23. From 3:42PM EDT to roughly 9:00PM EDT Plaintiff intermittently searched Twitter, Facebook and Google for any references to the short lived Sputnik article that received approximately 1,000 page views – Plaintiff saw no such activity until stumbling upon an article written by Newsweek's Kurt Eichenwald and published at 7:45PM EDT titled "Dear Vladimir Putin, I am Not Sidney Blumenthal."

24. Newsweek's Kurt Eichenwald alleged in the aforementioned article that Sputnik had written the piece "probably already kn[owing] about [the PodestaEmails2 release] before the WikiLeaks dump."

25. Newsweek's Eichenwald further alleged in the aforementioned article that "Putin and his Kremlin cronies must have been dancing with delight."

Plaintiff Decides to go Public, Eichenwald Tries to Silence Him

49. On October 17, 2016, Plaintiff wrote to Kurt Eichenwald and Defendants' General Counsel Rosie McKimmie that he had decided after great reflection to go public with the true rendition of facts unless Newsweek retracted or substantially corrected its story. Plaintiff also offered to physically meet a representative of Newsweek to confirm his identity and explained that the reason for wanting to correct Newsweek's story was to limit false hysteria in furtherance of the public interest.

56. At that point Plaintiff wrote a piece for Sputnik titled "I am Vladimir Putin: The First Victim of McCarthyism" apologizing to readers about Plaintiff's error and explaining Defendants' employee Kurt Eichenwald's attempts to silence the truth. The story was published at 3:08PM EDT on October 17, 2016.

...

61. On October 19, 2016, Paste Magazine published a piece titled "Did Newsweek's Kurt Eichenwald Use Threats and Bribery to Silence a Young Journalist?" [Hereinafter "The Paste Magazine Article"].

62. In The Paste Magazine Article Bragman and Ryan wrote: "The central question of this strange odyssey is this: Was Eichenwald guilty of using threats and bribery to coerce Moran into staying silent, fearing that the true story of plain human incompetence at Sputnik would undermine his own conspiracy theories."

63. Also in The Paste Magazine Article Bragman and Ryan wrote: "[I]t is Paste's opinion that [Eichenwald's] language clearly meets, and exceeds, the standard of intimidation and coercion, from the sinister talk of an FBI intelligence file on Moran, to the redemptive possibility of a job at The New Republic. In fact, it reads very much like a classic interrogation tactic – scare the subject by painting a dark picture of the future, and then, when the outlook is sufficiently bleak, offer salvation."

Kurt Eichenwald's "Tweet Storm" in Response to the Paste Magazine Article

64. On October 20, 2016, Defendants' employee Kurt Eichenwald launched a tirade of over 70 Tweets at Plaintiff. This erratic behavior towards Plaintiff, and the failure by Defendants' to take corrective action upon being notified, shows Defendants' actual malice and reckless disregard for the truth in later publishing libelous claims about Plaintiff.

65. In one tweeted sentence in the over 70 tweet tirade Eichenwald replied to Plaintiff: "ur lie that u never said anything about possibly losing your house is in writing" – referring to the story by Paste Magazine - who Plaintiff gave all emails with Defendants' staff to.

66. In another tweeted sentence in the tirade Eichenwald replied to Plaintiff that he (Plaintiff) lied about the writer offering the carrot of a job at The New Republic and says that this "shows [Plaintiff] for the fraud [he is]."

67. In another tweeted sentence in the tirade Eichenwald replied to Plaintiff that he (Plaintiff) was not really fired and that he was telling a series of lies in a "desperate attempt to save Sputnik."

70. In another tweeted paragraph in the tirade Eichenwald replies to Plaintiff "Why wuld u say u were financially ruined then refuse 2 start at Sputnik when they offered u ur job back? … … did u never lose your job? Was the financial wreckage line (which got my sympathies for you) the lie? How are u… … making a living if u were going to be ruined but now have no job? Let's go bill. File ur lawsuit. Or explain why u wont."

71. In another tweeted paragraph in the tirade, Eichenwald replies to Plaintiff, "You think this is over, you fraud? U think, now that I know what u are, I'm going to walk away? Sorry dude. Ur wrecked."

72. In another tweeted sentence in the tirade, Eichenwald replies to Plaintiff, "HAHAHA!!! Dumbass, you wrote u got your job back (It's magic!) and instead chose to go on a long vacation. So which is it?"

73. In another tweeted paragraph in the tirade, Eichenwald replies to Plaintiff, "How does that line up with u writing in… … Sputnik that u got ur job "back" two days later? Did u get fired again in the last two days? And if u were in such dire financial straits, why did u turn down the job?"

74. In another tweeted paragraph in the tirade, Eichenwald replies to Plaintiff, 'I though u were just one of Sputnik's useful idiots who didn't know what he was involved in. So I took pity on you, So… … yah, u tricked me. Tricked me good. When's your next "I'm not Putin" article Bill? Since Sputnik took the last one… … down (I still have it) will they take this one down the next time you step forward to say it again?'

PRINCIPAL ACTS OF LIBEL/INFLICTION OF EMOTIONAL DISTRESS

78. Later on October 20, 2016, Newsweek published an update to Kurt Eichenwald's article "Dear Donald Trump and Vladimir Putin, I Am Not Sidney Blumenthal" (Hereinafter "The Eichenwald Article") to include in relevant part the threatened paragraph (See Paragraph 51 of Complaint) that Defendants' employee Eichenwald acknowledged would ruin Plaintiff's career in substantial part:

> William Moran [II], the writer for Sputnik, said he based his article not on directives from the Russian government but on an anonymous tweet he saw on the internet that used an altered image of the document. He said he accepted the anonymous tweeter's description that this was from Blumenthal, and did so because he was rushed. However, as the government official with knowledge of the intelligence inquiry said, the original altered document that was tweeted onto the internet came from a location that has been identified as being connected to the Russian disinformation campaigns, and only the news outlet controlled by the Russian government published an article based on it.

106. In the alternative, if Plaintiff's sanity has become impaired as a result of the egregious, libelous claims rendered against him by Defendants - as Newsweek's editor Jim Impoco alleges - let this go to proof of damages.

107. On January 31, 2017, Plaintiff issued an email to Newsweek's editor Jim Impoco and Defendants' General Counsel Rosie McKimmie requesting they do all that is reasonable to retract or recant the false and libelous claims that Plaintiff has committed the criminal act of stalking and refrain from any further similar libelous activities.

Similar Acts of Journalistic Malfeasance by Defendants' Employee Kurt Eichenwald

108. On August 9, 2007, journalist Daniel Radosh wrote that Kurt Eichenwald had reviewed his own books on Amazon - claiming even to have been a third person who had met Kurt Eichenwald - under the name "Andrew McDonald". As Andrew McDonald, Eichenwald also made payments to sources in a story without disclosing it to his editors.

109. It has been determined that Defendant's employee Kurt Eichenwald proffered facially false or inconsistent testimony and court submissions in the cases of Ken Gourlay and Timothy Ryan Richards that a source in one of his stories did not know who he was until 6/30/2005 despite the presence of a $2000 check written to that source dated 6/8/2005 with Kurt Eichenwald's name written on it. That source received and cashed that check on 6/9/2005.

Vigilante Journalism: My 'Unethical' Public Crusade Proving Kurt Eichenwald Viewed Child Porn 22+ Times

The most wicked application of the Fourth Estate is when a person is prosecuted in the press, but what if it's the last resort?

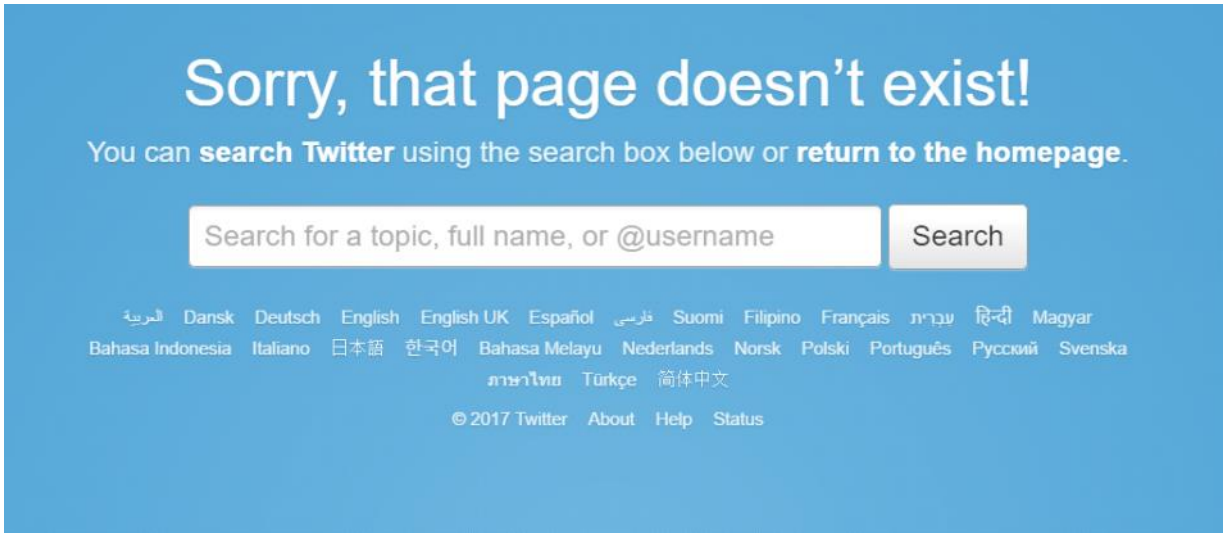
I published a piece on Medium reviving the ghost of Kurt Eichenwald's past journalistic forays on the topic of child pornography proving beyond a shadow of a doubt that the Newsweek Senior Writer accessed an illicit video of a 14-year-old young man masturbating at least 22 times over a seven day period from June 23-29, 2005.

The piece also detailed previously unreported false testimony by Mr. Eichenwald that Justin Berry, the subject of his stories, did not know who he was until June 30, 2005 despite the presence of a check to Mr. Berry bearing Mr. Eichenwald's name dated June 8, 2005.

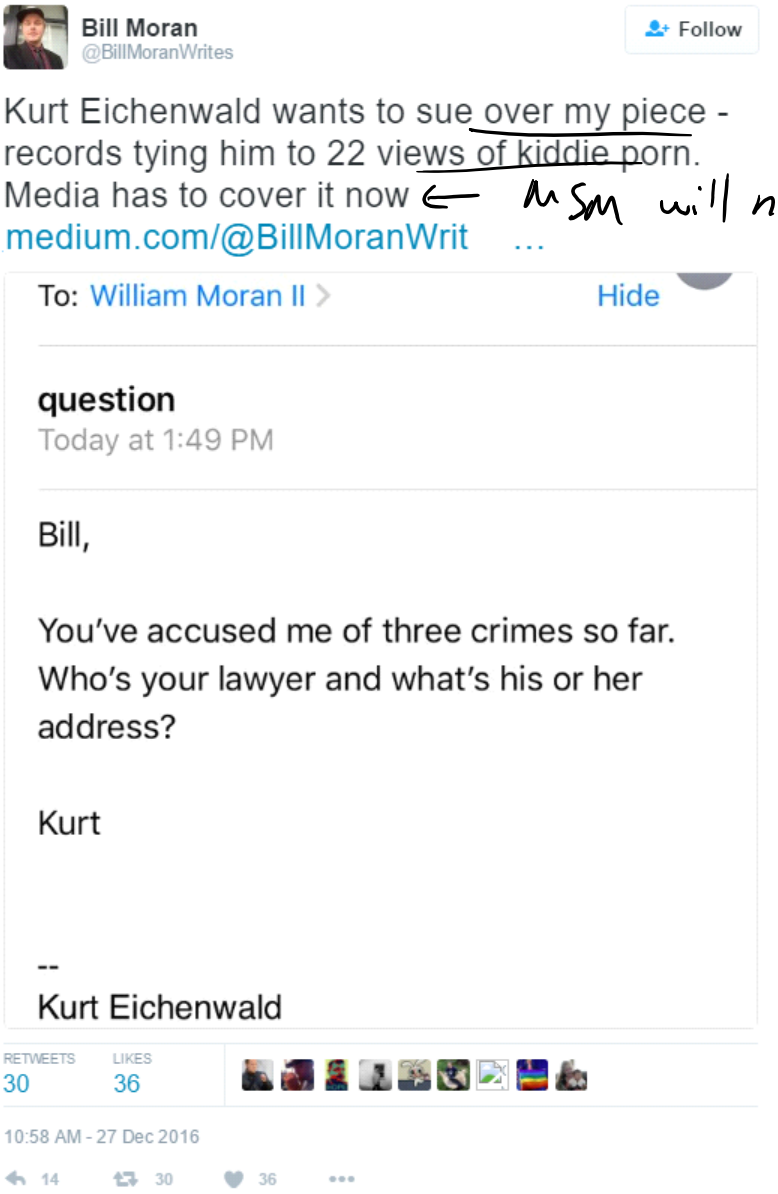
Finally, evidence was presented that the video of the 14-year-old boy Mr. Eichenwald viewed 22 times was bankrolled by the Newsweek Writer from a portion of the proceeds of that check.

As you can imagine, the Newsweek writer instantly wrote me in a fury: "You've accused me of three crimes so far. Who's your lawyer and what's his or her address." My heart dropped for a second as I immediately took this to mean that the powerful two-time Polk Award winning journalist well known for his litigious streak planned on suing me.

https:/twitter.com/billmoranwrites/status/813821300326199297



Luckily it was archived:
http://web.archive.org/web/20161227193814/https:/twitter.com/billmoranwrites/status/813821300326199297



I damn near jumped out of my seat to rush outside to puff on two cigarettes, a devil's remedy for the headache that was already plaguing me that morning, before proceeding to stare down one of the most powerful media figures in the country.

I wrote to Mr. Eichenwald asking which portions of my story he contested or what information within the article was inappropriately sourced while reminding him that if he were to sue me the discovery from the case could well lead to new findings. To my shock… and frankly horror… Eichenwald said "I threatened nothing" and clarified in two separate later email that he was not going to sue me while refusing to contest any specific portion of the article.

Instead, the Newsweek writer accused me of being "deeply mentally ill," "a pathological liar," and suggested that I was siding with the pedophiles who were rightly arrested in the hysteria surrounding his sordid affair in "Weird Checkbook Journalism."

His failure to respond directly to the claims in my article, even though I knew them to be well-supported by court documents and server records tracing his IP and email addresses to 22 views of the 14-year-old boy masturbating, continue to shake me as though someone so intent on lying all of these years has somehow lost the ability.

One major problem persisted: Can Eichenwald be held accountable?

Ten years ago Kurt Eichenwald was the OG version of the Pizzagate hysteria pusher with two advantages in his favor – he was an award winning New York Times journalist and several of the individuals involved in his claim truly were pedophiles even if his claims that sex offenders are lurking at every turn may have been exaggerated to push out a few extra papers.

The writer was praised for his "investigation" by Congress, won the hearts of an audience on the Oprah Winfrey Show, and toured the country as the creepiest advocate against child sex crimes ever known to man detailing how he could convince minors on social media to give him their family members' names, address, and phone number in under a minute and 30 seconds.

He also started one New York Times article as follows: "In the photograph, the model is shown rising out of a bubble bath, suds dripping from her body. Her tight panties and skimpy top are soaked and revealing. She gazes at the viewer her face showing a wisp of a smile that seems to have been coaxed from off-camera… The model's online name is Sparkle. She is – at most – 9 years old." Pretty creepy stuff to be reading over your morning coffee.

The visual nature of the description led a Salon columnist to open an article with: "New York Times writer Kurt Eichenwald has looked a lot of kiddie porn." Eichenwald immediately threatened to sue Salon and any outlet that the journalist wrote at for $10 million. Salon removed the article under threat of suit the same day.

Before publishing my original piece I reached out to a number of media outlets with a half-dozen responses including "I don't really feel like getting sued" and "[Our] legal is really on high alert over EVERYTHING, so I need to move slowly here but please keep me in the loop."

The overwhelming consensus from mainstream media outlets I reached out to is that the evidence was clear, convincing, and not yet reported but Eichenwald has millions of dollars at his disposal along with a reputation of suing anybody and everybody who questions him.

It is also known from court records that all correspondence between Kurt Eichenwald and Justin Berry were deleted the same day the writer's protege proffered state's evidence in return for immunity and that Mr. Eichenwald was represented by attorney Stephen M. Richards "in connection with these allegations" – a direct reference to the statements made by Berry.

Not only was the evidence clear ten years ago, but Eichenwald appears to have been under investigation for his involvement in Berry's child pornography enterprise having paid for the production of the film and having served as an administrator of the site that was dormant prior to Kurt Eichenwald tossing his funds behind it. A normal person would be in prison.

Server records, IP logs, and PayPal memos tracing to Kurt Eichenwald's email address and bank account with statements like "the light sucks, washed out" and "if I save them, I pay for them. If I don't, I didn't even bother to finish looking at them, so I didn't buy" are not the type of evidence open to many interpretations. Also, how many people watch child porn 22 times over a seven day period for "research." I could hedge words, but he's guilty.

Breaking Journalistic Ethics in the Name of Justice

There's a bit of a backstory to my investigation into Kurt Eichenwald. I was the young journalist at the controversial news outfit Sputnik News and the Newsweek writer smeared me as part of some far-reaching Kremlin conspiracy when in reality I misread something, corrected it 19 minutes later, told Eichenwald that his story was rubbish and refused to cave to threats and a job offer at the New Republic in return for my silence. So, it's pretty safe to say I didn't like the guy much.

In anticipation of a possible lawsuit against Eichenwald, I began reviewing his background for similar instances of journalistic malfeasance and found myself hours later digging through court records of the parallel cases of Timothy Ryan Richards and Ken Gourlay, both of whom were ultimately convicted of child sex crimes.

I began reviewing the news articles at the time with Kurt Eichenwald being presented as a cautionary tale – somebody portrayed as part heroic crusader against child pornography and an unethical journalist who was tied to a number of secret payments to former child pornographer Justin Berry who was the lead character in his story.

In reviewing this back in October I found a few interesting parts that were unreported including the fact that Mr. Eichenwald perjured himself in his account of how and when Mr. Berry first came to know who him, but I sat on that story at the time – as much as I did not like Mr. Eichenwald, it did not make sense to reopen wounds from the past solely out of a grudge.

It wasn't until recent weeks that I came in contact, totally unsolicited, with one of the individuals arrested as a result of Mr. Eichenwald's investigation. This encounter spurred me to take a second look through court files using this source as a guide of what was unreported.

At that time I became aware that Mr. Eichenwald not only crossed ethical boundaries in his story, but broke the law with no semblance of journalistic justification – viewing a 14-year-old boy masturbating 22 times and having paid for the production of that video is not normal.

It was only then that I wrote a piece and then solicited the support of some controversial Twitter users to help me disseminate this story so that I could reach a maximum audience despite not having a platform anywhere near comparable to that of Eichenwald or Newsweek.

I went a step further – I not only did the job of a journalist tasked with observing the story from a neutral position, but I also inserted myself into the story by offering a public DARE to Kurt Eichenwald to sue me [Tweet no longer available] if my story was incorrect and

I went a step further – I not only did the job of a journalist tasked with observing the story from a neutral position, but I also inserted myself into the story by offering a public DARE to Kurt Eichenwald to sue me [Tweet no longer available] if my story was incorrect and forwarded the story to the FBI and DOJ [Tweet Deleted].

Luckily it was archived:
http://web.archive.org/web/20170101034110/https:/twitter.com/billmoranwrites/status/814929939153698822

Two journalists have told me in no uncertain terms that what I have done is beyond unethical and that my career in journalism is over for what could be perceived as targeting Eichenwald with allegations – even though they are true – and trying him in the public (We'll just ignore the fact that I was blackballed anyways by Kurt's October fake news stunt).

But another thing stood out to me in those admonitions by journalists – who I frankly wish more in the media were like – "Realpolitik." "He's 55 years old, rich, and has worked at the top MSM for many years," said one. The other said, "Think about it… [if news outlets] do 10 minutes of research they will see this, and not touch you with a ten-foot pole."

→ This is PIZZAGATE

Let's get this straight for those playing at home – a powerful person with a limitless platform breaks the law, violates every ethical boundary ever, and both the media and law enforcement won't hold them accountable BUT somebody with no platform whatsoever should resort to no extraordinary measures at all in ensuring the truth be brought to the public.

I don't buy it. The great equalizer in this country is supposed to be the law. When the law fails, the press steps in. And when both fail the power reverts to the People to speak truth to power.

So yea, I broke your rules. Kurt Eichenwald viewed child pornography 22 times, paid for it, perjured himself under oath, and then perpetrated a fraud on the public and he ain't gonna sue me for saying it because he knows damn well it's true.

So call me unethical. Call me a vigilante journalist. I'm thinking that I'll sleep well tonight.

A SERIOUS Caution Against Prosecuting People on Social Media

My reporting is an example of resorting to severe tactics as a last resort, not a first resort, to ensure that the truth is brought to the eyes of the public and so a wrong isn't allowed to persist. However, I would be remiss not to mention the growing trend towards public mob justice and stoking of hysteria without regard to evidence coming from both the Left and the Right.

MES

> [Note: I disagree with his take on "resorting to severe tactics as a last resort. This is because it is clear that Law Enforcement and the Mainstream Media are not doing their job, and an alleged pedophile may be walking freely… THIS is the ultimate time for vigilante journalism, albeit a careful evidence-based approach.]

MSM

Kurt Eichenwald's story falsely accusing me was but the first in what has become a popular trend among liberal commentators of throwing around words like traitor, Kremlin puppet or cheerleader, and useful idiot all of which are used to dismiss the humanity of others.

From the Right we've seen the mainstream media crackdown on the accusations of pedophilia and child sex crimes lobbed against prominent liberals – perhaps the ultimate ad hominem attack when unsupported by evidence as it leaves a smear that marks someone for a lifetime.

→ Best Blackmail Tool

Honestly, I see these attacks and the hysteria that surrounds them as mirror images of one another contributing to undue tribalism stripping Americans of our common bonds and severely damaging the life prospects of an individual for the sake of winning a petty argument.

> [NOTE: I disagree with these last two points he made, in that I assume he is alluding to #PizzaGate being a "mirror" image of the Russian hysteria. This is because it is likely that the Russian narrative is pushed to cover up #PizzaGate, because the evidence is clearly there, and clearly ignored by the mainstream media. Nonetheless, he does have a point that the accusation of pedophilia is the ultimate personal attack, but everyone should be EXTREMELY careful to make these accusations, unless the evidence is clear.

It needs to stop. This is not Pizzagate 2.0.

This is IP records from server logs, court records, PayPal memos, a personal check, and a Western Union payment establishing that Kurt Eichenwald beyond a shadow of a doubt watched kiddie porn 22+ times, funded it, and lied under oath while both the media and the law have provided him cover and acclaim. This is proof a serious crime.

It is for times like this we need to be wary of hysteria – it only serves to undercut the truth.

To: William Moran II Details

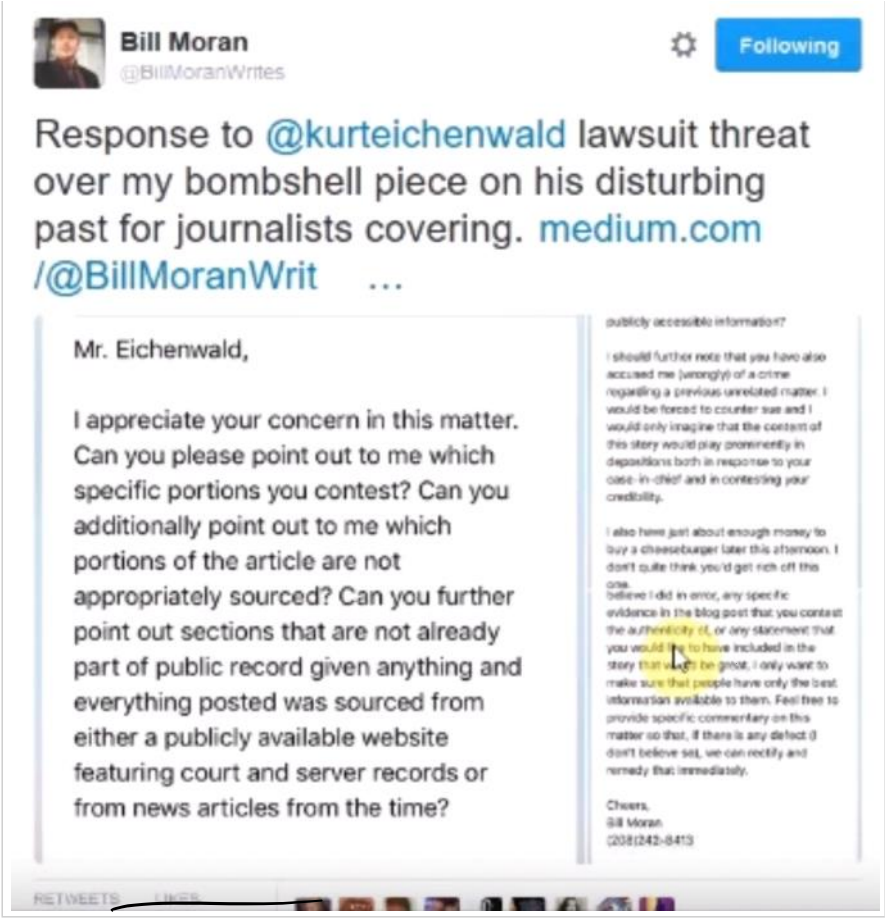
Bill,

I threatened nothing. As usual, you put words in people's mouths. I have no doubt you will once again use your imagination as fact.

You have threatened to sue me many, many times. I'm surprised you think it is odd to ask for your lawyer's name and address in the aftermath of you insisting you will now sue me in February.

If you are saying that issue is off the table, fine. If you are saying you have been lying this whole time, fine. Otherwise, what is your lawyer's address?

Kurt



Summary and Conclusions

Bill Moran was able to prove that Kurt Eichenwald viewed illegal child pornography, paid for it as well as the production of it, and lied in court, simply by reading court documents.

Bill only wrote this article because he was attacked by Kurt Eichenwald over a misquote he made in an article, which he quickly deleted shortly after realizing it.

Kurt, along with the mainstream media went on a crusade against Bill going so far as calling him a Russian agent.

This has tarnished Bill's reputation and a quick Google search is all that is needed for potential news outlets to flag his name when looking for potential hires because they wouldn't want to be associated with someone the mainstream media has attacked.

What Kurt had done was far worse than Bill's honest mistake, and in fact is a criminal act(s), and should be investigated to see what further involvement he has in terms of viewing, purchasing, and even producing child pornography.

Nonetheless, no one in the mainstream media has called for a full investigation into Kurt, neither has law enforcement, and in fact the journalists that Bill reached out to, are scared of potential lawsuits.

This contrast is extremely important because it shows that the elites in the media can literally get away with viewing and purchasing child pornography as well as perjury, but small-scale journalists can be completely destroyed for the most innocent of mistakes…

This is what #PizzaGate researchers are up against, so we need to be extremely careful in our reporting…

Bill Moran is also suing Kurt Eichenwald for libel, and I hope he wins!!!

Stay Tuned for #PizzaGate Part 18…

NOTE: I was not planning on making this particular video, but after posting a simple thought experiment on Voat, I believe there is a strong argument to be made about why Alex Jones has not yet been sued yet by Bill Clinton.

Similarly, this same logic can be applied to John Podesta, as well as many other elites possibly connected to #PizzaGate…

Interesting Thought Experiment: Bill Clinton was ALMOST CERTAINLY a rapist.

23 February 2017 by matheasysolutions (i.e. me)

ISN'T STRANGE that Alex Jones was never sued by Bill Clinton for calling him a rapist and selling Rape t-shirts??

Alex Jones has called Bill Clinton a rapist on many occasions, including selling t-shirts that say so.

If Bill Clinton was not a rapist, he could easily sue Alex Jones for millions and possibly have Infowars shut down economically.

Some people on Voat.co brought up the following counter-arguments:

- Alex Jones could say it was his opinion and that no reasonable person would believe him.
- Proving libel is very hard for presidents or celebrities.
- Suing him would add to Infowars legitimacy.
- "Why doesn't George W. Bush sue Alex Jones for claiming 9-11 was an inside job and selling t-shirts for it too."

My counter-points:

Alex Jones sells Bill Clinton Rape T-Shirts and even ran a viral $100,000 contest…

Alex Jones & Donald Trump Bombshell Full Interview

Interviewing the soon-to-be President of the United States adds major credibility.

https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/the-fix/wp/2017/02/27/for-a-preview-of-trumps-address-to-congress-read-infowars-really

27 February 2017 by Callum Borchers

For a preview of Trump's address to Congress, read Infowars. Really.

> It appears, however, that someone in the White House really did provide a preview of Trump's speech to Infowars. After the website posted a list of the president's talking points, White House press secretary Sean Spicer read many of the same points — almost verbatim, in some cases — during his daily media briefing.

Getting insider-info to the White House also adds credibility.

Melania Trump has already sued a Blogger and The Daily Mail

http://www.theglobeandmail.com/news/world/us-politics/melania-trump-settles-defamation-suit/article33922074/

7 February 2017 by Joseph Ax

Melania Trump settles defamation suit against blogger for 'substantial sum'

> First lady Melania Trump has settled a defamation lawsuit for a "substantial sum" against a Maryland blogger who wrote about unsubstantiated rumors she had worked as an escort and falsely said she suffered a breakdown, Trump's lawyer said on Tuesday.
> "I acknowledge that these false statements were very harmful and hurtful to Mrs. Trump and her family, and therefore I sincerely apologize to Mrs. Trump, her son, her husband and her parents for making these false statements," the blogger, Webster Tarpley, wrote in a statement released by Trump's lawyer.

...

The Daily Mail published a retraction and apology after the lawsuit was filed, saying in a statement it had not intended to state or suggest that Trump had worked as an escort.

Melanie Trump was quickly able to get a small blogger as well as a very large news outlet to apologize and retract their statements.

Companies do not want to go to court...

There are countless examples of large companies quickly apologizing or issuing retractions at the first sign of a lawsuit.

One such example is the YouTuber, Mark Dice, issuing a Cease and Desist letter to The Guardian after labeling him as part of the "Alt-Right", to which they quickly removed his name.

https://youtu.be/TOb81oGidj0?t=4m33s

7 December 2017 by Mark Dice

New York Times Is Attacking Me - Calling Me "Fake News"

The New York Times just attacked me in an article saying I'm a "Fake News, Hyperpartisan Conspiracy Theorist," as the war on alternative (real) media continues by the failing mainstream manipulators. Media analyst Mark Dice has the story.

The Guardian included Mark Dice as part of 'their pathetic and disgusting race-baiting and race-dividing worthless piece of vile trash' article on the KKK and the "alt-right", after which they removed his name because they thought they could get away with attacking popular alternative media personalities.

- FYI: the bold is my view on the article, and The Guardian in general, for publishing it.

Thus it is clear that even a giant news outlet would back-off a relatively well-known YouTuber.

If suing Alex Jones adds to his legitimacy, it would nonetheless be short-lived since he would have to apologize and/or pay millions (if Bill was innocent)…

Similar to being sued, it can be argued that the current wave of censorship that Infowars is experiencing also adds to their legitimacy.

One such example is the Google affiliate, AdRoll, has recently banned Infowars without warning:

http://www.infowars.com/censorship-online-advertisers-shutting-down-conservative-media/

21 February 2017 by Kit Daniels

CENSORSHIP: INFOWARS BANNED BY ONLINE ADVERTISER

Racketeering: Online advertisers colluding to control free speech

AdRoll, the online advertiser that accused Breitbart of "hate speech," is now abruptly cutting ties with Infowars.com in an apparent, concentrated effort to shut down political speech by conservatives and libertarians online.

The advertiser sent a vaguely-worded email to the Infowars legal department saying it was ending its ad campaign in part because "all political content should focus on the merits of the candidate," implying that corrupt, establishment candidates such as Hillary Clinton should be showered with praise and her scandals ignored.

Another example of censorship is Apple / iTunes censoring the 9/11 Joe Rogan & Alex Jones podcast:

http://www.infowars.com/proof-apple-itunes-are-censoring-joe-rogan-alex-jones-podcast-911-over-pizzagate/

6 February 2017 by Rob Dew

PROOF APPLE / ITUNES ARE CENSORING JOE ROGAN ALEX JONES PODCAST #911 OVER PIZZAGATE

Apple censors material that is either too controversial or opposes their beliefs

Proof of censorship based on YouTube view counts verses Apple's audio trending iTunes podcast rankings.

That video makes it clear that the #911 podcast (one of, if not, the highest ever viewed podcast) is being censored from appearing in the podcast rankings.

9-11 analogy is not comparable…

First off, Alex Jones is not singling out only George W. Bush, but also argues that many levels of the U.S. government, CIA, FBI, the mainstream media, and even other countries such as Saudi Arabia played a role in perpetuating and covering up the largest false-flag in history, 9-11.

This would mean that the U.S. government would be the ones suing Alex Jones, and not just Bush, and would be viewed clearly as an authoritarian dictatorship shutting down free speech and critique of the government.

This claim, as well as many other conspiracy theories about the government are common-place around many news outlets, and are based upon the power that the elites have, and not personal attacks or claims about specific people.

IF Bush were to sue, this would most likely result in having to reveal emails, communications, and even top secret classified documents in the court of law, which obvious to the average person, is something they would not dare to do…

Once again, this differs with the Bill Clinton case because Alex Jones is making personal claims as to Bill being a rapist, so communications related to any specific alleged victim would be requested, and not classified documents.

Summary and Conclusions:

It is clear that Infowars is constantly being attacked and censored.

Suing someone for libel is fairly straight-forward and there are many examples of cases of powerful and not-so-powerful people involved in successful lawsuits, settlements, or even just simple apologies and retractions.

powerful and not-so-powerful people involved in successful lawsuits, settlements, or even just simple apologies and retractions.

The best way to silence Infowars is to sue for libel, since it is very clear that Infowars are making a VERY BOLD claim to a VERY LARGE audience, even selling "Rape" T-Shirts and paying people that promote this claim on T.V., and which ultimately have influenced millions of people to believe that Bill Clinton is indeed a rapist.

Infowars does not claim at any point that they are a "satire" news site, and given their connections to the U.S. president, they could not argue this in court either.

Furthermore, if Infowars did argue in court that they weren't being serious, this ALONE would cause no one to take them seriously, something that the mainstream media has been trying to do for years with their smear campaigns of Infowars as just a "conspiracy site".

Also, if Infowars were to retract such a strong claim that they have been making for years, it would be plastered on every single mainstream news story with demands that Donald Trump disavow Alex Jones and Infowars.

Thus no matter what the outcome, if Bill Clinton is innocent, the ONLY favorable outcome for Alex Jones was that he proved Bill Clinton did in fact commit rape, which is near impossible if Bill is indeed innocent.

All other outcomes, would either destroy Infowars credibility amongst its user base, and possibly even shut them down economically.

Once again, this is an extremely strong and personally damaging claim to make about Bill.

If Bill was innocent, one possible reason for not suing now, would be that he waited too many years before suing, but this would raise the question of why he didn't sue right away?...

Thus without even having to look at the any specific evidence, logic suggests that Bill Clinton is almost certainly a rapist.

Not only that, but it is also very likely that Alex Jones has either evidence for Bill being a rapist, or, as he suggested in a recent video, much more damning evidence:

Reddit AMA: Apple's Take Down Of The Joe Rogan Podcast

Alex Jones makes it clear that he has evidence that is "1000 times more viscous", as well as alluding to having a dead man's switch, which is an automatic release of any incriminating information he has if he were to get assassinated…

Thus it is clear that for as crazy as Alex Jones sounds, he just might be packing some serious fire power in the…. Information War!

LIKE-WISE the same logic may be used to incriminate John Podesta…

Kurt Eichenwald & Justin Berry

In #PizzaGate 13 and 14, I went over Kurt Eichenwald's 2005 investigation into the hidden world of pedophilia.

His investigative work was extremely insightful and helps bring to light the pedophile mindset as well as the tactics they use to manipulate and exploit kids, so make sure to watch those videos!

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Kurt_Eichenwald

Retrieved: 20 February 2017

Kurt Eichenwald

Kurt Alexander Eichenwald (born June 28, 1961) is an American journalist who serves as a senior writer with Newsweek, a contributing editor with Vanity Fair and a New York Times bestselling author of four books, one of which, The Informant (2000), was made into a motion picture in 2009. He was formerly a writer and investigative reporter with The New York Times and later with Condé Nast's business magazine, Portfolio. Eichenwald had been employed by The New York Times since 1986 and primarily covered Wall Street and corporate topics such as insider trading, accounting scandals, and takeovers, but also wrote about a range of issues including terrorism, the Bill Clinton pardon controversy, Federal health care policy, and sexual predators on the Internet.

In 2005, he wrote a group of New York Times articles about online child pornography. One of those articles was about Justin Berry, a then-18 year old who operated pornographic websites featuring himself and other teen males.[6][7] For this reporting, he received the Payne Award for Ethics in Journalism, for "preserving the editorial integrity of an important story while reaching out to assist his source, Justin Berry, in reporting on Berry's involvement in child pornography."[8] He was also later criticized when it came to light that he had given Berry an undisclosed $2,000 before writing the articles.[9][10]

Editors' Note

A New York Times investigation last year disclosed a new frontier in child pornography, in which minors used computer video Webcams to perform on the Internet in exchange for gifts and money. That article, published in December, resulted in a government crackdown, including arrests and the shutdown of major Webcam pornography sites.

The Times's investigation opened a window into an online subculture of pedophiles. This two-part series is a further look into that world and the businesses that have developed to serve it.

Covering this story raised legal issues. United States law makes it a crime to purchase, download or view child pornography, unless the images are promptly reported to authorities and no images are copied or retained. The Times complied with the law, disclosing what it found to appropriate authorities.

Through His Webcam, a Boy Joins a Sordid Online World

Editors' Note: March 6, 2007, Tuesday An article by Kurt Eichenwald on Dec. 19, 2005, reported on a teenage boy's sexual exploitation on the Internet, and an accompanying Reporter's Essay by Mr. Eichenwald published on nytimes.com explained the details of his initial contact with the subject.

The essay was intended to describe how Mr. Eichenwald persuaded Justin Berry, then 18, to talk about his situation. But Mr. Eichenwald did not disclose to his editors or readers that he had sent Mr. Berry a $2,000 check. Mr. Eichenwald said he was trying to maintain contact out of concern for a young man in danger, and did not consider himself to be acting as a journalist when he sent the check.

Mr. Eichenwald explained in his essay that, at the outset, he did not identify himself to Mr. Berry as a reporter. After they met in person, but before he decided that he wanted to write an article, Mr. Eichenwald said he told the youth that the money would have to be returned. Times policy forbids paying the subjects of articles for information or interviews. A member of Mr. Berry's family helped repay the $2,000.

The check emerged as part of a criminal proceeding involving Mr. Berry in which a Michigan man is charged with criminal sexual conduct, enticing a minor to commit immoral acts and distributing child pornography. The trial began yesterday.

The check should have been disclosed to editors and readers, like the other actions on the youth's behalf that Mr. Eichenwald, who left The Times last fall, described in his article and essay.

REPORTER'S ESSAY: Making a Connection With Justin

Editor's Note Appended

My reporting on Webcam pornography began inadvertently last May, when an online search for financial fraud cases led to an odd posting describing what was said to be an international criminal investigation of a group of Web companies.

Searching for clues about that inquiry took me on a trail to other sites and posted messages. Eventually, I came across entries about someone named Justin, who, based on what I read, seemed to be an adult pornography star. Perplexed about how he was linked to a fraud case, I searched further at archive.org, which keeps copies of old Web sites, and discovered a photograph of a boy who appeared to be about 14 years old.

This, supposedly, was Justin - not an adult, but a child.

The original posting about the investigation proved to be a fake, and the more postings I read about Justin, including hundreds on a Yahoo message board set up by his fans, the more I came to suspect that his lurid story might also be an Internet fable. But I wanted to be sure.

Eventually, I found a lead: a screen name for Justin, which I could use to send him an instant message. My first attempts failed; Justin later said that he blocked these messages because the nature of my questions convinced him that I was with law enforcement.

Before . . .

The only way to know if Justin was real, I decided, was to meet him in person. And to do that, I had to win the confidence of whoever was answering to his screen name. At The Times, it is standard practice for a reporter to identify himself at the outset, but doing that too soon would mean I might never know the truth. I decided to try to engage this person in conversation and persuade him to meet with me. At that time, I would disclose my identity and only then would I begin the real reporting that could be used in an article.

I contacted Justin again; this time, I mimicked the tone of the members of the Yahoo site, simply identifying myself as a fan. From there began an off-and-on, online conversation that went on for weeks, mostly about the music that I write as a hobby; Justin assumed that that was my career, and I did not try hard to dissuade him.

Soon thereafter, I proposed meeting in Los Angeles, and Justin agreed. My wife, Theresa, whom I had kept abreast of what was happening, worried that this could be a setup, and made me promise to take precautions. I did, but when I saw Justin at the airport, I was reassured. Although he was 18, he looked much younger and did not seem physically capable of harming me.

I immediately identified myself as a Times reporter, and Justin, though taken aback, continued to speak to me; for more than an hour, we discussed my background, until he was willing to proceed. Over the next two days, I interviewed the person I now knew was Justin Berry. By then, I was aware that Justin was addicted to cocaine and marijuana.

With no expectation that he would agree, I asked him to stop. I also urged Justin to quit responding to messages from his adult admirers. Justin agreed to both requests.

Today, he has a simple explanation for why he listened so readily. "I didn't want to die," he said. "The things I was involved in were horrible, but I could never find a way out. I wanted for it all to end so badly, so I was ready to do anything."

Days after the initial meeting, Justin called, sounding terribly upset. A man was visiting him who, I believed from our interview, had molested Justin in the past and had provided him drugs to keep him compliant. Given the situation, Times editors agreed to fly Justin from Bakersfield, Calif., to Dallas, where I could interview him while he worked through his drug withdrawal.

After arriving, Justin angrily told of molestations at the hands of multiple men since he was a young teenager. He took me inside his online world, showing corners of the Internet where predators spoke among themselves.

Justin's physical condition was weak, and with the approval of my editors I introduced him to a doctor. He was suffering both from malnutrition and a mild venereal disease. His eardrums were irreparably damaged from years of untreated infections. Scars, from what appeared to be a whipping, were found on his back, although Justin could not remember who or what caused them.

Withdrawal - coupled with the trauma of recounting his experiences - worsened his emotional state. Justin often became terrified in public places, convinced that men he saw might be either members of his site or people working with his former business partners. He would burst unexpectedly into tears. At my suggestion, Justin agreed to seek counseling.

As his emotional and physical health improved, Justin said he would fully cooperate with a story about self-generated child pornography on the Internet, allowing The Times to print his name. My editors and I decided to delay accepting his offer, however, until we were certain that Justin was competent to make the decision, something that would only be accomplished if he continued his recovery from drugs.

Justin disclosed the names of other children at risk, and told of a trove of evidence about his online pornography business: computer hard drives, kept at his mother's home in California, that contained years of financial data, including records of client payment, saved online conversations and other information.

With Child Sex Sites on the Run, Nearly Nude Photos Hit the Web [Part 1 of 2]

In the photograph, the model is shown rising out of a bubble bath, suds dripping from her body. Her tight panties and skimpy top are soaked and revealing. She gazes at the viewer, her face showing a wisp of a smile that seems to have been coaxed from off-camera.

The model's online name is Sparkle. She is — at most — 9 years old.

Money, a Source and New Questions About a Story

CONTROVERSY is again swirling around The Times's 2005 article about 18-year-old Justin Berry and the Web world of child pornography, where the reporter Kurt Eichenwald discovered him and younger boys under the sway of predatory adults.

Mr. Eichenwald's unusual reporting tactics, which included convincing Mr. Berry to leave that world, swear off drugs and cooperate with a federal investigation of child pornography, had raised questions of journalistic ethics. Might the personal relationship, for example, have caused Mr. Eichenwald to sugarcoat Mr. Berry's actions in his Dec. 19 article?

But earlier this month, a copy of a $2,000 cashier's check sent by Mr. Eichenwald to Mr. Berry in June 2005 turned up in the trial of a Michigan man charged with criminal sexual conduct. That sparked a loosely worded Editors' Note in The Times on March 6 and a new round of questions about the integrity of the reporting. The note said that although the $2,000 was later repaid by Mr. Berry's family, the original payment should have been disclosed to editors, but was not.

Mr. Eichenwald, who went to work for Condé Nast's new business magazine, Portfolio, in September, quickly defended himself in a rambling 2,600-word post on Romenesko, a journalism Web site. His basic point: He sent the check as a private citizen in an effort to locate and help Mr. Berry, and demanded repayment when he decided the next month that there was a story to be reported as a journalist.

"I should have told my editors," Mr. Eichenwald wrote of the $2,000 transaction, which he said had simply slipped his mind. "Once the reporting began ... a financial transaction from a month before ... just slipped away amid the 18 hour days, seven days a week of turmoil and chaos."

...

The Editors' Note also muddied the picture a bit. It had Mr. Eichenwald saying he had asked Mr. Berry to return the money "after they met in person, but before he decided that he wanted to write an article." Given that the two first met in Los Angeles on June 30, 2005, the Editors' Note would appear to contradict the Dec. 19 first-person essay, which began, "My reporting on Webcam pornography began inadvertently last May."

About "Casey" (Timothy Ryan Richards)

Just 10 days after convincing Casey to help him with his "adult site", Justin disappeared, leaving Casey holding the site and all its contents. Casey later learned that it was Justin's plan all along to leave Casey in control. Justin had secretly filmed and uploaded videos and pictures of himself with a 14 year old boy, then ran to the federal government seeking immunity for his crime.

With the assistance of his friend Kurt Eichenwald, from the New York Times, Justin was introduced to the potential of winning a $500,000 book and movie deal on his life as a porn star. As his first publicity stunt Justin planned to upload child pornography and have all his business partners and members arrested while he enjoyed the profits, fame, and fortune.

As crazy as the story sounds, it worked! Under pressure from the New York Times, the federal government granted Justin immunity and arrested the unknowing Casey who was stuck holding the bag on Justin's crime.

After Casey's arrest he was pressured by the federal government to assist in the arrest of other unknowing homosexuals who were caught in Justin's plan. He was told to either help out or face an extreme punishment. Not being willing to send innocent people to jail, Casey resisted. As a result of his efforts he has been placed in federal prison for crimes he did not commit.

His fight is still underway today, this website is dedicated to his fight for justice against the largest superpower in the world.

Subject: Questions for Counterpunch article: Deadline 1 p.m. today

Dear Mr. Eichenwald,

As I am sure you are aware, the Times today, citing anonymous sources, has a story about your apparent $1,100 PayPal payments to Justin Berry during summer 2005.

I am doing an article today for Counterpunch, also based on information from sources close to the July 31 Nashville court proceedings who wish to remain anonymous. Please respond to the following items and questions. I need your response today (Wednesday) by 1:00 p.m. Central time. You can email, or call me at [redacted]

Thank you.
Debbie Nathan

Questions below:

aka Kut

* Sources say that pseudononymous "Andrew McDonald," with email skywrite55@aol.com <mailto:skywrite55@aol.com> , sent $1,100 via PayPal to Justin Berry in June 2005 to buy images of him. They say messages appended to some of the payments talk about photos of Berry being good quality or bad quality, and that some will be paid for and others not. I am also told there is a message indicating the buyer says he has ideas help Berry make more money.

My questions: were these photographs pornographic? Were they of Justin when he was underage? Why were you buying photos of Justin Berry from him? Did you tell Berry you had ideas to help him make money? If so, what were they and why did you tell him this?

* Sources say pseudonym "Roy" with email skywrite55@aol.com became a subscriber to Justinsfriends.com in late June 2005. This appears to be you.

Please respond.

* Sources say records indicate this subscriber was given the same administrative privileges to enter justinsfriends.com that Berry, Greg Mitchel and others had to manage the site and view subscriber information. The sources say this subscriber signed on, using these privileges, dozens of times in June and July 2005, and viewed subscriber sign up information. Please comment.

* Sources say the "Roy" skywrite55@aol.com subscription to justinsfriends.com was canceled on July 14, 2005. You testified at the Gourlay trial that this was the same period when you sat with Berry and reviewed the contents of his computer hard drives. Did you or he cancel the subscription then?

* Sources add that $1,000 was wired to Berry in Bakersfield on July 5, 2005 from a Western Union office less than three miles from your home in Dallas. The sender used a fake name and address. What do you know about this? If you were the sender, why did you do this?

* Please comment on information that you currently under investigation by the FBI because of evidence you were involved in Berry's child pornography enterprise.

Court Papers Said to Show Added Payments by Reporter

A former New York Times reporter who wrote an article in late 2005 about a teenager who operated a pornographic Web site may have sent more money to the young man than he had previously acknowledged, according to people familiar with sealed documents filed with a court in Tennessee.

The reporter, Kurt Eichenwald, acknowledged this year that on June 8, 2005, he sent a $2,000 check to Justin Berry, the subject of that and later articles, but later demanded repayment and received it.

But several people involved in the court case say the sealed documents indicate that Mr.

Eichenwald made at least $1,100 of additional payments in June 2005, some not in his own name, to a PayPal account controlled by Mr. Berry and another man who helped him operate his Web site. These people spoke on the condition of anonymity.
A judge in the United States District Court in Nashville ordered the documents sealed until some material is deleted.

The Times, like most mainstream news organizations, prohibits paying sources for information, and it bars reporters and editors from having financial relationships of any kind with people or organizations that figure in their coverage.

"I have no independent memory of any payments I am alleged to have made in June 2005 through PayPal," he said in a written statement yesterday. "If these PayPal payments did occur in June 2005, I am deeply sorry that my inability to remember them has resulted in permitting a series of convicted felons to cast doubt on the nature of my wife's and my efforts to save a young man who was caught in the grip of a cycle of drugs and abuse."

Lawrence Ingrassia, the business editor of The Times, said that when the $2,000 payment came to light this year, Mr. Eichenwald told him that there were no other payments to Mr. Berry, save for one payment of $10 made through a PayPal account.

The additional payments, also from June 2005, came to light through the case of Timothy R. Richards, who had helped run Mr. Berry's Web site.
"Casey"
Mr. Richards was convicted on child pornography charges last October in United States District Court in Nashville and could face what amounts to a life sentence in prison. In an entry on his Web site in November 2006, he said that Mr. Berry was responsible for putting sexually explicit images of a minor on his Web site without Mr. Richards's knowledge, then blamed Mr. Richards.

The subpoenas produced material that appears to show several instances of money sent by Mr. Eichenwald, sometimes under another name, to a PayPal account controlled by Mr. Berry and an older business partner, Greg Mitchel. Mr. Mitchel pleaded guilty to child pornography charges last year.

Stephen M. Ryan, Mr. Eichenwald's lawyer, said Mr. Richards's lawyers were "fishing for evidence concerning someone who didn't testify in the case," calling the tactic "bogus."

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA v. TIMOTHY RYAN RICHARDS

RESPONSE IN OPPOSITION TO THIRD PARTY'S MOTION TO QUASH AND REQUEST FOR SANCTIONS

In the course of the post-trial discovery review, Defendant Richards found information that an unidentified person, acting in concert with Justin Berry, assisted in the relaunch of the JustinsFriends site.9 Specifically, the defense located information showing that, as of at least May 5, 2005, someone using the email address, skywrite55@aol.com, was listed in Greg Mitchel's AOL "buddies list." On June 3, 2005, someone named "Andrew McDonald" accessed MexicoFriends.com (an old website operated by Berry) from an affiliate page (suspected of being a child pornography site) using IP address 65.68.206.29.

Then, between June 6, 2005 and June 23, 2005, "Andrew McDonald" using email address mostin2003@yahoo.com from IP addresses 65.68.206.29 and 66.140.63.145 transferred a series of PayPal payments to Greg@mitchelgroup.com. The payments totaled $1,184.00. A highlight of the troubling notes accompanying the payments from "Andrew McDonald" between June 6, 2005 and June 23, 2005 include:

Kurt

- "i found a pretty good one...but the lighting sucks. washed out. still...worth 100."
- "100. . .we gotta talk about what the really good ones are."
- "so far...there are just 20 in the file, and most of them are nothing (shots of beds and driveways, or you rolling a joint.) that's okay. i found 3 so far that i either didn't already have and were good. the way i am judging them is this: if i save them, i pay for them. if i don't - it means i didn't even bother to finish looking at them, so i didn't want to buy."
- "a problem... i might have hit my withdrawl limit for today. this is funded by a debit card, and i withdrew a ton of cash this morning. it is not letting me send 25. i still owe you at least 65, which i will pay by morning. i will keep trying to do this."
- "now paid 110...or 310 so far. and have only downloaded -or kept - two. so...im being nice."

- "the ftp site is still not working...Paid a dollar to let you know. Now it doesn't seem to work at all. Once it's up and running, I'll be back to downloading...and paying you. I'll be online today. Find me and lemme know what to do. And I have other proposals for you that would get you even more money."10
- "the problem with the ftp site is...when i try to go in it says 'the folder 'ftp.66.27.236.12/weee/' is read only because the proxy server is not set up to allow full access. to move, paste, rename or delete files, you must use a different proxy, contact your system administrator.' then, i click okay - and all it shows me is test_buddy.txt. no other files are there. Any thoughts?"
- "email me when you can...or tellme when u will be on aim. i haven't had access to the ftp site since we last spoke. and i'd like to start payin ya again. email me at skywrite55@aol.com, or tell me when u will be on aim."

(underlining added for emphasis). The above referenced proxy server ('ftp.66.27.236.12/weee/') tracks back to Bakersfield, California (Berry's place of residence).

[Footnote: 10 "Andrew McDonald" made this financial proposal on June 7, 2005.]

On June 17, 2005, two days before the relaunch of the JustinsFriends site, IP address 66.27.236.12 (presumably Berry) created a www.JustinsFriends.com account for someone named "Roy Rogers" with email address, skywrite55@aol.com (the same email address as that used by "Andrew McDonald"). The "Roy Rogers" user account was "administratively created" using Berry's forensically unique, administrative account code.

On June 19, 2005, www.JustinsFriends.com was relaunched with new content and new advertising. (James Fottrell, TTR IV at 619).

From June 19, 2005 to June 30, 2005, IP address 66.140.63.145 ("Andrew McDonald") made frequent, daily visits to the "quickstat" page for the JustinsFriends.com account on the NEOVA server. The "quickstat" page provides data regarding the usage and sign-ups for the site. Between June 23, 2005 and June 29, 2005, IP address 66.140.63.145 ("Andrew McDonald") made at least 22 separate visits to the www.JustinsFriends.com website.

On July 3, 2005, IP address 68.88.131.187 (resolving to Dallas, Texas) passed through the affiliate "mylivewebcam/teencam" to JustinsFriends. The site www.mylivewebcam.com is a site where consumers would go to rate their favorite sites. Also on July 3, 2005, skywrite55@aol.com emailed Justin Berry at justinsfriendsinc@yahoo.com with a bizarre, personal message signed "Kurt."11

On July 14, 2005, IP address 66.27.236.12 (presumably Berry12) administratively deleted the www.JustinsFriends.com user account for "Roy Rogers" with email address, skywrite55@aol.com (again, the same email address as that used by "Andrew McDonald").

Secondly, given the discoveries about the activities of Mr. Eichenwald (a.k.a. "Andrew McDonald" and "Roy Rogers") in the context of the relaunch of the JustinsFriends site and the production of the child pornographic "Taylor video," there can be little serious doubt that the subpoenas were not issued frivolously or for purposes of harassment.

Middle District of Tennessee
Nashville Division

United States of America v. Timothy Ryan Richards

Position of Defendant with Respect to Sentencing Factors

Page 26

As for Taylor, the probation office did not illicit a "victim impact statement" from him either. The record is abundantly clear that Taylor was truly Justin Berry's victim. Taylor was a 14 year old who was paid to perform along side Berry in a mutual masturbation video. Richards played no role in the filming (production of the video), and he never interacted with Taylor.

Page 27

Specifically, during that year, Defendant Richards faced charges rooted in his involvement with the site and JustinsPreview2.wmv - a video advertisement montage containing partial footage from a child pornographic video (the "Taylor video") produced by Justin Berry on June 9, 2005 (predating Richards' involvement in the site). Unfortunately, Berry seriously mislead the FBI and federal prosecutors about his own conduct and about the conduct of his co-conspirators in the early stages of the JustinsFriends site. He was immunized - a decision surely regretted by the government in hindsight.

[FOOTNOTE]11 It appears that Kurt Eichenwald has not been charged at this juncture for his conduct relating to the JustinsFriends site. Although it is abundantly clear (as the Court will recall from the Response to Eichenwald's Motion to Quash), that Eichenwald was: (1) communicating with Mitchel by AOL instant messenger in May of 2005; (2) viewing old Berry content on MexicoFriends as of June 3, 2005; (3) making thousands of dollars in PayPal payments to Berry and Mitchel between June 6, 2005

2005; (2) viewing old Berry content on MexicoFriends as of June 3, 2005; (3) making thousands of dollars in PayPal payments to Berry and Mitchel between June 6, 2005 and June 23, 2005 - with very disturbing messages attached; (4) making frequent visits (22 to be precise) to JustinsFriends.com between June 23, 2005 and June 29, 2005; (5) accessing membership sign-up and financial information about the revenue of JustinsFriends after the relaunch through administratively granted access from June 19, 2005 to June 30, 2005; and, (6) checking a ratings site for determining the popularity of JustinsFriends among competitors' sites. These forensically verified computer events occurred in addition to any other payments or communications Eichenwald may have had with Justin Berry, Knute Berry or Greg Mitchel.

… Kurt funded C.P.

The facts are now clear that, on June 8, 2005, Kurt Eichenwald purchased a Bank of America Cashier's Check payable to Justin Berry in the amount of $2,000.00. Eichenwald sent the money to Berry via overnight delivery. Meanwhile, in the early morning hours of June 9, 2005, Justin Berry recruited and enticed a minor, Taylor, to perform in a mutual masturbation video with Berry. The video was filmed by Berry at Greg Mitchel's home in Roanoke, Virginia using a web cam operated by Berry. Justin Berry was the hands-on perpetrator of that particular crime, although he was clearly operating in collaboration with his other coconspirators.12 After the completion of the child pornographic video, Berry and Mitchel went to Bank of America in Roanoke, Virginia to deposit Eichenwald's check. Berry received $300 back in the deposit transaction, and Berry paid Taylor for his performance with those funds.

The Check Went to the Male

What does it look like when a *Times*man buys a sex slave? Well, we don't know, because we haven't seen Nick Kristof's Cambodian receipts. But we do know what it looks like when a *Times*man lends someone out of prostitution. As part of the legal processes set in motion by Kurt Eichenwald's December 2005 investigative series on online child porn, the $2,000 check he wrote to Justin Berry was subpoenaed. Here it is. 2.4. Eichenwald's pose was no secret. Indeed, Eichenwald has revealed in multiple forums - including his original story for The New York Times - that he assumed the pose of one of Justin's fans in May/June, 2005 for the purpose of winning the trust of whomever he was speaking with.

2.5. Eichenwald revealed his true identity to Berry on June 30, 2005. After determining that Berry was of age, and therefore not being exploited under the law, Eichenwald convinced Berry to stop using drugs.[2]

Court documents CLEARLY show that Kurt LIED in court about revealing his identity to Berry on June 30th…

To that end, in the paper discovery, the government produced a June 8, 2005 Bank of America Cashier's Check payable to Justin Berry in the amount of $2,000.00 with the name of the purchaser redacted.3 Noting the curious timing of the check transactions (June 8 and 9, 2005) given the fact that the Taylor video was filmed by Berry in the early morning hours of June 9, 2005, the defense was compelled to investigate the source of the funds - suspecting that the $2,000.00 payment may have represented an unidentified predator's commissioning of the child pornographic video's production. Contemplating whether this information could form part of a defense to the JustinsFriends counts (then, the entire Second Superseding Indictment) or, at a minimum, could yield other investigatory leads for the defense in preparing for trial, the defense issued a trial subpoena to Bank of America for the purpose of gathering full information about the $2,000 Cashier's Check. On October 9, 2005, Bank of America responded to the subpoena, indicating that the Cashier's Check was purchased by Mr. Eichenwald at the Dallas, Texas branch in Preston Hills on June 8, 2005 and was responded to the subpoena, indicating that the Cashier's Check was purchased by Mr. Eichenwald at the Dallas, Texas branch in Preston Hills on June 8, 2005 and was deposited in part and cashed in part by Justin Berry in Roanoke, Virginia on June 9, 2005.4

[Footnote] 4 On March 7-8, 2007, Mr. Eichenwald testified as a prosecution witness in the Michigan criminal case against defendant, Ken Gourlay. During his testimony he was confronted by both the prosecutor and the defense about a previously undisclosed and unreported $2,000.00 check that he sent Justin Berry. Because of the looming backlash from the $2,000.00 check, the NY Times printed an Editor's Note, reporting that Mr. Eichenwald did not make his editors aware of the $2,000.00 payment to Justin Berry and correcting Mr. Eichenwald's earlier articles.

WaPo owns Slate

On March 8, 2007, Jack Shafer wrote an article for Slate magazine (a Washington Post publication) reporting the contradictory explanations by both Mr. Eichenwald and his New York Times editors regarding the $2,000.00 check. See, Exhibit D (3/8/07 Article, "Eichenwald's Weird Checkbook Journalism").

On March 25, 2007, "the public editor" for the NY Times, Byron Calame, wrote an article criticizing Mr. Eichenwald and the editors of his December 19, 2005 articles for the taboo ethical infraction and for failing to disclose the unauthorized $2,000.00 payment. See, Exhibit E (3/25/07 Article, "Money, a Source and New Questions About a Story"). In April, 2007, freelance journalist for the New Yorker, CounterPunch and other magazines, Debbie Nathan, wrote an article unraveling other information incorrectly reported by Mr. Eichenwald and debunking Justin Berry's icon status as the consummate "victim." See, Exhibit F (April 2006 Article, "The New York Time, Kurt Eichenwald and the World of Justin Berry"). According to the article, Mr. Eichenwald attempted to stop the publication of the article by threatening a $10 Million lawsuit. Mr. Eichenwald is widely known for his litigious tendencies, and by threatening to sue, he succeeded in convincing the editors of Salon magazine to "unpublish" one of Nathan's previously published internet articles on Mr. Eichenwald in 2006.

PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF MICHIGAN v KENNETH RICHARD GOURLAY

EXCERPT OF JURY TRIAL - TESTIMONY OF KURT EICHENWALD BEFORE THE HONORABLE ARCHIE C. BROWN Ann Arbor, Michigan - Thursday, March 8, 2007

Note: DOUGLAS M. BAKER is the People's lawyer asking Questions to Kurt.

Q. And there was testimony that came in about a book deal that was offered to him?

A. Yes.

Q. Conditioned upon him not going on Oprah?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he have a conversation with you about that?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was that?

Kurt's Lawyer

A. I had received an e-mail from Steve Ryan that included a copy of an e-mail he had received, from the Reagan Books Imprint of Harper Collins Publishing. And Reagan Books was offering Justin a book deal valued at $500,000 dollars. And it had as a–-it had several conditions. But the primary condition was they had learned from Ryan that he was about to appear on Oprah.

And the primary condition was, he had to cancel his appearance on Oprah. The reason for that is, it is great to be on Oprah if you have a book. It's not great if you haven't written it yet. And the value of that deal, the value to Harper Collins was based on the expectation that once Justin wrote a book, they could get him on Oprah. If he had already been on Oprah, the deal had no value. Or the deal, in their mind, had no value because there was no offer for what he would get if he didn't go on Oprah. And I talked with Ryan about it. And I fully expected that was the end of our Oprah appearance.

Q. Did Justin have a conversation with you about it?

A. Yes. I'm sorry. I didn't answer that question. Yes, he did.

Q. And what was that?

A. I told him about the offer. And started explaining how it worked. And he stopped me and said, how many people read a book? And I said, if it's a really big, nonfiction seller, about 300,000. And he said how many people watch Oprah? And I said, about 40 million a week, I think. And he said–-I'll never forget this. He said, so really it comes down to I have a choice between buying myself a Diablo Lamborghini or helping save kids lives. And that's not a hard choice to make. And that was it. He was going to go, he was going to turn down the book deal.

And that's not a hard choice to make. And that was it. He was going to go, he was going to turn down the book deal.

Q. Did you ask him to reconsider that?

A. I wanted—-I was very frightened that he was doing what he thought I wanted him to do. And I was—-I thought this was a circumstance where he could really, you know, establish a life for himself. And I said, you understand. You know, this is not money that is going to be around on Wednesday. I mean, this is the condition. Look what you can do with your life with this? And he says, nope. That's my decision. I actually called his mother. And I said I'm afraid he is making this decision because of what he thinks I want him to do. And she said, nope. That's Justin. He's just made his decision. And so then we had one more conversation about it.

Q. What was that?

A. I went back to him again. Because I just couldn't quite understand, you know. I mean basically he is saying, I'm not, you know. I'm going-—he has no money, no job, no, you know—-but I'm going to go ahead and do this. And I just wanted to make sure again that it wasn't me. And I started talking about it again. And he looked at me and said, Kurt, you don't understand. I already took the masturbation money. And at that moment, I understood. I said. Fine.

$2000 check??

MR. BAKER: Nothing further.

Seduced in Cyberspace

Despite death threats, 19-year-old Justin is appearing on The Oprah Winfrey Show to reveal the secret world of online child webcam pornography. Justin, who also turned down a lucrative book deal to appear on the show, hopes his decision will help children around the world.

Only alternative media outlets mentioned that Kurt may have viewed child pornography at least 22 times…

I will discuss more on the mainstream media coverage in a later video so stay tuned!

Summary and Conclusions

It is clear from the court documents, that Kurt Eichenwald was WAY too involved with the main character in his investigation, Justin Berry, which raises the question of just how much of his articles are accurate.

- Nonetheless, his articles which I reviewed in Parts 13 and 14 provide an incredible insight into the mindset and tactics that pedophiles use to manipulate and exploit children, as well as the cyclical nature in which the abused become the abuser… so make sure to watch those videos!

It is also clear that Kurt Eichenwald almost certainly viewed child pornography of Justin Berry masturbating alongside a 14-year child, at least 22 times…

Kurt also paid Justin at least $3000, almost certainly for pornography, and almost-certainly for child pornography…

Also, the question of whether Kurt used his journalism to hide his illegal online activities remains…

This goes to show that even with court documents, IP Addresses, Computer Logs, and Credit Card Information showing that Kurt almost certainly funded and viewed many child pornography many times, as well as lying under oath, the media and law enforcement simply pornography many times, as well as lying under oath, the media and law enforcement simply ignore this…

Edward

I have been naming the former British Prime Minister, the now late Ted Heath, since 1998 to be a child-killing paedophile Satanist and, in terms of his 'high-office', he is far from a rarity (see article below this one). I know others, including one who spent a long time in that position.

These networks control governments, national and local, 'law' offices, police, courts, coroners' offices, crematoria, social services, law firms and so on, and they have their own doctors and pathologists to ensure when necessary that they can cover up how people have truly met their fate.

Every time I have investigated, or read about the investigations of others, the same blueprint is there to see. Children are supplied for prominent members of 'society' through children's homes and other sources and should they and their families seek to expose what has happened they are met with a wall of resistance from police, social services and the court system. [i.e. like the McCann case…]

http://boards.4chan.org/pol/thread/113460155

19 February 2017 by Anonymous (ID: UQ3+mU2r)

FYI the MSM has a huge fucking media onslaught that is set to go live Monday to scorch earth Milo and destroy him via the pedophile label.

I'm part of a mailing list (not giving my real name or the name of the list for the sake of protecting my ass from retaliation) but they have been sitting on the story for a while, because they thought Milo was small fries and wanted to wait until he got big enough a thread to go nuclear on.

Bill

The journalists are pissed the fuck off Maher put him on the air and more so, pissed off his book deal had not been revoked (and some are pissed that Milo got a book deal from the same publisher who dropped Zoe Quinn's book, along with a larger signing bonus than most of the publisher's social justice authors).

There are also those who want to hurt him simply as a proxy to hurt Steve Bannon/Breitbart. since their attempts to attack Bannon have largely failed. Not to mention people on the left being pissed off that most people sided with Milo over the rioters. Rioters, that were paid for by Soros through a variety of fronts and laundered through companies that can't be traced back to him.

Expect a steady drumbeat of "Milo is a pedophile" and "Milo must be dropped from CPAC". The later is especially important, in terms of the divide and conquer long game the press is playing: the press wants a civil war with the McCain/Graham wing of the GOP and the Trump/Ryan wing so as to weaken the Republicans in 2018. The overall plan is to make the Republicans fear social shaming from the media and the left more than they do their actual constituents who love Trump, in hopes of regaining the House and enough Senate seats to pull off an impeachment of Trump.

Does Taco Bell Spokesman George Takei Advocate Pedophilia?

George Takei talks about his first sexual experience, at a summer camp when he was 13 years old, by his Camp Counselor, and argues (unconvincingly in my opinion) that he "consented"…

Milo has apologized for his remarks and denounces any claims that he condones pedophilia, and admits to being a victim of pedophilia.

A note for idiots (UPDATED):

I do not support pedophilia. Period. It is a vile and disgusting crime, perhaps the very worst. There are selectively edited videos doing the rounds, as part of a co-ordinated effort to discredit me from establishment Republicans, that suggest I am soft on the subject.

If it somehow comes across (through my own sloppy phrasing or through deceptive editing) that I meant any of the ugly things alleged, let me set the record straight: I am completely disgusted by the abuse of children.

Some facts to consider:

1. I have outed THREE pedophiles in my career as a journalist. That's three more than any of my critics and a peculiar strategy for a supposed pedophile apologist.

I've outed three of them, in fact -- three more than most of my critics. And I've repeatedly expressed disgust at pedophilia in my feature and opinion writing. My professional record is very clear.

I deeply regret that. People deal with things from their past in different ways.

My opinion is that both George and Milo, are trying to rationalize being abused at a very young age by saying they were actually "consenting" (i.e. Stockholm Syndrome).

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Stockholm_syndrome

Retrieved: 20 February 2017

Stockholm syndrome

Stockholm syndrome is a condition that causes hostages to develop a psychological alliance with their captors as a survival strategy during captivity.[1] These feelings, resulting from a bond formed between captor and captives during intimate time spent together, are generally considered irrational in light of the danger or risk endured by the victims.

Milo was sexually assaulted when he was 13/14 years old by a Catholic Priest.

George Takei was sexually assaulted when he was 13 years old by a Camp Counselor.

Both of them try to rationalize their situations and say that they were actually mature enough to "consent" and they "enjoyed" being assaulted.

Only Milo gets ridiculed on Mainstream Media and has his book deal canceled, his big CPAC speech canceled, and pressured to resign from Breitbart…

New York Times 2005 Pedophilia Investigation: Justin Berry

Like in Part 13, I wasn't planning on going over Kurt Eichenwald's pedophilia investigation in great detail, but he provides such incredible insight into the hidden and destructive world of pedophilia, that I feel that everyone, especially parents in general, need to know this when investigating into #PizzaGate.

In Part 13, the NY Times investigation looked at the twisted mindset of Pedophiles.

The article that I am now going to cover will illustrate how the online world has presented pedophiles with the ability to bribe teenagers with money and gifts to manipulate and sexually exploit, both in the online and offline world…

This is a fascinating article, albeit extremely disturbing, so don't tell me I didn't warn you…

http://www.nytimes.com/2005/12/19/us/through-his-webcam-a-boy-joins-a-sordid-online-world.html

Weeks before, Justin had hooked up a Web camera to his computer, hoping to use it to meet other teenagers online. Instead, he heard only from men who chatted with him by instant message as they watched his image on the Internet. To Justin, they seemed just like friends, ready with compliments and always offering gifts.

Now, on an afternoon in 2000, one member of his audience sent a proposal: he would pay Justin $50 to sit bare-chested in front of his Webcam for three minutes. The man explained that Justin could receive the money instantly and helped him open an account on PayPal.com, an online payment system.

"I figured, I took off my shirt at the pool for nothing," he said recently. "So, I was kind of like, what's the difference?"

Justin removed his T-shirt. The men watching him oozed compliments.

So began the secret life of a teenager who was lured into selling images of his body on the Internet over the course of five years. From the seduction that began that day, this soccer-playing honor roll student was drawn into performing in front of the Webcam -- undressing, showering, masturbating and even having sex -- for an audience of more than 1,500 people who paid him, over the years, hundreds of thousands of dollars.

A six-month investigation by The New York Times into this corner of the Internet found that such sites had emerged largely without attracting the attention of law enforcement or youth protection organizations. While experts with these groups said they had witnessed a recent deluge of illicit, self-generated Webcam images, they had not known of the evolution of sites where minors sold images of themselves for money.

"We've been aware of the use of the Webcam and its potential use by exploiters," said Ernest E. Allen, chief executive of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, a private group. "But this is a variation on a theme that we haven't seen. It's unbelievable."

In this virtual universe, adults hunt for minors on legitimate sites used by Webcam owners who post contact information in hopes of attracting friends. If children respond to messages, adults spend time "grooming" them -- with praise, attention and gifts -- before seeking to persuade them to film themselves pornographically.

The lure is the prospect of easy money. Many teenagers solicit "donations," request gifts through sites like Amazon.com or negotiate payments, while a smaller number charge monthly fees.

Not all victims profit, with some children ending up as pornographic commodities inadvertently, even unknowingly. Adolescents have appeared naked on their Webcams as a joke, or as presents for boyfriends or girlfriends, only to have their images posted on for-pay pornography sites. One Web site proclaims that it features 140,000 images of "adolescents in cute panties exposing themselves on their teen Webcams."

The Times inquiry has already resulted in a large-scale criminal investigation. In June, The Times located Justin Berry, then 18. In interviews, Justin revealed the existence of a group of more than 1,500 men who paid for his online images, as well as evidence that other identifiable children as young as 13 were being actively exploited.

In a series of meetings, The Times persuaded Justin to abandon his business and, to protect other children at risk, assisted him in contacting the Justice Department. Arrests and indictments of adults he identified as pornography producers and traffickers began in September.

"I didn't want these people to hurt any more kids," Justin said recently of his decision to become a federal witness. "I didn't want anyone else to live the life I lived."

...

Justin remembers his earliest communications with these men as nonthreatening, pleasant encounters. There were some oddities -- men who pretended to be teenage girls, only to slip up and reveal the truth later -- but Justin enjoyed his online community.

...

The men also filled an emotional void in Justin's life. His relationship with his father, Knute Berry, was troubled. His parents divorced when he was young; afterward, police records show, there were instances of reported abuse. On one occasion Mr. Berry was arrested and charged with slamming Justin's head into a wall, causing an injury that required seven staples in his scalp. Although Justin testified against him, Mr. Berry said the injury was an accident and was acquitted. He declined to comment in a telephone interview.

The emotional turmoil left Justin longing for paternal affection, family members said. And the adult males he met online offered just that. "They complimented me all the time," Justin said. "They told me I was smart, they told me I was handsome."

In that, experts said, the eighth-grade boy's experience reflected the standard methods used by predatory adults to insinuate themselves into the lives of minors they meet online.

"In these cases, there are problems in their own lives that make them predisposed to" manipulation by adults, Lawrence Likar, a former F.B.I. supervisor, said of children persuaded to pose for pornography. "The predators know that and are able to tap into these problems and offer what appear to be solutions."

It was as if the news shot around the Web. By appearing on camera bare-chested, Justin sent an important message: here was a boy who would do things for money.

Gradually the requests became bolder, the cash offers larger: More than $100 for Justin to pose in his underwear. Even more if the boxers came down. The latest request was always just slightly beyond the last, so that each new step never struck him as considerably different. How could adults be so organized at manipulating young people with Webcams?

Unknown to Justin, they honed their persuasive skills by discussing strategy online, sharing advice on how to induce their young targets to go further at each stage.

Moreover, these adults are often people adept at manipulating teenagers. In its sharing advice on how to induce their young targets to go further at each stage.

Moreover, these adults are often people adept at manipulating teenagers. In its investigation, The Times obtained the names and credit card information for the 1,500 people who paid Justin to perform on camera, and analyzed the backgrounds of 300 of them nationwide. A majority of the sample consisted of doctors and lawyers, businessmen and teachers, many of whom work with children on a daily basis.

Not long ago, adults sexually attracted to children were largely isolated from one another. But the Internet has created a virtual community where they can readily communicate and reinforce their feelings, experts said. Indeed, the messages they send among themselves provide not only self-justification, but also often blame minors with Webcam sites for offering temptation.

"These kids are the ones being manipulative," wrote an adult who called himself Upandc in a posting this year to a bulletin board for adults attracted to children.
Or, as an adult who called himself DLW wrote: "Did a sexual predator MAKE them make a site? No. Did they decide to do it for themselves? Yes."

Tempting as it may be for some in society to hold the adolescent Webcam operators responsible, experts in the field say that is misguided, because it fails to recognize the control that adults exercise over highly impressionable minors.

"The world will want to blame the kids, but the reality is, they are victims here," said Mr. Allen of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. [Just like Milo…]

But there is no doubt that the minors cash in on their own exploitation. With Justin, for example, the road to cyberporn stardom was paved with cool new equipment. When his growing legion of fans complained about the quality of his Webcam, he put top-rated cameras and computer gear on his Amazon wish list, and his fans rushed to buy him all of it.

Justin's desk became a high-tech playhouse. To avoid suspicions, he hid the Webcams behind his desk until nighttime. Whenever his mother asked about his new technology and money, Justin told her they were fruits of his Web site development business. In a way, it was true; with one fan's help, he had by then opened his own pornographic Web site, called justinscam.com.

His mother saw little evidence of a boy in trouble. Justin's grades stayed good -- mostly A's and B's, although his school attendance declined as he faked illness to spend time with his Webcam.

His mother saw little evidence of a boy in trouble. Justin's grades stayed good -- mostly A's and B's, although his school attendance declined as he faked illness to spend time with his Webcam.

As he grew familiar with the online underground, Justin learned he was not alone in the business. Other teenagers were doing the same things, taking advantage of an Internet infrastructure of support that was perfectly suited to illicit business.

...

Justin chatted with the boys online, and sometimes persuaded the girls to masturbate on camera while he did the same.

...

It was not only the minors operating Webcam sites for pay who faced frightening adults. Earlier this year, a teenage girl in Alabama posed seminude on her Webcam in a sexually charged conversation with someone she thought was another teenage girl. But her new confidant, it turned out, was an adult named Julio Bardales from Napa, Calif., law enforcement officials said. And when the girl stopped complying, she received an e-mail message from Mr. Bardales containing a montage of her images. Across them was a threat in red letters that the images would be revealed unless she showed a frontal nude shot over the Webcam. Mr. Bardales was subsequently arrested. The police said he possessed images of more under-age girls on Webcams, including other montages with the same threat.

Justin says that he did not fully understand the dangers his fans posed, and before he turned 14, he was first lured from the relative safety of his home. A man he met online hosted Justin's Web site from Ann Arbor, Mich., and invited him there to attend a computer camp. Justin's mother allowed him to go, thinking the camp sounded worthwhile.

Another time, the man enticed Justin to Michigan by promising to arrange for him to have sex with a girl. Both times, Justin said, the man molested him. Transcripts of their subsequent conversations online support the accusations, and a video viewed by The Times shows that the man, who appears for a short time in the recording, also taped pornography of Justin.

from Victim to Predator

As his obsession with the business grew, Justin became a ferocious competitor. When another under-age site operator called Strider ranked higher on a popular portal, Justin sent him anonymous e-mail messages, threatening to pass along images from Strider's site to the boy's father. The site disappeared.

"I was vicious," Justin said. "But I guess I really did Strider a favor. Looking back, I wish someone had done that to me."

By then, fans had begun offering Justin cash to meet. Gilo Tunno, a former Intel employee, gave him thousands of dollars to visit him in a Las Vegas hotel, according to financial records and other documents. There, Justin said, Mr. Tunno began a series of molestings. At least one assault was videotaped and the recording e-mailed to Justin, who has since turned it over to the F.B.I.

Mr. Tunno played another critical role in Justin's business, the records show. When he was 15, Justin worried that his mother might discover what he was doing. So he asked Mr. Tunno to sign an apartment lease for him and pay rent. Justin promised to raise money to pay a share. "I'll whore," he explained in a message to Mr. Tunno.

Mr. Tunno agreed, signing a lease for $410 a month for an apartment just down the street from Justin's house. From then on, Justin would tell his mother he was visiting friends, then head to the apartment for his next performance. Mr. Tunno, who remains under investigation in the case, is serving an eight-year federal sentence on an unrelated sexual abuse charge involving a child and could not be reached for comment.

The rental symbolized a problem that Justin had not foreseen: his adult fans would do almost anything to ensure that his performances continued. At its worst, they would stand between him and the people in his offline life whom they saw as a threat to his Webcam appearances.

For example, when a girlfriend of Justin's tried to convince him to shut down his site in December 2002, a customer heaped scorn on her.

"She actually gets mad at you for buying her things with the money you make from the cam?" messaged the customer, a man using the nickname Angelaa. "Just try and remember, Justin, that she may not love you, but most of us in your chat room, your friends, love you very much."

A Life Falls Apart

In early 2003, Justin's offline life began to unravel. A former classmate found pornographic videos on the Internet from Justin's Web site, made copies and handed them out around town, including to students at his school. Justin was taunted and beaten.

Feeling embarrassed and unable to continue at school, Justin begged his mother to allow him to be home-schooled through an online program. Knowing he was having trouble with classmates, but in the dark about the reasons why, she agreed.

Then, in February, came another traumatic event. Justin had begun speaking with his father, hoping to repair their relationship. But that month, Mr. Berry, who had been charged with insurance fraud related to massage clinics he ran, disappeared without a word.

Despairing, Justin turned to his online fans. "My dad left. I guess he doesn't love me," he wrote. "Why did I let him back in my life? Let me die, just let me die."

His father did not disappear for long. Soon, Mr. Berry called his son from Mazatlán, Mexico; Justin begged to join him, and his father agreed.

In Mexico, Justin freely spent his cash, leading his father to ask where the money had come from. Justin said that he confessed the details of his lucrative Webcam business, and that the reunion soon became a collaboration. Justin created a new Web site, calling it mexicofriends, his most ambitious ever. It featured Justin having live sex with prostitutes. During some of Justin's sexual encounters, a traffic tracker on his site showed hundreds watching. It rapidly became a wildly popular Webcam pornography site, making Justin one of the Internet's most sought after under-age pornography stars.

For this site, Justin, then 16, used a pricing model favored by legitimate businesses. For standard subscribers, the cost was $35, billed monthly. But discounts were available for three-month, six-month and annual memberships. Justin used the cash to support a growing cocaine and marijuana habit.

Money from the business, Justin said, was shared with his father, an accusation supported by transcripts of their later instant message conversations. In exchange, Justin told prosecutors and The Times, his father helped procure prostitutes. One video obtained by the F.B.I. shows Mr. Berry sitting with Justin as the camera is turned on, then making the bed before a prostitute arrives to engage in intercourse with his teenage son. Asked about Justin's accusations, Mr. Berry said, "Obviously, I am not going to comment on anything."

In the fall of 2003, Justin's life took a new turn when a subscriber named Greg Mitchel, a 36-year-old fast food restaurant manager from Dublin, Va., struck up an online friendship with the boy and soon asked to visit him. Seeing a chance to generate cash, Justin agreed.

Mr. Mitchel arrived that October, and while in Mexico, molested Justin for what would be the first of many times, according to transcripts of their conversations and other evidence. Mr. Mitchel, who is in jail awaiting trial on six child pornography charges stemming from this case, could not be reached for comment.

Over the following year, Justin tried repeatedly to break free of this life. He roamed the stemming from this case, could not be reached for comment.

Over the following year, Justin tried repeatedly to break free of this life. He roamed the United States. He contemplated suicide. For a time he sought solace in a return to his boyhood Christianity. At one point he dismantled his site, loading it instead with Biblical teachings -- and taking delight in knowing the surprise his subscribers would experience when they logged on to watch him have sex.

But his drug craving, and the need for money to satisfy it, was always there. Soon, Mr. Mitchel beckoned, urging Justin to return to pornography and offering to be his business partner. With Mr. Mitchel, records and interviews show, Justin created a new Web site, justinsfriends.com, featuring performances by him and other boys he helped recruit. But as videos featuring other minors appeared on his site, Justin felt torn, knowing that these adolescents were on the path that had hurt him so badly.

Justin was now 18, a legal adult. He had crossed the line from under-age victim to adult perpetrator.

Look Behind the Secrecy

In June, Justin began communicating online with someone who had never messaged him before. The conversations involved many questions, and Justin feared his new contact might be an F.B.I. agent. Still, when a meeting was suggested, Justin agreed. He says part of him hoped he would be arrested, putting an end to the life he was leading.

Kurt

They met in Los Angeles, and Justin learned that the man was this reporter, who wanted to discuss the world of Webcam pornography with him. After some hesitation, Justin agreed. At one point, asked what he wanted to accomplish in his life, Justin pondered for a moment and replied that he wanted to make his mother and grandmother proud of him.

In the days that followed, Justin agreed in discussions with this reporter to abandon the drugs and his pornography business. He cut himself off from his illicit life. He destroyed his cellphone, stopped using his online screen name and fled to a part of the country where no one would find him.

As he sobered up, Justin disclosed more of what he knew about the Webcam world; within a week, he revealed the names and locations of children who were being actively molested or exploited by adults with Webcam sites. After confirming his revelations, The Times urged him to give his information to prosecutors, and he agreed.

Justin contacted Steven M. Ryan, a former federal prosecutor and partner with Manatt, Phelps & Phillips in Washington. Mr. Ryan had learned of Justin's story during an interview with The Times about a related legal question, and offered to represent him.

Finally, in late July, Justin met in Washington with the F.B.I. and prosecutors. He identified children who he believed were in the hands of adult predators. He listed the marketers, credit card processors and others who supported Webcam child pornography. He also described the voluminous documentary evidence he had retained on his hard drives: financial information, conversation transcripts with his members, and other records.

The meeting ended, followed by weeks of silence. Word came back that prosecutors were wrestling with Justin's dual role as a victim and a perpetrator. Justin told associates that he was willing to plead guilty if the government would save the children he had identified; Mr. Ryan dissuaded him.

Prodded by the F.B.I. and others in the Justice Department, on Sept. 7, prosecutors informed Mr. Ryan that his client would be granted immunity. A little more than four weeks after his 19th birthday, Justin became a federal witness.

Mr. Mitchel pleaded with Justin to come out of hiding, inviting the teenager on an all-expense-paid trip to Las Vegas with him and a 15-year-old boy also involved in Webcam pornography. But Justin demurred.

"You act like you're in witness protection," Mr. Mitchel typed. "Are you?"

"Haha," Justin replied. Did Mr. Mitchel think he would be on the Internet if he was a federal witness? he asked. Justin changed the subject, later asking the whereabouts of others who lived with Mr. Mitchel, including two adolescents; Mr. Mitchel replied that everyone was home that night.

In a location in the Southwest, Justin glanced from his computer screen to a speakerphone. On the line was a team of F.B.I. agents who at that moment were pulling several cars into Mr. Mitchel's driveway, preparing to arrest him.

"The kids are in the house!" Justin shouted into the phone, answering a question posed by one of the agents.

As agents approached the house, Justin knew he had little time left. He decided to confront the man who had hurt him for so long.

"Do you even remember how many times you stuck your hand down my pants?" he typed.

Mr. Mitchel responded that many bad things had happened, but he wanted to regain Justin's trust.

"You molested me," Justin replied. "Don't apologize for what you can't admit."

There was no response. "Peekaboo?" Justin typed.

On the screen, a message appeared that Mr. Mitchel had signed off. The arrest was over.

Justin thrust his hands into the air. "Yes!" he shouted.

In the weeks since the first arrest, F.B.I. agents and prosecutors have focused on numerous other potential defendants. For example, Tim Richards, identified by Justin as a marketer and principal of justinsfriends.com, was arrested in Nashville last month and arraigned on child pornography charges. According to law enforcement officials, Mr. Richards was stopped in a moving van in his driveway, accompanied by a young teenage boy featured by Mr. Richards on his own Webcam site. Mr. Richards has pleaded not guilty.

Hundreds of thousands of computer files, including e-mail containing a vast array of illegal images sent among adults, have been seized from around the country. Information about Justin's members has been downloaded by the F.B.I. from Neova.net, the company that processed the credit cards; Neova and its owner, Aaron Brown, are targets of the investigation, according to court records and government officials. And Justin has begun assisting agents with Immigration and Customs Enforcement, who hope to use his evidence to bring new charges against an imprisoned child rapist.

Justin himself has found a measure of control over his life. He revealed the details of his secret life to his family, telling them of all the times in the past that he had lied to them. He has sought counseling, kept off drugs, resumed his connection with his church and plans to attend college beginning in January.

Reporting about child pornography on the Internet presents complicated journalistic and legal issues, both in gathering the information and in doing so while not violating laws against possession of such images.

To verify information received from minors and found online, The Times obtained an array of documents, including copies of online conversations and e-mail messages between minors and adult admirers; records of payments to minors; membership lists from Webcam sites that charge fees; and information about companies that facilitate array of documents, including copies of online conversations and e-mail messages between minors and adult admirers; records of payments to minors; membership lists from Webcam sites that charge fees; and information about companies that facilitate their operation. The Times also examined sites maintained by children and adults, and defunct sites stored in online archives.

To confirm Justin Berry's story, The Times reviewed and obtained access to thousands of pages of evidence, including files he retained on his computer over several years, original documents, financial records, credit card processing data and other information. The paper also interviewed members of his family and people he knew at various stages of his life.

Decisions in the reporting were reviewed with Times lawyers to ensure legal compliance. While it was occasionally necessary to review offensive images, The Times avoided downloading child pornography or independently subscribing to sites containing such material. In each instance that The Times located illegal images on the Internet, information about them was provided to law enforcement officials.

Summary and Conclusions

Once again, I wasn't planning on covering in detail Kurt Eichenwald's investigative work, but after going through the article, I found it very valuable to understand the vulnerability of young children and teenagers, especially in the online world.

The rule of law and social stigma towards pedophilia have pushed pedophiles to utilize extremely organized, well-coordinated, and manipulative tactics to gradually lure kids into a lifestyle of sexual exploitation online and offline.

The tactics involve the following:

- Befriending the kids online, even pretending to be a kid as well
- Showering kids with compliments, money, and gifts
- Providing emotional support which many of the kids involved, lack at home
- Gradually provide more financial resources, including paying for rent, to kids while gradually increasing expecting more in sexual demands and favors
- Building trust of the child to allow for meeting in person, often to molest the kids
- Exploiting kids through spreading explicit images and videos online, usually for money
- Presenting themselves as the victim, and the child as the predator…
- Threatening the kids with blackmail, i.e. sending explicit images to parents
- Introducing drugs to get kids addicted, and dependent on this type of lifestyle

These tactics are important for everyone, especially parents, to know about in order to be able to spot possible child abuse / exploitation.

Also, a key takeaway is that children NEED the love and support from family and friends, and

Also, a key takeaway is that children NEED the love and support from family and friends, and are even willing to lean towards twisted pedophiles in order to obtain it…

While the article is very informative, Kurt Eichenwald's investigative work raises concerns about his "methodology"…

FBI pedophile symbols

Summary

This visually explosive FBI document reveals the secret symbols organized pedophiles use to recognize each other and is likely to be of broad interest to readers, especially parents. Wikileaks has verified the document.

The classification codes in used in the document (different parts have different classifications) are:

LES: Law Enforcement Sensitive FOUO: For Official Use Only
U: Unclassified

Wikileaks believes the information will be of assistance to parents and other care givers in recognizing pedophiles. Wikileaks affiliated journalists obtained the document via "child erotica" networks in Spain, which raises the question of how this FBI document came into the hands of individuals so close to the people it is meant to be investigating.

(U) Symbols and Logos Used by Pedophiles to Identify Sexual Preferences

(U//LES) Pedophiles, to include those who sexually abuse children as well as those who produce, distribute, and trade child pornography, are using various types of identification logos or symbols to recognize one another and distinguish their sexual preferences. To specifically indicate the pedophile's gender preference, members of pedophilic organizations encourage the use of descriptions such as "boylove", "girllove", and "childlove."1 These symbols have been etched into rings and formed into pendants, and have also been found imprinted on coins.

(U) The BoyLover logo (BLogo) is a small blue spiral-shaped triangle surrounded by a larger triangle, whereby the small triangle represents a small boy and the larger triangle represents an adult man.2 A variation of the BLogo is the Little Boy Lover logo (LBLogo), which also embodies a small spiral-shaped triangle within a larger triangle; however, the corners of the LBLogo are rounded to resemble a scribbling by a young child.3 Images of the BLogo and LBLogo symbols are depicted below.

(U) The ChildLover logo (CLogo), as shown below, resembles a butterfly and represents non-preferential gender child abusers. The Childlove Online Media Activism Logo (CLOMAL), also represented below, is a general purpose logo used by individuals who use online media such as blogs and webcasts.4

(U//LES) FBI investigations in several cities have uncovered several symbols used by pedophiles to proclaim their attraction to children. After a seizure of a subject's computer in connection with an Innocent Images case in the Jacksonville Division, a Computer Analysis Response Team forensic examiner came across an unfamiliar symbol that was integrated into a Web site banner named "ATBOYS.COM, where the "A" in "ATBOYS" was actually the BoyLove symbol and written as follows: ATBOYS.com. It was further determined that "ATBOYS" is an acronym for Attracted To Boys.5 These pedophilia symbols also appear on Web sites such as one of the banners advertised on www.boylover.net, shown below.6

UNCLASSIFIED

(U) Boylover.net banner

(U//LES) In another incident, FBI Sacramento was alerted by the California Department of Justice about an unusual marking on a coin. Research of the marking concluded that the BoyLover logo (BLogo) was imprinted on the front of the coin, and the phrase "Kids Love Pedos" was engraved on the back of the coin.7 (Coins depicting the BLogo are pictured on page one.) The appearance of the BLogo on coins is another method used by pedophiles to announce their sexual preferences.

(U) Pedophilia symbols on jewelry, coins, Web sites and other effects are indicative of advertisement methods used by child sexual predators to promote their cause. Pedophile activists advocate for the social acceptance of sexual relationships between adults and children. These organizations seek to decriminalize sexual relationships between adults and children and to legalize child pornography based on their belief that children have the ability to consent to sexual acts.

(U//LES) Identical or similar jewelry and symbols as described in this intelligence bulletin should raise suspicion of possible pedophilia activity when found during searches. Investigators should also be attentive to pedophilia symbols advertised on Web sites. During examinations of computer files, investigators should be conscious of subjects who try to conceal child pornography by labeling them with symbols instead of the typical suggestive explicit names.

(U) This Intelligence Bulletin was prepared by the FBI's Cyber Division, Innocent Images Unit. Please address all comments or questions to the Innocent Images Unit at 301-586-1613.

On the Web, Pedophiles Extent Their Reach

The community's online infrastructure is surprisingly elaborate. There are Internet radio stations run by and for pedophiles; a putative charity that raised money to send Eastern European children to a camp where they were apparently visited by pedophiles; and an online jewelry company that markets pendants proclaiming the wearer as being sexually attracted to children, allowing anyone in the know to recognize them.

These were the findings of a four-month effort by The New York Times to learn about the pedophiles' online world by delving into their Internet communications.

Top row, pendants symbolizing “boy-love.” Second row, “girl-love” pendants. Third row, logos representing “boy-lovers,” at left; “girl-lovers,” at right. Fourth row, logos for “child-lovers” at left; and at right, for “online pedophile activism.”

Dissecting the #PizzaGate Conspiracy Theories

In the span of a few weeks, a false rumor that Hillary Clinton and her top aides were involved in various crimes snowballed into a wild conspiracy theory that they were running a child-trafficking ring out of a Washington pizza parlor. The fast evolution of the false theory revealed how a powerful mix of fake news and social media led an armed North Carolina man to investigate the rumors about the pizza place, Comet Ping Pong, last Sunday.

Claim: Comet Ping Pong and other nearby businesses use pedophile symbols in logos.

According to an F.B.I. document released by WikiLeaks, the following symbols are used by pedophiles to identify sexual preferences.

Conspiracy theorists claimed that other design elements used by businesses near the Comet Ping Pong restaurant also resembled pedophile symbols.

However, countless other major American brand logos contain similar shapes. Hearts, triangles and spirals are widely used symbols in business logos.

This article is a complete joke by what is considered to be a news outlet of high integrity, especially compared with the 2006 article I just mentioned.

The only major American brand logo that looks similar, in my opinion is the Wall's ice-cream logo.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Wall's_(ice_cream)

Retrieved: 12 February 2017

Wall's (ice cream)

Wall's is an ice cream brand owned by the Anglo-Dutch food and personal care conglomerate Unilever.

Unilever, as will be explained in later videos has some very troubling links to the McCann case and #PizzaGate in general, so stay tuned...

Also, it doesn't take a genius to notice that having multiple businesses close together with logos resembling well established and FBI documented pedophile logos is a cause for concern.

Other clues are "Besta" is spanish for "Beast", i.e. "Beast Pizza".

Also, Besta Pizza has since changed their logo.

Comet Ping Pong has abbreviations similar to Child Porn (i.e. CPP)

Even Comet's menu has a P.E.D abbreviation.

I will cover all of these in great detail in later videos so stay tuned!

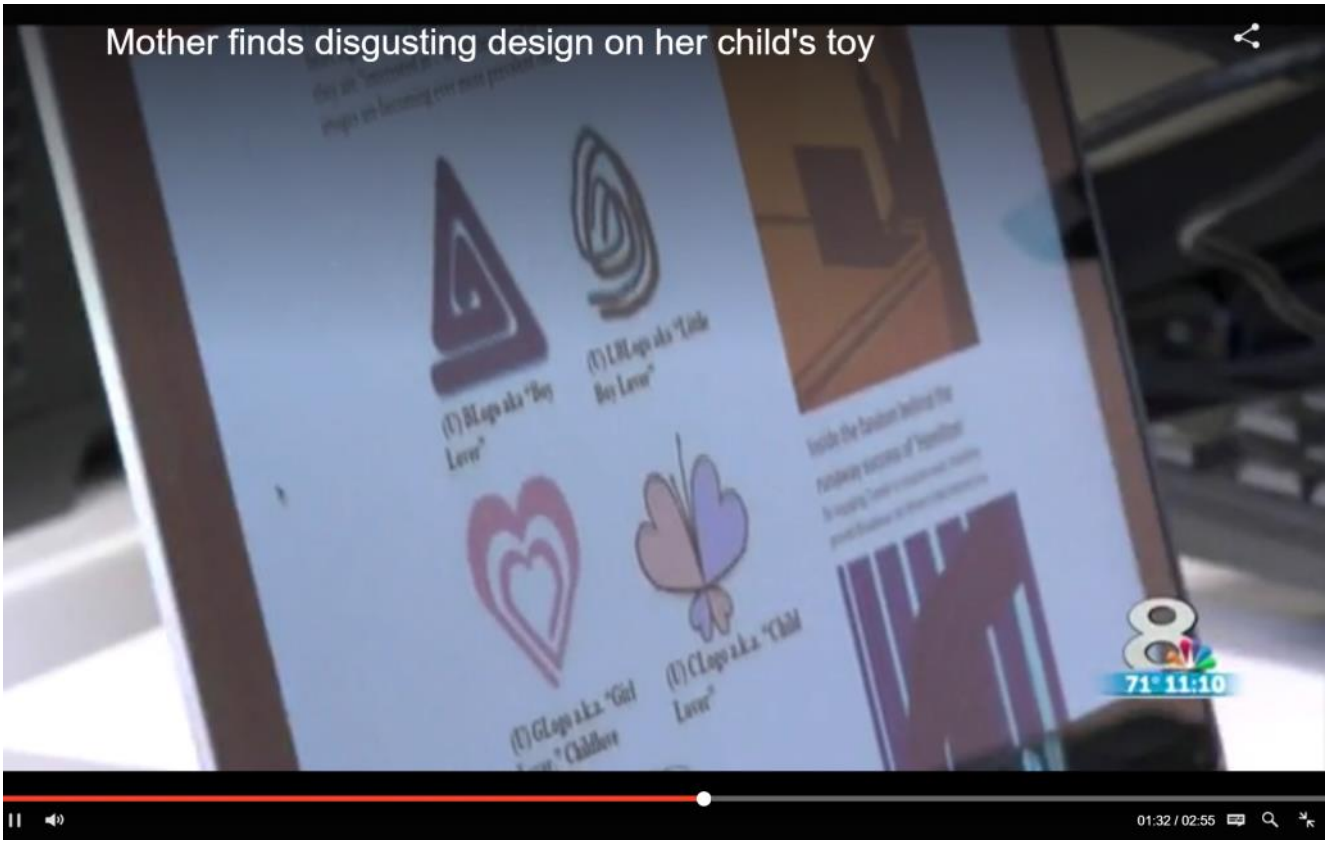
Code for pedophiles ends up on children's toys [VIDEO]



TAMPA, Fla. (WFLA) – Nicole O'Kelly couldn't believe it when she heard the stuffed toy she bought for her daughter at Monster Jam may have a symbol meant for pedophiles.

"I'm absolutely sick. I bought this for my 2-year-old little girl. This toy was made for little girls. I wanted answers," O'Kelly said.

"This is pink," O'Kelly said. "This is for little girls, especially at a predominately male event."

The toy was designed in the Tampa Bay area, at Feld, Inc.

Here's what the heart means. When a pedophile sees children with the heart symbol, it's a code. It means this child is ready to be traded for sex.

Code for pedophiles ends up on children's toys sold at Monster Jam

Nicole O'Kelly couldn't believe it when she heard the stuffed toy she bought for her daughter at Monster Jam may have a symbol meant for pedophiles.

We contacted Pasco County Sheriff's Office Detective Anthony Bassone, of the jurisdiction's cyber crimes unit. Det. Bassone was familiar with the story, and provided a wealth of useful information.

According to Bassone, the heart symbol in question indeed bore some resemblance to imagery disseminated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Cyber Division Innocent Images National Initiative to law enforcement agencies on 31 January 2007. (We were unable to locate the document anywhere other than Wikileaks, and Bassone told us that slides from the FBI's release later appeared on an episode of Law and Order: Special Victims Unit.) The communication tipped law enforcement in 2007 to the existence of the symbols and common applications among pedophiles.

The document described the symbols as used by pedophiles to denote their own preferences, not ones reserved to mark children as potential or available victims.

Bassone told us that the use of interlocking hearts in and of itself was unlikely to put any child in danger, adding that the department was attempting to talk to the designer to learn more about the choice of symbol.

However, he explained that the appearance of the symbol on children's items was off-putting from the perspective of a cyber crimes detective, as they may be widely recognized by pedophiles. Bassone noted that while the symbol wasn't necessarily dangerous or presenting a risk of child exploitation, it was possible in-the-know pedophiles would find the use of the symbol on children's clothing or toys to be stimulating or amusing.

Feld Inc. responded to our inquiry, confirming that the item was since pulled from their inventory. Spokesman Stephen Payne said in a statement that the company was unaware the heart symbol bore any relation to pedophile shibboleths. The tenor of the statement suggested that the maker of the toy was genuinely horrified to learn of the rumors and took immediate action upon hearing the rumors:

It's true that a toy sold at Monster Jam bore a symbol similar to one used by pedophiles, and that toy has since been pulled from the event's merchandise inventory. However, that symbol was not exclusive to pedophiles and did not "mark" children for abuse. Feld Inc. asserted that they were unaware of the connection, but immediately acted to remove the toys from circulation. After this post was published, a number of readers pointed out a very similar and widely distributed Unilever-brand ice cream logo:

While the WFLA article may have exaggerated the meaning of the symbol, I believe similar symbols are still a cause for concern for parents and their children.

Also, at first glance, Snopes' "Mostly False" rating gives the impression that the logos aren't actually actual FBI Pedophile logos and/or parents shouldn't be concerned when seeing them on toys, which I believe is misleading.

Parents should always be concerned about their children, and seeing logos resembling pedophiles should increase that concern.

Summary and Conclusions:

It is clear the pedophile logos are well documented and well known among law enforcement, the FBI, and even across the world.

These logos are used on rings, coins, pendants, and even websites, toys, and businesses.

The logos help in criminal investigations in searching for and finding evidence against suspects.

The use of these logos are to indicate pedophiles' sexual preference, label child pornography on websites or computer files (to avoid using explicit names for them that are highly traceable), and even to network with other pedophiles.

Also, New York Time's casually dismissing the pedophile logos is in stark contrast to their 2006 article, and raises even more questions…

Presidential Executive Order on Enforcing Federal Law with Respect to Transnational Criminal Organizations and Preventing International Trafficking

Sec. 2. Policy. It shall be the policy of the executive branch to:

(a) strengthen enforcement of Federal law in order to thwart transnational criminal organizations and subsidiary organizations, including criminal gangs, cartels, racketeering organizations, and other groups engaged in illicit activities that present a threat to public safety and national security and that are related to, for example:

(i) the illegal smuggling and trafficking of humans, drugs or other substances, wildlife, and weapons;

(ii) corruption, cybercrime, fraud, financial crimes, and intellectual-property theft; or

(iii) the illegal concealment or transfer of proceeds derived from such illicit activities.

(b) ensure that Federal law enforcement agencies give a high priority and devote sufficient resources to efforts to identify, interdict, disrupt, and dismantle transnational criminal organizations and subsidiary organizations, including through the investigation, apprehension, and prosecution of members of such organizations, the extradition of members of such organizations to face justice in the United States and, where appropriate and to the extent permitted by law, the swift removal from the United States of foreign nationals who are members of such organizations;

> Sec. 3. Implementation. In furtherance of the policy set forth in section 2 of this order, the Secretary of State, the Attorney General, the Secretary of Homeland Security, and the Director of National Intelligence, or their designees, shall co chair and direct the existing interagency Threat Mitigation Working Group (TMWG), which shall:

Madeleine McCann's parents lose court appeal to silence cop who claims they covered up daughter's death

The McCanns have lost their appeal to Portugal's highest court over ex-police chief Goncalo Amaral's book claiming they covered up their daughter's death.

Portuguese Supreme Court judges met this morning in Lisbon to resolve the couple's fight against a lower court's decision last April to reverse their 2015 libel win against the former detective.

The hearing took place in private and an official public decision is not set to be sent to lawyers acting for the litigants until later in the week.

But well-placed sources close to the long-running case said this afternoon the decision had gone against the McCanns and they would now face a massive legal bill.

Judges decided that Goncalo Amaral's "right to freedom of expression" was worthy of greater protection under Portuguese law than the "right to honour" of the McCanns.

Flashback to what started the libel trial:

Kate McCann 'contemplated suicide' after detective's book on Madeleine's disappearance

The devastated mother of missing Madeleine McCann considered suicide and told her psychologist of 'dark thoughts' after a Portuguese detective published a book

The devastated mother of missing Madeleine McCann considered suicide and told her psychologist of 'dark thoughts' after a Portuguese detective published a book alleging she faked her daughter's disappearance, a libel trial has heard.

Psychologist Alan Pike said Kate McCann spent days weeping after the book was released alleging that she and her husband Gerry hid Madeleine's body after she had died in an accident at their apartment in Praia da Luz, in the Algarve.

Gerry and I were keen to start a family as soon as possible, but after a couple of years with no sign of a pregnancy, it became clear that it wasn't going to be as easy as we'd assumed. Those who have been lucky enough to conceive effortlessly often fail to appreciate how heartbreaking and testing trying fruitlessly for a baby can be: month after month of aching disappointment, punctuated by a mid-cycle urgency to have sex at the crucial time, which removes all the spontaneity, and much of the fun, from making love. Sex becomes a clinical requirement rather than an enjoyable and intimate experience. And as time drags by, you find yourself having to force a joyful smile and congratulate your friends as they become pregnant, apparently without the slightest difficulty.

The only other unexplained detail I remember from that morning was a large, brown stain I noticed on Madeleine's pink Eeyore pyjama top. I couldn't recall seeing it the night before and I had no idea how it might have got there. It looked like a tea stain. Gerry and I do drink quite a bit of tea, and Madeleine, too, would have the odd small cup. So at the time I just assumed it was a drink spillage that had escaped our attention, and that might well be all it was. But now, of course, we can no longer make assumptions about anything that can't be accounted for.

The morning continued like the others with kids' clubs and tennis. After my lesson, I hung around on the grassy play area, watching Gerry on the court and chatting to Russell, who I'd found there. Another guest appeared with a video camera to record his three-year-old daughter playing mini-tennis. He looked a little embarrassed and laughingly remarked to us that filming in this way made him feel like a dirty old man. It led to a conversation between the three of us about paedophiles. I remember Russell talking about how everything had got a bit out of hand, that these days people were so untrusting you hardly dared speak to children you didn't know. What he was effectively saying was that the world had become paranoid; that he wanted his daughters to grow up with confidence and a sense of freedom. The other dad and I chipped in with our views – I mentioned not being allowed to take photographs of your own kids in swimming pools any longer – and we agreed that it was a shame things had come to this, especially for the children. It would be some days before Russell and I were able to acknowledge to each other the horrible irony of this conversation.

Having been so late back from the police station the previous evening, we'd decided to wait until morning to meet the trauma psychologist, Alan Pike. But by this point we realized that we needed help urgently. Just before 5am Gerry rang Craig Mayhew, the Mark Warner overseas manager, and asked if Alan would be able to come and see us. He was at the door of our apartment by 6am.

Alan is a clinical partner at the Centre for Crisis Psychology, pioneers in psychological trauma aftercare following disasters at home and abroad. They have worked with the families and survivors of the Bradford fire, the sinking of the Herald of Free Enterprise, the World Trade Center terrorist attacks and the 2004 tsunami, to name just a few. Alan himself, we would learn, had been involved in the aftermath of, among other horrors, coach crashes in Gran Canaria, Cuba and South Africa, three hurricanes and the terrorist bombing at Sharm el Sheikh two years earlier.

Alan must be used to seeing people in states of profound distress, and he certainly found two in apartment 4G at the Ocean Club. By this stage I was beginning to feel that there just wasn't any way up. He started by asking us about our home, our family and our normal lives. He told us we seemed like model parents. I cannot overstate how much such kind reassurance meant to us at that moment. We were both feeling so desperately guilty. Whatever we had or had not done right, we were Madeleine's parents and in our own eyes we had failed to keep her safe. We struggled to bear that sense of guilt and we always will.

Alan got us talking, encouraging us to try to think rationally about what we were saying, and we talked a lot, for several hours. We faced our biggest fear: that Madeleine had been taken by a paedophile and killed. This was the only scenario occupying our minds just then. Alan pointed out to us that these thoughts could be no more than speculation. We didn't know what had happened. We needed to avoid focusing on the negative and channel everything into looking forwards. 'Madeleine might walk through that door at any minute,' he said. 'You need to be ready for that.' He discussed with us the importance of taking control of things, little by little, starting with tiny actions as simple as making ourselves a cup of tea. The effect our conversation with Alan had on us that morning was truly amazing. To say it helped would be a gross understatement. Any scepticism we might have had before about how a psychologist could possibly benefit us personally has long gone. Alan was, and remains, a saviour.

Page 67

A couple of days later, the [Family Liaison Officers] FLOs' efforts were bolstered by the arrival from the UK of the specialists from the Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre (CEOP). The director of the forensic psychology unit, who was a detective superintendent, and a social worker came to see us to outline their current lines of inquiry. In the weeks ahead the input of the UK experts would encourage us to feel more optimistic that the investigation was gaining momentum. This initial discussion, though, was unsettling, focused as it was on the typical profile of a paedophile. All I could think was, not Madeleine. Please, not Madeleine!

Having spent much of the previous four days cooped up, first with the police and then with the lawyers, by the Sunday afternoon Gerry and I felt the need to escape into the open air. We decided to go for a walk along the beach. Perhaps 'escape' isn't the right word, since we were soon tailed by a posse of journalists, and there could be little escape in any case from the hell engulfing us. Thankfully, we were left alone when we reached the shore, and were able to stroll along the sand in relative solitude.

I remember this walk well. It had been a chaotic and confusing ten days, shot through with unremitting cold dread and dark thoughts that were hard to push away when we had nothing else with which to replace them. That is the anguish of the 'not knowing'. I asked Gerry apprehensively if he'd had any really horrible thoughts or visions of Madeleine. He nodded. Haltingly, I told him about the awful pictures that scrolled through my head of her body, her perfect little genitals torn apart. Although I knew I had to share this burden, just raising the subject out loud to someone else, even Gerry, had to share this burden, just raising the subject out loud to someone else, even Gerry, was excruciating. Admitting the existence of these images somehow confirmed them as a real possibility, and with that confirmation came renewed waves of fear.

So many of the emotions and physical sensations I've experienced over the past few years will be beyond the scope of most people's comprehension, thank God. I felt as if I'd embarked on a slow, painful death. Just imagining your child, any child, like this is agonizing and unless such thoughts have any basis in reality, it is normal and understandable to banish them from your mind. Everybody has their own mechanisms for self-protection and surrounding yourself only with 'nice thoughts' is one of many. I wished I could do that. The pictures I saw of our Madeleine no sane human being would want in her head, but they were in mine. I simply couldn't rid myself of these evil scenes in the early days and weeks.

That walk with Gerry was, however, a small watershed. The mutual acknowledgement of such delicate and deeply upsetting responses drew us even closer together.
It would be some time before we could get far enough past the terrible scenes seared into our minds to think logically about that night. Once we did begin to function within what felt like an endless bad dream, we started to comb through our memories, searching for something significant.

Had Madeleine been specifically targeted, either for herself or because someone knew that apartment 5A would be a breeze to raid? Not only did its corner position allow for easy access and escape, but, unlike many other residences, it had no protective wrought-iron bars at the windows and no security light.

Could Madeleine's apparently excessive tiredness on that last Thursday afternoon have been caused by some kind of tranquillizer administered earlier in the day, or even the night before? It had been noticeable, but then we'd been approaching the end of our break and the children had all been extremely active for almost a week. It might simply have been, as we'd thought at the time, the holiday catching up with her. Inevitably, though, since we cannot yet know for sure, a little nugget of doubt remains.

So many little things had and would continue to come to light, so many chance incidents and minor decisions made in all innocence, which on their own would not have driven events to such a disastrous conclusion. Together, though, they seem to have accumulated into a monstrous mountain of bad luck.

Page 88

The two officers talked openly about Robert Murat, who remained an arguido, and drip-fed us snippets of 'evidence' linking him to Madeleine's disappearance. Not enough, apparently, to arrest and charge him. In some ways, I wish now they hadn't done this. It served only to colour my judgement of Murat. They told us, for example, about a newspaper clipping they'd seized from his house, an article entitled 'Lock up Your Daughters', which claimed that Casanova had been a paedophile. It made us shudder. Back then we feared everything and, perhaps understandably, leaped to the worst conclusions without pausing to consider innocent explanations.

Page 93 to 96

We were met at Madrid airport by several British Embassy staff, a liaison officer and two press officers, as well as a crowd of journalists and photographers, and taken to the hotel where we were to spend the night. Clarence briefed Gerry and me about the meetings and press conferences arranged for the next day and then we went up to our room to get some rest.

A bit tearful again tonight. It's getting harder to black out the bad thoughts.

After a troubled night, we got up, dressed and went down to breakfast. I couldn't focus on the day ahead, on what we were trying to accomplish. Every now and then, by taking a few deep breaths and giving myself a firm talking-to, I gained a little control, only to collapse minutes later into a blubbering wreck. I was so angry with myself. Stop crying. Just stop it. You have to help your daughter. You will achieve nothing if you spend the whole day crying and wallowing in your grief. But trying to 'snap out of it' when every thought, every action, every breath is polluted by anguish is easier said than done. As I continued to sniffle over my untouched cup of tea, Gerry said, 'Kate, you don't have to do this. We don't have to do any of this. These meetings can be cancelled quite easily.' I knew he meant it but I also knew that I'd persecute myself later if I pulled out.

Once we'd been introduced to the British ambassador to Spain, the British consul for Madrid and a lady from the Justice and Home Affairs Department, we were scheduled to talk to representatives of three Spanish non-governmental organizations (NGOs) working with missing and exploited children. We'd both been a little nervous about this meeting. Conscious of the fact that there were many children abducted around the world whose plight hadn't been given anything like the publicity Madeleine's had, we were concerned that this might have caused some resentment.

We couldn't have been more wrong. The reception we were given by the NGOs was nothing but appreciative. 'Thank goodness you are doing this,' they said. 'We are so grateful to you for drawing attention to the whole issue of child abduction and exploitation.' We listened for an hour while they explained to us the extent of the problem in Spain and the difficulties they faced. While the situation had improved slightly (possession of child pornography, for example, had finally been classified as a criminal offence in Spain a couple of years before – which it still has not, incidentally, in many other nations), they felt that many cases of child sexual abuse, pornography and trafficking were still being swept under the carpet. The authorities and even the general population seemed unwilling to acknowledge that this kind of thing happened in their country.

As empathetic as the NGO representatives were, with every horrendous fact and statistic they shared with us I became wobblier and wobblier. Afterwards I took refuge in the ladies' room as the next deluge of tears gushed forth. Gripping the rim of the washbasin, I glanced at the red, swollen eyes and blotchy face looking back at me in the mirror. Come on, Kate. Deep breath in, deep breath out. And again. Nice and slow. Calm. Calm. I soaked some tissues in cold water and pressed them against my eyes and cheeks, then performed a few eye-widening exercises in an attempt to look vaguely human. Taking a final deep breath, with my mind refocused, I joined Gerry and Clarence and we made our way to the press conference that had been arranged, followed by a few short interviews.

In the afternoon we met Señor Rubalcaba, the Spanish interior minister. He listened attentively and his manner was gentle and sympathetic. He showed us the case file that had already been opened for Madeleine, which instantly brought us both some reassurance. There are two things I remember Señor Rubalcaba saying to us. 'We are treating Madeleine as if she is one of our own,' and 'As time moves on, people forget. Please feel free to come and knock on my door at any point to remind me.' Of course, I have no idea how genuine either statement was, but he certainly seemed sincere and we were grateful and encouraged.

As yet another day draws to a close and you are no nearer to finding your missing child, such fleeting flashes of optimism can disappear very quickly. That evening, as we flew back to Portugal, my mood was no doubt influenced by what we'd heard from the NGOs.

> Quite upset on the way home. Can't stop thinking about Madeleine again – her fear and her pain. Dark thoughts have been creeping in a lot this week. How can I carry on, knowing that her life may have ended like this?

Saturday 2 June. It wasn't unusual for investigative or campaign issues to eat into our family days, and this was one of those occasions. Before we took the children out to Praia da Rocha beach, Gerry needed to catch up with the emails that had accumulated while we'd been in Madrid and I had a letter I wanted to write to J. K. Rowling. A couple of weeks earlier, a friend had mentioned to me that the author had a new Harry Potter story coming out in July and suggested I got in touch to see whether she could do something to raise awareness around the launch of her book.

'July?' I'd said. 'July?'

Surely Madeleine would be back by then. I was panic-stricken at the idea that she might not; that my friend could imagine she might not. I simply couldn't think this way. I needed Madeleine home tomorrow. But here I was, several weeks later, writing my letter to J. K. Rowling. How on earth had I survived this long? I wondered. It is quite staggering how much stress the human mind and body can endure and still function on some level. You simply can't see how it is possible that you are still alive, and yet there you are, still breathing, speaking, moving. I clung tightly to the hope that whatever help J. K. Rowling might be able to offer in a month's time, when it came to it, it wouldn't be needed.

It wasn't enough to prevent me from sliding down the slippery slope for the rest of the day.

Crying in bed again – can't help it . . . The thought of Madeleine's fear and pain tears me apart. The thought of paedophiles makes me want to rip my skin off. Surely these people along with psychopaths are not 'normal' human beings? I've never been in favour of the death penalty but these people should be 'kept' in a secure location of some description. I don't mind if it's in nice surroundings but certainly, in the case of paedophiles, away at all times from ANY contact with children.

In the event, J. K. Rowling's support was needed, and greatly appreciated. When Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows was published on 21 July, it was distributed with a new poster of Madeleine, which she asked all retailers to display.

[WTF IS J.K. ROWLING (HARRY POTTER AUTHOR) DOING HERE??!!!... #THERABBITHOLEGETSDEEPER]

It was the following evening, Sunday 3 June – exactly a month after Madeleine's abduction – that Gerry and I opened up a little more to each other and shared some of the thoughts and anxieties that had been quietly tormenting us both; thoughts and anxieties that perhaps we hadn't felt able or ready to voice up to now.

We'd been sitting alone at the table, working at our computers. It was quiet and the lights were low. Though I can't remember how the conversation started, I'm glad it did. We talked through the guilt we felt about not having been in that apartment with the children; about having left the patio doors unlocked. How we found it hard to comprehend that we could have been so naive. We acknowledged the possibility that Madeleine might no longer be alive; the possibility that we might never find out what children, about having left the patio doors unlocked. How we found it hard to comprehend that we could have been so naive. We acknowledged the possibility that Madeleine might no longer be alive; the possibility that we might never find out what had happened to her. Would we ever be able to return to our home, the home we had all shared with her? Maybe we should move elsewhere. Where? We discussed the need we felt to do our utmost to prevent this from happening to another child; to prevent another family from having to go through what we were going through. We had to ensure that something positive for someone, even if it wasn't us, came out of this horrific experience.

For me, the honest exposure of this buried poison was like lancing a boil. Admitting these secret fears and concerns, bringing them out into the open and sharing them with the only other person who was persecuted in the same way, made them suddenly a little easier to understand and to manage. Strengthened and comforted, I fell asleep that night more peacefully than I had in many days.

If we'd wondered about the change of venue for our regular informal meeting, the reason for it soon became clear: this wasn't our regular informal meeting. We were taken to an upstairs room at the police station where we were greeted by Luís Neves and Guilhermino Encarnação. Our interpreter this time was a police officer, not Proconsul Angela Morado, as was usually the case. The whole demeanour of Neves and Encarnação was different. They looked serious and cold.

There had been a 'shift' in the investigation, they said. They had always been optimistic that Madeleine was alive, but now things had changed. Almost instantaneously I could feel my breathing pattern altering and that familiar constriction in my throat. Gerry asked if any evidence had come to light to suggest that Madeleine was dead but they wouldn't reply. There was a lot of frowning going on which, combined with the language barrier, made it less obvious that they weren't answering us. Gerry was then asked to leave the room. Now the sirens in my head were deafening. I was on my own and afraid. Please God, let my Madeleine be OK.

Tell us about that night, they said. Tell us everything that happened after the children went to bed. I gave them every detail I could remember, as I had before, but this time they responded by just staring at me and shaking their heads. I was reeling with confusion, disbelief and panic. What the hell was going on? Evidently not satisfied with my account, they pressed me. Was there anything else I wanted to add? Anything else unusual that had occurred that night?

Of course there wasn't. If there had been I would have told them on 3 May. I'd recounted absolutely everything and anything – more than they wanted or needed to know, probably, just in case some triviality I recalled might be significant. How could they think I would hold something back that might help my daughter? Why were they asking me this? Why?

Neves stated bluntly that they didn't believe my version of events. It 'didn't fit' with what they knew. Didn't fit? What did they know? I was sobbing now, well past the stage of silent tears and stifled sniffs. I began to wail hysterically, drawing breath in desperate gasps.

Why did I think Madeleine had been alive when she was taken from the apartment? they persisted. I explained between sobs that there had been nothing to suggest otherwise; no indication that she might have come to harm. Had I ever considered that she may be dead? Yes, of course. Early on that was all I thought, all the time: that some paedophile had grabbed her, abused her and later killed her. Then I'd begun to wonder if she was being held by pornographers, I told them, or had been taken for someone who wanted a child.

I was becoming more and more distressed and more and more scared. I wanted Gerry. Still they pushed me. They proposed that when I'd put Madeleine to bed that night, it wasn't actually the last time I'd seen her. But it was. It was! I felt I was being bullied, and I suppose I was. I assume these tactics were deliberate: knock her off balance by telling her that her daughter is dead and get her to confess. Because I was in no doubt now that they were trying to make me say I'd killed Madeleine or knew what had happened to her. I might be naive but I'm not stupid.

On and on it went. They tried to convince me I'd had a blackout – a 'loss of memory episode', I think they called it. My denials, answers and pleas fell on deaf ears. This was their theory and they wanted to shoehorn me into it, end of story. At last they seemed to decide that the interview was over. They told me I could ring them any time, day or night, to give them the information they were waiting for.

I was allowed to spend a couple of minutes with Gerry, but I don't think he was able to get much sense out of me. Then it was his turn to be interrogated. He managed to remain a little calmer than I had but he was still visibly upset and shaken afterwards. He gave the police his account of the events of 3 May and the reasons why he didn't believe Madeleine had been killed in the apartment. Through his tears he pleaded with the two men: 'Do you have evidence that Madeleine is dead? We're her parents. You have to tell us.'

'It's coming,' Neves told him. 'It's coming!'

Outside the room, I was praying – begging prayers. I was beginning to come unstuck. But if I thought the police had finished with me, I was mistaken. Before long I was ordered back into the room to join Gerry for round three.

Once again Gerry wanted to know if the case had now become a murder inquiry. The answer was indirect: 'You can probably guess that from our lack of response.' In a slightly threatening manner, Luís asked why I wasn't looking him straight in the eye. There was no reason, other than that I was incapable of looking at anyone properly: my own eyes were so swollen and sore that I was struggling to keep them from closing completely. Finally, Gerry tried to establish when – and if – we would be having another meeting with them. 'The next time we meet it will be across the table.' The message behind this rather Delphic statement was clear: there would be no more informal meetings.

We found Clement watching a cookery programme, dressed, as promised, in his nightshirt. It was so ordinary and comforting, a bit like going to see your grandad after a horrible day at school. He gave me one of his looks and a giant glass of brandy, and managed to get a smile out of me with his greeting: 'So, Kate, which of the devout Catholic, alcoholic, depressed, nymphomaniac parts is correct?'

It was the nights that were the worst. Not only did lying awake in the dark take me straight back to the most awful night of all, but my brain, finally free of the preoccupations of the day, would wander unbidden down black and terrifying avenues. I struggled constantly to think nice thoughts and drift off to sleep, but the demons had me in their grip and would torture me mercilessly with images too frightening and painful to share. Where is my Madeleine? Please, God, do something!

After Madeleine was taken from us, my sexual desire plummeted to zero. Our sex life is not something I would normally be inclined to share and yet it is such an integral part of most marriages that it doesn't feel right not to acknowledge this. I'm sure other couples who have been through traumatic experiences will have suffered similarly and perhaps it will reassure them to know that they are not alone. To those fortunate enough not to have encountered such heartache, I hope it gives an insight into just how deep the wounds go.

Apart from our general state of shock and distress, and the fact that I couldn't concentrate on anything but Madeleine, there were two continuing reasons for this, I believe. The first was my inability to permit myself any pleasure, whether it was reading a book or making love with my husband. The second stemmed from the revulsion stirred up by my fear that Madeleine had suffered the worst fate we could imagine: falling into the hands of a paedophile. When she was first stolen, paedophiles were all we could think about, and it made us sick, ate away at us.

The idea of a monster like this touching my daughter, stroking her, defiling her perfect little body, just killed me, over and over again. It didn't make any difference that this might not be the explanation for Madeleine's abduction (and, please God, it isn't); the fact that it was a possibility was enough to prevent me from shutting it out of my mind. Tortured as I was by these nauseating images, it's probably not surprising that even the thought of sex repulsed me.

I would lie in bed, hating the person who had done this to us; the person who had taken away our little girl and terrified her; the person who had caused these additional problems for me and the man I loved. I hated him. I wanted to kill him. I wanted to inflict the maximum pain possible on him for heaping all this misery on my family. I was angry and bitter and I wanted it all to go away. I wanted my old life back.

I worried about Gerry and me. I worried that if I couldn't get our sex life back on track our whole relationship would break down. I know there is more to a relationship than sex, but it is still an important element. It was vital that we stayed together and stayed strong for our family. Gerry was incredibly understanding and supportive. He never made me feel guilty, he never pushed me and he never got sulky. In fact, sometimes he would apologize to me. Invariably, he would put a big, reassuring arm around me and tell me that he loved me and not to worry.

I was determined not to be beaten by this, not simply to capitulate and accept it as just one of the unfortunate side-effects of this tragedy. Gerry and I talked about it a little, but mostly I analysed the problem privately in my head. I also discussed it with Alan Pike, who assured me that, like my ability to relax or enjoy a meal, it would gradually return and that I shouldn't fret about it too much. But I did. I even considered seeking specialist help. Deep down, though, I knew there were only two solutions: bringing Madeleine back who assured me that, like my ability to relax or enjoy a meal, it would gradually return and that I shouldn't fret about it too much. But I did. I even considered seeking specialist help. Deep down, though, I knew there were only two solutions: bringing Madeleine back or conquering my mental block. Since the first was not within my control, it was up to me to try to train my mind and my thought processes. So that is what I applied myself to doing.

In spite of some of the terrible discoveries I was making as I learned more of the stories and statistics relating to missing and exploited children, it wasn't all bad news. Gradually, my outlook was growing more positive and I was beginning to get past my early certainty that Madeleine must have been taken by a paedophile and murdered. I was coming to realize that didn't have to be the answer. Meeting Ernie Allen and the people at NCMEC played a big part in helping me along this road.

Page 175

Night after night, I read of depraved individuals, British paedophiles, Portuguese paedophiles, Spanish, Dutch and German paedophiles, and of the horrific crimes they'd committed. The police went to visit some of them, looked around their apartments and recorded merely, 'No sign of the minor.' Was that enough to eliminate these vile characters from the inquiry? If more had been done, there was certainly nothing in the files about it. No description, no photograph, no alibi, no DNA. Just 'No sign of the minor.'

> 27 August
> A late night. Depressing reading. So many child molesters! Dear God, please don't let this have been what's happened to Madeleine. Please, God.

It's difficult not to criticize, and I know I'm a bit of a perfectionist, but honest to God, when your child has been stolen, surely you are entitled to expect more than this. Much more.

Fortunately, Gerry's worst days don't usually coincide with mine and for the most part we've been able to buoy each other up. We also know it is essential that we somehow make time for each other if we are to keep communicating, avoid growing apart and escape becoming another marital breakdown statistic. I say 'somehow' because since 2007 our life has been hideously busy as well as traumatic. The relentless workload of the search for Madeleine, organizing and participating in fund-raising events, Gerry's escape becoming another marital breakdown statistic. Yet somehow because since 2007 our life has been hideously busy as well as traumatic. The relentless workload of the search for Madeleine, organizing and participating in fund-raising events, Gerry's fulltime job and the general demands of family life have left us with little space for anything else.

I took a cognitive approach to getting our sexual relationship back on track, concentrating hard on what Gerry means to me, as a husband and as a friend; on the love we have for each other and the three beautiful children we created together; on our unity as a couple and as a family of five. It seems to have worked. If my mind ever starts to wander down dark alleys, I fight against that, focusing on what I have that is good and important. And I tell myself that I cannot, and will not, allow this evil person to destroy anything else in our life.

I'm sure Alan Pike was right and it helped that I was gradually, very gradually, able to allow myself some pleasure and relaxation in general. Whether this was just a matter of time I don't know: it certainly took well over a year. I remember very clearly the first brief moment of peace I experienced. It was on our first holiday since Madeleine's abduction in the summer of 2008, in that wonderful isolated cabin in British Columbia. Gerry and I had been for a run together through the forest and returned to find that Auntie Norah had prepared a fabulous lunch for us. After we ate I went for a long soak in the bath, taking a glass of red wine with me. I lay back, completely immersing my head and letting the burning hot water wash over my face. My mind was at rest, my body calm . . . and suddenly I felt the weight of our life lift temporarily. It was fleeting, but it was good.

Just acknowledging this slow personal 'improvement', however, brings a wave of guilt over me. My life is weighed down by guilt: guilt for what happened to Madeleine, guilt at surviving this whole horror, guilt that our family, especially Sean and Amelie, have had to experience any of it, guilt for not being quite the person or wife I once was and guilt about taking even five minutes for myself. Perhaps being a mother and a Catholic is a double whammy when it comes to guilt. It is certainly a heavy load to carry around with you. It preys on your conscience and when you weaken it can pull you down.

That said, the knowledge that I am a stronger and more able woman now than I was a couple of years ago helps me to shake off a little of that guilt. I recognize that this is a positive development, for me, for Gerry, for Sean and Amelie, and for Madeleine.

Summary and Conclusions

Kate McCann's book deals almost exclusively with her and her husband's ordeals that they suffered in this ongoing case about the reported disappearance of Madeleine McCann.

Very little discussion was made about actually searching for Madeleine.

Kate McCann was obsessed with the idea that a pedophile either abused and/or killed Madeleine.

Kate describes many times during the book how she had horrible thoughts about Madeleine being sexually abused including making references to her "perfect little genitals" and "perfect being sexually abused including making references to her "perfect little genitals" and "perfect body", extremely bizarre references especially coming from mother of a reportedly missing child.

Kate describes how the Portuguese Police were highly suspect of her account about Madeleine, including questioning why she initially told police that a pedophile "took" Madeleine.

Kate has a mental breakdown at the thought of being accused in the possible death and cover-up of Madeleine.

Kate appears to be overly concerned about her sexual desire being affected by Madeleine's reported disappearance, even making it a key part of the book in terms of getting back to a normal life.

One of the most telling parts of Kate's book is the following quote:

> I would lie in bed, hating the person who had done this to us; the person who had taken away our little girl and terrified her; the person who had caused these additional problems for me and the man I loved. I hated him. I wanted to kill him. I wanted to inflict the maximum pain possible on him for heaping all this misery on my family. I was angry and bitter and I wanted it all to go away. I wanted my old life back.

Who is this person Kate is thinking about?
How does she know it's a "him"?
Why is all this emotion directed at this "man" but very little about finding Madeleine?

This quote makes it clear, along with my earlier videos on the McCann case, that Madeleine was almost certainly sexually abused by a man that they knew…

Kate McCann's book is further proof that the theme of pedophilia and cover-up is rampant in the Madeleine McCann case.

I wanted to read over these parts of her book to show that even her own words are incriminating.

Also how is Kate McCann able to randomly get connected with J.K. Rowling??

JK Rowling helps Kate McCann write book on Maddy's disappearance in bid to raise £1m to find her Kate McCann turned to author J K Rowling to help write a book about the disappearance of her daughter to raise funds to help find her.

The Harry Potter scribe is understood to have assisted Kate in writing her harrowing account of the events following Madeleine's disappearance in May 2007.

They hope the book will raise £1m which will pay for private investigators to continue hunting for Madeleine for two more years.

The Madeleine Fund was originally set up in May 2007 after the then three-year-old Madeleine was snatched from her parents' Portuguese holiday apartment in the Algarve village of Praia da Luz.

Within the space of four months it had raised over £1m from donations from well wishers as well as wealthy benefactors including Sir Richard Branson.

But it has recently dwindled to just £200,000.

The emails released by Wikileaks from the account of John Podesta contain declassified FBI code language used by pedophiles. We the people demand a thorough, exhaustive investigation into the terrifying implications of this alleged behavior and wish that all who are involved, no matter how powerful, be prosecuted under the full extent of the law. The same code can be found in the emails of Stratfor employees also released by Wikileaks. This action must be taken to preserve the very fabric of our country and to protect children everywhere who are being abused and trafficked for the sick delight of so many powerful elites. President Trump, there is no better example of draining the swamp, than by flushing these predators down the drain.

May 2011 by Kate McCann

Madeleine: Our Daughter's Disappearance and the Continuing Search for Her

Thankfully, though, there were some nice surprises, too, arising in particular from the kindness and friendship of some wonderful people now entering our lives.

At the beginning of July we received the following letter:

Dear McCanns,

I have a house in P da L, been ashamed of the intrusion to your lives by our media . . . and if you would care to come to lunch/dinner at any time before Wednesday next, do ring and let me know.

I cook decent meals.

Sincerely,

Clement Freud

I'm embarrassed to admit that Gerry and I thought this letter was a hoax; more embarrassing still, while we were vaguely aware of Sir Clement, we had to have our memories refreshed by Sandy and Justine before we could place him exactly. Mind you, he wore so many hats – humorist, MP, gourmet, gambler, press columnist, advertiser of dog food, radio and TV personality – that he was hard to pin down.

Gerry responded with a phone call and Sir Clement invited the seven of us there at that time – Gerry and myself with Sean and Amelie, plus Trisha, Sandy and Justine – to lunch the following day. He would be heading back to the UK a few hours later. Sir Clement was eighty-three by then, but his intellect was still razor-sharp (he was appearing on the demanding Radio 4 panel game Just a Minute right up to his death in 2009). I'm usually very intimidated by people with brains the size of planets, but Clement was incredibly warm, funny and instantly likeable. His opening words were 'Can I interest you in a strawberry vodka?' It was midday.

http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-3659322/Police-launch-probe-Freud-knew-Maddie-uncover-new-details-ex-MP-s-disturbing-relationship-McCanns.html

25 June 2016 by David Jones

Revealed: Police launch probe into what Clement Freud knew about Maddie as we uncover new details about ex-MP's disturbing relationship with the McCanns

The McCanns attended the luncheon accompanied by Gerry's sister, Trisha Cameron, and her husband Sandy, and their then PR adviser Justine McGuinness, a former Liberal-Democrat parliamentary candidate. Though McGuinness and Freud had a political affinity, I am assured that the pair had never previously met and she did not fix the meeting.

I hesitated for a split second, rapidly trying to work out if he was joking. His expression, as always, was deadpan. Not wanting to appear unsociable, I responded, 'Er, OK then. That would be nice.' Of course, Clement's remark about cooking decent meals was tongue-in-cheek: among his other accomplishments, he had trained as a chef and was for many years a food writer and restaurant critic. I can confirm that the lunch he prepared for us that day was bloody marvellous: watercress and egg salad followed by a chicken and mushroom risotto – the best risotto we've ever tasted before or since. Clement for us that day was bloody marvellous: watercress and egg salad followed by a chicken and mushroom risotto – the best risotto we've ever tasted before or since. Clement cheered us up with his lugubrious wit, and would continue to do so by email after his return to England.

Sean and Amelie were talking about Madeleine quite a lot by now. I wore a locket with a picture of Madeleine inside, and Amelie had taken to opening it. 'See Madeleine,' she'd say, or 'Night night, Madeleine!' And then she would give her a kiss.

> Started to feel a bit 'funny' again. My fear for Madeleine is creeping back. It's so hard to block it. Sometimes I wonder if I should try and pretend that she never existed to make it easier, but I just can't.

Thursday 30 August was another milestone we could hardly bear to think about. It should have been Madeleine's big moment: her first day at school. She'd been so looking forward to this. She had talked about it excitedly, while in my mind's eye I had pictured her in class, having fun and making lots of new mates. Now all her friends would be starting without her.

It was an awful day. Every hour, I'd see her standing there in her new uniform, smiling at me. I cried, I prayed and I held my husband and children tightly. We could make things right for her. If only we could get her back we would work through anything and everything she'd endured. We would make sure that her life was as full and as happy as it should always have been.

Clement Freud returned to Praia da Luz on 31 August and called Gerry that day. 'Is it true, Gerry?' he said, without preamble.

> 'What's that, Clement?'
> 'That you're close to a breakdown and needing medication?'
> Very funny.
> 'I have a lot of empathy with the Express though, you know,' he went on.
> For a split second Gerry thought he was serious. 'Why's that?'
> 'Well, you see, we both suffer from poor circulation.'
> Thank God for people like Clement who kept us smiling.

On the night of 1 September I dreamed about Madeleine for the first time in four months. I was astonished that this hadn't happened before. The workings of the mind are impossible to fathom. It was a good thing it hadn't, because it was such a dreadful experience – far more painful than anything that had occurred in real life since the night she was taken – I'm not sure I could have survived it in the early weeks.

We had a call from one of the girls at the children's nursery school. 'Guess what?' she said. 'Madeleine's here! She's been here for a couple of days. She's fine.' We rushed to the nursery immediately. And sure enough, there was our Madeleine. She looked beautiful, just as I remembered her. I ran over to her, my face split by the widest smile, the tears running down my cheeks, and just held her and held her and held her. Although I was dreaming, I could feel her. It was as if parts of my body that had been hibernating for four months suddenly began to stir. I could sense the cold, dark days lifting as I luxuriated in warmth and light. And Madeleine was holding me, her little arms wrapped tightly round me, and it felt so good. I could smell her. I could feel her with every one of my senses as I soaked up this heavenly moment.

My Madeleine. I wanted to stay like this for ever. And then I woke up.

Ice began to course through my body, driving out every endorphin and remnant of warmth. I didn't understand. What was happening? How could this be? I could still feel her! A heavy boot connected with my stomach and the ache in my chest was worse than I'd ever known it. I was struggling for breath, almost as if I were being strangled. Please God, don't let her go! Stay with me, Madeleine. Please stay with me. Don't go – stay with Mummy. Please, sweetheart, hold on. I love you so much.

I started to cry. The crying built into seismic sobs. An unearthly sound, like the howl of a wounded animal, was coming out of my mouth. The crushing pain in my chest intensified to the point where I thought I was going to die.

I'd been with her. And then she was gone. Again.

We were not going to be questioned as witnesses, Ricardo finally admitted. 'So what will our status be, then?' Gerry pressed him.

'It's called arguido.' [suspect]
As if we'd never heard the word.

I dropped my head in my hands in utter disbelief. I began to shake and cry. I shouted at Ricardo, 'What are you doing? Why are you doing this? I can't believe what's going on! This is ridiculous. It's despicable.' I shook my head over and over again. 'This can't be happening. This just cannot be true!'

What kind of country was this? And while the PJ were going down this track, leading the media and public to believe we were responsible for our daughter's disappearance, who was looking for Madeleine?

I remember crying out in despair, 'What will our parents think? How will they cope with this? What are you trying to do? Destroy our family completely?' These were of course rhetorical questions, but they would subsequently be thrown back at me as some kind of proof of a guilty conscience. My remark about our parents in particular was perceived as strange and suspicious. To me it was a completely understandable reaction. We love our parents and were greatly concerned about their health and emotional state. They had lost their granddaughter. They had seen their own son and daughter in extreme pain and distress and every aspect of our characters ripped to shreds in the newspapers. They'd been through so much already, and now this.

My immediate worry was Amelie and Sean. If this farce continued in the same vein, and we ended up being formally accused of doing something to Madeleine, people were going to start calling for the twins to be taken away from us.

Our plans for the evening went out of the window. We cancelled an interview we were scheduled to give Paris Match and dinner with Clement Freud.

We made several more frantic phone calls ourselves – including one to Alan Pike, to let him know that we were now entering fantasy land. After dinner with the family, Gerry and I got Sean and Amelie ready for bed together. We would do whatever it took to protect our precious family and make it whole again.

> Sean was so gentle as I was lying with them tonight. He gave me two kisses on the lips and put his arms around me while Amelie was chat, chat chatting!

At 9.50pm, I rang Clement. 'Come on round,' he said. 'It'll be nice to see you. But you'll have to forgive my night-time attire.'

We found Clement watching a cookery programme, dressed, as promised, in his nightshirt. It was so ordinary and comforting, a bit like going to see your grandad after a horrible day at school. He gave me one of his looks and a giant glass of brandy, and managed to get a smile out of me with his greeting: 'So, Kate, which of the devout Catholic, alcoholic, depressed, nymphomaniac parts is correct?'

> http://www.dictionary.com/browse/nymphomania
> Retrieved: 27 January 2017

nymphomania

noun, Pathology [disease].

1. abnormally excessive and uncontrollable sexual desire in women.

His response to our catalogue of horrors was merely to raise an eyebrow. Clement had this way of making everything seem a little less terrible. When he heard about the dogs, he remarked laconically, 'So what are they going to do? Put them on the stand? One bark for yes, two for no?' He was right, of course; it was ridiculous.

A couple of hours later, fortified by our brandies (it was my first-ever taste of the stuff), some useful snippets of advice and several amusing anecdotes, we left our friend feeling quite a bit better than we had when we'd arrived. The shock of that day, and of what we were now facing, on top of the trauma of Madeleine's absence, never left us for a second, but it was interludes like this that gave us just enough strength to carry on.

Emails between 'paedophile' Clement Freud and Madeleine McCann's parents to be probed for child sex abuse inquiry Emails between 'predatory paedophile' Sir Clement Freud and Madeleine McCann's parents are set to be probed as part of a child sex abuse inquiry.

Messages exchanged between the late MP and the parents of missing Madeleine will be submitted to an inquiry into historic abuse allegations, according to The Star.

A woman who says she was a victim of Freud claims she told police about his links to the family, but nothing was done.

Now Vicky Hayes, 64, says she she reported her concerns to police two years after reading Kate McCann's book Madeleine. 2011 → 2013 → 2016 → 3 years

Vicky had found that Freud appeared to be a private person who did not enjoy the media spotlight and found the idea of him entertaining the McCanns, after Madeline disappeared, odd.

She told ITV News: "I read Kate McCann's book and was immediately upset and anxious that Clement Freud had invited the McCanns to his home.

She told ITV News: "I read Kate McCann's book and was immediately upset and anxious that Clement Freud had invited the McCanns to his home.

"He was a private man, not the type to suddenly befriend a couple who had intense media attention. It really jarred with me, left me feeling very uneasy."

"That's why I contacted the police, when I read Kate McCann's account, I wanted the detectives to know what I knew about Clement Freud.

"My purpose was for officers to investigate why he invited (them)."

The McCanns are said to be "horrified" by the claims that Freud was a paedophile.

Recall from Part 8 that Clement Freud was a prominent and powerful British politician and celebrity, that 7 years after his death (he died in 2009) he was exposed as being most likely a pedophile and sexual predator.

Kate and Gerry McCann claim that they first met Clement in July (2 months after Madeleine's reported disappearance), after she claimed he sent them a letter randomly inviting them to his house for dinner in Praia Da Luz.

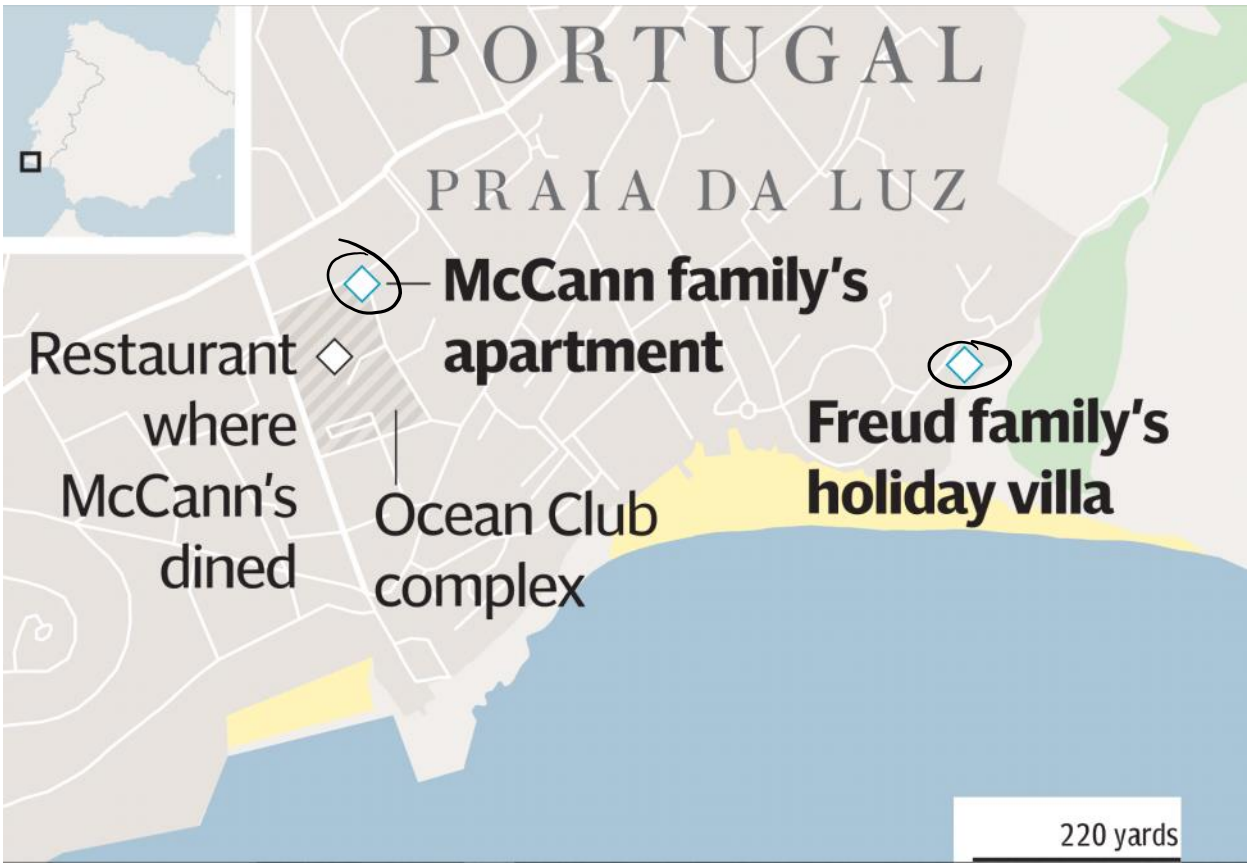
15 June 2016 by Martin Evans and Gordan Rayner

Sir Clement Freud exposed as a paedophile as police urged to probe Madeleine McCann links



Kate appears to adore Clement's wit, intellect, and especially his cooking.

Kate randomly includes in her in book a phone call conversation in which Clement calls Gerry on August 31 after landing into Praia da Luz joking about Gerry having a mental breakdown.

In September when the McCanns were officially labeled as arguidos (suspects), they were panicking as to the prospect that the police think they were involved in Madeleine's reported disappearance, so during that very same day the first person they go out to meet is none other than Clement Freud, a man they have only met ONCE before! Unbelievable!

During their meeting, Kate recalls in her book how calm Clement Freud was, as well as including a joke he made about Kate possibly being an alcoholic and/or having an abnormally high sexual disorder… WTF!

Not only that but Clement ridiculed the cadaver (corpse) dogs evidence which was being used to allude to Madeleine having been dead before the reported disappearance and thus not actually abducted.

During this meeting, as well as in their first meeting, they all enjoyed drinks, joked around, and Kate was grateful for the advice she received from Clement, again a man they hardly knew and

> This video illustrates the cadaver dog evidence and all the places they smelled a possible corpse, including the McCann's apartment and their rental car!
> I highly recommend you watch it as the evidence is pretty clear that Madeleine almost certainly died before the reported disappearance.

This entire connection just raises more and more questions, namely the following:

- Why was the alleged pedophile and sexual predator Clement Freud rushing to defend this couple he just met once?
- Why was he assuming they were innocent after they were just named arguidos?
- Why is he joking with this couple he hardly knows about Kate being a possible alcoholic and nymphomaniac?
- Why was Clement, a man the McCanns barely know, the first person they meet with after they are named arguidos?
- Why is Clement ridiculing cadaver dog evidence that has been routinely used in courts across the world?
- What are the odds that Clement Freud happens to be exposed as most likely a pedophile and sexual predator?

On top of all that, at least one of Clement's alleged rape victims claimed to have reported to the Police about Clement's strange link to the McCanns, to the police 3 to 4 years ago but was not taken seriously!

And as expected, the mainstream media only reported about the strange Clement Freud and McCann connection AFTER Clement was exposed as an alleged pedophile and sexual predator.

Also as expected, the only news outlets to report the Freud / McCann connection BEFORE Clement being exposed, was the alternative media.

It is clear that the McCanns and Clement Freud almost certainly knew or knew-of each other well before their claimed first encounter.

The McCanns and Freud emails, phones are reported to be probed by police, but it is highl well before their claimed first encounter.

The McCanns and Freud email exchanges are reported to be probed by police, but it is highly unlikely that these will be released to the public or properly investigated, given the police and mainstream media's apparent deliberate cover-up of this case…

Clement Freud

Sir Clement Raphael Freud (24 April 1924 – 15 April 2009)[1][2][3] was a British broadcaster, writer, politician and chef.

The grandson of Sigmund Freud and brother of Lucian Freud, he moved to the United Kingdom from Germany as a child and later worked as a prominent chef and food writer before becoming known to a wider audience as a television and radio personality. He was elected as a Liberal Member of Parliament in 1973, retaining his seat until 1987, when he received a knighthood. In 2016, seven years after he died, three women made public allegations of child sexual abuse and rape by Freud, which led to police investigations.[4]

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Clement_Freud#Child_sexual_abuse_allegations

In June 2016 allegations were made in Exposure: Abused and Betrayed – A Life Sentence, an ITV documentary broadcast on 15 June, that Freud was a child abuser in the late 1940s and the 1970s.[23][24] Two women came forward to accuse Freud of molesting them.[25] Sylvia Woosley said she was 11 when he began abusing her. The second woman, who remained anonymous, said that Freud groomed her from the age of 11, abused her at 14, and violently raped her at 18.[4][26]

On the day of the documentary broadcast, Lady Freud issued an apology to both women. She accepted the claims and issued a statement of sympathy for his victims, saying: "I sincerely hope they will now have some peace."[4][26]

A third woman, Vicky Hayes, has alleged that she was assaulted and raped by Freud.[27] It also emerged that Operation Yewtree had been passed Freud's name in 2012 when two alleged victims made accusations to the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children (NSPCC).[28]

Scotland Yard was examining the details of the allegations and detectives were said to be looking into the possibility that Freud had associated with other alleged abusers at the time of the claims.[29] Allegations have also been made of predatory behaviour towards female students during his time as Rector of the University of Dundee.[30]

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Clement_Freud#Radio.2C_music.2C_academia

For many, Freud was best known as a panellist on the long-running Radio 4 [BBC] show Just a Minute. Freud performed a small monologue for the Wings 1973 album Band on the Run and appeared on the album's cover.

In 1974, he was elected Rector of the University of Dundee [Same University as Kate McCann] and served two three-year terms. A generation later, in 2002, he was elected Rector of the University of St Andrews, beating feminist and academic Germaine Greer and local challenger Barry Joss, holding the position for one term.

The appointment of Knight Bachelor (Kt) is a part of the British honours system.

It is the most basic and lowest rank of a man who has been knighted by the monarch but not as a member of one of the organised Orders of Chivalry. Knights Bachelor are the most ancient sort of British knight (the rank existed during the 13th century reign of King Henry III), but Knights Bachelor rank below knights of the various orders.

There is no female counterpart to Knight Bachelor. The lowest knightly honour that can be conferred upon a woman is Dame Commander of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire (DBE) – which, technically, is one rank higher than Knight Bachelor (being the female equivalent of 'KBE' or Knight Commander of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, which is the next male knightly rank above Knight Bachelor). Also, foreigners[clarification needed] cannot be created Knights Bachelor; instead they are generally made honorary KBEs.

Like other knights, Knights Bachelor are styled "Sir".

ITV investigation: Politician Sir Clement Freud accused of child sexual abuse

Two women have told ITV Exposure of the abuse they suffered at the hands of Freud, who died in 2009.

Sylvia Woosley said Sir Clement, who was a close family friend and 14 years older than her, initially started to groom her and touch her inappropriately when he lived close to her parents' house in the South of France, kissing her on the mouth.

> He took me to the beach. We went swimming. He took me on the bus and we went up to the mountains to see a friend of his. And he came quite frequently, and he bought me clothes and he bought me presents.
> He had a certain power over me which I didn't understand and because it was something new, and it was a man, and I was desperate for a father's love.
> So it was the first time, aged 10, that a father figure comes into my life...
> He'd stroke me and he'd kiss me at the back of the bus on the mouth...It was horrible and I didn't like it. I was disgusted and upset.
> – SYLVIA WOOSLEY

Sylvia was too scared to tell her mother about the abuse and thought her ordeal was over when Sir Clement moved back to the UK a year later.

But when her parents' marriage broke up when she was 14, she was sent to live with Freud, his new wife and baby daughter and the abuse escalated.

Exposure spoke to a second woman, on the condition of anonymity, who said she was groomed by Freud in the 1970s, when he was an MP.

He would write letters to her at boarding and take her on trips to parliament. She said in 1974, when she was 14, Freud tried to lock her and her friend in a basement.

In 1978, he invited himself over to the woman's family home, while her parents were away, to cook dinner. She said Freud raped her that night.

Sir Clement's widow Jill Freud, 89, told Exposure she is "shocked and deeply saddened by the claims."

This is a very sad day for me.

I was married to Clement for 58 years and loved him dearly.

I am shocked, deeply saddened and profoundly sorry for what has happened to these women.

I sincerely hope they will now have some peace.

Clement Freud accused of raping another teenage girl as evidence mounts that he was a predatory paedophile

Sir Clement Freud groomed and raped a teenage girl and then told her "if you're pregnant ring me", it has been revaled, as more victims came forward with fresh allegations.

Vicky Hayes, who is now 64, described how the former Liberal MP took a fancy to her during a visit to her father's restaurant in the 1960s, when she was aged just 14.

After becoming friends of the family, he lavished her with attention and then one night when she was 17 plied her with alcohol and raped her.

Mrs Hayes has described how she went police to report the incident following Freud's death in 2009, but was not taken seriously.

Her claims came amid mounting evidence that Freud, who was one of the country's best loved personalities, was a predatory paedophile, who used his power and influence to target young women for decades.

A former student at Dundee University, where Freud was rector in the 1970s, claimed he abused his position to sexually exploit young female students.

A former student at Dundee University, where Freud was rector in the 1970s, claimed he abused his position to sexually exploit young female students.

And child abuse charities confirmed that they had received reports in the past accusing him of molesting youngsters.

Mrs Hayes agreed to waive her right to anonymity and make her ordeal public after reading harrowing accounts of two other girls, one who was just ten, who were raped and sexually assaulted by Freud.

Mrs Hayes said Freud had no right to his reputation as a "pillar of society" and ought to be posthumously stripped of his knighthood.

When she was 17 he asked her to attend Newmarket Races with him which meant staying overnight, but he assured her parents there would be a housekeeper present.

She said: "On the way he stopped at restaurant, he plied me with champagne. He didn't drink. I had never had it, I was 17 and was very inebriated. He drove to the house. There was no housekeeper just us.

"He showed me to a room, I got out my nightie, assuming naively I was going to sleep alone. Clay said 'no need for a nightie get in', he told me I couldn't put it on.

"I lay there naked he got in and I just lay there afraid, scared and he forced himself on me and took my virginity."

She said the following morning when she was sober he had tried to rape her again but she had managed to fight him off, after which he had simply dropped her off at the station.

She said: "His parting words to me were, 'If you are pregnant, ring me.' That was it... As if he had done this before," she said.

Mrs Hayes said she was paralysed with fear and did not tell her parents because she worried her father would kill Freud if he ever found out.

Later when they had wanted to invite him to her wedding she had to make an excuse to avoid him being there.

She said he had tried to rape her once more when she was married and pregnant, but she had managed to fight him off again.

After Freud's death she decided to report the incident to Suffolk Police, but said while they interviewed her, she felt they were not taking her complaint seriously.

A spokesman for Suffolk Police said: "An historic allegation of rape occurring more than 40 years ago was made to Suffolk Police in 2014, against a man who was deceased.

"This was formally recorded but as the suspect was no longer alive, there were no further lines of enquiry. "

Within hours of the initial allegations being revealed on Tuesday, more people had come forward with evidence of Freud's predatory behaviour.

Following the claims, Lady Freud issued a statement in which she expressed sorrow for the victims and said she hoped they could now find some peace.

But it has now emerged that she had not even seen the film when the statement was issued.

Last week her son, the PR guru Matthew Freud, and daughter Emma, a renowned broadcaster, responded to an invitation by ITV to watch the film, before subsequently issuing a statement in their mother's name.

16 June 2016 by Jane Warren

How Much Did Lady Freud Know?

Sylvia, who was then aged 49, had been looked after by the couple from the age of 14 after her mother's marriage broke down. But five years later in 1957, the 19-year-old had left the Freuds' house under a cloud after she confessed to the family's nanny that far from looking after her, Clement had been abusing her from the age of 10 – two years before he met and married Lady Freud following a whirlwind romance.

At the time of her daughter's allegations Sylvia's mother – who had met Clement at a house party she threw in the south of France when he was a 24-year-old hotelier and Sylvia was a little girl – had been appalled by her daughter's claims. She apparently forced the girl to ring Jill Freud, then aged 30, and tell her that she had been lying when she told the nanny about the sexual assaults.

But 30 years later Sylvia had something important to say to Lady Freud, the woman who had so generously welcomed her into her home as the daughter of her husband's old friend and supported her for five years while she found her feet and a job.

And what Sylvia had to say was shocking. She told Jill, mother of Clement's five children, that she had not been lying all those years before and that Clement Freud had in fact abused her. Lady Freud's response was perhaps more shocking still. Far from being appalled, Sylvia remembers that Jill admitted that: "I think now it's possible that what you said was the truth."

The implication is that when Sylvia left the Freuds' home as an impressionable teenager telling stories about her benefactor's inappropriate behaviour, Jill found the claims preposterous. However, in the intervening three decades between accusation and denial and the revocation of that denial, something had gone on within her marriage to Freud that had taken her from a position of disbelief to one of horrified acceptance.

Far from defending her late husband who died in 2009, or denying Sylvia's claims – made public in a TV documentary broadcast last night – Jill was quick to apologise for her husband's actions and stressed that she was "shocked and profoundly sorry for what has happened to these women".

The documentary also contained revelations from a second woman, who remained anonymous, that the late Liberal politician, TV chef and radio quiz panellist had sexually assaulted and raped her on her parents' bed in 1978 after becoming her "surrogate father figure". While stopping short of raping Sylvia, Mrs Woolsey described how Freud "used to sort of touch me a lot, quite a lot" while she was living in his home. On one occasion, as he molested her at the age of 14, he told her: "You feel just like your mother."

occasion, as he molested her at the age of 14, he told her: "You feel just like your mother."

In that instant Sylvia realised "he's slept with my mother". It appears that Freud had easy access to the girl because Jill's career was taking off and the two were often left at home together. At this point it appears Jill was unaware of what was going on. Guilelessly on one occasion Jill even invited Sylvia to share breakfast in bed with her and her husband, the actions of a loving woman whose own children, including broadcaster Emma and PR guru Matthew, would be born a decade later.

When Jill got up to make the breakfast, Sylvia offered to help but Jill told her to "stay where you are with Clay" – the nickname used by Clement's family and friends. In the documentary Sylvia says: "I knew what was going to happen" and detailed yet another assault that occurred while Jill was out of the room. Certainly the Freuds' marriage was an unusual one. When it began, Jill was the bigger star by some order of magnitude – an unusual state of affairs in 1950.

…Then in 1975 when Jill was 48, she chose to have an affair with a much younger man. In 2001 it emerged that the writer Will Self's brother, Jonathan, had conducted an affair with "June", a fortysomething married woman, while he was 16 – claims that were published in Jonathan's memoir Self Abuse.

At one point in his book Self writes: "There was no question of deceiving June's husband as they had an open marriage." June was in fact Jill Freud. When Clement Freud was asked by an interviewer if the claims were true, the "perplexed, detached" expression on his face as he claimed he didn't know what an open marriage was left his interviewer feeling that his evasion was "polished". The interviewer found his subject both "spooky" and "unreadable". And he wasn't the only person who found him so.

The writer Hunter Davies was invited to the races for Freud's 70th birthday, along with friends such as the Lloyd Webbers, John Mortimer and Melvyn Bragg. "I can't say I know him well," Davies wrote in a newspaper account of the day. "I've discussed him with people whom I assumed knew him much better than I did and they said, no, they didn't really know him either."

It seems that no one apart from his long-suffering wife truly did.

Clement Freud, My Part in his Downfall

Commenters on this blog directly caused the exposure of Clement Freud in the ITV story. I published an anodyne obituary in 2009 giving my memories of Freud. One commenter wrote:

> He was a notorious old goat and his pursuit of young women could verge on the sinister. I met one of his young 'victims' who told me about a job interview with him turning into a very traumatic experience.

And a second wrote the startling

> Writing as one of his 1000s of sexual 'victims',
> still surviving, terrified as I write for fear he is not yet quite yet dead – the man was an evil, conniving, > ruthless user for his own bottomless ego of all he came into contact with.
> Our children – boys and girls are all that much safer for his demise.
> And that is just the tip of an iceberg of political and media dirty dealings that reaches into the heart of the broken Britain he has left behind him.
> His family will now, unfortunately, reap the rage and revenge of those he destroyed and their much needed justice for his many heinous – still untold – actions.

Six years later I was contacted by a journalist working for ITV who had leads on Freud and looking for more evidence. He had dug up those comments on my blog. Using the magic of the internet, I was able to trace the last commenter and put them in touch, with their permission, with the ITV team.

looking for more evidence. He had dug up these comments on my blog. Using the magic of the internet, I was able to trace the last commenter and put them in touch, with their permission, with the ITV team.

I also told them an anecdote I myself recalled. I was a young First Year Rep on Dundee University Students Association Council while Clement Freud was Rector. One day the then President of the Students Association, Ian Morris, came out of his office in a terrible mood after a phone call from Freud, saying that Freud had asked him to line up female students for him and was trying to use him as "a pimp". This was not paedophilia but it was unpleasant – Freud was 35 years older than the students he was targeting.

It then all went quiet for a year before ITV contacted me this morning to tell me the story was running.

It is hard to know what to make of Freud owning a holiday villa close to where Madeleine McCann disappeared. Clement was apparently not in Portugal at the time. When you add in the fact that the McCanns' sleazy "spokesman", Clarence Mitchell, works for Freud's son Matthew, the coincidences do add up. I am not jumping to any conclusions at present. But I found the following fascinating.

Clement Freud assured Kate McCann she had nothing to fear from the cadaver dogs giving a positive response inside the McCann's hire car, hired after Madeleine "disappeared". They had no evidential value. "So what are they going to do? One bark for yes, two barks for no?" asked Freud.

Sir Clement Freud exposed as a paedophile as police urged to probe Madeleine McCann links

Detectives investigating the disappearance of Madeleine McCann have been alerted to the fact that Freud had a villa in Praia da Luz, Portugal, the resort where the three-year-old went missing in 2007.

He befriended the McCanns in the weeks after their daughter went missing, entertaining them at his house on two occasions and keeping in contact by phone and email.

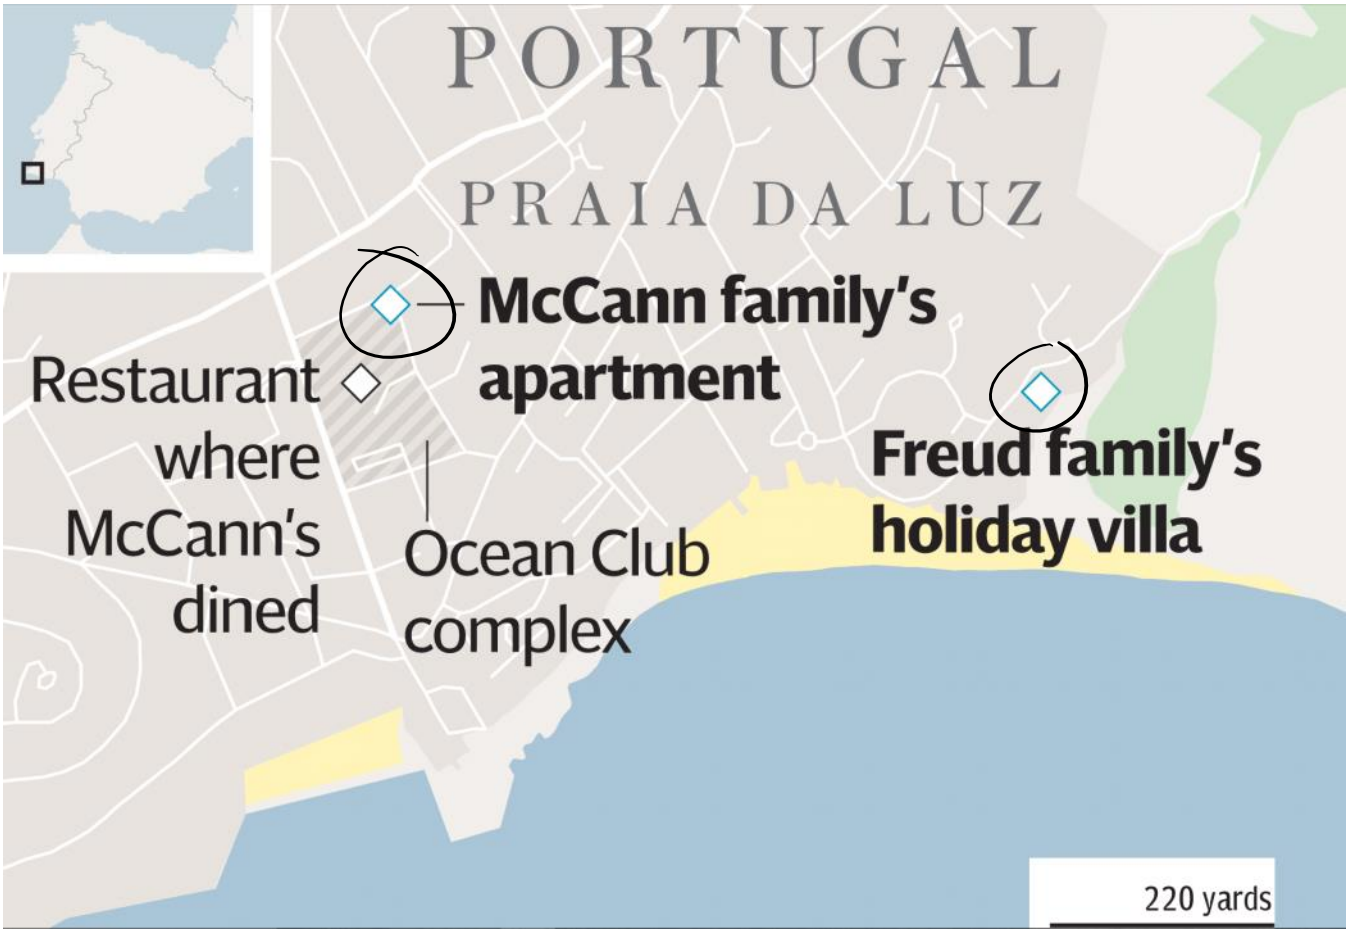
The McCanns are said to be "horrified" by the discovery that Freud was a paedophile.

His family, who include the PR executive Matthew Freud, have said that Freud was not in Portugal at the time of Madeleine's disappearance and that they have not been contacted by police.



Summary and Conclusions

Clement Freud was a very powerful and prominent man; the grandson of the famous psychoanalyst Sigmund Freud, a Liberal Member of Parliament, Rector of Dundee and St. Andrews Universities, Celebrity Chef, BBC Broadcaster, and was knighted by the Queen.

Clement Freud almost certainly was a pedophile and sexual predator throughout his life, and was only revealed after his death.

His wife Jill (or June) acknowledged the allegations and apologized to the victims.

Jill is also alleged to have had an affair with a 16 year old Jonathan Self whom also claimed that Clement and Jill had an open marriage.

Jill is also alleged to have had an affair with a 16 year old Jonathan Self whom also claimed that Clement and Jill had an open marriage.

It is alleged that police and/or child abuse agencies were warned about Clement Freud before his death.

Clement Freud befriended and entertained the McCanns just after Madeleine's reported disappearance.

McCann's spokesperson Clarence Mitchell worked for Clement Freud's son, Matthew Freud.

Stay tuned for more on Clement Freud's connection to the McCann case.

The story of Clement Freud is an important one in the entire #PizzaGate picture as it shows that even the most prominent, powerful, and beloved people can be involved in child sexual abuse, while getting away with it until at least their death.

McCann / Podesta Connection Criticism

Recently I have received messages to drop the Podesta / Madeleine McCann link because of the following reasons:

- The efits are of one person.
- One of the efits was a sketch and the other a computer generated drawing.
- The Smith family states it was most likely Gerry McCann they saw.
- Madeleine is most likely dead, so the Podestas could not have been the abductors.
- The McCann case has nothing to do with PizzaGate.
- Etc.

My response is the following: I don't want to be sued.

- Madeleine almost certainly died before the reported disappearance.
- There were almost certainly no abductors.
- The efits are almost certainly fabricated.
- The efits were almost certainly purposely suppressed by the media and police.
- The efits almost certainly look like two separate people.
- The efits almost certainly were made from two separate computer programs.
- The efits look like John and Tony Podesta (including the mole on Tony's head).
- John Podesta's emails appear to be deleted prior to May 3, 2007.
- John Podesta's assistant Elizabeth Cooley emailed on his behalf on May 4, 2007.
- The media has not asked the Podestas or Cooley about this coincidence.

Please watch earlier parts of this #PizzaGate series to see sources for the above statements.

Thus some of the possibilities for the McCann / Podesta connection are the following:

1. The efits may be deliberately made to look like the Podestas as a form of blackmail for possible criminal activities engaged in Portugal and/or connected to Madeleine.
2. People that fabricated the efits knew of the Podestas and wanted to send them a warning message to keep to whatever agreement or agenda they have, even if the Podestas aren't directly connected to the McCanns or Portugal.
3. It is all just a coincidence that:
   - The efits were fabricated.
   - The efits look like the Podestas.
   - John Podesta's emails were deleted prior to Madeleine's disappearance.
   - John's assistant emailed on his behalf the day after Madeleine's disappearance.
   - The mainstream media ignores the fact that efits could not realistically have been made.
   - The mainstream media don't bother to ask the Podestas or even John's assistant about the missing emails or efits look-alike.

If you have other possibly scenarios let me know.

The 3rd scenario is the least likely because if this happened to Donald Trump, for example, you can GUARANTEE this would be on every mainstream news outlet, just like the "Golden Showers" dossier which was widely pushed, and obviously fake.

Also, if the mainstream media were to try to debunk this Podesta / McCann connection, they would most likely have to first admit to covering-up the McCann case…

Thus it is a double-edged sword for the media.

Connection to #PizzaGate

My definition of PizzaGate is very broad, and covers anything that involves corruption that is covered up the mainstream media, politicians, and law enforcement, while leaning towards the possibility of pedophilia (or even satanic practices) being used as blackmail to control people in powerful positions.

So whether the McCann case is directly connected to the pizza-related emails in John Podesta's emails or not, that is not the main concern.

The McCann case appears to be a cover-up of possible pedophilia by very powerful individuals, so it is important to also expose this case as well as to show that the #pizzagate phenomenon has been going on for a long time.

Conspiracy Theories ADVICE

Investigation into the McCann / Podesta case has shown me that there is a lot of disinformation presented by online researchers, either willingly or unwillingly.

This a huge problem because any disinformation, or unverifiable information, such as stating the Podestas were in Portugal at the time of Madeleine's disappearance due to "anonymous police sources" only delegitimizes and makes it easy for mainstream media to attack theories as "crazy conspiracies".

Also, I have noticed that many online researchers have fallen into the trap of referencing mainstream media articles as "proof" or "disproof" of any theory without actually looking at the sources that the mainstream media article uses.

A perfect example is the Guardian article in 2013 stating the efits were of one person, which many people online used to discredit the Podesta connection.

But looking into the actual police reports it is clear that the efits were almost certainly fabricated, thus bringing into question the efits, the witnesses to the efits, the McCann case in general, and the Guardian for ignoring this fact.

This is a tactic that the mainstream media uses to discredit others, by referencing other mainstream news outlets, which reference other news outlets, while very few times actually referencing the original source.

The most important note I have seen is that many online researchers try solve an entire case, such as the McCann case, but at no time do they show the mainstream media's coverage, or lack there-of, at each important step of the case.

This again makes it easy for the mainstream media to brand it as just another "conspiracy theory", even if that specific theory is backed up by solid facts.

The perfect example is Snopes and New York Times writing articles "debunking" #PizzaGate, which to the average viewer will look for confirmation bias to ignore an alternative narrative.

Thus in order to make the average person even consider looking into an alternative theory or narrative, first and foremost their trust in the mainstream media MUST be broken.

My main tactic, which I have been doing in each of the earlier parts of this video series is to show how the mainstream media has failed to do its job every step of the way, thus showing that they are often times the last place to get accurate information.

Also, my method is to present all the facts in a very detailed way, like a lawyer, so please be patient as I have some pretty amazing research in the later parts of this #PizzaGate series.

Witness Statement

June

Date: 2007.06.13

Time: 12H00

Name: YVONE WARREN MARTIN

Profession: Social Services and Child Protection

The witness is accompanied by a PJ interpreter, Carlos Moura, as she does not speak Portuguese.

She says that she has lived in Portugal for seven years on a part-time basis, in other words, for some months of the year she lives in her home in Sargaçal and for the rest of the year lives in England, where she still works.

During the past month of May or more precisely on the 04th of May 2007, the witness was in Portugal, enjoying holidays, when at about 07H00 she turned on the television and watched an English news channel (BBC or SKY NEWS) where she saw an appeal to British citizens on holiday in the Algarve to offer all possible support to a British couple who were on holiday in Praia da Luz and whose daughter, a child, had disappeared on May 03, 2007.

As she works directly with situations of children at risk, and as she was very close to Praia da Luz, she went there with the intention of offering her help and support to the couple, she arrived there at about 09H30.

She clarifies that she did not leave immediately for Praia da Luz as she still had some things to do at home but left at around 09H00.

At first, she could not locate the exact site where the family was staying on holiday. Upon seeing a police patrol car which passed close by her, she asked the police if they could show her the right location. She was accompanied by the patrol car to the apartment from where the child had disappeared and where the parents were staying.

At the scene, she found a group of three people, two males and one female.

She went over to the group and identified herself.
Two members of that group, a male and a female, identified themselves as the parents of the missing child - the McCann couple.

The couple was visibly upset, and the mother was crying intensely.

The third person never identified himself, upon the witness's insistence the couple replied that he was a close friend of the family.

She adds that this third person appeared familiar to her.

Taking advantage of the information that she had heard on the news, she began questioning the couple about how often they had checked on the children, obtaining the reply that people would go to see them every hour.

As is normal and routine in her service, she asked whether Gerry was the biological father of the missing child, to which he replied yes.

She clarifies that she asked this question because during the course of her 25 years of service working with children at risk, it is very normal that when a couple has child and where the father or the mother is not a biological parent, the biological parent may have a tendency to come and "get" his child.

After having obtained the verbal response from Gerry, the mother, Kate, questioned what she was doing asking these questions which should be asked by the police, who were already on the scene in large numbers searching for her daughter, who had been taken by a couple.

At this moment, the witness notices that the couple began to have doubts about her capacity and she immediately showed them her official documents and credentials issued by the British government to calm them down.

Gerry took her documents and showed them to the third person and told him that they were authentic and were certified by the police.

At this moment, the witness wishes to clarify that, in England, anyone who works with children, whether a doctor, police officer or social worker, has to have a proper credential certified by the police and that this was one of the documents she showed to the McCanns.

Because she found it strange that Kate told her that her daughter had been taken by a couple, she tried to separate her from the other two individuals so that she could speak to her with more privacy, suggesting to Kate that they (Y and K) should enter the apartment, Kate aggressively rejected this idea and told her that they could speak on the street.

The witness then asked whether anyone from the Medical Centre had been with Kate as she was very agitated and needed some support, she was told they hadn't.
At this point, Kate told her that her daughter had disappeared 13 hours ago. It was about 10 in the morning.

9PM → May 3rd

Meanwhile a fourth individual came towards the group and identified himself as a journalist. The witness alerted the couple to the type of statements they should give and that it would be better for them to keep silent.

At this moment, the third person, who was always near to the couple and the witness, moved the couple away from her and the three of them talked in whispers for some time.

After this, and leaving the couple behind him, he approached the witness and told her that the couple did not want to speak any more with her, nor with anyone else.

The witness replied to him that if the McCann couple felt the need to talk to her later, she would be at their total disposal.

As she said earlier, this third person of the group is familiar to her, and thinks that she may have come across him in the course of her work, as a suspect or witness.

She describes him as tall man, height about 1,80 m, about 35 years old, of normal physical complexion, with short, dark hair, with a round face and with a scar on the left side of his face running from the eyebrow to the check. He uses graduated glasses of small dimension with rectangular lenses. He spoke with a southern English accent and was wearing cream coloured trousers and a dark polo shirt
When asked whether that it would be possible to identify him from a photograph, the witness replied yes.

She adds that, after having spoken to the McCann couple, she spoke to the resort manager, and after identifying herself, asked him whether there had been a break-in in the apartment where the child was, to which he replied no but that the door was open as were the window blinds, which, according to Kate, should have been closed but were found open.

Photographic Recognition File

On 13th June, 2007 at the Portimao DIC, Yvone Warren Martin appeared before me, José Monteiro, Inspector, in order to proceed with photographic recognition.

When asked, she described the suspect and she was shown photographs of various individuals who made up the McCann couple holiday group.

Upon visualising the photographs, she recognised David Anthony Payne, an individual who appeared in several photographs, as being the person she referred to in her statements and who she supposedly had known on another occasion.

The present document was drawn up and after being translated by the interpreter, will be signed.

Witness Statement

Nov. 2007

Date: 2007/11/14
Time: 10H30
Place: DIC Portimao

Name: YVONNE WARREN MARTIN

Profession: Social Services and Child Protection

She comes to the process as a witness and as she does not speak Portuguese she is accompanied by interpreter Filipa Maria da Conceição Silva who will translate all questions and answers into English.

The witness has given a previous statement to this police force regarding the facts in question. This took place on 13-06-2007 and led to the inquiry of the statement that was taken. The witness confirms the complete integrity of that statement, everything was fully reproduced for this file. The witness was also shown attached page showing the places of work where she carried out her professional activities as Social Services Manager for Child Protection, having also confirmed that these were the cities where she carried out her professional activities.

She states that in the course of her contact with Madeleine's parents, described in detail in her previous statements, Kate told her that the child had been taken by a couple. During the meeting they had, the details of which are contained in her previous statement, she did not have the opportunity to ask in depth about this question nor about any other.

With regards to the individual who was close to Madeleine's parents when she met them, and who was later identified as David Payne, she reaffirms that the same individual seems familiar, possibly as this same individual intervened in a situation related to a professional activity of the witness. She clarifies that neither on that occasion, nor now that time has passed, can she remember concretely the place or the situation in which she may have come to know David Payne, but that she continues to think that the same individual is familiar to her but cannot state the particular situation.

She adds that her hypothesis is that she may have come to know him professionally through work, potentially having been colleagues at work or have worked at the same place but she cannot be certain where she met him as she does not remember

She says that about two weeks after Madeleine's disappearance, when the police made an appeal for information about a man, carrying a child, who had been seen in the Luz zone, and whose clothing was described, she wrote an anonymous letter to the British police, telling them the following: : regarding the various details she observed during her contact with the McCanns it is her opinion that they could be in some way involved in the disappearance of Madeleine.

She first found them aggressive and their reaction after she showed Madeleine's parents her credentials, also seemed strange to her. Afterwards she was informed that there were no signs of a break-in in the apartment. Knowing that they are doctors she found it absolutely abnormal that they left their children alone at home. Associating all of this with her professional experience, which tells her that in 99.99 % of missing children cases, the parents or other family members are involved, she felt it was her duty to inform the police of this.

She did this anonymously because she did not want to be bothered by the media. But she also states that according to what she remembers, when she met with Madeleine's parents, David Payne, who was with them, was wearing a dark polo shirt, blue or black coloured, cream coloured long trousers, of linen or cotton, and dark shoes (sandal/slipper type without a back buckle/catch). In her opinion, this clothing matches perfectly with the clothing the Police described the man (carrying the child) to be wearing at the time. All these coincidences made the witness think that the parents and their friends could possibly be involved in the disappearance of the child.

She declares that one of her main aims when she wrote the anonymous letter was for the British police to check the paedophile or child abusers registers and whether David Payne was on that list.

No more was said. Reads, ratifies, signs.

01:34:03 Reply "Yvonne MARTIN''
1485 "Social Worker.'
Reply "Right. Oh, okay, err there was a lady who was there on the err when me, when me and Kate were waiting on the err morning you know after Madeleine had disappeared err there was err a photographer who was living in the area who err approached us and was just saying ah I used to work for the Daily Mirror, he gave his card and then this woman came up and started err chatting to us who err essentially just said ah I've got many years of experience you know and just started to really try and again force their selves in the situation a bit rather than just saying look I'm around if you need me err you know, so basically I just said it wasn't you know appropriate at the time, could she leave us alone and err but I must admit I didn't know what her, that was you know, that was, and she was, you know she said she was trained for many years as a Social Worker and was out there now err and was offering her help, but not in a particularly helpful way and she appeared you know, and that was on the you know the morning, I don't know somewhere perhaps between nine and ten o' clock in the morning. Err you know I'm sure, sure she'd been at, you know, she popped in there and you know she was around the area, she was seen again, but I mean I didn't have any more contact with her then but at the time it wasn't particularly helpful. Err I can't really say any more than that.'
01:35:47 1485 "Did you know her before that meeting''
Reply "Err no.'
1485 "Did you speak to the MCCANN'S about it''
Reply "Err we, yeah we spoke in the context of you know that was completely inappropriate the way that she was trying to deal with it, it's like she was trying to council Kate there and then in the thick of, you know, they're still trying to establish what's going on and what was happening err so you know I spoke to, you know I'm sure I mentioned her to Kate and Gerry you know within a short space of time, you know within twenty four hours of it happening. Err you know, just an example I, you know I was with Kate for quite a number of hours where I was sat with her at the err Police Station in Portim' and everything and you know weeks later she said who was I sat with, you know, and it was that, its that kind of thing you know I'm sure you know I spoke to them about it there and then within twenty four hours but err you know nothing was really mentioned a great deal about her later on or you know it was the, the, you know pretty much you know the conversation was dealt, you know dealt with it there and then and it wasn't, you know, perhaps I mentioned it to the others saying you know and if she popped up here and there you know other people might have mentioned her but she wasn't something that kind of like was the focus of the conversations that we had subsequently.'

1485 "Yeah.'
01:37:15 Reply "Err for that morning.'
1485 "Did you advise the MCCANN'S to turn to her''
Reply "Not at all, no.'
1485 "Not at all''
Reply "Not at all. She was someone I'd certainly say to, to keep clear of you know and I, and I think pretty much I was saying look you know, appreciate your concern at this stage but you know it's not the right time to be talking to her, if you want to leave a card then you know perhaps there might be a time in the future but you know can you just leave us please, and that was you know the basics of the conversation that I had with her. Err you know her timing was just completely off, err you know there was, I say there was someone else who visited on the night that she was abducted, I think she was from the upstairs and she was again you know trying to say there, there Kate, you're alright, and again it was just completely inappropriate timing.'
1485 "Yeah.'
Reply "I didn't think there was anything sinister about it I just thought it was people who didn't really perhaps have an insight into you know what has gone on and what was good timing and what wasn't. I never really thought anything much more about either of them.'

00:45:00 1485 "So when did you eventually go back to your apartment'' Reply "Err'' 1485 "To sleep and''
Reply "To go to sleep' We went back to the apartment about four, four thirty err we slept err you know we'd got err Sean and Amelie err over to the apartment, you know we'd got the bedding done for Kate and Gerry and then we went sleep, we woke up about six, six thirty err and then as I say, err, you know Kate and Gerry were err you know were already awake, not that they'd, you know, they'd slept sorry you know they were still awake and err you know they, they'd been out searching already looking to see what's happening. Again I remember Kate very distraught you know, there was nobody outside the err apartments and you know and it just felt like time was just ticking by and you know nothing, you know appeared to be happening.'

1485 "And then you spoke to Yvonne MARTIN around about nine o' clock you said.'
Reply "Mm.'
1485 "What did you do up until nine o' clock''
Reply "Err I remember we were hang, you know I was outside with, you know, with Kate quite a bit err just basically looking, seeing whether anything was happening, err outside, err I say there was, there was the local report and the news journalist who came up as well at some stage, then err then there was a correspondence between you know, with Robert MURAT and the err Police who err arrived and you know trying to find out what was going on. And then, you know, obviously we were gonna be going to the err Portim' Police Station and then you know we were waiting obviously for that to happen and err that's about it really.'

Page 86 to 87:

Not having slept for some twenty-six hours I was starting to feel quite jaded but my mind was teeming with horrific images. A middle-aged British lady suddenly materialized beside me and introduced herself. She announced that she was, or had been, a social worker or child protection officer and insisted on showing me her professional papers, including, I think, her Criminal Records Bureau certificate. She asked me to sit down on a low wall, plonked herself next to me and told me she wanted me to go through everything that had happened the previous night. She was quite pushy and her manner, her very presence, were making me feel uncomfortable and adding to my distress.

David was standing nearby. Concerned, he took me aside and pointed out that we didn't know who this woman was or what she was doing there. He reassured me that I wasn't obliged to speak to her if I didn't want to. And I didn't want to. Whoever she was, and whatever her credentials were, it was an inappropriate intrusion. And something about it, something about her, just didn't feel right. I was glad I extricated myself. This woman would pop up several times in the days and months to come and I still don't really know who she is or what she was trying to achieve.

Maddie: Truth of the Lie

Chapter 10: RETHINKING THE FACTS

May 4th 2007, 7am Sargaçal, a village close to Vila da Luz

Y.M., an English woman, aged 52, a social worker with child protection services for more than twenty-five years, is spending her holiday in the Algarve. She is watching an English television channel when she hears the news about Madeleine's disappearance in Vila da Luz. She decides to go there immediately to support the parents. Shortly after 9.30am, with the help of police officers on the spot, she manages to approach them. They are in the company of a man who is introduced to her as a friend of the family. The McCanns are deeply upset, and Kate cries a lot. Y.M. starts to ask them questions, to find out the frequency of visits to the children during dinner – they respond that the visits took place every hour – and asks Gerald if he is the biological father in order to immediately eliminate the hypothesis of parental abduction.

Little by little, Kate starts to get annoyed: she thinks it's up to the police to ask these questions; besides, there should be more of them looking for her daughter; she insists that it was a couple who abducted her…Y.M. assumes that the McCanns distrust her. So, she shows them the official documents issued by the police and the English government certifying her professional qualifications. The friend of the family examines the papers and confirms their authenticity. In spite of this, Madeleine's parents don't seem to be very appreciative of this offer of collaboration. Y.M. tries to take Kate aside to speak to her quietly and ask her for more information about this couple who allegedly abducted her child. But she refuses, reacts aggressively and refuses to be separated from her two companions. Y.M. worries about the extreme state of agitation that Kate is in and notes that the latter has still not been examined by a doctor when she really needs to be.

During this encounter, Kate tells Y.M. that her daughter disappeared thirteen hours ago. If you do the calculation, that means that Madeleine would have been abducted at 9pm and not at 10pm. That contradiction is important; it has to be taken into account in analysing the abduction scenarios that the McCanns and their friends will relate to the police.

The couple's spokesman, the friend who has been present throughout the encounter, ends up telling Y.M. that the McCanns want her to leave. Before leaving the scene, she advises them not to trust the media and to remain silent. Y.M. has the feeling that she

The couple's spokesman, the friend who has been present throughout the encounter, ends up telling Y.M. that the McCanns want her to leave. Before leaving the scene, she advises them not to trust the media and to remain silent. Y.M. has the feeling that she has already met this man, his face seems familiar to her. Was he, perhaps, mixed up in one way or another in a case she had dealt with in the context of her work? She will later learn that he is David Payne, organiser of the trips, the same person whose sleazy attitude had been reported by S.G. and K.G. There is nothing incriminating in his past and, as we were able to verify, he has no criminal record. What we are sure of is that he has been a close friend of Madeleine's father since university.

Not surprisingly, random people on the internet (such as myself) are most likely where you can find some actual investigative journalism, and not from the mainstream media.

I admit it, I have been hooked on reading the McCann files and have ignored lots of other things I should be doing!
What I find most interesting is the account given by Yvonne Marin.
She is a professional in child protection and has been for over twenty five years.
It seems that she was on the scene very early on with the intention of offering help in anyway and to give any advice asked for.
She see's David Payne and at once feels he is familiar to her though she can't be sure whether is was as a witness or suspect regarding child abuse(remember the Gaspar's statement about him).
Yvonne , when giving her statement wants it to be clarified that Kate McCann told her that a couple has taken her child, this she repeated several times, after one time David Payne hears and at once directs her away form Yvonne and whispers to her, Yvonne feel that he was instructing Kate not to say anything else.
Yvonne later writes to the police believing that the McCann's may have had a hand in their daughters disappearance.
Yvonne gives a description of David Payne and what he is wearing, this is what I find interesting.
He was wearing a dark blue polo shirt with light cream cotton or linen trousers.
This was the exact same description the Smiths gave of the man they saw carrying a child who passed them at about 21.50 when they were leaving Kelly' bar, a few streets away, this man was heading towards the beach.
Too much of a coincidence!
The very first statements given to the police by David Payne omits the story that Gerry McCann had asked him to look in on Kate at around six thirty to see if she needed help with taking the children to the play area. This would make him the last person,other than the McCann's to have seen Madeleine alive.Quite an important fact you would remember surely?
Only later is a further statement he tells of the 6.30 visit.
David Payne says he was in the apartment for thirty minutes, Kate McCann states that it was thirty seconds!!
From all of the glaring inconsistency's you get the feeling that a plot was hatched to subvert the cause of justice.

In contrast alternative media covers this:

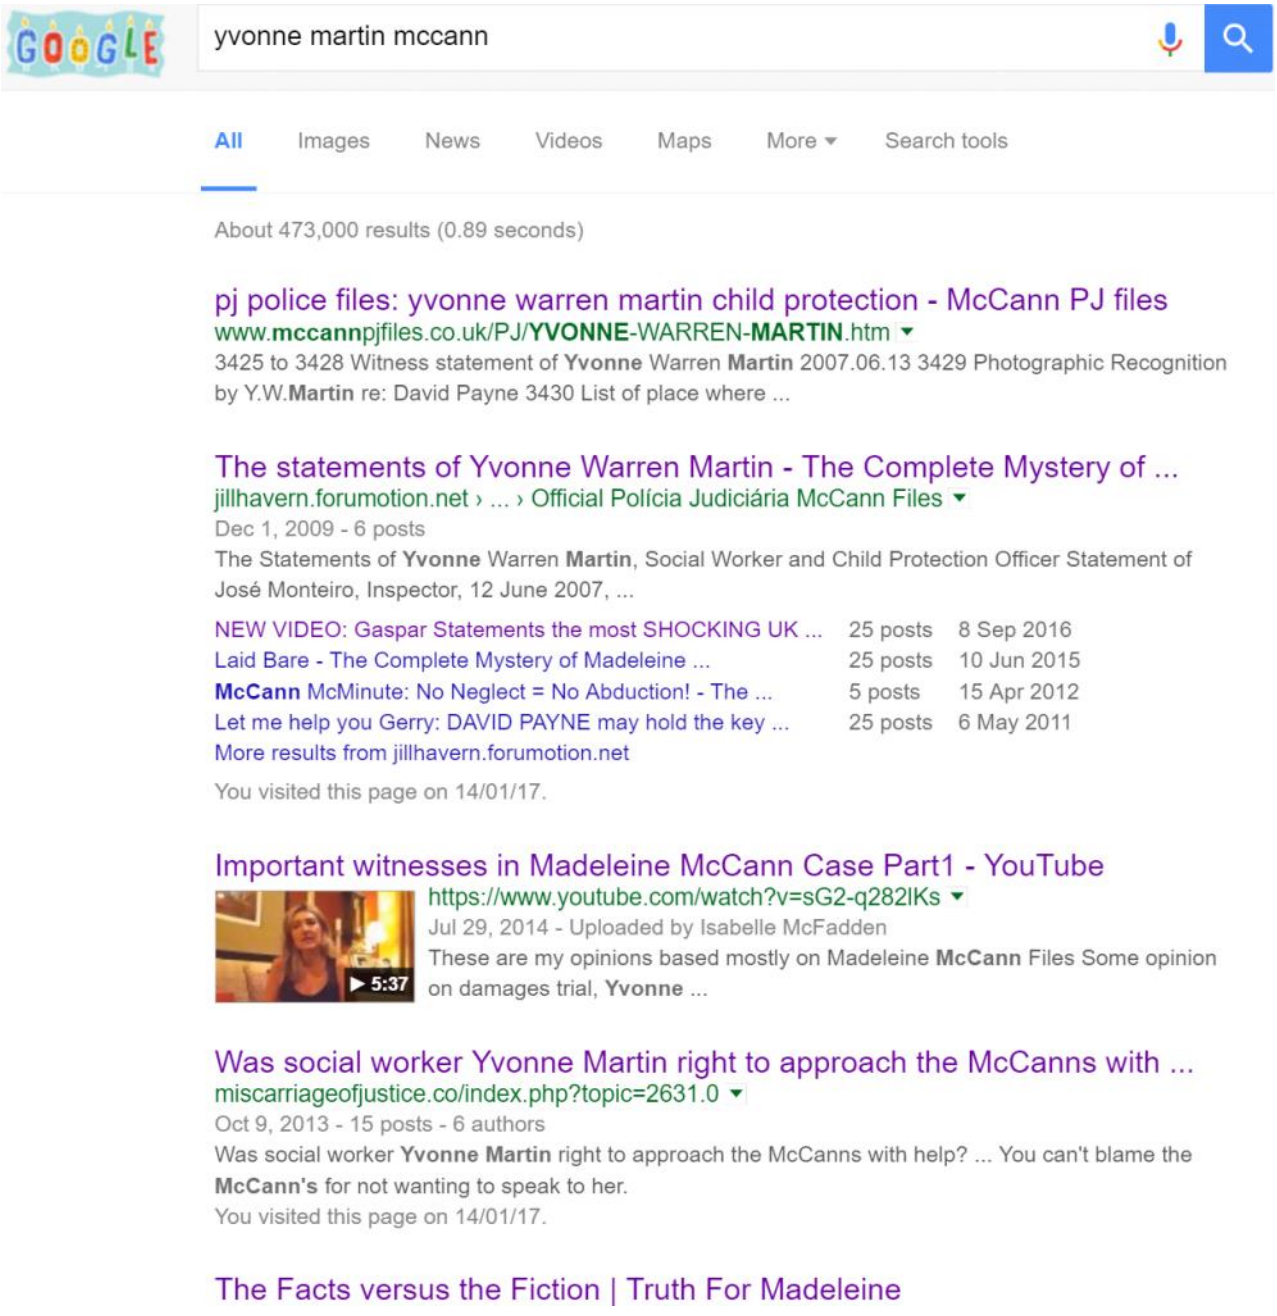
Retrieved: 14 January 2017



Summary and Conclusions

Yvonne Martin tries to help the McCanns the day after Madeleine's disappearance but is brushed away.

Her experience as a professional child services social worker for 25 years, leads her to suspect that the McCanns and more particularly David Payne, whom is familiar to her, may be involved in Madeleine's reported disappearance.

She also suspects that David Payne may be a pedophile.

Mainstream media completely ignores this story.

3911 to 3915 Witness statement of Katherina Zacharias Gaspar 2007.05.16

I make this statement in relation to the MCCANN family who are currently in Portugal. The MCCANN family is composed of Gerry MCCANN, his wife, Kate MCCANN and their three children, Madeleine, 4 years old, and Sean and Amelie, who are twins, aged two.

As has been widely covered by the news, Madeleine is not with her family presently, and has been missing for the last two weeks.

I will begin by explaining that I am married to Savio Gaspar and that we have two daughters, E., who is almost 3 and I. who is now one year old…

To explain the way in which we met the MCCANN family, I would like to state that my husband knows Kate, as they both attended Dundee University between 1987 and 1992. At that time, Kate's name was Kate HEALY. I met Kate and Gerry on the occasion of their wedding, around 1998, in Liverpool. Both Savio and I went to the wedding because as Savio was an old friend of Kate's, we were both invited to the event.

As far as I know, Savio did not know Gerry before the abovementioned wedding. From that time onwards, we met as friends about three times a year and we would spent weekends away together. I would say that we became intimate friends of Gerry and Kate.

I remember that in 2002 or 2003, Savio and I spent a weekend with Gerry and Kate in Devon. We would stay in contact with each other by telephone.

In 2002/2003 Savio and I were living in Birmingham and the MCCANNS in Leicester.

In September of 2005, Savio, I and E., who at the time was about 1 and a half years old, went to spend our holidays abroad, in Majorca. We went (page 2) on holiday with Kate, Gerry, and Madeleine, who would have been around 2 and a half years old and with the twins, Sean and Amelie, who were just months old. I remember that I was pregnant with I.

During those holidays there were also friends of Gerry and Kate with us.

There was a couple, whose names were Dave and Fiona, and whose surname was PAYNE, I believe. I think that they were married and had one daughter aged about 1, named L. I remember that during those holidays that Fiona was pregnant.

There was another couple, whose names were Tara and Stuart, but whose surname I cannot remember who were also on holiday with us. They had two boys, aged 1 and 3, whose names I do not remember. I did not know these two families before we went on holidays together. From memory, I think that it was Dave who organised these holidays and we all stayed together in a big house when we were in Majorca.

We spend a week on holidays, however, the MCCANN family and the PAYNE family stayed for two weeks. I think that Tara and Stuart, and their two children, also stayed for just one week.

Two or three days had gone by, we were all staying in Majorca where, in general terms, we had fun (Page 3) with our children. Possibly, around the fourth or perhaps the fifth day abroad, I remember an incident that stayed recorded in my head. I say this in this way, because I have thought numerous times about the incident that I am about to describe since that date.

One night, when we were on holiday, the adults, in other words, the couples that I mentioned were on a patio outside the house where we were staying. We had been eating and drinking.

I was sitting between Dave and Gerry whom I believe were both talking about Madeleine. I don't remember the conversation in its entirety, but it seemed they were discussing a possible scenario. I remember Dave telling Gerry something like "she", referring to Madeleine, "would do this".

When he mentioned "this", Dave was sucking on one of his fingers, pushing it in and out of his mouth, whilst with the other hand he circled his nipple, with a circulating movement over his clothes. This was done in a provocative manner there being an explicit insinuation in relation to what he was saying and doing.

I remember that I was shocked at this, and looked at Gerry, and also at Dave, to see their reactions. I looked around (page 4) to see "did anyone else hear this, or was it just me". There was a nervous silence noted in the conversations of all the others and immediately afterwards everyone began talking again.

I never spoke to anyone about this, but I always felt that it was something very strange and that it wasn't something that should be done or said.

Apart from this, I remember that Dave did the same thing once again. When I refer to this, I want to mention again that it was during a conversation, in which he was talking about an imaginary situation, though I could not say precisely what it was about. I believe that he was talking about his own daughter, L., though I'm not certain. He slid one of his fingers in and out of his mouth, while the other hand drew a circle around his nipple in a provocative and sexual manner. I believe that he was referring to the way that L., would behave or would do it.

I believe that he did this later on, during the holidays, but I cannot be sure. The only time, besides this one, that I was with Dave and Fiona was several weeks after the holidays, when Savio and I met up with Gerry, Kate, Dave and Fiona at a restaurant in Leicester.

I am absolutely certain that he said what he said and that he made the gestures I referred to, but that could have occurred in the restaurant in Leicester, even though (page five) I believe that it was later on, in Majorca. When I heard Dave saying and doing this a second time, I took it more seriously.

I remember thinking whether he looked at the girls in a different way from me or from the others. I imagined that maybe he had visited Internet sites related to small children. In short, I thought that he might be interested in child pornography on the internet.

During our holidays, I was more attentive at the bath times after hearing Dave saying that.

During our holidays in Majorca, it was the fathers who took care of the children baths. I had the tendency to walk close to the bathroom, if it was Dave bathing the children. I remember telling Savio to took care to be there, in case it was Dave helping to bathe the children and, in particular, my daughter E. I was very clear about this, as having heard him say that had disturbed me, and I did not trust him to give bath to E. alone.

When I heard Dave say that a second time, it reinforced what I already thought in relation to his thoughts about girls. During our stay in Majorca, Dave and his wife, Fiona, accompanied by their daughter L., took Madeleine (page 6) with them to spend the day, in order to give Kate and Gerry a bit of rest and time to be with the twins. When I say this, it is not that I was worried about Madeleine's safety, since she was also with Fiona and L., and also with Dave, as far as I know.

As I have already mentioned, I was only with Dave and Fiona on one occasion, after Majorca, and I have not spoken to them since then. In the last two years, we have met, as a family, with the MCCANN, every now and then. This mainly happens on the children's birthdays, a time when we meet up.

The first time I heard of the terrible news about Madeleine's disappearance through the radio, my thoughts went immediately to Dave. I asked Savio if Dave was also on holidays with the MCCANN in Portugal but he did not know.

I watched the TV thoroughly, and seeing the news coverage, I noticed that Dave was there, because I saw him, in the background, on the television images during the first days after Madeleine's disappearance. Based upon that, I believed that he was on holidays with the MCCANN in Portugal.

Today, Wednesday, 16th of May of 2007, at 17:40, I gave DC Brewer an A4 page containing 2 photographic images. I am going to refer to these images as (Ref KZG/1) (element of proof) that may (page seven) be presented as means of proof, if necessary. These photographs were taken during the holidays in Majorca. In the photographs, Dave is wearing a white T-shirt and the woman in the photograph corresponds to his wife Fiona. The man who is holding the glass of wine in the photograph is Stuart. These photographs were taken while we were in Majorca.

Katherina seemed deeply concerned about David Payne and thinks he may be a pedophile, even going so far as watching and telling her husband Savio to keep a close eye on David Payne.

3916 to 3920 Witness statement of Arul Savio Gaspar 2007.05.16

This statement was made in relation to the disappearance of Madeleine McCann.

I currently work as a GP at Saint Clements Surgery, Birmingham, where I have been employed for the last nine years.

Madeleine is the daughter of Kate and Gerry McCann and we are friends of the family.

I have known Kate since 1987, when we met at Dundee Medical School, and became friends. We have remained in touch all this time and meet up 3 or 4 times a year, we often talk on the phone or email each other.

When we first became friends in 1987 she was still known as Kate Healy, this was the case until she married Gerry at the end of 1990s. Kate and I completed our medical degrees in 1992, when we each carried on with our lives, once we had begun our careers.

After I finished my degree I began my career in Exeter, and I think Kate went to Glasgow.

I only met up with Kate again in 1997 or 1998. At that moment I was married to Katherina, we had both been invited to attend Kate and Gerry's wedding.

After their wedding we lost contact and I think they went to New Zealand.

We only met up again in 2001 in Birmingham.

The couple visited us in the house where we then living, in , and this was the first time I talked to Gerry.

I think that at the time Kate and Gerry were living in Queniborough, Leicestershire.

From 2001 and 2005 we were in regular contact and often visited each other's homes.

We planned holidays for the first week of September 2005 in Majorca, Spain, together with three other couples including Kate and Gerry. We did not know the other two couples, they were friends of Kate and Gerry's, we had never met them before.

We all had children.

When we went on this holiday we had one daughter,  aged 18 months.

Kate and Gerry had 3 children, Madeleine almost two and the twins who were six months old.

The other couples were Fiona and David Payne and their daughter Lily who was one year old and * and * who had two boys aged three and one. I do not remember * and  surname nor the names of their children.

Katherine and I had booked the holiday for one week and the other two couples had booked for two weeks. We stayed together in a large villa.

We all arrived at the villa separately.

During the period we stayed at the villa I remember a gesture made by David Payne. I do not remember the context of the conversation between David and Gerry, but I do remember seeing David use his left index finger to rub his nipple, using circular movements, whilst he put his right index finger into his mouth, touching his tongue. This happened during a meal, at the end of the day in the villa, I do not remember the time or the date, but we would usually dine between 19.30 and 21.00 every day. I think this happened in the middle of the holiday.

I remember that when I saw this gesture I immediately thought it to be in very bad taste, independently of the context of the conversation they were having. We were sitting around a white plastic table in the villa. I don't know if anyone else saw the gesture, apart from my wife Katherina. After this gesture, we did not notice any others and as far as I know, the gesture was not repeated.

We never commented on this gesture during the rest of the holiday and I thought no more about it.

I can describe Dave as a Caucasian male 1.78 m tall, and of a medium complexion. He had brown hair and used glasses/contact lenses depending on the circumstances.

I can say that Dave was a pleasant person. I do not remember him having any unusual characteristics.

During the holidays Dave never behaved in an inappropriate manner with Madeleine or with any of the other children. Dave was popular with the children and I took this to be because he was a close friend to the family.

I never distrusted Dave. After the holidays there was one occasion when we were with Kate and Gerry and Fiona and Dave were also present.

That was in a restaurant in Leicester in 2005. I do not remember the name of the restaurant.

We had a pleasant evening, just the three couples without the children.

I do not remember Dave having behaved inappropriately on this occasion. We have not spoken to Dave or Fiona since December 2005, only due to their being friends of Kate and Gerry, not for any other reason.

The last time I saw Kate, Gerry, Madeleine, Sean and Amelie was in March 2007 when they came to our house for the first birthday celebration of my daughter . On the morning of 4th May Katherine saw the news about Madeleine on television. We were very shocked and worried given that they were close friends.

It was during the days following the news of the abduction that we discovered that Fiona and David Payne were also with them in Portugal.

It was at this moment that Katherina showed concern at the gesture made by Dave in Majorca in 2005. Katherina remembered that when Dave made the gesture he was referring to Madeleine.

I only remember that Katherina saw the gesture at the time, I had forgotten the episode, it was never the subject of conversation.

At the time I did not feel the gesture was referring to Madeleine.

It is my wish that the police are aware of my preoccupation with the gesture made by David Payne.

While Savio also remembers one occurrence of the "gesture" by David Payne, he appears to have noticed much less of the surrounding context and thus may explain why he appears less concerned than his wife Katherina.

Disappearance of Madeleine McCann >> Gonçalo Amaral book

The bad feeling between the McCanns and the Polícia Judiciária reached such a height that the officer who had coordinated the investigation from May to October 2007, Chief Inspector Gonçalo Amaral, resigned in June 2008 to write a book alleging that Madeleine had died in an accident in the apartment and that the McCanns had faked an abduction.[146] The McCanns had had little or no contact with Amaral, then-head of the Polícia Judiciária in Portimão, during the Madeleine inquiry. After telling a Portuguese newspaper in October 2007 that the British police only pursued leads helpful to the McCanns, he had been transferred to Faro.[134][147] Three days after the case closed in July 2008, his book, Maddie: A Verdade da Mentira ("Maddie: The Truth of the Lie"), was published in Portugal by Guerra & Paz.[148][149] By November 2008 it had sold 180,000 copies.[150]

The McCanns began a libel action in 2009 and in 2015 were awarded over €600,000 in damages and interest by a court in Lisbon.[151] The decision was overturned in 2016.[152] A judge issued an injunction against further publication or sales of the book in 2009, but the Court of Appeal in Lisbon overturned the ban in 2010, stating that it violated Amaral's freedom of expression.[153] The ban was reinstated as part of the libel ruling,[151] and was lifted when Amaral's appeal succeeded in 2016.

Detective leading hunt for Madeleine sacked after blast at UK police

The Portuguese detective heading the investigation into the disappearance of Madeleine McCann was yesterday removed from the case and demoted from his post as chief of the police in the Algarve town of Portimão, following an outspoken attack on his British counterparts.
Inspector Gonçalo Amaral has been transferred to the nearby Algarve city of Faro after criticising the British police in a leading Portuguese newspaper.

…"[The British police] have only investigated tips and information developed and worked on for the McCanns, forgetting that the couple are suspects in the death of their daughter Madeleine."

Madeleine McCann's parents 'seething' as police chief wins libel appeal against them

Goncalo Amaral was ordered to pay Kate and Gerry McCann £360,000 and £76,000 in interest last year after claiming in a book that they were responsible for her death and faked her abduction.

The decision means Amaral's book, 'The Truth of the Lie', which is banned in the UK, could potentially go on sale in Portugal again.

Kate and Gerry originally sued over two defamatory allegations.

The first was that they were responsible for Maddie's death and the second that they faked her abduction, which they sued for libel and won the case.

The appeal judges found the earlier judge had overstepped the limits of Amaral's freedom of expression.

'lying' after daughter's mystery abduction

British supporters of a Portuguese cop who claims Madeleine McCann's parents lied following their daughter's abduction have raised £50,000 for him on GoFundMe.

Goncalo Amaral, 57, was told pay the McCanns £360,000 after penning a book claiming they were responsible for Madeleine's death.

The former cop appealed the decision however, and parents Kate, 47, and Gerry, 48, were left fuming last week as three Portuguese appeal judges ruled in his favour.

They will now take the case to Portugal's Supreme Court - which will have the final say on whether Amaral should pay damages.

Fresh agony for the McCanns: Former police chief plans second book on missing Madeleine

Truth of the Lie >> The Book

The French title of Gonçalo Amaral's book, "A Verdade da Mentira," is, "Maddie: L'Enquête Interdite," The Forbidden Investigation.

This is the Foreword from the French version.

"Certainly, this book responds to the need I felt to defend myself, having been discredited by the institution for which I worked for more than twenty-six years, without being given any chance to explain myself, publicly or within the institution itself. I made the request several times, but it was never heard. I, therefore, scrupulously respected the rules of the police judiciaire and I refrained from making any comment. But this goes without saying: I experienced that silence to which I was constrained as an attack on my dignity. Later, I was removed from the investigation. It was then that I understood that it was time to speak. To do that, I requested early retirement in order to be able to express myself freely.

However, the purpose of this work is more important: to contribute to finding the truth so that justice can finally be done in the investigation known as the "Maddie case." Truth and justice are two values strongly anchored within me, which reflect my profound beliefs: they always guided the work I did for the institution to which I am proud to have belonged. Even in retirement, they continue to inspire me and to be present in my life…

..The only objective of a criminal investigation is the search for truth. There is no place for the "politically correct."

Chapter 9: MAJORCA, SEPTEMBER 2005

…S.G. got to know Madeleine's mother at university in Dundee, between 1987 and 1992. K.G. met Gerry McCann for the first time at his wedding to Kate in 1998. They become good friends, see each other regularly, spend weekends together and phone each other often.

After dinner on the third or fourth evening in Majorca, the friends are all settled on the patio. They are having a drink and chatting when K.G. witnesses a scene which flabbergasts her and makes her fear for the safety of her daughter and the other children. She is sitting between Gerry McCann and David Payne when she hears the latter ask if she – probably Madeleine – did "that": he then puts a finger in his mouth and begins sucking it while putting it in and out – the sexual connotation is obvious – while with the other hand, he traces small small circles around his nipple in an explicitly provocative way…

This witness statement from the couple, S.G. and K.G., is taken by the English police on May 16th, thirteen days after Madeleine's disappearance. That information, very important for the progress of the investigation, was never sent to the Portuguese police. When the Portuguese investigators learn about similar events that allegedly took place during a holiday in Greece – without, however, obtaining reliable witness statements -, they tell the English police, who, even at this point, refrain from revealing what they know on the subject.

It will only be after my removal from the investigation, in October 2007, that this statement will finally be sent to the Portuguese police. Why did the British keep it secret for more than six months? It is all the more surprising that David Payne, who had statement will finally be sent to the Portuguese police. Why did the British keep it secret for more than six months? It is all the more surprising that David Payne, who had planned the trip to Majorca – of whom it was known that his behaviour towards the children was, to say the least, questionable -, is the same person who organised the holiday in Portugal, that he is one of those closest to Madeleine and that he is the first friend of the family to have been seen with Kate McCann just after the disappearance (we will talk further about this). He was still present in Vila da Luz when the English police received that witness statement: why wasn't he interviewed immediately? Without doubt, the Portuguese police could have made progress with the investigation thanks to that lead: such behaviour would merit close attention. Were we looking in the right direction? Might we have established a link with the events of May 3rd? It is difficult to seriously doubt these witnesses.

Perverts jailed

A COURT in Albania has sentenced two Englishmen, 45 and 56, to prison terms of 20 and 15 years, for molesting and sexually abusing children aged six to nine at an orphanage in Albania. They have been declared personae non gratae and will be deported on completing their jail terms. In 2008, a court sentenced their Scottish charity work partner to 20 years in prison. The three Britons came to Albania in 1999 during the war in Kosovo and set up a charity organisation, His Children, in 2001, housing orphans and abandoned children from the streets of the Albanian capital, Tirana.

McCanns defend their action against detective

GERRY MCCANN defended his legal action against the Portuguese detective who led the investigation into his daughter's disappearance, saying his book had damaged the search for Madeleine. He spoke to reporters as he left a court in Lisbon on the second day of a hearing at which former police chief Goncalo Amaral is attempting to overturn a ban on his book, which questions the McCanns' account of what happened to Madeleine. Gerry flew home after the second day of the trial and Kate was joined by Fiona Payne, a member of the so-called Tapas Seven group of friends. However, there have been worrying reports regarding her husband, David, who was also amongst the group. Dr Katherine Zacharias Gaspar told Leicestershire Police on May 16, 2007, that she and her husband were friends of the McCanns and went on holiday to Mallorca with them and the Paynes in September 2005. During this holiday, an incident stuck in her mind. "I was sitting between Gerry and Dave and I think both were talking about Madeleine" (...). I remember Dave saying to Gerry something about 'she', meaning Madeleine, 'would do this'. While he mentioned the word 'this', Dave was doing the action of sucking one of his fingers, pushing it in and out of his mouth, while with his other hand he was doing a circle around his nipple (...). I remember being shocked by that."

Gerry also told reporters outside the court that there is 'absolutely no evidence' that Maddie is dead, after the testimonies of three members of the Portuguese Judicial Police expressed their suspicions of her death during the hearing.

It is clear that the mainstream media were completely silent, and that the Spanish mainstream media appear to be deliberately censored from even quoting the Gaspar statements…

Summary and Conclusions

The Gaspar witness statements clearly suggest that David Payne, and to a lesser degree Gerry McCann, may have been a pedophile, which at the very least police should have explored this scenario.

The police appear to have purposely suppressed the Gaspar statements and only ever released them AFTER they removed the chief investigator, Goncalo Amaral.

Goncalo Amaral included the Gaspar statements in his book, The Truth of the Lie, which was involved in a long libel suit with the McCanns, and banned and unbanned multiple times in the UK, and which he has currently won an appeal, but which may be taken to the Supreme Court to reach a final decision.

Goncalo felled compelled to write his book, so he retired just to be able to do so.

The mainstream media has been silent on the Gaspar statements, and possibly may even be purposely silent.

It appears obvious that some people have the power to collude with law enforcement and the media to obstruct the proper pursuit of justice as well as possibly covering up cases involving the physical and/or sexual abuse of children.

Mainstream Media Coverage of McCann / Podesta Connection

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Pizzagate_conspiracy_theory

Pizzagate conspiracy theory

… and John Podesta and his brother Tony Podesta's alleged connection to the disappearance of Madeleine McCann.[1]

Theorists claimed John and Tony Podesta kidnapped Madeleine McCann using police sketches which were, in fact, two sketches of the same suspect taken from the descriptions of two eye witnesses. Furthermore, the claim that the brothers were in Portugal at the time of the kidnapping was sourced only to Victurus Libertas, notable for, among other things, suggesting that the queen of England is a reptilian alien.

Dissecting the #PizzaGate Conspiracy Theories

Claim: John and Tony Podesta personally kidnapped Madeleine McCann from her bed at a Portugal resort in 2007.

Another part of the conspiracy theory was a supposed link between the Podesta brothers and the child abduction case of Madeleine McCann on May 3, 2007. Two e-fit (electronic facial identification technique) photos released by British detectives were repeatedly used as evidence.

A conspiracy theory poster comparing the Podesta brothers and police sketches. This version has been edited to remove Madeleine McCann's image.

However, the two e-fits were based on descriptions of a single suspect by two witnesses, not two different suspects, a crucial detail that was left out.

According to The Guardian, the witnesses described the man as "white, aged between 20 and 40, with short brown hair, of medium build, medium height and clean shaven." In 2007, Tony Podesta was 64 and John Podesta was 58.

The information that the Podestas were in Portugal is solely sourced to "FBI Anon," quoted in Victurus Libertas, a conspiracy-minded news site that suggests, among other things, that the Titanic was deliberately sunk and that the queen of England is a reptilian alien.

Sketchy Connection

MOSTLY FALSE

WHAT'S TRUE: Taken out of context, two images of a single suspect in the disappearance of Madeleine McCann appeared to resemble Tony and John Podesta.

WHAT'S FALSE: The "efits" circulated by police depicted one man, not two; the images were of a person of interest or witness, not a possible kidnapper.

Without the necessary context, the images to seem to resemble the brothers. However, that context is key in this case. The sketch depicts not two but one man, and that man was sought as a witness to the kidnapping (not necessarily a perpetrator of or accessory to it). The digitally generated images were released in October 2013, alongside renewed pleas from police to the public for any information in the cold McCann case:

> Police have issued two efits that they believe are descriptions of the same man, who is now being sought as a priority by the British detectives leading the new McCann inquiry.
> He was seen in the vicinity of the Praia da Luz resort in Portugal six years ago at the time that the three-year-old went missing. Despite numerous appeals for information over the years, the man has not come forward to talk to investigators in Portugal or Britain.
> Descriptions of the suspect were given to the Portuguese inquiry by two witnesses after Madeleine disappeared.

It is true that some reports referenced the man (singular) as a "suspect," but it went on to list a number of factors that, again, did not ensure the rumor would stick:

> The inquiry is focusing on 41 suspects and requests for assistance have been issued to 30 countries in a bid to identify and eliminate these people, 15 of whom are British. Crimewatch will feature other efits of individuals that the police would also like to trace ... [The depicted individual] was described by the witnesses as white, aged between 20 and 40, with short brown hair, of medium build, medium height and clean shaven.

John Podesta was 67 in December 2016, indicating he was between 58 and 59 at the time of McCann's disappearance; the man depicted was described as being between the ages of 20 and 40. While only 18 years separate 40 and 58, it would be incredibly difficult to mistake a 60-year-old man for a 20-year-old.

Some versions of the rumor claimed that John Podesta was in Portugal around the time of the incident, but referenced an e-mail about a trip which occurred several months after McCann vanished. In another version, Podesta was placed in Portugal at the time of the disappearance by an unnamed law enforcement source, information that without any supporting evidence was as implausible as it was unreliable.

Both the New York Times and Snopes article bring up the following claims:

- That the efits represents 1 suspect.
- The suspect was described as between 20 to 40 years old, which is too young to be the Podestas.
- Bring up some random conspiracy site stating unnamed sources saying Podesta's were in Portugal at the time of the reported disappearance.

The Snopes articles has the following additional claims:

- The efits don't represent a suspect, but while still claiming that some reports state he was a suspect??

  WHAT'S FALSE: The "efits" circulated by police depicted one man, not two; the images were of a person of interest or witness, not a possible kidnapper.

  It is true that some reports referenced the man (singular) as a "suspect,"…

- Sited a claim that the Podesta's were in Portugal at the time but stated the Wikileaks email was dated several months after the reported disappearance.

  They cited the following article for this claim:

This site clearly never stated that this email shows the Podestas were in Portugal at the time but rather that Portugal was simply a travel destination for them.

Thus Snopes should remove this misleading claim of theirs.

Revisiting the McCann / Podesta Connection

In #PizzaGate Part 1 I brought up the following unanswered claims:

- John and Tony Podesta look identical to the eFits (including the mole on Tony's forehead).
- Wikileaks suggests that John Podesta may have purposely deleted many emails before May 4, 2007 (McCann was reported to be missing on May 3rd).
- On May 4, 2007 John Podesta's assistant Elizabeth Cooley sent an email on his behave through his own email account.
- John, Tony, and Elizabeth Cooley have not spoken publicly regarding their whereabouts

- John, Tony, and Elizabeth Cooley have not spoken publicly regarding their whereabouts and no news outlet bothered to ask them any questions.
- Until recently the mainstream media has been completely silent on this connection.

Also why were the efits were released in 2013, over 6 YEARS after McCann's disappearance?

Where the efits of a suspect or simply a person of interest?

Note that the Any Redwood is the same guy in the above video.

It is clear that the suspect may have been a kidnapper.
Was the suspect 1 man and was he between 20 to 40 years old?

Let's look at the actual witness statements, and not just the Guardian article.

http://www.mccannpjfiles.co.uk/PJ/MARTIN_SMITH.htm

1606 to 1610 Witness testimony of Martin Smith taken 2007/05/26 with map of sighting

…he states that he arrived in Portugal on the 30th of April, 2007, with a booked return date of May 9, 2007.

…he was Caucasian, around 175 to 180m in height. He appeared to be about 35/40 years old. He had an average build, a bit on the thin side. His hair was short, in a basic male cut, brown in colour. He cannot state if it was dark or lighter in tone. He did not wear glasses and had no beard or moustache. He did not notice any other relevant details partly due to the fact that the lighting was not very good.

States that it is not possible for him to recognise the individual in person or by photograph.

…when he saw the individual he was accompanied by his wife, MARY SMITH, his son, PETER SMITH, his daughter-in-law, S, his grandchildren of 13 and 6 years of age (children of PETER) TA and CO, his daughter AOIFE (12 years of age), and his other two grandchildren (AI (10 years old) and EI (four years old). These are children of his daughter B who was in Ireland.*

http://www.mccannpjfiles.co.uk/PJ/MARTIN_SMITH.htm#p6p1611

1611 to 1614 Witness testimony of Aoife Smith taken 2007/05/26

…states that probably she would not be able to recognise either the individual or the child.

…the individual was male, Caucasian, light-skinned, between 20/30 years of age, of normal physical build, around 1,70/1,75 metres in height. At the time she saw his face but now cannot remember it.

http://www.mccannpjfiles.co.uk/PJ/MARTIN_SMITH.htm#p6p1615

1615 to 1624 Witness Testimony of Peter Daniel Smith taken 2007/05/26 with map of sighting

…states that when he passed this individual it would have been around 21H55/22H00, and at the time he was completely unaware that a child had disappeared. He only found out about the disappearance of the child the next morning through someone he knew, the son of the builder of Estrela da Luz, who was also at the airport. The witness went to the airport given that, as planned, he intended to return to Ireland on that day

At that time he did not associate the said individual with the disappearance, only after thinking on the subject and the coincidence of the time did he infer that MADELEINE could have been the child carried by the individual that he had seen.

The description of the individual who carried the child was: Caucasian, around 175 to 180 cm tall. About 35 years, or older. He was somewhat tanned as a result of sun exposure. Average build, in good shape. Short hair, brown in colour. He does not remember if he wore glasses, or had a beard or a moustache. He did not notice any other relevant details as the lighting was bad.

States that it would not be possible to recognize the individual in person or via photograph.

http://www.mirror.co.uk/news/uk-news/cctv-madeleine-mccann-snatcher-deleted-2467839

19 October 2013

CCTV of Madeleine McCann 'snatcher' was deleted before officers could get to it

The new prime suspect in the disappearance of Madeleine McCann was probably caught on CCTV - but the film was wiped.

A man seen carrying a child around the time Madeleine vanished would have walked directly through a section of road that was covered by a camera.

But by the time Portuguese detectives spoke to the owners of the CCTV at the hotel Estrela da Luz, the film had been wiped.

Thus from the witness statements, it is clear that:

- The suspect is just one man.
- Martin and his son state the man was 35 to 40 years old.
- Martin's 12 year old daughter states the man was between 20/30 years old.
- NONE of the witnesses could recognize how the individual's face actually looked like.

Thus the Guardian article is misleading in stating the suspect was between 20-40 years old because the 20 years old number comes from a 12 year old child, while the two other older witnesses are much more reliable.

That being said, none of them even know how the person's face looked like and thus the question remains: How were the efits produced?

Martin Smith was in Portugal from April 30th to May 9th.

He contacted English police after seeing the news about McCann and then flew back to Portugal on May 26 to talk to police.

- Madeleine was reported missing on May 3rd.

Madeleine McCann: is there hope at last?

Instead, detectives are now focusing their efforts on a second man seen carrying a child towards the beach just minutes before Kate McCann went to check on Madeleine. An Irishman, Martin Smith, and his wife reported seeing him at the time. Their e-fits, which have only now been released*, were originally produced by a private detective agency which was hired by the McCanns in 2008 when they* became dissatisfied with the Portuguese police inquiry*.*

Kate and Gerry McCann and Madeleine's Fund

In articles dated October 27 ("Madeleine clues hidden for 5 years" and "Investigators had E-Fits five years ago", News) we referred to efits which were included in a report prepared by private investigators for the McCanns and the Fund in 2008. We accept that the articles may have been understood to suggest that the McCanns had withheld information from the authorities. This was not the case. We now understand and accept that the efits had been provided to the Portuguese and Leicestershire police by October 2009. We also understand that a copy of the final report including the efits was passed to the Metropolitan police in August 2011, shortly after it commenced its review. We apologise for the distress caused.

Thus the efits were made by private investigators in 2008, given to the Portuguese and Leicestershire police by 2009 and passed to the Metropolitan police in August 2011, and then finally shown to the public on October 2013 as part of the BBC Crimewatch TV program urging the public to find this man… 6 YEARS AFTER Madeleine was reported missing…

Independent investigators have been skeptical for years about the efits.

The Phantoms - 5 OF 5

I HIGHLY recommend watching all of Richard Hall's videos on the McCann case.

It is clear that the efits look like two men, and from two completely different computer programs.

Also, the Smith family's first statements to police state that they did not know how the man's face looked like and could not recognize him in a photograph.

Given that these efits took so long to be released, they appear to be fabricated.

Also, there is no video of the Smith family in any interview, and they have not responded to Richard Hall's inquiry for an interview, or to answer any questions regarding the McCann case.

https://youtu.be/itBW0dwONzE

19 April 2015

McCLIP - Wendy Murphy Former US Prosecutor "I'm not buying it.."

Wendy Murphy believes Madeleine is dead and all these suspects are fabricated.

Summary of #PizzaGate Part 4

The only accurate statement by Snopes and New York Times is that the Smith family were describing one man.

The only witness stating the man was less than 35 years old was a 12 year old child, which is less reliable than the two older witnesses.

But both Snopes and NY Times ignored the fact that John Podesta may have deleted emails prior to the McCann disappearance, and his assistant emailed on his behalf on the day after.

Snopes also falsely referenced an article stating Podestas were in Portugal at the time of Madeleine's disappearance, when that article merely stated that Portugal was a travel destination of the Podestas.

Snopes is wrong in stating that the suspect was not a possible kidnapper.

The witness testimonies make it clear that no one knew how the man looked like, so efits could not realistically have been made.

The efits look like two different people, on two different computer programs.

The timeline of the efits being produced raises even more questions:

1. McCann disappearance reported in May 3, 2007.
2. The Smith family tell police they couldn't identify the man on May 26, 2007.
3. Efits produced by McCann's private investigators in 2008.
4. Efits given to Portuguese and Leicestershire police by October 2009.
5. Efits given to Scotland Yard in August 2011.
6. Efits shown to the public (while not stating it was produced by the McCanns) on October 14, 2013.

Thus it appears that the efits most likely have been fabricated.

Thus, the production of the efits does not suggest that the Podesta brothers or any person had actually kidnapped Madeleine.

A more likely scenario is that Madeleine has been dead for quite some time and there is a massive cover-up going on, similar to the mainstream media coverage of #PizzaGate.

> 5 July 2015
> The True Story of Madeleine McCann -1
> I highly recommend you watch this documentary by Richard Hall that explores the McCann case in far greater detail than any mainstream media outlet.

But the question still remains, given that the efits appear to be fabricated, and that Snopes, New York Times, BBC, The Guardian, and other MSM news outlets, appear to be covering up the Madeleine McCann case, why do the efits look a lot like John and Tony Podesta?

- Also note the mole on Tony's forehead appears in the efit.

A possible scenario could be that the efits are used as blackmail...

Other possible scenarios, while assuming that Madeleine has been dead and not kidnapped are presented in this video:

> https://youtu.be/SVXb75LLYmA

23 November 2016

Madeleine McCann, The Podesta Brothers & Pizzagate

I recommend you watch this video to get an idea of possible reasons for the efits being produced in the first place.

But regardless of the possible scenarios, Snopes and New York Times are very large and powerful news outlets, so if they were really interested in finding the truth behind this, they can simply ask John Podesta because they have the power to get a response from him (he has not responded yet).

Citizen journalists are only just doing the job that mainstream media should be doing.

The fact that they aren't asking Podesta tells a lot about the mainstream media.

Now the real reason for the media appearing to cover up the McCann case might be because it, just like #PizzaGate, involves some of the most powerful people in the world…

I will go over this in detail in a later video.

ACORN Witness Testimony

Recently I got contacted by a former employee of ACORN who told me that ACORN worried far less about the wellbeing of the poor neighborhoods in which they operated than they did for the $10 USD per membership fee they solicited and collected from poor black neighborhoods, which she argued most couldn't afford the fee.

#PizzaGate Part 3 Summary:

It is clear that Barack Obama has had a close relationship with ACORN but has distanced himself from ACORN including lying about his involvement, presumably because of the bad publicity ACORN received after the undercover tapes were released.

Note: I have covered the ACORN controversy in great detail because it shows the following:

- It is plausible to run a child sex trafficking ring with government help.
- Mainstream media, as well as politicians such as Barack Obama are willing to lie if it is in their party's interest.

I will reference the ACORN controversy in later parts of this PizzaGate series so it was important for me to cover this in detail in these earlier parts.

Part 1: Recap

John and Tony Podesta are likely to be linked in the 2007 Madeleine McCann disappearance.

John and Tony Podesta, and John's Assistant Elizabeth Cooley, the Mainstream Media, and even Wikipedia have been deliberately silent on this.

Online search trends about Pizzagate are massive and increasing despite media suppression.

The mainstream media has labeled Pizzagate as "fake news" without actually bringing up the Podesta / McCann link.

IMPORTANT NOTE:

#PizzaGate is much more than an alleged child trafficking ring running at a Pizza Shop in Washington, DC.

It is a global phenomenon of extreme corruption which may involve many of the most powerful people and institutions.

This will become more clear in future parts of this #pizzagate series.

#PizzaGate Part 2:

In this part, the following will be covered:

- Current Pizzagate search trends
- ACORN
- ACORN Child Sex Trafficking Controversy
- Barack Obama's close ties to ACORN (moved to Part 3 due to time constraints)

Pizzagate Search Trends:

- It appears after each rise in "fake news" a rise in pizzagate follows…

I recommend you watch all of the videos.

James O'Keefe goes undercover as a law student looking to launder money for his future political career, with the help of Hannah Giles, who is undercover as his girlfriend and in the prostitution business.

The undercover videos show ACORN employees assisting in obtaining a housing loan, find tax loopholes, and launder illicit money from a hypothetical international child sex trafficking ring.

The undercover videos show ACORN employees assisting in obtaining a housing loan, find tax loopholes, and lauder illicit money from a hypothetical international child sex trafficking ring, by smuggling in a dozen underage girls from El Salvador.

ACORN locations investigated include:

- Baltimore
- Washington D.C.
- New York City
- San Bernardino
- San Diego
- Los Angeles
- Philadelphia

Here is a sample of the first video, which shows ACORN employees telling James and Hannah to list their prostitution business as "Performing Arts" while filing their taxes: https://youtu.be/LtTnizEnC1U?t=2m48s

Out of every undercover video, only 1 ACORN employee (in LA office) did not assist James and Hannah.

The "heavily edited" term do not mean the videos were "selectively edited".

The most common misconception is the $100,000 settlement James O'Keefe paid to ACORN.

> This was over a lawsuit over invasion of privacy, and had nothing to do with lying or doctoring footage: http://projectveritas.com/2016/05/06/james-okeefe-acorn-settlement/
> The actual settlement document can be viewed here: http://projectveritas.com/wp-content/uploads/2016/05/OKeefeVeraACORNSettlement.pdf
>> "It is fully understood and agreed by the Parties that this is a settlement of a disputed claim and it is in no way representative of any actual or implied admissions of liability regarding the to the recorded conversations among Vera, O'Keefe and Giles that took place on August 18, 2009 in or near the ACORN office in National City, California and the recordings' subsequent dissemination, but is executed solely to avoid costs and risks of potential litigation."

  "The lawsuit alleged that O'Keefe and his associate filmed Vera in the San Diego ACORN offices without his consent, a violation of California law, and portrayed him untruthfully."

  "The video was later discovered to be heavily edited, and O'Keefe paid a six-figure settlement to an ACORN employee who was fired as a result of the video."

After the videos were released:

- The IRS severed ties to ACORN
- The Census Bureau severed ties to ACORN
- Congress voted to defund ACORN
- ACORN shut down all operations on November 2010.

MSNBC's Rachel Maddow defending ACORN:

Part 1: https://youtu.be/S0B0wxt3XYc?t=2m10s
Part 2: https://youtu.be/IKx-Yvz3iJ8
Article: http://www.msnbc.com/rachel-maddow-show/context-lies-and-videotapes-the-real

Maddow argues that the videos were selectively edited, that one ACORN employee called the police, and that James O'Keefe's "claim" of wearing a pimp suit in the videos is false.

Breitbart's Larry O'Connor (9 Apr 2010): Debunking Rachel Maddow's Video:
http://www.breitbart.com/big-journalism/2010/04/09/in-exposing-acorn-lies-maddow-leaves-truth-on-the-cutting-room-floor/

"And Maddow's misleading statement: "He calls the police and reports what they've told him is going to be a crime" is wishful thinking not based on the evidence in Attorney General Jerry Brown's report. There is a phone record of Mr. Vera calling his cousin who works in the police department (a fact that Mr. Vera revealed to Hannah and James during the course of the video) but there is no evidence as to what was said in that phone call, only that he got his cousin's voice mail. It wasn't until nine days after the incident, when Vera finally gave a detailed account of what had happened to law enforcement officials, do we have any third party verification that Vera may have intended to report Giles and O'Keefe to the police."

This is in fact true, according to the Attorney General Report Attachments: https://oag.ca.gov/system/files/attachments/press_releases/n1888_acorn_attachments.pdf

August 18, 2009	San Diego ACORN taping conducted by O'Keefe and Giles. Juan Carlos Vera is ACORN employee shown in video.
August 18, 2009	Vera calls his cousin, Detective Alejandro Hernandez, at the National City Police Department and leaves a voice mail message stating there were some "crazy people" in the office that gave him a mountain of information and asking for a return phone call. (Did not give specifics about prostitution or human smuggling). Vera's phone records show a 2-minute call at 6:40 p.m. (Although there is no corresponding call reflected in Detective Hernandez's phone records, Verizon Wireless indicates a call that goes to voicemail is not always reflected on the bill). Detective Hernandez checks his voicemail at 6:45 pm, but there is no return call to Vera.
August 18, 2009	Vera tells Cruz Acosta, organizer and fellow employee of ACORN, about the incident.
August 18, 2009 or August 19, 2009	Vera tells Mar Murrillon, an ACORN board member, about the incident. He informs her that he has reported the incident to his cousin at the National City Police Department.
August 21, 2009	ACORN San Diego holds an immigration event.
August 27, 2009	Vera telephones Detective Hernandez again. Vera indicates that he had a strange contact at work with a woman who admitted being a prostitute and talked about human smuggling. Vera said he did not have contact information but planned to meet the woman in the future. Detective Hernandez's phone records show a 1-minute call at 5:07 pm and a 12-minute call at 5:48 pm between Vera and Detective Hernandez's numbers.
September 17, 2009	Release of the edited San Diego video.
September 17, 2009	ACORN fires Vera.

From the report, it is unclear whether Vera may or may not have intended to purposely mislead James and Hannah into giving them information, for which he could report to the police.

No report was actually filed, but from watching the actual video tape, it is pretty could report to the police.

No report was actually filed, but from watching the actual video tape, it is pretty clear to me that Vera was trying to help James and Hannah in their theoretical child trafficking ring, which explains why Vera was fired the day of the release of the tape.

This is the only ACORN employee with a slight chance of arguing that he was purposely "playing along" with James and Hannah's story, which explains why Rachel Maddow, and most other mainstream media outlets, only focus on the Vera case.

"Ms. Maddow could write this off as a matter of semantics, but it goes deeper than semantics. Anyone who reads the full report from the Attorney General's office will see that the way the videos were edited has no bearing on whether the AG office found evidence of any criminal behavior. The reason the ACORN employees were cleared of aiding and abetting criminal behavior was ultimately, that O'Keefe and Giles were only pretending to commit crimes. You can't aid and abet criminal behavior if there is no actual criminal behavior. And the release of the unedited videos had nothing to do with that legal conclusion."

- This also true, according to the Attorney General Report.

http://www.breitbart.com/big-journalism/2010/04/08/maddow-o-keefe-hid-important-facts-about-acorn-patterico-responds-except-that-he-didn-t/

"I know O'Keefe has been faulted, with some justice, for failing to contradict a Fox News yakker who made that claim in his presence. I'm inclined to go easy on him for that, because I think it's easy to criticize people for on-the-fly decisions (especially decisions not to act) made while facing a nationwide audience on TV. In any event, a failure to contradict is not a "claim."

"Now, some yahoos like Maddow have tried to argue that O'Keefe tried to hide the fact that he was wearing normal clothes in ACORN offices. Here is a screenshot from the very seconds of the very first video O'Keefe ever released:"

This also true as can be seen here: https://youtu.be/LtTnizEnC1U

It is clear that Rachel Maddow deliberately selected clips to give the impression that ACORN was the victim in all of this.

I recommend watching the undercover videos, then watch Rachel Maddow's take on it because it shows just how good and believable the mainstream media is at spinning a pretty much black and white topic.

Echoing Rachel Maddow's take on this is Forbes:
http://www.forbes.com/sites/rickungar/2013/03/08/james-okeefe-pays-100000-to-acorn-employee-he-smeared-conservative-media-yawns/#17e2bd4b3a78

A similar example of Mainstream Media's extremely misleading spin, and a much more effective example, is John Oliver's video on Donald "Drumpf":
https://youtu.be/DnpO_RTSNmQ

I recommend watching Stefan Molyneux's video going over nearly every sentence of John Oliver's video: https://youtu.be/Jf3vW0e_Wgc

REPORT OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL ON THE ACTIVITIES OF ACORN IN CALIFORNIA (APRIL 1, 2010)

https://oag.ca.gov/news/press-releases/brown-releases-report-detailing-litany-problems-acorn-no-criminality

"On September 16, 2009, Governor Schwarzenegger wrote to Attorney General Brown and requested that he investigate ACORN's activities in California."

"The recordings establish ACORN employees across the country were willing to discuss with O'Keefe and Giles their plan to conduct a prostitution business, and a few even made suggestions for disguising profits and avoiding detection by law enforcement agencies. The most offensive conversations occurred outside California."

"On July 9, 2008, the New York Times reported that Dale Rathke, the brother of ACORN's founder Wade Rathke, embezzled close to $1 million from ACORN in 1999-2000. ACORN executives handled it quietly and internally, and did not inform most board members or law enforcement. Instead, they signed an enforceable restitution agreement with the Rathke family to repay the money that was embezzled. Meanwhile, Dale Rathke continued to work at ACORN, and Wade Rathke continued to run it until 2008, when the embezzlement became public. Thereafter, Dale left ACORN and Wade stepped down as ACORN's chief organizer."

- New York Times Article: http://www.nytimes.com/2008/07/09/us/09embezzle.html

"In October 2009, the Louisiana Attorney General issued a subpoena stating that ACORN's board of directors found that a larger amount – $5 million – had been embezzled from the organization. Bertha Lewis, ACORN's CEO, has denied the allegation. On November 6, Louisiana Attorney General investigators served a search warrant at the ACORN headquarters in New Orleans. That investigation is ongoing."

"In early 2009, a few GOP officials and conservative commentators charged that the Democratic Congress intended to funnel billions in economic stimulus funds to ACORN. In July 2009, Representative Darrell Issa, ranking minority Republican member on the House Oversight and Government Reform Committee, released a report entitled "Is ACORN Intentionally Structured as a Criminal Enterprise?" which catalogued allegations made against ACORN during the campaign and in the years before. Representative Issa's report claimed that ACORN was engaged in criminal money laundering to manipulate the American electorate. Representative Issa claimed that ACORN received $53 million in federal funds in fifteen years."

- Oversight Report: https://oversight.house.gov/release/report-is-acorn-intentionally-structured-as-a-criminal-enterprise/

"On September 10, 2009, conservative commentator and publisher Andrew Breitbart launched a website called BigGovernment.com. The website premiered with a piece featuring covert video recordings made by 25 year old James O'Keefe and 20 year old Hannah Giles. O'Keefe had received some notoriety a few years earlier by posing as a racist donor to a Planned Parenthood office who supported abortions for African Americans. Those recordings led to Planned Parenthood grants and employees being terminated or suspended."

"The complete and unedited recordings made by O'Keefe and Giles establish that the four California ACORN employees discussed with the couple their plan to conduct a prostitution business, which they described to three of the employees as using captive underage girls who were illegal immigrants. Despite the criminality of the hypothetical conduct discussed, none of the California ACORN employees committed, solicited or conspired to commit any criminal acts. Based on all the evidence now known, none of these employees said or did anything that was, in light of all the circumstances, illegal. Because O'Keefe and Giles's criminal plans were themselves a ruse, one cannot be criminally complicit in those plans. In order to be liable as an aider and abettor, the perpetrators (in this case, O'Keefe and Giles) must have actually committed the planned or underlying crime. (See CALCRIM No. 401; People v. Perez (2005) 35 Cal.4th 1219, 1225.) Similarly, conspiracy culpability would require a finding that not only the ACORN employee, but also O'Keefe and Giles (the coconspirators), intended to enter into an agreement and intended to commit the target crime of that agreement. (CALCRIM No. 415; People v. Vargas (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 506, 551.)"

Thus, aiding and abetting a hypothetical criminal plot is not technically illegal…

"ACORN has evaded taxes, obstructed justice, engaged in self dealing, and aided and abetted a cover-up of the $948.607.50 embezzlement by Dale Rathke, the brother of ACORN founder Wade Rathke."

This "fact check" is very misleading.

Bachmann's referenced the Washington Examiner article and stated "could get up to..", but PolitiFact "fact checks" whether ACORN was going to get "all of it", which no one ever claimed.

In other words, only believe what these specific sites say to believe...

As suggested in Part 1, this "fake news" phenomenon is simply a way to label, ridicule, and censor opposing views.

I will do a video later on how to read "fake news", so stay tuned for that.

Summary of #PizzaGate Part 2:

Google Search Trends show pizzagate is increasing in search traffic and coincides with the media's push for "fake news".

ACORN lost its federal funding, and eventually shut down operations, after James O'Keefe and Hannah Giles went undercover to expose, at the very least, just how easy it is to get housing, tax help, money laundering help, and ways to cover up an illegal international child sex trafficking ring, all through an organization partially funded by the federal government.

- Also, why is a partisan organization such as ACORN receiving any federal funding at all??

Stay tuned for #PizzaGate Part 3…

Disappearance of Madeleine McCann

Wikipedia: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Disappearance_of_Madeleine_McCann

> Madeleine Beth McCann (born 12 May 2003) disappeared on the evening of 3 May 2007 from her bed in a holiday apartment in Praia da Luz, a resort in the Algarve region of Portugal, sparking what one newspaper called "the most heavily reported missing-person case in modern history".[3] Her whereabouts remain unknown.

a) Actual: Age 3

b) Computer: Age 9

> *Madeleine was on holiday from the UK with her parents, Kate and Gerry McCann, her younger twin siblings, and a group of family friends and their children. She and the twins had been left asleep at 20:30 in the ground-floor apartment, while the McCanns and friends dined in a restaurant 50 metres (160 ft) away.[5] The parents checked on the children throughout the evening, until Madeleine's mother discovered she was missing at 22:00. McCanns and friends dined in a restaurant 50 metres (100 ft) away.[5] The parents checked on the children throughout the evening, until Madeleine's mother discovered she was missing at 22:00. At first the Portuguese police seemed to accept that it was an abduction, but after misinterpreting a British DNA analysis they came to believe that Madeleine had died in the apartment.[n 1]

The McCanns were declared arguidos (suspects) in September 2007 but were cleared when Portugal's attorney-general archived the case in July 2008.[7]

The parents continued the investigation using private detectives until Scotland Yard opened its own inquiry, Operation Grange, in 2011. In 2013 Scotland Yard released e-fit images of men they wanted to trace, including one of a man seen carrying a child toward the beach that night.[8] Shortly after this the Portuguese police reopened their inquiry.[9] Operation Grange was scaled back in 2015.[10]

Witnesses described men behaving oddly near apartment 5A on the day of the disappearance, Thursday, 3 May 2007, and in the days leading up to it. Scotland Yard believe the men may have been engaged in reconnaissance for an abduction or burglary.[82]

The Guardian efits of suspect (s): https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2013/oct/14/british-detectives-efits-madeleine-mccann-suspect

- "14 October [2013] Detectives release an efit of a man they want to identify. There is a new reconstruction on Crimewatch of the events of the night."

"Despite being placed at the crime scene by two people on the night in question the man has never come forward"

"The face of a suspect in the investigation of the disappearance of Madeleine McCann has been released to the public by detectives.

Police have issued two efits that they believe are descriptions of the same man, who is now being sought as a priority by the British detectives leading the new McCann inquiry."

Comparison with John and Tony Podesta:

The efits were released in 2013, over 6 years after McCann's disappearance, and 2 years after the Scotland Yard began investigating.

John Podesta Wikipedia Bio: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/John_Podesta

> John David Podesta (born January 8, 1949) is the former chairman of the 2016 Hillary Clinton presidential campaign.[1] He previously served as chief of staff to President Bill Clinton and Counselor to President Barack Obama.[2]
> He is the former president, and now Chair and Counselor, of the Center for American Progress (CAP), a liberal think tank in Washington, D.C., as well as a Visiting Professor of Law at the Georgetown University Law Center. Additionally, he was a co-chairman of the Obama-Biden Transition Project.[3][4]

Tony Podesta Wikipedia Bio: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Tony_Podesta

> Anthony T. Podesta, commonly known as Tony Podesta, is an American lobbyist best known for founding the Podesta Group.[1] Podesta has lobbied for a variety of groups, including Bank of America, BP,[1] and Egypt[2] in addition to political campaigns such as Ted Kennedy, George McGovern, Michael Dukakis, and Bill Clinton. More recently, he has worked for Pennsylvania Democratic representatives Joe Sestak, Chris Carney, and Patrick Murphy, and chaired former Pennsylvania Gov. Ed Rendell's reelection campaign.[3] He is closely connected with the Barack Obama White House[4] and has repeatedly been named one of Washington's most powerful lobbyists and fundraisers.[5][6][7]

Mainstream Media Silence

The resemblance of the suspect(s) to John and Tony Podesta is uncanny, including the mole on John Podesta's forehead!

The mainstream media should have done the following:

- Interview or a request a statement from John and Tony Podesta about their whereabouts on May 3, 2007
- Request that John and Tony at least make some remarks as to how well the efits match themselves.
- At the very least write about the eerie similarity.

But instead the mainstream media has been utterly silent about this.

> Mr. Alefantis's name surfaced in leaked email from Mr. Podesta's account, published by WikiLeaks, in which the two men discussed holding a Clinton fundraiser. As far as anyone knows, there is no more logic than that as to why Mr. Alefantis and his restaurant became targets.

"No more logic"?? A mention of the eFits might just be a start.

Even Wikipedia is utterly silent on Pizzgate:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Pizzagate

> Pizzagate, a 2016 controversy falsely claiming the existence of a child trafficking ring involving the Washington, D.C. restaurant Comet Ping Pong.

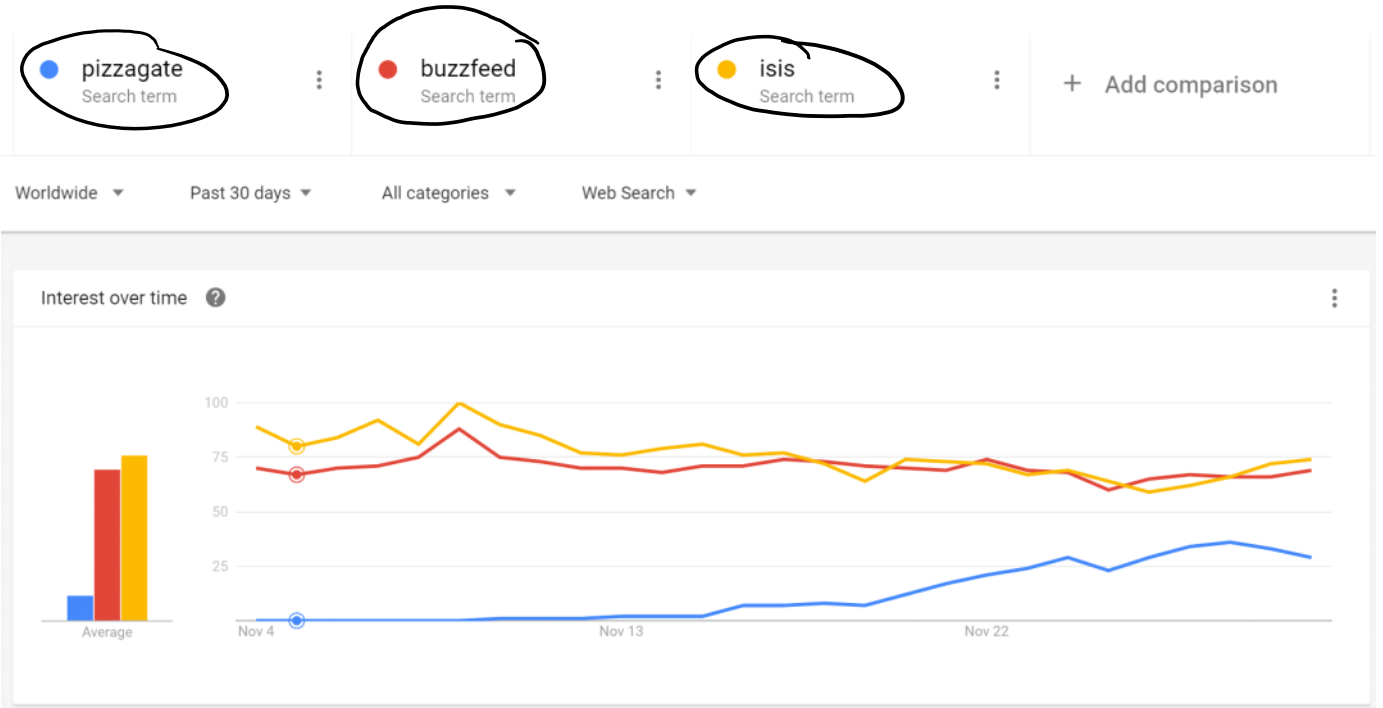
This is ALL that Wikipedia has written about the matter, which is truly unimaginable!

Evidence For Media Silence, and Not Just Coincidence

The Pizzagate Google Search Trends:

https://www.google.ca/trends/explore?date=today%201-m&q=pizzagate,buzzfeed,isis

Pizzagate is gaining on interest and nearing "buzzfeed" and "isis" in terms of search trends.



The Google Search trends show that even despite MSM silence Pizzagate is extremely talked about and searched on the internet.

- I have never seen something so viral that has not had some mainstream coverage.

A similar example of Mainstream Media silence shows that the MSM is silent whenever Democrats are portrayed in a negative light.

Podesta Emails Leaked to Wikileaks

Podesta Emails First Released: October 6, 2016

- https://wikileaks.org/podesta-emails/?q=&mfrom=&mto=&title=&notitle=&date_from=&date_to=&nofrom=&noto=&count=50&sort=5#searchresult

Podesta Emails Last Release: November 9, 2016

How and why emails were leaked has not been revealed or proven.

- Whether they were hacked, insider leaked, a state-government involved, or an email phishing scam, no proof has been shown.
- Media spin has been to blame Russia, although no proof has been shown, and appears to be more of a distraction from the actual content of the emails.

No emails between 2006-11-01 to 2007-05-04.

McCann disappeared on 2007-05-03.

Whether this was a coincidence or, given John's eFit resemblance, it was a deliberate attempt at a cover-up by John Podesta is unknown.

Another scenario is Wikileaks deleted or has not released these specific emails themselves.

- This is unlikely because it would mean that Wikileaks knew of the Podesta's resemblance to the eFits before releasing the thousands of emails.
- If this were true, and if Podesta had some involvement in the McCann case, then this would imply that Wikileaks might have some criminating emails they are holding back for the time being.

May 4, 2007 email is from Elizabeth Cooley on behalf of John Podesta:

Elizabeth Cooley is an assistant to John Podesta and was trusted to send emails on his behalf, which she did on May 4, 2007, one day after Madeleine McCann disappeared.

She, at the very least, must have known where John Podesta was during this time, and must certainly have sent and/or received emails to John prior to May 4, 2007.

Elizabeth Cooley, along with John and Tony Podesta must be held to scrutiny as to their whereabouts, and their email history as it pertains to the Madeleine McCann case, or at the very least make a public statement regarding these matters.

#PizzaGate Part 1: Summary

Madeleine McCann was abducted in Portugal on May 3, 2007 when she was just 3 years old.

eFits of the suspect(s) look extremely similar to John and Tony Podesta.

Many Wikileaks emails from John Podesta prior to May 4, 2007 appear to have been deleted.

John Podesta's assistant, Elizabeth Cooley, sent an email on John's behalf on May 4, 2007, a day after McCann's disappearance.

John and Tony Podesta, Elizabeth Cooley, the Media, and even Wikipedia have been deliberately silent on this.

Online search trends about Pizzagate are massive and increasing despite media suppression.

The mainstream media has labeled Pizzagate as "fake news" yet has not discussed any actual claims (as will be further illustrated in my videos), including ignoring to even post or comment on the eFits.
